THE number of spurious Editions that have stolen into the World, loaded too with errors, and wilful ones, of every description, besides matter that never issued from my brain, renders it necessary for me to say somewhat of this Octavo Edition. Some Alterations which have been made by me in this Edition, I hope, are for the better; many more may, probably, be thought necessary by my indulgent Friend the Public, whose favourable Opinion forms the summit of my Ambition; whose Patronage I have found infinitely superior to that of Princes; and to whose Tribunal the present Volumes are most respectfully submitted.

TO THE
R E V I E W E R S.

FATHERS of Wisdom, a poor wight befriend;
Oh, hear my simple prayer in simple lays:
In formâ pauperis behold I bend,
And of your Worships ask a little praise.

I am no cormorant for fame, d'ye see;
I ask not all the laurel, but a sprig!
Then hear me, Guardians of the sacred Tree,
And stick a leaf or two about my wig.

In sonnet, ode, and legendary tale,
Soon will the press my tuneful soul display;
Then do not damn 'em, and prevent the sale;
And your petitioner shall ever pray.

My works condemn'd, the Muse with grief will groan—

The censure dire my lantern jaws will rue!
Know, I have teeth and stomach like your own,
And that I wish to eat as well as you.

I never said, like murderers in their dens,
Ye secret met in cloud-clapp'd garret high,
With hatchets, scalping-knives in shape of pens,
To bid, like Mohocks, hapless authors die:

Nor

Nor said, (in your Reviews, together strung)
 The limbs of butcher'd writers, cheek by jowl,
 Look'd like the legs of flies on cobwebs hung
 Before the hungry spider's dreary hole.

I ne'er declar'd, that, frightful as the Blacks,
 In greasy flannel caps ye met together,
 With scarce a rag of shirt about your backs,
 Or coat or breeches to keep out the weather.

Heav'n knows I'm innocent of all transgression
 Against your Honours, men of classic fame!
 I ne'er abus'd your critical profession,
 Whose dictum saves at once or damns a name.

I never question'd your profound of head,
 Nor vulgar, call'd your wit, your manners coarse;
 Nor swore on butcher'd authors that ye fed,
 Like carrion crows upon a poor dead horse.

I never said, that, pedlar like, ye sold
 Praise by the ounce, or pound, like snuff or cheese;
 Too well I knew, ye silver scorn'd, and gold—
 Such dross, a sage Reviewer never sees!

I never hinted, that with half a crown
 Books have been sent you by the scribbling tribe;
 Which fee hath purchas'd pages of renown:
 No—for I knew you'd spurn the paltry bribe.

I ne'er averr'd, ye critics to a man,
 For pence, would swear an owl excell'd the lark;
 Nor call'd a coward gang, your grave Divan,
 That stabb'd, like base assassins, in the dark.

I never prais'd, or blam'd, an author's book,
 Until your wise opinions came abroad;
 On these with holy rev'rence did I look;
 With you I prais'd, or blam'd, so help me G—d!

The fam'd LONGINUS all the world must know:
 The gape of wonder ARISTARCHUS drew,
 As well as ALEXANDER'S * Tutor, lo!
 All! all great critics, gentlemen, like you.

Did any ask me, "Pray, Sir, your opinion
 " Of those Reviewers, who so bold bestride
 " The world of learning, and, with proud dominion,
 " High on the backs of crouching authors ride?"

Quick have I answer'd, in a rage, "'Od's-blood!
 " No works like theirs such criticism convey:
 " Not all the timber of Dodona's wood
 " E'er pour'd more sterling oracle than they."

Did others cry, "Whate'er their brains indite,
 " Be sure, is excellent—a partial crew!
 " With Iō Pæans usher'd to the light,
 " And prais'd to folly in the next Review;"

This was my answer to each snarling elf,
 (My eyeballs fill'd with fire, my mouth with foam)
 "Zounds! is not justice due to one's dear self?
 " And should not charity begin at home?"

Full often I've been question'd with a sneer—
 "Think you one could not bribe em?" "Not a nation."—
 "A beef-steak, with a pot or two of beer,
 " Might save a little volume from damnation."

Furious

* Aristotle.

Furious I've answer'd, "Lo! my Lord CARLISLE.

" Implores, in vain, a seat in FAME's old temple;

" Though you applaud, their wildoms will not smile;

" And what they disapprove is surely simple.

" Could gold succeed, enough the Peer might raise,

" To buy the shirls critics o'er and o'er:

" 'Tis merit only can command their praise,

" Witness the volumes of Miss HANNAH MORE*.

" The Search for Happiness, that beauteous song,

" Which all of us would give our ears to own;

" The Captive, Percy, both, like mustard strong,

" That, woeful, force from PITY's soul the groan †."

Hail, Bristol town! Boeotia now no more,

Since GARRICK's SAPPHO sings, though rather slowly:

All hail Miss HANNAH! worth at least a score,

Ay, twenty score, of CHATTERTON and ROWLEY.

Men of prodigious parts are mostly shy:

Great NEWTON's self this failing did inherit;

Thus, frequent, you avoid the public eye,

And hide in lurking holes, a world of merit.

Yet oft your cautious modesties I see,

When from your bow'r with bats ye wing the dark:

And Sundays, when no catchpoles prowl for prey,

Dining with good DUKE HUMPHRY in the Park.

Meek

* A Lady talked of for her rhymes, and emphatically called, by a certain class of readers, the tenth Muse.

† A pair of tragedies.

Meek Sirs! in frays ye choose not to appear,
A circumstance most natural to suppose,
And therefore hide your precious heads, for fear
Some angry bard, abus'd, should pull your nose.

The world's loud plaudit, lo! ye don't desire,
Nor do ye hastily on books decide;
But first at ev'ry coffee-house enquire,
How, in its favour, runs the public tide.

There, WISDOM, often with a critic wig,
The face demure, knit brows, and forehead scowl-
ing,

I've seen o'er pamphlets, with importance big,
Moufing for faults, or, if you'll have it, owling.

Herculean Gentlemen! I dread your drubs;
Pity the lifted whites of both my eyes!
Strung with new strength beneath your massy clubs,
Alas! I shall not an ANTÆUS rise.

Lo, like an elephant along the ground,
Great Caliban, the giant JOHNSON stretch'd!
The British ROSCIUS too your clubs confound,
Whose fame the farthest of the stars hath reach'd.

If such so easy sink beneath your might,
Ye Gods! I may be done for in a trice:
Hurl'd by your rage to everlasting night—
Crack'd with that ease a beggar cracks his lice.

If, awful Sirs, ye grant me my petition,
With brother pamphlets shall my pamphlet shine;
And should it chance to pass a first edition,
In capitals shall stare your praise divine.

Quote

Quote from my work as much as e'er you please;
 For extracts, lo! I'll put no angry face on;
 Nor fill a hungry lawyer's fist with fees,
 To squeeze JOHN MURRAY like the furious MA-SON.*

Sage Sirs! if favour in your sight I find,
 If fame ye grant, I'll bless each gen'rous giver;
 With you sound coats, clean linen, masters kind,†
 Gallons of broth, and pounds of bullock's liver.

* The contest between Mr. Mason and the bookseller added not an atom to the reputation of the Poet.

† The booksellers.

WRITTEN FOR A FRIEND.

'T IS hard, Messieurs Reviewers, 'pon my soul,
Ye thus should lord it o'er the world of wit :
No higher court your sentence to controul,
Ye hang, or ye reprieve, as ye think fit !

Whether, in calf, your labours of the year
Rank with immortal bards, or boxes line ;
Or, torn for secret services, oh dear !
Are offer'd up at Cloacina's shrine :

Whether ye look all rosy round the gills,
Or hatchet-fac'd like starving cats so lean ;
Whether your criticism each pocket fills
With halfpence, keeping you close shav'd and clean ;

Whether in gorgeous raiment ye appear,
Or tatters ready from your backs to fall ;
Whether with pompous wigs to guard each ear,
Or whether you've no wigs or ears at all ;

Whether

Whether ye look like gentlemen or thieves,
 I hate usurpers of the critic throne;
 Therefore his compliments the poet gives,
 And humbly hopes you'll let his lines alone.

Stay till he asks your thoughts, ye forward sages;
 Officiousness the modest bard abjures:
 'Tis surely pert to meddle with his pages,
 Who never deign'd to look in one of yours.

LYRIC ODES.

ODE I.

PETER giveth an account of his great RELATION—boasteth—praiseth Sir WILLIAM CHAMBERS and SOMERSET-HOUSE—applaudeth Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS, and sheweth deep classic learning.

MY Cousin PINDAR, in his Odes,
Applauded Horsejockeys and Gods,
Wrestlers and boxers in his verse divine!
Then shall not I, who boast his fire,
And old hereditary lyre,
To British Painters give a golden line?
Say, shall yon Dome stupendous rise,
Striking with Attic front the skies—
The nursing dame of many a Painting Ape; *
And I immortal rhyme refuse,
To tell the nations round the news,
And make posterity with wonder gape?

Spirit

* Painting Ape.—This expression is by no means meant to convey the idea of insult. — There is great propriety, if not poetry, in it.—The reader will please to recollect, that Painting is an imitative art—Monkeys are prodigious imitators—witness my own Odes.—Besides, Pope compliments the immortal Newton by a similar allusion.

Spirit of Cousin PINDAR, ho!
 By all thy Odes, the world shall know,
 That CHAMBERS plann'd it—Be his name rever'd!—
 Sir WILLIAM's journeymen and tools,
 (No pupils of the Chinese Schools)
 With stone, and wood, and lime, the fabric rear'd!

Thus having put the Knight in rhyme,
 Stone, men, and timber, tools and lime;
 Let us survey what this rare Dome contains—
 Where rival artists for a name,
 Bit by that glorious mad-dog Fame,
 Have fix'd the labours of their brush and brains.

O Muse! Sir JOSHUA's master-hand
 Shall first our lyric laud command—
 Lo! TARLETON dragging on his boot so tight!
 His horses feel a godlike rage,
 And yearn with Yankies to engage—
 I think I hear them snorting for the fight!

Behold with fire each eye-ball glowing!
 I wish indeed their manes so flowing
 Were more like hair:—the brutes had been as good
 If, flaming with such classic force,
 They had resembled less that horse
 Call'd Trojan—and by Greeks compos'd of wood.

Now to yon trotting angel let us go—
 A very fine performance too, I trow,
 Who rides a cloud—indeed a heavy hack—

Which

LYRIC ODES, FOR M,DCC,LXXXII.

Which to my mind doth certés bring
That easy bum-delighting thing,
Rid by the * Chancellor—yclep'd a sack.

Yet, REYNOLDS, let me fairly say,
With pride I pour the lyric lay
To most things by thy able hand exprest—
Compar'd to other painting men,
Thou art an eagle to a wren!—
Now, Mistress Muse, pray wait on Mister WEST,

O D E II.

PETER falleth foul on Mr. WEST for representing our blessed
REDEEMER like an OLD-CLOTHES-MAN—and for misrepresenting the APOSTLES—Cutteth up Mr. WEST's angels—Attacketh another picture of Mr. WEST's—Weepeth over the hard fate of PRINCE OCTAVIUS and AUGUSTUS, children of our most glorious Sovereign.

O WEST, what hath thy pencil done?
Why, painted God Almighty's son
Like an old-clothes-man, about London street!
Put in his hand a rusty bag,
To hold each dainty, rusty rag;
We then shall see the character complete.

VOL. I.

C

Th'

* The Lord Chancellor, in the House of Lords, sits constantly on a woollack.

Th' Apostles too, I'm much afraid,
 Were not the fellows thou hast made—
 For Heav'n's sake, rub those rascals out again—
 There's not a mortal who believes
 They look'd like old * Salvator's Thieves,
 Although they might-not look like gentlemen.

Saint Paul most candidly declares,
 He could not give himself high airs
 Upon his person—which was rather homely—
 But really, as for all the rest,
 Save Judas, who was a rank beast,
 They all were decent labourers, and comely.

Thy Spirits too can't boast the graces—
 Two Indian angels by their faces—
 But speak—where are their wings to mount the wind?

One would suppose M'BRIDE † had met 'em—
 If thou hast spare ones, quickly get 'em,
 Or else the lads will both be left behind.

Ghost of ‡ Octavius! tell the bard,
 And thou, Augustus, us'd so hard,
 Why WEST hath murder'd you, my tender lambs?
 Ye bring to mind vile Richard's deed,
 Who bade your royal cousins bleed,
 For which the world the tyrant's mem'ry damns.

To

* Salvator Rosa, happy in his characters of banditti.

† Capt. M'Bride, famous for winging men of man, as well as partridges.—See his Letter to the Admiralty.

‡ A picture christened the Apotheosis of the young gentlemen.

To give the dev'l his due, thou dost inherit
 Some pigmy portion of the painting spirit;
 But what is this compar'd to loftier things?
 Thine is the fortune (making rivals groan)
 Of wink and nod familiar from the throne,
 And sweetest whispers from the best of kings.
 Nods, and winks-royal, since the world began,
 Are immortalities for little man.
 A whisper, like the breeze that lifts the dust,
 And mounts o'er chimney-tops the giddy straw,
 Can raise a rascal to a place of trust,
 Whose back has bled beneath the whips of law.
 Roll on a beggar but the royal eye,
 How the rogue puffs amid th' enlarging light!
 Stretch'd by its blaze, the fellow's ten feet high—
 Just as in magic-lantern swells the mite:
 Such is the pow'r of kings to make one stare—
 Thus are kings, conjurors, I do declare.

O D E III.

PETER administereth sage advice to very young Painters.

PEOPLE must mount by slow degrees to glory,
 'Tis stairs must lead us to the attic story:
 Thus thought my great old name-fake, PETER CZAR;
 Who bound himself, in Holland, to a trade;
 A very pretty carpenter he made;
 And then went † home, and built a man of war.

C 2

The

† To Russia.

The lad who would a ^{pothecary} shine,
 Should powder claws of crabs, and jalap, fine;
 Keep the shop clean, and watch it like a porter;
 Learn to boil glysters—nay, to give them too,
 If blinking nurfes can't the bus'ness do;
 Write well the labels, and wipe well the mortar.

Before that boys can rise to master-tanners,
 Humble those boys must be, and mind their manners;
 Despising PRIDE, whose wish it is to wreck 'em;
 And mornings, with a bucket and a stick,
 Should never once disdain to bend and pick,
 From street to street, rich lumps of Album Gracum.

Thus should young limning lads themselves demean;
 Learn how to keep their masters' brushes clean,
 And learn to squeeze the colours from the bladders—
 Furbish up rags; the shining pallet set;
 Keep the knives bright, and eke the easel neat—
 Such arts, to FAME's high temple are the ladders.

Young men, so useful are the arts I mention;
 (Believe me, not an atom is invention).
 The instant that I pen this ode, I know
 A jew-like, shock-poll'd, scrubby, short, black man,
 More like a cobbler than a gentleman—
 Working on canvass, like a dog in dough.

By heav'ns! with scarce more knowledges than these,
 He earns a guinea ev'ry day with ease;

Attempteth

Attempteth heads of princes, dogs, cats, 'squires—
Now on a monkey vent'reth, now a faint;
Talks of himself, and much himself admires,
And struts the veriest Bantam Cock of Paint.

But mind me, youths, I don't conceit advise,
Because 'tis fulsome to men's ears and eyes;
Whose tongues might cover you with ridicule;
And pray, who loves the appellation, Fool?

Yet, if, in spite of all the Muse can say,
You will insist on going the wrong way,
And wish to be of men the laughing-stock—
Copy our little old black bantam cock;

Whose soul, moreover, of such sort is;
With so much acrimony overflows,
As makes him, wheresoe'er he goes,
A walking thumb-bottle of Aqua-fortis.

ODE IV.

The Lyric Bard commendeth Mr. GAINSBOROUGH's Pig—
Recommendeth LANDSCAPE to the Artist.

AND now, O Muse, with song so big,
Turn round to GAINSBOROUGH's Girl and Pig,
Or Pig and Girl I rather should have said:
The pig in white, I must allow,
Is really a well-painted fow:
I wish to say the same thing of the maid.

As

As for poor St. Leger and Prince:
 Had I their places, I should wince,
 Thus to be gibbeted for weeks on high:
 Just like your felons after death,
 On Bagshot, or on Hounslow Heath,
 That force from travellers the pitying sigh.
 Yet GAINSBOROUGH has merit too,
 Would he his charming fort pursue;
 To mind his landscape have the modest grace:
 Yet there sometimes are Nature's tints despis'd:
 I wish them more attended to, and priz'd,
 Instead of trump'ry that usurps their place.

O D E V.

PETER quarrelleth with FAT—Proveth its fatal inconveniences
 —Accounteth for the leanness and rags of the MUSES—Displayeth military science—Telleth a wonderful Story of a SPANISH MARQUIS—Talketh sensibly of a greyhound, a hawk, and a race-horse—Pointeth out the proper subjects for grease.

PAINTERS and poets never should be fat—
 Sons of Apollo! listen well to that:
 Fat is foul weather, dims the fancy's sight:
 In poverty, the wits more nimbly muster:
 Thus stars, when pinch'd by frost, cast keener lustre
 On the black blanket of OLD MOTHER NIGHT.

Your

Your heavy fat, I will maintain,
Is perfect birdlime of the brain;
And, as to goldfinches the birdlime clings,
Fat holds ideas by the legs and wings.

Fat flattens the most brilliant thoughts,
Like the buff-stop on harpsichords, or spinets—
Muffling their pretty little tuneful throats,
That would have chirp'd away like linnets.

Not only fat is hurtful to the Arts,
But LOVE, at fat—ev'n LOVE ALMIGHTY starts:—
LOVE hates large, lubberly, fat, clumsy fellows,
Panting and blowing like a blacksmith's bellows.

In parliament, amidst the various chat,
What eloquence of NORTH's is lost by fat!
Mute in his head-piece on his bosom hung,
How many a speech hath slept upon his tongue!

So far Apollo's right, I needs must own,
To keep his sons and daughters high in bone:
The NINE too, as from history we glean,
Are, like Don Quixote's ROSINANTE, lean;
Who likewise fancy all incumbrance bad,
And therefore travel very thinly clad;
Looking like damsels just escap'd from jails,
With backs al fresco, and with tatter'd tails.

How, with large rolls of fat, would act
A soldier, or a sailor?

And 'tis a well-attested fact,

Apollo was as nimble as a taylor.

How could he else have caught that handsome flirt,
MISS DAPHNE, racing through the pools and dirt?

The

The Marquis of CERONA, of great parts,
 Could scarce support himself, he was so big—
 He starv'd—drank vinegar by pints and quarts,
 And got down to a Christian—from a pig.
 Some author says, his skin (but some will doubt him)
 Would fold a half-a-dozen times about him.

Reader !—of lie I urge not an iöta :
 His skin would really round his body come,
 Though tight before as parchment on a drum—
 Just like a Portuguese Capota.—

Yes—yes—indeed I solemnly repeat,
 Painters and bards should very little eat :
 No matter, verily, how slight their fare—
 Nay, though camelion-like they fed on air—
 Else they're like ladies much inclin'd to feeding—
 Who, often when they fatten, leave off breeding ;
 Or, like the hen, facetious Æsop's story,
 So known—I shall not lay the tale before ye.

Ye would not load with fat, a running-horse,
 Or greyhound ye design'd to course ;
 Nor would ye fatten up the hawk
 Ye mean to nimble birds to talk.

Then pray, young brushmen, if ye wish to thrive,
 And keep your genius, and the art alive,
 Gobble not quantities of flesh and fish up :
 BEINGS who can no harm from fat receive,
 May feast securely—then for heaven's sake leave
 Grease to an alderman, a hog, and bishop.

O D E VI.

PETER flattereth Mr. MASON CHAMBERLIN; and that most brilliant landscape-painter, Mr. LOUTHERBOURG. — PETER admireth, praiseth, and consoleth the English Claude, WIL-SON.

THY portraits, CHAMBERLIN, may be
A likeness, far as I can see;
But, faith! I cannot praise a single feature:
Yet, when it shall so please the Lord,
To make his people out of board,
Thy pictures will be tolerable nature.

And LOUTHERBOURG, when Heav'n so wills,
To make brass skies, and golden hills,
With marble bullocks in glass pastures grazing;
Thy reputation too will rise,
And people, gaping with surprise,
Cry, "Monsieur LOUTHERBOURG is most amazing!"

But thou must wait for that event—
Perhaps the change is never meant—
Till then, with me, thy pencil will not shine—
Till then, old red-nos'd * WILSON'S art
Will hold its empire o'er my heart,
By Britain left in poverty to pine.

But,

* This great Artist was desired by Sir W. CHAMBERS, his friend, to paint a picture for a great King: the Artist painted the picture for the great King; it was one of the finest he ever executed; the picture was shewn to the great King, which was laughed

But, honest WILSON, never mind;
 Immortal praises thou shalt find,
 And for a dinner have no cause to fear.—
 Thou start'st at my prophetic rhimes!
 Don't be impatient for those times;
 Wait till thou hast been dead a hundred year.

O D E VII.

PETER breaketh out into learning, and talketh Latin—Adviseeth young artists to do no more than they can do—Recommendeth to each the knowledge of his genius.—PETER talketh of Æsop's Fables and Mister STUBBS.—PETER ventureth on the stage—Recordeth a story of an actor, and concludeth facetiously.

“QUI fit Mæcnas, ut nemo quam sibi sortem”—

Was partly written for those fools
 Who slight the very art that would support 'em,
 In spite of Gratitude's and Wisdom's rules.

It brings to mind old Æsop's tale so sweet,
 Of a poor country-bumpkin of a stag,
 Who us'd to curse his clumsy legs and feet,
 But of his horns did wonderfully brag:

Unlike

laughed at, and with contempt returned. The picture is now in the author's possession. Why have we not a life of WILSON, whose eye was as perfect in the perception of aerial nature, as that of CLAUDE, and whose ideas were of a much superior order of grandeur?

Unlike our London poor John-Bulls,
Who from the wardrobe of their sculls,
Could, with the greatest pleasure, piece-meal tear
Such pretty-looking ornamental geer.

But, to the story of the Buck,
Like many English ones, much out of luck.

The morn was fresh, the scent was good,
And BUCK by thund'ring hounds pursu'd:
His legs so friendly bore him like the wind;
In short, he mock'd the thund'ring sounds—
In short, he laugh'd at all the hounds—
And left them, with a * f—, behind.

And now a thicket's to be fought:
In rush'd the stag as quick as thought—
No sooner got among the thorns,
But BUCK's entangled by the horns:

Up come the dogs, at length, with dreadful note;
In vain he struggles—hound on hound
Pulls the poor pris'ner to the ground—
Then enters Huntsman John, and cuts his throat.

Unfortunately for the graphic art,
Painters too often their true genius thwart;
Mad to accomplish what can ne'er be done,
They form for criticism a world of fun.

The man of hist'ry longs to deal in little,
Quits lasting oil, for perishable spittle:

The

* This is really too much in Rabelais' and Dr. Swift's vulgar manner—an arrant lapsus linguae. The nice-nosed reader is therefore desired to turn his nose up or awry at this nasty allusive letter.

The man of miniature to hist'ry springs,
Mounts with an ardour wild the broom-like brush,
Makes for sublimity a daring push,
And shows, like Icarus, his feebling wings.

'Tis said that nought so much the temper rubs
Of that ingenious artist, Mister STUBBS,
As calling him a horse-painter—how strange,
That STUBBS the title should desire to change!

Yet doth he curses on th' occasion utter,
And, foolish, quarrel with his bread and butter:
Yet, after landscape, gentlemen and ladies,
This very Mister STUBBS prodigious mad is;

So quits his horse—on which the man might ride
To FAME's fair temple, happy and unhurt;
And takes a hobby-horse to gall his pride,
That flings him, like a lubber, in the dirt.

The self-same folly reigns, too, on the stage—
Such for impossibilities the rage!

The Man of Farce, to Tragedy aspires,
And, calf-like bellowing, feels heroic fires.

WESTON for Hamlet and Othello sigh'd,
And thought it dev'lish hard to be deny'd.—
The courtly ABINGTON's untoward Star
Wanted her reputation much to mar,
And sink the Lady to the Washing-tub—
So whisper'd—"Mistress ABINGTON, play Scrub."
To folly full as great, some imp may lug her,
And bid her sink in Filch, and Abel Drugger.

An Actor, living at this time,
That now I pen my verse sublime,

Could

Could not, to save his soul, find out his fort—
 But lo! it happen'd, on a lucky night,
 He on the subject got a deal of light;
 And thus doth Fame the circumstance report.

After exhibiting to Pit and Boxes,
 To take a dram, the Actor stroll'd to * Fox's—
 Where soon his friend came in, such fine things say-
 ing,
 Offering a thousand pretty salutations,
 With full confirming oath-ejaculations,
 Unto this Son of Thespis, on his playing.

“Damn me,” quoth he, “but thou hast wond'rous
 merit—

“Thou play'd'st to-night, my friend, with matchless
 spirit:

“Zounds! my dear fellow, let me go to H-ll,

“If ever part was acted half so well!”

The Actor blush'd, and bow'd, and silly look'd,
 To hear such compliments so nicely cook'd.—
 Getting the better of his mauvaise honte,
 And staring at the other's steady front,

Quoth he, “What part, pray, mean ye? for, in troth,

“I know of none that you should so commend.”—

“What part!” replied the other with an oath,

“The bind-part of a JACK-ASS †, my dear friend!”

The

* A Tavern near the playhouse.

† A part in one of the Pantomimes, which contains a large portion of kicking, braying, obstinacy, and tail-wiggling.

The Player, charm'd instead of being hurt,
 Thank'd him for the discovery of his fort—
 Pursu'd his genius—fought no higher game,
 And by his JACK-ASS won unenvied fame.

O D E VIII.

PETER reprehendeth Mr. and Mrs. COSWAY, and seemeth, at last, ashamed of his attack—He trimmeth Dr. JOHNSON's jacket—and commendeth the beauty of PRAISE in a style unknown before.

FIE, COSWAY! I'm ashamed to say
 Thou own'st the title of R. A.—
 I fear, to damn thee 'twas the Devil's sending.
 Some honest calling quickly find,
 And bid thy Wife her kitchen mind,
 Or shirts and shifts be making, or be mending.

If Madam cannot make a shirt,
 Or mend, or from it wash the dirt,
 Better than paint, the Poet for thee feels—
 Or take a stitch up in thy stocking,
 (Which for a wife is very shocking)
 I pity the condition of thy heels.

What vanity was in your skulls,
 To make you act so like two fools,

T'expose

T'expose your daubs, though made with wond'rous pains out?

Could RAPHAEL's angry ghost arise,
And on the figures cast his eyes,
He'd catch a pistol up, and blow your brains out.

Muse, in this criticism, I fear
Thou really hast been too severe:
Cosway paints Miniature with decent spirit,
And Mrs. Cosway boasts some merit.

Be more like courtly Horace's thy page;
And shun of furious Juvenal the rage,
Of whom old Scaliger asserts—" qui jugulat"—
Id est—not murder would he boggle at.

He was a furious fellow, to be sure,
Like JOHNSON, whom the world could scarce endure;
Who, furly, bore his tommy-hawk about,
And glorying in a Despot's rude dominion,
Scalp'd, without mercy, ev'ry man's opinion
Which from his mouth should dare to venture out.

Where JOHNSON sat (which Candour sore bewails!)
Men put forth words so cautious!—just like snails,
So fearful, putting forth their tender horns,
Shrinking and drawing in, and so afraid
Of ev'ry foe that rudely may invade—
Prickles, and nettles, and sharp-wounding thorns.

Lo! our opinion is a child so dear,
We love its prattle, though a simple note;
And, consequently, can't with patience bear
The ruffian that would cut its little throat.

Sweet

Sweet is the voice of PRAISE!—Oh, soft as silk!

I wish the world's rude veins could run with milk!

PRAISE is rich sunshine-weather—all enjoy it:

To catch it, ev'ry one is so alive—

Blest as the bees, that, humming from their hive,

So advantageously employ it.

But CENSURE is a cloud so cold, that scowls

And spits—now fouses us o'er head and ears,

Spoils our best clothes; and just like poor soak'd fowls,

Drooping, so foolish ev'ry man appears.

PRAISE is a pretty woman's soft white hand,

That, something, tickles so our skin;

CENSURE, a currycomb we can't withstand,

Brings blood, and puts us quite upon the grin!

MUSE, listen to this lecture—go thy ways—

And, quitting CENSURE, sacrifice to PRAISE;

O D E IX.

PETER exhibiteth great Biblical knowledge—Immortalizeth his Grace of QUEENSBERRY—Condemneth Imitators, and maketh comparisons, of Painters and Pointers, a Laïs and a parcel of Ensigns.

SIR JOSHUA, (for I've read my Bible over)
Of whose great brush I own myself a lover,
Puts me in mind of Mathew, the first chapter—
A genealogy I read with rapture—

Abrâm got Isaac—Isaac, Jacob got—
Joseph to get, was lucky Jacob's lot,
And all Joe's brothers,
Who very nat'rally got others.

A genealogy so full of blood,
And eke so full of piety—so good—
Pleasing to me, as unto QUEENSB'RRY'S Grace
The genealogy of horses,
So famous on the famous courses,
That bring to mind the fam'd Olympic race.

Sir JOSHUA's happy pencil hath produc'd
A host of Copyists, much of the same feature;
By which the art hath greatly been abus'd:
I own Sir JOSHUA great; but Nature greater.

But what, alas! is ten times worse,
The progress of the art to curse,
The Copyists have been copied too;
And that, I'm sure, will never do.

Such Painters are like pointers seeking game,
Intent on pleasure, and dog-fame.
Suppose a half-a-dozen dogs, or more,
Snuffing, and scamp'ring, crossing the field o'er:

Lo! one dog scents the partridge—points—
Fix'd like a statue on the fragrant gale!
How act the others? Stop their scamp'ring joints;
And, lo! one's nose pokes forth on t'other's tail:

Perhaps this dog-comparifon of mine,
Though vastly natural and vastly fine,
May not be fully understood
By all the youngling painter brood;

Therefore, that into error they mayn't roam,
Suppose we keep a little more at home.

Suppose a Damfel of the Cyprian clafs,
A fresh-imported, lovely, blooming lafs,
Gay, tripping, smiling, ogling, in the Park—
Suppose those charms, so pleasing to the eye,
Catch the wild glance, and start the am'rous sigh,
Of some young roving Military Spark!

Lo! as if touch'd by bailiffs, or by thunder,
Sudden he stops—all-over staring wonder—
A thousand fancies his warm brain surround;
And nail'd, as if by magic, to the ground,
He points towards those fascinating charms
That rous'd the host of Passions up in arms.

A brother Ensign spies the stock-still lad,
And sudden halts—grave pond'ring what it means:
Another Ensign, taking this for mad,
Upon his supple-jack, deep-marv'ling, leans:

Another Ensign after him, too, sauntering,
Stops short, and to his eye applies his glass—
To know what stay'd his brother Ensign's canter-
ing,

Not dreaming of that eye-catcher, the LASS.

Thus nosing one the other's back,
Stands in a goodly row the King's red pack:
Except the first, whom NATURE's charms inflame—
His nose is properly towards the game.

E'en so, the PRESIDENT, to NATURE true,
Doth mark her form, and all her haunts pursue;

Whilst

Whilst half the silly Brushmen of the land,
 Contented take the NYMPH at second-hand;
 Imps, who just boast the merit of Translators—
 Horace's servum pecus—Imitators.

O D E X.

PETER is witty on Messieurs SERRES and ZOFFANI, and praiseth and condemneth Mr. BARRET.

SERRES and ZOFFANI! I ween,
 I better works than yours have seen.
 You'll say, no compliment can well be colder—
 Why, as you scarce are in your prime,
 And wait the strength'ning hand of Time,
 I hope that you'll improve as you grow older*.

Believe me, BARRET, thou hast truth and taste;
 Yet sometimes art thou apt to be unchaste:
 Too oft thy pencil, or thy genius, flags—
 Too oft thy landscapes, bonfires seem to be;
 And in thy bustling clouds, methinks I see
 The resurrection of OLD RAGS.

Ah! CATTON, our poor feelings spare!
 Suppress thy trash another year;
 Nor of thy folly make us say a hard thing—
 And lo! those daubs amongst the many,
 Painted by Mister EDWARD PENNY,
 They truly are not worth one half a farthing.

* The first about 70 years of age, and the last 63 or 64.

O D E XI.

PETER cannonadeth FASHION—adviseeth people to use their own eyes and noses; and ordereth what is to be done with a bad nose.

ONE year the pow'rs of Fashion rule
In favour of the Roman School—
Then hey, for drawing! Raphael and Pouffin!
The following year, the Flemish brush shall strike—
Then hey, for colouring!—Rubens and Vandyke!
And, lo! the Roman is not worth a pin.

Be not impos'd upon by FASHION's roar—
FASHION too often makes an idle noise;
Bids us, a fickle jade, like fools adore
The poorest trash, the miserablest toys.

And as a gang of thieves a bustle make,
With greater ease your purse to take,
So FASHION frequently, her point to gain,
Sets up a howl enough to stun a stone,
And fairly picks the pocket of your brain,
That is, if any brain you chance to own.

Carry your eyes with you, where'er you go—
For not to trust to them, is to abuse 'em:
As nature gave them t'ye, you ought to know
The wise old Lady meant that you should use 'em;
And yet, what thousands, to our vast surprise,
Of pictures judge by other people's eyes!

When Nature made a present of a nose
To each man's face, we justly may suppose
She meant, that for itself the nose should think,
And judge in matters of perfume and stink;
Not meant it for a mule alone, poor hack!
To bear horn spectacles upon its back.—
“Suppose it cannot smell, what then?” you'll say—
Fling it away.

O D E XII.

The LYRIC BARD waxeth witty on Mr. PETERS's Angel and Child, and also Madam ANGELICA KAUFFMAN, talking unblushingly of a wedding night!

DEAR PETERS! who, like Luke the Saint,
A man of gospel art, and Paint,
Thy pencil flames not with poetic fury:
If Heav'n's fair angels are like thine,
Our bucks, I think, O grave Divine,
May meet in t'other world the nymphs of Drury.

The infant soul I do not much admire;
It boasteth somewhat more of flesh than fire:
The picture, PETERS, cannot much adorn ye—
I'm glad though, that the red-fac'd little sinner,
Poor soul! hath made a hearty dinner
Before it ventur'd on so long a journey.

ANGELICA my plaudit gains—
Her art so sweetly canvass stains!

Her

Her dames, so Grecian, give me such delight!

But, were she married to such gentle males

As figure in her painted tales,

I fear she'd find a stupid wedding night.

O D E XIII.

PETER lasseth the Ladies—He turneth Story-teller—PETER grieveth.

ALTHOUGH the ladies with such beauty blaze,
They very frequently my passion raise;
Their charms compensate, scarce, their want of taste.
Passing amidst the EXHIBITION crowd,
I heard some damsels fashionably loud;
And thus I give the dialogue that pass'd.

“ Oh! the dear man! (cry'd one) look! here's a “ bonnet!

“ He shall paint me—I am determin'd on it—

“ Lord! cousin, see! how beautiful the gown!

“ What charming colours! here's fine lace, here's “ gauze!

“ What pretty sprigs the fellow draws!

“ Lord, cousin! he's the cleverest man in town!”

“ Ay, cousin,” cry'd a second, “ very true—

“ And here, here's charming green, and red, and “ blue—

“ There's

" There's a complexion beats the rouge of

" WARREN!

" See those red lips, oh la! they seem so nice!

" What rosy cheeks then, cousin, to entice!—

" Compar'd to this, all other heads are carrion.

" Cousin, this limner quickly will be seen

" Painting the PRINCESS ROYAL, and the QUEEN:

" Pray, don't you think as I do, coz?

" But we'll be painted first, that's poz."

Such was the very pretty conversation

That pass'd between the pretty Misses,

Whilst unobserv'd, the glory of our nation,

Close by them hung Sir JOSHUA's matchless pieces—

Works! that a TITIAN's hand could form alone—

Works! that CORREGIO had been proud to own.

Sorrowing, O Readers, let me lay before ye

What lately happen'd—therefore a true story.

A S T O R Y.

WALKING one afternoon along the Strand,

My wond'ring eyes did suddenly expand

Upon a pretty leash of Cornish lasses.—

" Heav'ns! my dear beauteous angels, how d'ye
do?

" Upon my soul I'm monstrous glad to see ye."

" Swinge! PETER, we are glad to meet with you;

" We're just to London come—well, pray how be ye?

" We're

“ We’re just a going, while ’tis light,
 “ To see St. PAUL’s before ’tis dark.—
 “ Lord! come, for once, be so polite,
 “ And condescend to be our spark.”

“ With all my heart, my cherubs.”—On we walk’d,
 And much of London—much of Cornwall talk’d:
 Now did I hug myself to think
 How much that glorious structure would surprise—
 How from its awful grandeur they would shrink
 With open mouths, and marv’ling eyes!

As near to Ludgate-hill we drew,
 St. PAUL’s just opening on our view;
 Behold, my lovely strangers, one and all,
 Gave a most diabolic squall,
 As if they had been tumbled on the stones,
 And some confounded cart had crush’d their bones.

After well fright’ning people with their cries,
 And sticking to a ribbon-shop their eyes,
 They all rush’d in, and swift to patterns ran,
 And imitating Babel, thus began:

“ Swinge! here are colours then to please!
 “ Delightful things, I vow to Heav’n!
 “ Why, not to see such things as these,
 “ We never should have been forgiv’n.—

“ And, sister, here, upon my word—

“ Here, here!—look! here are beauties to delight:

“ Why how a body’s heels might dance

“ Along from Launceston to Penzance,

“ Before that one might meet with such a fight!”

“ Come,

“Come, ladies, ’twill be dark,” said I, “I fear:
 “Pray let us view St. PAUL’s, ’tis now so near.”— “Lord! PETER, (cry’d the girls) don’t mind St,
 PAUL!—

“Sure! you’re a most incurious soul—
 “Why—we can see the church another day:
 “Don’t be afraid—St. PAUL’s can’t run away.”

READER,

If e’er thy bosom felt a thought sublime,
 Drop tears of pity on the Man of Rhyme!

O D E XIV.

PETER disclaimeth flattery—Describeth the GRAND Mo-
 NARQUE—and promiseth critical candour.

’T IS very true, that flattery’s not my fort—
 I cannot to stupidity pay court—
 And swear a face looks sense (the picture puffing)
 That boasts no more expression than a muffin.

And yet, a Frenchman can do this,
 And think he doth not act amiss;
 Although he tells a most confounded lie.—

KING LEWIS leads me into this remark,
 Call’d by his people all, LE GRAND MONARQUE—
 A demi-god in every Frenchman’s eye.

His portrait by some famous hand was done,
 And then, exhibited at the Salon:

At

At once a courtly critic criticises—

“Where is the brilliant eye, the charming grace,

“The sense profound that marks the Royal face—

“The Soul of LEWIS, that so very wise is?”

Yet when he bawl'd for sense, he bawl'd, I wot,

For furniture the head had never got.

Reader, believe me, that this gentleman

Was form'd on Nature's very homely plan.—

Clumsy in legs and shoulders, head and gullet,

His mouth abroad in seeming wonder lost,

As if its meaning had given up the ghost:

His eye far duller than a leaden bullet;

Nature so slighting the poor Royal nob,

As if she bargain'd for it by the job.

Therefore, should mighty G, or great Lord
NORTH,

Both gentlefolks of high condition,

Think it worth while to send their faces forth,

To stare amidst the ROYAL EXHIBITION—

If likenesses, I'll not condemn the pictures,

To compliment those mighty people's polls:

I scorn to pass unfair and cruel strictures,

By asking for the graces, or their souls.

O D E XV.

PETER pitifully praiseth Mr. STUBBS, and administereth wholesome advice—Surpriseth Mr. HONE with a compliment—Concludeth with suspecting the ingratitude of the ROYAL ACADEMICIANS.

WELL-pleas'd thy horses, STUBBS, I view,
And eke thy dogs, to homely nature true :
Let modern artists match thee, if they can—
Such animals thy genius suit :
Then stick, I beg thee, to the brute,
And meddle not with woman, nor with man.

And now for Mister NATHAN HONE—
In portrait thou 'rt as much alone,
As in his landscape stands th' unrival'd CLAUDE !
Of pictures I have seen enough,
Most vile, most execrable stuff ;
But none so bad as thine, I vow to God.

Thus in the cause of painting, loyal,
Sublime I've sung to artists royal—
With labour-pains the Muse hath sore been torn !
And yet each academic face,
I fear me, hath not got the grace
To smile upon the bantling, now 'tis born.

ODE XV.

Buter pithyly-pithy the States, and administrative whole—some advice—Baptist Mr. Howe with a companion—
 Concluded with looking the language of the House Resolutions.

WELL-pithy'd thy horses, Stanzas, I view,
 And ere thy horse, to some, in time,
 Not modern strife, which time, if they can—
 Such strains thy genius is;
 Then still, I beg thee to the prize,
 And enable me with woman, and with man,
 And now for Miss Nathan Howe—
 In portrait then, as much mine,
 As in our language stands in my mind's Channel!
 Of picture I have seen enough,
 Still this, most valuable find,
 Not near, I feel as there, I saw to God,
 Thy name, the soul of thy language,
 Which I beg to call to mind—
 With whom, even as I, have long been true,
 And yet, even as I, have long been true,
 I feel not, both not and the grace,
 To rise upon the painting, not the form.

LYRIC ODES.

ODE I.

PETER vaunteth exceedingly—displayeth great learning, and piteously complaineth of the res angusta domi—He praiseth the kind Reviewers—Describeth himself most pathetically—Consoloth himself—Disliketh the road to the Temple of Fame by means of shooting, poison, or hanging—Addresseth great folk—Giveth the King a broad hint—Asketh a simple question—Maketh as simple an apostrophe to GENIUS.

SONS of the Brush, I'm here again!
At times a Pindar, and Fontaine,
Casting poetic pearl (I fear) to swine!
For hang me if my last year's Odes
Paid rent for lodgings * near the gods,
Or put one sprat into this mouth divine.

For odes, my COUSIN had rump-steaks to eat!
So says Pausanias—loads of dainty meat!
And this the towns of Greece, to give, thought fit:
The best historians, one and all, declare
With the most solemn air,
The poet might have guttled till he split,

How

* The attic story, or, according to the vulgar phrase, garret.

How different far, alas! my worship's fate!
 To sooth the horrors of an empty plate,
 The grave possessors* of the critic throne
 Gave me, in truth, a pretty treat—
 Of flattery, mind me, not of meat;
 For they, poor souls, like me, are skin and bone.

No, no! with all my lyric pow'rs,
 I'm not like Mistress Cofway's Hours,†
 Red as cock-turkeys, plump as barn-door chicken:
 MERIT and I are miserably off—
 We both have got a most consumptive cough;
 Hunger hath long our harmless bones been picking.

MERIT and I, so innocent, so good,
 Are like the little children in the wood;
 And soon, like them, shall lay us down and die!
 May some good christian bard, in pity strong,
 Turn redbreast kind, and with the sweetest song
 Bewail our hapless fate with wat'ry eye!

Poor CHATTERTON was starv'd—with all his art!
 Some consolation this to my lean heart:
 Like him, in holes too, spider-like, I mope;
 And there my Rev'rence may remain, alas!
 The world will not discover it, the ass!
 Until I scrape acquaintance with a rope.

Then

* See the Reviews for last year.

† A sublime picture this! the expression is truly Homeric.—
 The fair artist hath, in the most surprising manner, communicated to canvass the old bard's idea of the brandy-faced Hours.—
 See the Iliad.

Then up your Walpoles, Bryants, mount like bees ;

Then each my pow'rs with adoration fees—
Nothing their kind civilities can hinder :

When, like an Otho, I am found ;
Like Jacob's sons, they'll look one t'other round,
And cry, " Who would have thought this a young Pindar ?"

Hanging's a dismal road to fame—
Pistols and poison just the same—
And what is worse, one can't come back again :
Soon as the beauteous gem we find,
We can't display it to mankind,
Though won with such wry mouths and wriggling pain.

Ye Lords and Dukes so clever, say,
(For ye have much to give away,
And much your gentle patronage I lack)
Speak, is it not a crying sin,
That FOLLY's guts are to his chain,
Whilst mine are slunk a mile into my back !

Oft as his sacred Majesty I see,
Ah ! George, (I sigh) thou hast good things with thee,
Would make me sportive as a youthful cat !
It is not that my soul so loyal
Would wish to wed the Princess Royal,
Or be Archbishop—no ! I'm not for that.
Nor really have I got the grace
To wish for Laureat Whitehead's place ;

Whose odes Cibberian—sweet, yet very manly,
Are set with equal strength by Mister Stanley.

Would not one swear that Heav'n lov'd fools,
There's such a number of them made;
Bum-proof to all the flogging of the schools,
No ray of knowledge could their skulls pervade?
Yet, gauge the pockets of those fellows' breeches,
We stare like congers at their riches.

O GENIUS! what a wretch art thou,
Who canst not keep a mare or cow,
With all thy compliment of wit so frisky!
Whilst FOLLY, as a mill-horse blind,
Beside his compter, gold can find,
And Sundays sport a strumpet and a whisky!

O D E II.

PETER turneth critic—Maketh handsome promises to Mr. WEST, and, like great folk, breaketh his word—Laugheth at the
WELL; and ridiculeth the pair of Apostles, Peter and John, galloping to the Sepulchre—Understandeth plain-work, and justly condemneth the shortness of the shirts of Mr. WEST's Angels—Concludeth with making that artist a handsome offer of an American immortality.

NOW for my criticism on paints,
Where bull-dogs, heroes, finners, faints,
Flames, thunder, lightning, in confusion meet!

Behold

Behold the works of Mister WEST!—
 That artist first shall be address—
 His pencil with due reverence, lo! I greet.
 Still bleeding from his last year's wound,
 Which from my doughty lance he found;
 Methinks I hear the trembling painter bawl,
 “Why dost thou persecute me, SAUL?”
 WEST, let me whisper in thy ear—
 Snug as a thief within a mill,
 From me thou hast no cause to fear:
 To panegyric will I turn my skill;
 And if thy picture I am forc'd to blame,
 I'll say most handsome things about the frame.
 Don't be cast down—instead of gall,
 Molasses from my pen shall fall!
 And yet, I fear thy gullet it is such,
 That, could I pour all Niagara down,
 Were Niagara praise, thou wouldst not frown,
 Nor think the thund'ring gulph one drop too much.
 Ye gods! the portrait of the * King!
 A very Saracen! a glorious thing!
 It shows a flaming pencil, let me tell ye—
 Methinks I see the people stare,
 And, anxious for his life, declare,
 “King George hath got a fire-ship in his belly.”
 Thy Charles! what must I say to that!
 Each face unmeaning, and so flat!—

Indeed

* Such a despicable performance as would disgrace a sign-post; the drawing, colouring, composition, so very, very bad. The expression has the only merit.

Indeed first confin to a piece of board:
 But, Muse, we've promis'd in our lays,
 To give our Tankey painter praise;
 So, Madam, 'tis but fair to keep our word.

Well then, the Charles of Mister West,
 And Oliver, I do protest;
 And eke the witnesses * of resurrection,
 Will stop a hole, keep out the wind;
 And make as good a window-blind,
 As great Corregio's†, plac'd for horse protection.

They'll make good floor-cloths, taylors' measures;
 For table coverings, be treasures;
 With butchers, form for flies most charming flap-
 pers;

And Monday mornings at the tub,
 When queens of fuds their linen scrub,
 Make for the blue-nos'd nymphs delightful wrappers.

WEST, I forgot last year to say,
 Thy Angels did my delicacy hurt;
 Their linen so much coarseness did display:
 What's worse, each had not above half a shirt.
 I tell thee, cambrick fine as webs of spiders
 Ought to have deck'd that brace of heav'nly riders.
 Could not their saddle-bags, pray, jump
 To somewhat longer for each rump!

I'd

* Peter and John.

† Corregio's best pictures were actually made use of in the royal stables in the North, to keep the wind from the tails of the horses.

I'd buy much better at a Wapping shop,
By vulgar tongues baptiz'd a fop!
Do mind, my friend, thy hits another time,
And thou shalt cut a figure in my rhyme:
Sublimely tow'ring 'midst th' Atlantic roar,
I'll waft thy praises to thy native * shore;
Where LIBERTY's brave sons their pæans sing,
And ev'n the convict feels himself a King.

ODE III.

The Poet addresseth Mr. GAINSBOROUGH—Exhibiteth great Scripture erudition—Condemneth Mr. GAINSBOROUGH's plagiarism—Giveth the artist wholesome advice.

NOW, GAINSBOROUGH, let me view thy shining labours,

Who, mounted on thy painting throne,
On other brushmen look'st contemptuous down,
Like our great admirals on a gang of swabbers.

My eyes broad-staring wonder leads
To yon dear nest † of royal heads!
How each the soul of my attention pulls!
Suppose, my friend, thou giv'st the frame
A pretty little Bible name,
And call'st it Golgotha, the Place of Sculls?

Say,

* America.

† A frame full of heads, in most humble imitation of the Royal family.

Say, didst thou really paint 'em? (To be free):

An angel finish'd Luke's transcendent line—

Perchance that civil angel was with thee—

For let me perish, if I think them thine.

Thy dogs * are good!—but yet, to make thee
stare,

The piece hath gain'd a number of deriders:

They tell thee, Genius in it had no share,

But that thou foully stol'st the curs from SNYDERS.

I do not blame thy borrowing a hint;

For, to be plain, there's nothing in't—

The man who scorns to do it, is a log:

An eye, an ear, a tail, a nose,

Were modesty, one might suppose;

But, z—ds! thou must not smuggle the whole dog,

O GAINSBOROUGH, nature 'plaineth fore,

That thou hast kick'd her out of door,

Who in her bounteous gifts hath been so free,

To cull such genius out for thee!

Lo! all thy efforts without her are vain!

Go find her, kiss her, and be friends again.

Speak, Muse, who form'd that matchless head,

The Cornish Boy,† in tin-mines bred;

Whose native genius, like his diamonds, shone

In secret, till chance gave him to the sun?

'Tis JACKSON's portrait—put the laurel on it,

Whilst to that tuneful swan I pour a sonnet,

* A picture of boys setting dogs to fight,

† OPIE.

SONNET,

TO JACKSON, OF EXETER.

ENCHANTING harmonist! the art is thine,
 Unmatch'd, to pour the soul-dissolving air,
 That seems poor weeping VIRTUE'S hymn divine,
 Soothing the wounded bosom of DESPAIR!
 O say, what minstrel of the sky hath given
 To swell the dirge, so musically lorn?
 Declare, hath dove-ey'd PITY left her heaven,
 And lent thy happy hand her lyre to mourn?
 So sad, thy sounds of hopeless hearts complain,
 LOVE, from his Cyprian isle, prepares to fly;
 He hastes to listen to thy tender strain,
 And learn from thee to breathe a sweeter sigh.

ODE V,

The great PETER, by a bold Pindaric jump, leapeth from Sonnet to Gull-catching:

READER, dost know the mode of catching
 Gulls?

If not, I will inform thee—Take a board,
 And place a fish upon it for the fools,
 A sprat, or any fish by Gulls ador'd;

Those

Those birds, who love a lofty flight,
 And sometimes bid the sun good night;
 Spying the glittering bait that floats below;
Sans cérémonie, down they rush,
 (For Gulls have got no manners) on they push;
 And what's the pretty consequence, I trow?
 They strike their gentle jobbernowls of lead
 Plump on the board—then lie like boobies dead.

Reader, thou need'st not beat thy brains about,
 To make so plain an application out:—
 There's many a painting puppy, take my word,
 Who knocks his silly head against a board—
 That might have help'd the State—made a good jailor,
 A nightman, or a tolerable taylor.

O D E VI.

PETER discovereth more scriptural erudition—Groweth farcastic on the Exhibition—Giveth a wonderful account of St. DENNIS—Blusheth for the honour of his country—
 Talketh sensibly of the DUC DE CHARTRES and the FRENCH
 KING.

“FIND me in Sodom out,” (exclaim'd the Lord)
 “Ten gentlemen, the place sha'n't be untown'd—
 “That is, I will not burn it ev'ry board:”—
 The dev'l a Gentleman was to be found!
 But this was rather hard, since Heav'n well knew
 That every fellow in it was a Jew.

This house is nearly in the same condition—

Scarce are good things amid those wide abodes.—

Find me ten pictures in this Exhibition,

That ought not to be d—n'd, I'll burn my Odes!

And then the world will be in fits and vapours,

Just as it was for poor Lord MANSFIELD's papers.*

St. Dennis, when his head was taken off,

Hugg'd it, and kifs'd it—carried it a mile:—

This was a pleasant miracle enough,

That maketh many an unbeliever smile.

“ 'Sblood! 'tis a lie!” ye roar.—Pray do not swear;

Ye may believe the wond'rous tale indeed!

Speak, hav'n't you said that many a picture here

Was really done by folks without a head?

And hav'n't you sworn this instant, with surprise,

That he who did that thing, had neither hands nor eyes?

How is it that such miserable stuff

The walls of this stupendous building stains?

The Council's ears with pleasure I could cuff;

Mind me—I don't say, batter out their brains.

What will Duke CHARTRES say when he goes home,

And tells King LEWIS all about the room?

Why, viewing such a set of red-hot heads,

Our Exhibition he will liken Hell to;

Then to the monarch, who both writes and reads,

Give

* To the irreparable loss of the public, and that great law expounder, burnt! burnt in Lord George Gordon's religious conflagration.—The news-papers howled for months over their ashes.—Ohe jam satis est.

Give hand-bills of the wond'rous Katterfelto ;
 Swearing th' Academy was all so flat,
 He'd rather see the wizard and his cat.

O D E VII.

PETER elegantly and happily depicteth his great Cousin of Thebes—Talketh of Fame—Horfe-whippeth the painters for turning their own trumpeters.

A DESULTORY way of writing,
 A hop and step and jump mode of inditing,
 My great and wise relation, Pindar boasted ;
 Or, (for I love the bard to flatter)
 By jerks, like boar-pigs making water,
 Whatever first came in his sconce,
 Bounce, out it flew, like bottled ale, at once,
 A cock, a bull, a whale, a soldier roasted.
 What sharks we mortals are for fame !
 How poacher-like we hunt the game !
 No matter, for it, how we play the fool—
 And yet, 'tis pleasing our own laud to hear,
 And really very natural to prefer
 One grain of praise to pounds of ridicule.
 I've lost all patience with the trade—
 I mean the painters—who can't stay
 To see their works by criticism display'd,
 And hear what others have to say ;

But

But calling FAME a vile old lazy strumpet,
Sound their own praise from their own penny § trumpet.

Amidst the hurly-burly of my brain,
Where the mad Lyric Muse, with pain,
Hammering hard verse her skill employs
And beats a tinman's shop in noise ;

Catching wild tropes and similes,
That hop about like swarms of fleas—
We've lost Sir JOSHUA—Ah! that charming elf,
I'm griev'd to say, hath this year lost himself.

Oh! RICHARD, thy St. George || so brave,
Wisdom and Prudence could not save
From being foully murder'd, my good friend :
Some weep to see the woeful figure ;
Whilst others laugh, and many snigger,
As if their mirth would never have an end,

Prithee accept th' advice I give with sorrow ;
Of poor St. George the useless armour borrow,
To guard thy own poor corpse—don't be a mule—
Take it—e'en now thou'rt like a hedgehog, quill'd,
(RICHARD, I hope in God thou art not kill'd)
By the dire shafts of merc'less ridicule.

Pity it is! 'tis true 'tis pity!
A Shakespeare lamentably says,
That thou, in this observing city,
Thus run'st a wh-r-ng after PRAISE ;

With

§ At the beginning of the Exhibition, the public papers swarmed with those self-adulators.

|| See Mr. Cosway's picture of Prudence, Wisdom, and Valour, arming St. George,

With strong desires I really think thee fraught ;
But, DICK, the nymph, so coy, will not be caught.

Yet, for thy consolation, mind !

In this thy wounded pride may refuge find—
Think of the Sage who wanted a fine piece ;
Who went, in vain, five hundred miles at least,
On Lais, a sweet fille de joie, to feast—
The Mistress ROBINSON of Greece.

Prithee give up, and save thy paints and oil,
And don't whole acres of good canvass spoil :
Thou'lt say, " Lord ! many hundreds do like me."
Lord ! so have fellows robb'd—nay, further,
Hundreds of villains have committed murther ;
But, RICHARD, are these precedents for thee ?

O D E VIII.

PETER groweth ironically facetious.

NATURE's a coarse, vile, daubing jade—
I've said it often, and repeat it—
She doth not understand her trade—
Artists, ne'er mind her work, I hope you'll beat it.
Look now, for heav'n's sake, at her skies !
What are they ?—Smoke, for certainty, I know ;
From chimney-tops, behold ! they rise,
Made by some sweating cooks below.

Look

Look at her dirt in lanes, from whence it comes—
From hogs, and ducks, and geese, and horses' butts—
Then tell me, DECENCY, I must request,
Who'd copy such a dev'lish nasty beast?

Paint by the yard—your canvass spread,
Broad as the main-sail of a man of war:
Your whale shall eat up ev'ry other head,
Ev'n as the sun licks up each sneaking star!

I do assure you, bulk is no bad trick—
By bulky things both men and maids are taken—
Mind, too, to lay the paints like mortar thick,
And make your picture look as red as bacon.
All folks love size; believe my rhyme;
BURKE says, 'tis part of the sublime.

A Dutchman, I forget his name—VAN GROUT,
VAN SLABBERCHOPS, VAN STINK, VAN SWAB—
No matter, though I cannot make it out—
At calling names I never was a dab:

This Dutchman then, a man of taste,
Holding a cheese that weigh'd a hundred pound,
Thus, like a burgomaster, spoke with judgment vast,
“No poet like my broder step de ground:
“He be de bestest poet, look!
“Dat all de world must please;
“Vor he heb wite von book,
“So big as all dis cheese!”

If at a distance you would paint a pig,
Make out each single bristle on his back:
Or if your meaner subject be a wig,
Let not the caxon a distinctness lack;

Else,

Else, all the lady critics will so stare,
And, angry, vow, “ ’Tis not a bit like hair !”

Be smooth as glass—like DENNER, finish high ;

Then every tongue commends :—

For people judge not only by the eye,

But feel your merit by their finger ends ;

Nay ! closely nosing, o’er the picture dwell,

As if to try the goodness by the smell.

CLAUDE’S distances are too confus’d—

One floating scene—nothing made out—

For which he ought to be abus’d,

Whose works have been so cry’d about.

Give me the pencil, whose amazing style

Makes a bird’s beak appear at twenty mile ;

And to my view, eyes, legs, and claws will bring,

With ev’ry feather of his tail and wing.

Make all your trees alike ; for Nature’s wild—

Fond of variety, a wayward child.—

To blame your taste some blockheads may presume,

But mind that ev’ry one be like a broom.

Of steel and purest silver form your waters,

And make your clouds like rocks and alligators.

Whene’er you paint the moon, if you are willing

To gain applause—why, paint her like a shilling,

Or SOL’S bright orb—be sure to make him glow

Precisely like a guinea, or a Jo.†.

In short, to get your pictures prais’d and fold,

Convert, like Midas, every thing to gold.

I see,

† A Portugal coin, vulgarly called a Johannes.

I see, at excellence, you'll come at last—

Your clouds are made of very brilliant stuff;
The blues on China mugs are now surpass'd,
Your sun-sets yield not to brick walls nor buff.

In stumps of trees your art so finely thrives,
They really look like golden-hafted knives!
Go on, my lads—leave Nature's dismal hue,
And she, ere long, will come and copy you.

O D E IX.

The sublime PETER concludeth in a sweat.

THUS have I finish'd, for this time,
My Odes, a little wild and rambling—
May people bite like gudgeons at my rhyme!
I long to see them scrambling—
Then very soon I'll give 'em more (God willing);
But this is full sufficient for a shilling †.

For such a trifle, such a heap!

Indeed I sell my goods too cheap.

Finish'd! a disappointed artist cries,
With open mouth and straining eyes;
Gaping for praise, like a young crow for meat—
“Lord! why you have not mention'd me!”
Mention thee!

Thy impudence hath put me in a sweat—
What rage for fame attends both great and small!
Better be d—n'd, than not be nam'd at all!

LYRIC ODES.

ODE I.

The divine PETER giveth an account of a conference he held last year with SATIRE, who adviseth him to attack some of the R. A.'s, to tear Mr. WEST's works to pieces, abuse Mr. GAINSBOROUGH, fall foul of Mrs. COSWAY's Sampson, and give a gentle stroke on the back of Mr. RIGAUD.—The Poet's gentle answer to SATIRE—The Ode of Remembrance that PETER received on account of his LYRICS—SATIRE's reply—PETER's resolution.

“NOT, not this year the lyric PETER sings—
“The great R. A.'s have wish'd my song to cease;
“I will not pluck a feather from your wings—
“So, Sons of Canvass! take your naps in peace.”

Such was my last year's gracious speech,
Sweet as the King's to Commons and to Peers,
Always with sense and tropes as plum-cake rich;
A luscious banquet for his people's ears!

“Not write!” cry'd SATIRE, red as fire with rage—
“This instant glorious war with Dulness wage;
“Take, take my supple-jack,
“Play St. Bartholomew with many a back!
“Flay half the Academic imps alive!
“Smoke, smoke the drones of that stupendous hive.

“ Begin with GEORGE’S idol, WEST ;

“ And then proceed in order with the rest :

“ This moment knock me down his Master Moses †,

“ On Sinai’s Mountain, where his nose is “ Cock’d up so pertly plump against the Lord,

“ Upon my word,

“ With all that ease to Him who rules above,

“ As if that Heaven and he were hand and glove.”

“ Indeed,” quoth I, “ the piece hath points of merit,

“ Though not possess’d throughout of equal spirit.”

“ What !” answer’d SATIRE, not knock Moses down !

“ O stupid PETER ! what the devil mean ye ?

“ He looks a dapper barber of the town,

“ With paper sign-board out—‘ Shave for a penny.’

“ Observe the faucy Israelite once more—

“ Wears he the countenance that should adore ?

“ No ! ’tis a son of lather—a rank prig ;

“ Who, ’stead of begging of the LORD the Law,

“ With sober looks, and reverential awe,

“ Seems pertly tripping up to fetch his wig.

“ With all her thunder bid the Muse

“ Fall furious on the groupe of Jews,

“ Whose shoulders are adorn’d with Christian faces ;

“ For by each phiz, (I speak without a gibe)

“ Not that they are encumber’d by the Graces.

“ Strike

† Moses receiving the Law on Mount Sinai.

- “ Strike off the head of Jeremiah *,
 “ And break the bones of old Ifaiah †;
 “ Down with the duck-wing’d Angels ‡, that abreast “ Stretch from a thing call’d cloud, and, by their looks,
 “ Wear more the visage of young rooks
 “ Cawing for victuals from their nest.
 “ Deal GAINSBOROUGH a lash, for pride so stiff,
 “ Who robs us of such pleasure for a § miss;
 “ Whose pencil, when he chooses, can be chaste,
 “ Give Nature’s form, and please the eye of TASTE.
 “ Of cuts on Sampson || don’t be sparing,
 “ Between two garden-rollers staring,
 “ Shown by the lovely Dalilah foul play!
 “ To atoms tear that ¶ Frenchman’s trash;
 “ Then bountifully deal the lash
 “ On such as dar’d to dub him an R. A.”

Thus SATIRE to the gentle Poet cry’d;
 And thus, with lamb-like sweetness, I reply’d:—

- “ Dear SATIRE! pray consult my life and ease;
 “ Were I to write whatever you desire,
 “ The fat would all be fairly in the fire—
 “ R. A.’s surround me like a swarm of bees,
 “ Or

‡ In the Apotheosis, a picture by West.

§ This extraordinary and celebrated artist, too petulantly insisting on a violation of a law of the Academy, in order to exhibit a picture in a light suitable to his wishes, seceded from the Royal Academy on the disappointment.

|| A picture by Mrs. Colway. ¶ Rigaud.

“ Or like a flock of small birds round a fowl
 “ Of solemn speculation, call’d an OWL.”

Quoth I, “ O SATIRE, I’m a simple youth,
 “ Must make my fortune, therefore not speak truth,
 “ Although as sterling as the Holy Bible :
 “ Truth makes it (MANSFIELD says) the more a “ libel!

“ I shall not sleep in peace within my hutch ;
 “ Like Doctor Johnson †, I have said TOO MUCH.”

When Mount Vesuvius || pour’d his flames,
 And frighten’d all the Naples dames,
 What did the ladies of the city, do?
 Why, order’d a fat Cardinal to go.

With good St. Januarius’s head,
 And shake it at the Mountain ’midst his riot,
 To try to keep the bully quiet :

The Parson went, and shook the jowl, and sped ;
 Snug was the word; the flames at once kept house ;
 The frighten’d Mount grew mute as any mouse.

Thus, should Lord MANSFIELD from his bench agree

To shake his lion mane-like wig at me,

And

† The story goes, that SAM, before his political conversion, replied to his present Majesty, in the library at Buckingham-house, on being asked by the Monarch, “ Why he did not write more ? ” — “ Please your Majesty, I have written too much.” So candid a declaration, of which the sturdy moralist did not believe one syllable, procured him a pension, and a muzzle.

|| See Sir William Hamilton’s account.

And bid his grim-look'd myrmidons assail;
With heads Medusan, and with hearts of bone,
Lo! if they did not turn me into stone,
Yet might they turn my limbs into a jail.

Read, read this Ode, just come to hand,
Giving the Muse to understand
That cruelty and scandal swell her song,
And that 'twere better far she held her tongue.

TO PETER PINDAR, ESQ.

A beautiful Fable, and charmingly told; but unfortunately the roguish author leaves us in the dark with respect to his real meaning; that is, whether the compliment to the Lady be serious or ironical.

A THOUSAND frogs, upon a summer's day,
Were sporting 'midst the sunny ray,
In a large pool, reflecting every face;
They show'd their gold-lac'd clothes with pride,
In harmless fallies, frequent vied,
And gambol'd through the water with a grace.

It happen'd that a band of boys,
Observant of their harmless joys,
Thoughtless, resolv'd to spoil their happy sport:
One frenzy seiz'd both great and small;
On the poor frogs the rogues began to fall,
Meaning to splash them, not to do them hurt.

Lo, as old authors sing, 'the stones 'gan pour,'
Indeed an * Otaheite show'r!

The

* See the Otaheite Journals.

The consequence was dreadful, let me tell ye;
 One's eye was beat out of his head,
 This limp'd away, that lay for dead;
 Here mourn'd a broken back, and there a belly.

Amongst the smitten, it was found,
 Their beauteous Queen receiv'd a wound;
 The blow gave ev'ry heart a sigh,
 And drew a tear from ev'ry eye:

At length King CROAK got up, and thus begun:
 " My lads, you think this very pretty fun!

" Your pebbles round us fly as thick as hops;
 " Have warmly complimented all our chops:
 " To you I guess that these are pleasant stones!
 " And so they might be to us frogs,
 " You damn'd young good-for-nothing dogs,
 " But that they are so hard, they break our bones."

PETER! thou mark'st the meaning of this fable—
 So put thy Pegasus into the stable;
 Nor wanton, thus with cruel pride,
 Mad, Jehu-like, o'er harmless people ride.

To drop the metaphor, the Fair †,
 Whose works thy muse forbore to spare,
 Is blest with talents ENVY must approve;
 And didst thou know her heart, thou sure wouldst
 say,

" Perdition catch the cruel lay!"

Then strike thy lyre to INNOCENCE and LOVE.

† Mrs. Cofway.

“ Poh, poh !” cry’d SATIRE, with a smile,
 “ Where is the glorious freedom of our Isle,
 “ If not permitted to call names ?”
 Methought the argument had weight :
 “ SATIRE,” quoth I, “ you’re very right”—
 So once more forth volcanic PETER flames !

O D E II.

The Poet correcteth the Muse’s warmth, who beginneth with little less than calling names — Hinteth at some academic giants — And concludeth with a pair of apt and elegant similes.

“ T AGRAGS and bobtails of the sacred brush !”
 For Heav’n’s sake, Muse, be prudent :—Hush ! hush !
 hush !

The Ode with too much violence begins :
 The great R. A.’s, so jealous of their fame,
 Will all declare, of them we make a game ;
 And then, the Lord have mercy on our skins !
 Think what a formidable phalanx, Muse,
 Strengthen’d by Messieurs GARVAY and RIGAUD, and Co.

How dangerous such a body to abuse !

Then there’s among the Academic crew,
 A MAN * that made the President look blue ;
Brandish’d

* Mr. Barry.

Brandish'd his weapon with a whirlwind's forces,
Tore by the roots his flourishing discourses;
And swore his own sweet Irish howl could pour
A half a dozen such, in half an hour.

Be prudent, Muse! once more I pray—
In vain I preach! th' advice is thrown away:
Ev'n now ye turn your nose up with a sneer,
And cry—Lord! REYNOLDS has no cause to fear:
When BARRY dares the President to fly on,

'Tis like a mouse, that, work'd into a rage,
Daring most dreadful war to wage,
Nibbles the tail of the Nemæan lion;

Or like a louse, of mettle full,
Nurs'd in some giant's skull,
Because Goliath scratch'd him as he fed,
Employs with vehemence his angry claws,
And gaping, grinning, formidable jaws,
To carry off the GIANT'S HEAD!

ODE III.

The Poet addresseth Sir WILLIAM CHAMBERS, a gentleman of consequence in the election of R. A.'s—He accuseth the Knight of a partial and ridiculous distribution of the academic honours—Threateneth him with rhyme—Adviseeth a reformation.

ONE minute, gentle IRONY, retire—
Behold! I'm graver than a mustard pot;
The Muse, with bile as hot as fire,
Could call fool, puppy, blockhead, and “what not;”

As

As brother Horace has it—tumet jecur :
Nor in her angry progress will I check her.

I'm told, that Satan has been long at work
To bring th' Academy into disgrace ;
Oh ! may that Member's b-ck-de feel his fork,
Who dares to violate the sacred place !

Who dares the Devil join
In so nefarious a design ?

Yet, lo ! what dolts the honours claim !
I leave their WORKS to tell their name.

Th' Academy is like a microscope—

For, by the magnifying power, are seen
Objects, that for attention ne'er could hope ;
No more, alas ! than if they ne'er had been.

So rare a building, and so grac'd
With monuments of ancient taste,
Statues and busts, relieves and intaglios ;
For such poor things to watch the treasure,
Is laughable beyond all measure—
'Tis just like eunuchs put to guard seraglios.

Think not, Sir WILLIAM, I'm in jest—
By Heaven ! I will not let thee rest :
Yet thou mayst bluster like bull-beef so big ;
And of thy own importance full,
Exclaim, " Great cry, and little wool !"
As Satan holla'd, when he shav'd the pig.

Yes, thou shalt feel my tomahawk of satire,
And find that scalping is a serious matter :

Shock'd

Shock'd at th' abuse, how rage inflames my veins!
 Who can help swearing when such wights he sees
 Crept to th' Academy by ways and means,
 Like mites and skippers in a Cheshire cheese?

What beings will the next year's choice disclose,
 The Academic list to grace?
 Some skeletons of art, I do suppose,
 That ought to blush to shew their face.

Sir WILLIAM! tremble at the muse's tongue;
 Parnassus boasts a formidable throng!
 All people recollect poor Marfyas' fate,
 Save such as are dead, drunk, or fast asleep:
 Apollo tied the culprit to a gate,
 And flay'd him as a butcher flays a sheep.
 And why!—Lord! not as history rehearſes,
 Because he scorn'd his *pip*ing, but his verſes:
 In vain, like a poor pillory'd punk, he bawl'd,
 And kick'd and writh'd, and ſaid his pray'rs, and ſpawl'd!

'Twas all in vain—the God purſu'd his ſport,
 And pull'd his hide off, as you'd pull your ſhirt!
 Then bid not rage the Muſe's ſoul inflame,
 Whoſe thund'ring voice damnation makes, or fame.

You'll aſk me, p'rhaps, “ Good Maſter PETER, pray
 “ What right have you to ſpeak!” then pertly ſmile.

I'll tell you, Sir—My pocket help'd to pay
 For building that expenſive pile;
 A pile that credit to the Nation gains,
 And does ſmall honour to your Worſhip's brains.

It

It made a tax on candles and shoe-leather,
 Of monstrous use in dirty weather :
 It also made a tax on butchers' shops,
 So spread its influence o'er poetic chops ;
 A most alarming tax to ev'ry poet,
 Whose poor lank greyhound ribs with sorrow show it.
 Therefore, Sir Knight, pray mend your manners,
 And don't choose cobblers, blacksmiths, tinkers,
 tanners :
 Some people love the converse of low folks,
 To gain broad grins for good-for-nothing jokes—
 Though thou, 'midst dullness, mayst be pleas'd to shine,
 REYNOLDS shall ne'er fit cheek-by-jowl with SWINE.

O D E IV.

The POET again payeth his respects to Sir WILLIAM CHAMBERS—Complaineth of his illiberality in his choice of R. A.'s—Adviseeth him to keep company with PRUDENCE; whom he describeth most naturally—He threateneth the Knight—Concludeth with a beautiful simile.

THE Muse is in the fidgets—can't sit still—
 She must have t'other talk with you, Sir WILL.
 Since her last Ode, with sorrow hath she heard
 You want not men with heav'nly genius blest,
 But with the title of R. A. conferr'd
 On such as catch the bugs and spiders best ;
 Wash of the larger statues best the faces,
 And clean the dirty linen of the GRACES ;
Scour

Scour best the skins of the young marble brats;
Trap mice, and clear th' Academy from rats.

You look for men whose heads are rather tubbish,
Or, drum-like, better form'd for sound than sense;
Pleas'd with the fine Arabian to dispense,
You want the big-bon'd drayhorse for your rubbish.

Raise not the Muse's anger, I desire;
High-born, she's hotter than the lightning's fire,
And proud! (believe the poet's word)
Proud as the lady of a new-made lord;
Proud as, in all her gorgeous trappings drest,
Fat Lady Mayorefs at a city feast;
Whose spouse makes wigs, or some such glorious thing,
Shoes, gloves, hats, nightcaps, breeches, for the King!

PRUDENCE, Sir WILLIAM, is a jewel;
Is clothes, and meat, and drink, and fuel;
PRUDENCE! for man the very best of wives,
Whom BARDS have seldom met with in their lives;
Which certès doth account for, in some measure,
Their grievous want of worldly treasure,
On which the greatest blockheads make their brags;
And sheweth why we see, instead of lace,
About the Poet's back, with little grace,
Those fluttering, French-like followers, call'd RAGS.

PRUDENCE! a sweet, obliging, curtsying lass,
Fit through this hypocritic world to pass!
Who kept at first a little peddling shop,
Swept her own room, twirl'd her own mop,
Wash'd

Wash'd her own smocks, caught her own fleas,
And rose to fame and fortune by degrees;
Who, when she enter'd other people's houses,
Till spoke to, was as silent as a mouse is;
And of opinions, though possess'd a store,
She left them, with her patterns, at the door.

Sir WILLIAM, you're a hound! and hunting FAME:

Undoubtedly this LADY is fair game:

But, Nimrod, mind—my Muse is WHIPPER-IN!

So that if ever you disgrace,

By turning cur, your noble race,

The Lord have mercy on your curship's skin!

O D E V.

The Poet openeth his account of the Exhibitors at the Academy—Praiseth REYNOLDS—Half damneth Mr. WEST—
Completely damneth Mr. WRIGHT of Derby.

MUSE, sing the wonders of the present year:

Declare that works of sterling worth appear.

REYNOLDS, his heads divine, as usual, gives,

Where Titian's and Corregio's genius lives!

Works! I'm afraid, like beauty of rare quality,

Born soon to fade! too subject to mortality!

WEST most judiciously my counsel takes,

Paints by the acre—witness Parson PETER*:

For garbs, he very pretty blankets makes,

Deserving praises in the sweetest metre.

The

* Peter preaching, by West.

The flesh of Peter's audience is not good—
 Too much like ivory, and stone, and wood :
 Nor of the figures dare I praise th' expression.
 With some folks thought a trifle of transgression.

WEST, your Last Supper is a hungry piece :
 Your Tyburn Saints will not your fame increase ;
 With looks so thievish, with such skins of copper !
 Were they for sale, as Heaven's my judge,
 To give five farthings for them I should grudge,
 Nay, ev'n my old tobacco-stopper.

Candour must own, that frequently thy paints
 Have play'd the Devil with the Saints :
 For me ! I fancy them like doves and throatsles !
 But thou, if we believe thy art,
 Enough to make us pious Christians start,
 Hath very scurvy notions of Apostles.

What of thy † landscape shall I say,
 Holding the old white sow, and sucking litter ?
 Curs'd be the moment, curs'd the day,
 Thou gav'st the Muse such reason to be bitter !
 But Muse, be soft towards him—only sigb
 “ More damned stuff was never seen with eye.”

Thou really dost not equal Derby WRIGHT §,
 The Man of Night !

O'er

† A most pitiable performance indeed.—It may be fairly called the dotage of the art.

§ A painter of moon-lights.—In this new edition of the Odes, it is but just to acknowledge, that the author has seen some landscapes of a late date, by this artist, that do him great credit.

O'er woollen hills, where gold and silver moons
Now mount like sixpences, and now balloons;
Where sea-reflections, nothing nat'ral tell ye,
So much like fiddle-strings, or vermicelli;
Where ev'ry thing exclaimeth, how severe!
“What are we?” and “what bus'ness have we “here?”

ODE VI.

The Poet addresseth Majesty—Pleadeth the cause of poor, starving Poetry—He acknowledgeth in a former Ode the kindnesses of Fame, yet throweth out a hint to his Majesty that his finances may be approved—He relateth a marvellous story of a Jesuit—Recommendeth something similar to his Sovereign.

AN'T please your Majesty, I'm o'erjoy'd
To find your family so fond of Painting;
I wish her sister POETRY employ'd—
Poor, dear neglected girl! with hunger faint-
ing.

Your Royal Grandfire, (trust me, I'm no fibber)
Was vastly fond of Mister COLLEY CIBBER.

For subjects, how his Majesty would hunt!
And if a battle grac'd the Rhine, or Weser,
He'd cry—“Mine poet sal mak Ode upon't!”
Then forth there came a flaming Ode to CÆSAR.

Dread Sire, pray recollect a bit—

Some glorious action of your life;

And then your humble poet's wit,

Sharp as a razor, or a new-ground knife,

Shall mount you on her glorious balloon Odes,

Like Rome's great CÆSAR, to th' immortal Gods †.

A Naples Jesuit, HISTORY declares,

On slips of paper scribbled prayers,

Which shew'd of wisdom great profundity;

Then sold them to the country folks,

To give their turkeys, hens, and ducks,

To bring increase of fowl-fecundity:

It answer'd.—On their turkeys, ducks, and hens,

The country people all were full of brags—

Whose little bums, in barns, and mows, and fens,

Squat down, and laid like conjuration bags.

“ I wish this sage experiment were try'd

“ On me,” cries MUSE, my gentle bride;

“ And slips of paper giv'n me, with this pray'r”—

“ Pay to the bearer fifty pounds at sight.”—

“ My sweet prolific pow'rs 'twould so delight!

“ I'd breed like a tame rabbit or a hare!”

MUSE, give thine idle supplication o'er—

And know that AVARICE is always poor.

† Divisum Imperium, cum Jove, Cæsar habet.

O D E VII.

The following ODE was written just after the great crashes and falls at Somerset House.—PETER is charmingly ironical.

SIR WILLIAM! cover'd with Chinese renown,
 Whose houses * are no sooner up than down,
 Don't heed the discontented Nation's cry:
Thine are religious houses!—very bumble;
 Upon their faces much inclin'd to tumble;
 So meek, they cannot keep their heads on high.

I know the foolish kingdom all runs riot,
 Calling aloud for WYAT, WYAT, WYAT!
 Who on their good opinion hourly gains.
 But where lies WYAT's merit?—What his praise?
Abroad this roving man spent half his days,
 Contemplating of ROME, the great remains.

This WYAT's works a classic taste combine,
 Who studied thus the ANCIENTS o'er and o'er;
 But, lo! the greater reputation thine,
 To do what no man ever did before.

* I take it for granted, that the houses in general built by the KNIGHT, are as much in the style of gingerbread as Somerset House.

O D E VIII.

PETER'S account of wonderful RELIQUES in FRANCE, with the devotion paid to them—The sensible application to Painters and Painting, by way of simile.

IN FRANCE, some years ago—some twenty-three,
At a fam'd church, where hundreds daily jostle,
I wisely paid a priest six sols to see
The thumb of Thomas the Apostle.

Gaping upon Tomb's thumb, with me in wonder,
The rabble rais'd its eyes, like ducks in thunder ;
Because in virtues it was vastly rich,
Had cur'd possess'd of devils, and the itch ;
Work'd various wonders on a scabby pate ;
Made little sucking children strait,

Though crook'd like ram's-horns by the rickets ;
Made people see, though blind as moles ;

And made your sad, hysteric souls,

As gay as grasshoppers and crickets ;

Brought noses back again to faces,

Long stol'n by Venus and her Graces ;

And eyes to fill their parent sockets,

Of which sad Love had pick'd their pockets :

Lo ! had the Priest permitted, with their kisses

The mob had smack'd this holy thumb to pieces.

Though, Reader, 'twas not the Apostle's thumb—
But mum !

It play'd as well of miracles the trick,

Although a painted piece of rotten stick !

For

For six fols more, behold! to view, was bolted
 A feather of the Angel Gabriel's wing!
 Whether 'twas pluck'd by force, or calmly molted,
 No holy legends tell, nor poets sing.
 But was it Gabriel's feather, heav'nly Muses?
 It was not Gabriel's feather, but a Goose's!
 But stay! from truth we would not wish to wander,
 For, probably, the owner was a Gander.
 Painters! you take me right:—The Muse supposes
 You make your coup-de-maitre dashes,
 Christen them eyes, and cheeks, and lips, and noses,
 Beards, chins, and whiskers, and eye-lashes;
 As like, p'rhaps, as a horse is like a plum,
 Or 'forefaid stick, St. Tom th' Apostle's thumb.
 With purer eyes the British vulgar sees;
 We are no Crawthumpers, no Devotees:
 So that, whene'er your figures are mere wood,
 Our eyes will never deem 'em flesh and blood.

O D E IX.

The generous PETER rescueth the immortal RAPHAEL from the obloquy of MICHAEL ANGELO—The Poet moralizeth—Telleth a story not to the credit of MICHAEL ANGELO, and nobly defendeth RAPHAEL's name against his invidious attack—Concludeth with a most sage observation.

HOW difficult in artists to allow
 To brother brushmen ev'n a grain of merit!
 Wishing to tear the laurels from their brow,
 They shew a sniv'ling, diabolic spirit.

So

So 'tis, however moralists may chatter!
 What's worse still—nature will be always nature:
 We can't brew Burgundy from four small beer,
 Nor make a filken purse of a sow's ear.

Sweet is the voice of PRAISE!—from eve to morn,
 From blushing morn to darkling eve again,
 My Muse the brows of MERIT could adorn,
 And, lark-like, swell the panegyric strain.

PRAISE, like the balm which ev'ning's dewy star
 Sheds on the drooping herb and fainting flower,
 Lifts modest, pining MERIT from despair,
 And gives her clouded eye a golden hour.

P-x take me if I ever read the story
 Of MICHAEL ANGELO, without some swearing;
 'Tis such a slice cut off from his great glory:
 He surely had been brandying it, or beering:
 That is, in plainer English, he was drunk,
 And CANDOUR from the man with horror shrunk.

RAPHAEL did honour to the Roman school,
 Yet MICHAEL ANGELO did call him fool;
 When working in the Vatican, would stare,
 Throw down his brush, and stamp and swear,
 If e'er a porter let him in—he'd stone him;
 And, if he RAPHAEL caught, most surely bone him.

He swore the world was a rank ass,
 To pay a compliment to RAPHAEL's stuff;
 For that he knew the fellow well enough,
 And that his paltry metal would not pass.

Such

Such was the language of this false Italian :
 One time he christen'd RAPHAEL a Pygmalion ;
 Swore that his madams were compos'd of stone ;
 Swore his expressions were like owls so tame,
 His drawings, like the lamest cripple, lame ;
 That, as for composition, he had none.

Young artists ! these assertions I deny ;
 'Twas vile ill manners—not to say a lie :
 RAPHAEL did real excellence inherit ;
 And if you ever chance to paint as well,
 I bonâ fide do foretell,
 You'll certainly be men of merit.

ODE X.

The gossiping PETER telleth a strange Story, and true, though strange—Seemeth to entertain no very elevated opinions of the wisdom of Kings—Hinteth at the narrow escape of Sir JO-SHUA REYNOLDS—Mr. RAMSAY's riches—A recommendation of flattery as a specific in fortune-making.

I'M told, and I believe the story, .
 That a fam'd Queen of Northern brutes,
 A GENTLEWOMAN of prodigious glory,
 Whom ev'ry sort of epithet well suits ;
 Whose husband dear, just happening to provoke
 her,
 Was shov'd to Heaven upon a red-hot poker,
 Sent

Sent to a certain KING, not King of France—

Defiring by SIR JOSHUA's hand his PRIZ—

What did the Royal Quiz?

Why, damn'd genteelly, sat to Mr. DANCE*!

Then sent it to the Northern Queen—

As sweet a bit of wood as e'er was seen!

And therefore most unlike the PRINCELY HEAD—

He might as well have sent a pig of lead.

Down ev'ry throat the piece was cramm'd

As done by REYNOLDS, and deserv'dly damn'd

For as to Master DANCE's art,

It ne'er was worth a single ----!

Reader, I BLUSH!—am delicate this time!

So let thy impudence supply the rhyme.

Thank God! that Monarchs cannot Taste controul,

And make each subject's poor, submissive soul

Admire the work that JUDGMENT oft cries fie on:

Had things been so, poor REYNOLDS we had seen

Painting a barber's pole—an ale-house queen,

The cat and gridiron, or the old red-lion!

At † Plympton, p'rhaps, for some grave Doctor Slop,

Painting the pots and bottles of the shop;

Or

* The true reason that induced his Majesty to sit to Mr. DANCE, was nothing less than laudable Royal economy. Mr. DANCE charged Fifty Pounds for a picture—Sir JOSHUA REYNOLDS's price was somewhat more than a Hundred—a very great difference in the market-price of paint and canvass; and, let me say, justified the preference given to the man who worked cheapest.

† Sir Joshua's native spot, in Devonshire.

Or in the Drama, to get meat to munch,
His brush divine had pictur'd scenes for PUNCH!

Whilst WEST was whelping 'midst his paints,
Moses and Aaron, and all sort of Saints!
Adams and Eves, and snakes and apples,
And dev'ls, for beautifying certain CHAPELS:
But REYNOLDS is no favourite, that's the matter;
He has not learnt the noble art—to flatter.*

Thrice happy times, when MONARCHS find them hard things

To teach us what to view with admiration;
And, like their heads on halfpence and brass
farthings,

Make their opinions current through the nation!

I've heard that RAMSAY,† when he died,
Left just nine rooms well stuff'd with Queens and Kings;

From whence all nations might have been supply'd,
That long'd for valuable things.

Viceroy's, ambassadors, and plenipo's,
Bought them to join their raree-shows
In foreign parts,

And shew the progress of the British arts.

Whether they purchas'd by the pound or yard,
I cannot tell, because I never heard;
But this I know, his shop was like a fair,
And dealt most largely in this ROYAL WARE.

See

* This Ode was composed before Sir JOSHUA was dubbed King's Painter. Possibly the great artist dreamt of my BEAUTIFUL LYRIC, and pursued its advice.

† Late painter to his Majesty.

See what it is to gain a Monarch's smile!
 And hast thou mis'd it, REYNOLDS, all this while!
 How stupid! pr'ythee, seek the Courtier's School,
 And learn to manufacture oil of fool.

FLATTERY's the turnpike-road to FORTUNE's door—
 TRUTH is a narrow lane, all full of quags,
 Leading to broken heads, abuse, and rags,
 And workhouses—sad refuge for the poor!
 FLATTERY's a mountebank so spruce—gets riches;
 TRUTH, a plain Simon Pure, a Quaker Preacher,
 A moral-mender, a disgusting teacher,
 That never got a fixpence by her speeches!

O D E XI.

The lofty PETER beginneth with an original simile—Displayeth
 a deep knowledge of HOMER and modern Duchesses—Con-cludeth with a prophecy about his Sovereign.

PAINTERS who figure in the Exhibition,
 Are pretty nearly in the same condition
 With cocks on Shrove-tide, which the season gathers;
 Flung at by ev'ry lubber, ev'ry brat,
 Possessing strength enough to throw a bat,
 To break their bones, and knock about their feathers.
 This little difference, however, lies
 Between the painter and the fowl, I find:
 The artist for the post of danger tries—
 The fowl is fasten'd much against his mind;
Who

Who damns his sentence, would annul it—

Sue out his habeas corpus, and, instead
Of being beat with bats about the head,
Make handsome love to a smart pullet.

And yet the painter like a booby groans,
Who courts the very bats which break his bones.

But who from scandal is exempt?

Who does not meet, at times, contempt?

Great Jove, the God of Gods, in figures rich,
Oft call'd the Queen of Heav'n a saucy bitch;
Achilles* call'd great Agamemnon hog,
An impudent, deceitful, dirty dog!

Behold our lofty Duchesses pull caps,

And give each other's reputations raps,

As freely as the drabs of Drury's school;
And who, pray, knows that GEORGE our gracious
King

(Said by his courtiers to know every thing)

May not, by future times, be call'd a Fool?

O D E XII.

The Bard sensibly reproveth the young artists for their propensity to abuse—Most wittily compareth them to horse-leeches, game-cocks, and curs.

THE mean, the ranc'rous jealousies that swell
In some fad artists' souls, I do despise;
Instead of nobly striving to excel,
You strive to pick out one the other's eyes.

To

* Vide HOMER.

To be a PAINTER, was CORREGIO's glory :
His speech should flame in gold—"SONO PITTORE."

But what, if truth were spoke, would be your speeches?
This—"We're a set of fame-sucking horse-leeches ;
" Without a blush, the poorest scandal speaking—
" Like cocks, for ever at each other beaking ;
" As if the globe we dwell on were so small,
" There really was not room enough for all."

Young men!—

I do presume that one of you in ten
Has kept a dog or two, and has remark'd,
That when you have been comfortably feeding,
The curs, without an atom of court breeding,
With watery jaws, have whin'd, and paw'd, and bark'd ;
Show'd anxiousness about the mutton bone,
And, 'stead of your mouth, wish'd it in their own ;
And if you gave this bone to one or t'other,
Heav'ns, what a snarling, quarrelling, and pother !
This, probably, has touch'd you to the quick,
And made you teach good manners by a kick ;
And if the tumult was beyond all bearing,
You treated them with sweet emphatic swearing,
And eloquence of wond'rous use in wars,
Amongst sea-captains and the brave jack-tars:

Now tell me honestly—pray don't ye find
Somewhat in Christians just of the same kind

That ye experienc'd in the curs,

Causing your anger and demurs?

As, for example, when your mistress, FAME,
Wishing to celebrate a worthy name,

Takes up her trump to give the just applause;
 How have you, puppy-like, paw'd, wish'd, and whin'd,
 And growl'd, and curs'd, and swore, and pin'd,
 And long'd to tear the trumpet from her jaws!
 The dogs deserv'd their kicking, to be sure;
 But you! O fie, boys! go and sin no more.

O D E XIII.

The compassionate PETER lamenteth the death of Mr. HONE, an R. A.—Recommendeth him to OBLIVION, the great Patron of a number of geniuses.

THERE's one R. A. more dead! stiff is poor
 HONE!

His works be with him under the same stone:

I think the sacred art will not bemoan 'em;

But, Muse!—De mortuis nil nisi bonum,

As to his host a trav'ler, with a sneer,

Said of his dead small beer.

Go then, poor HONE! and join a numerous train

Sunk in OBLIVION's wide pacific ocean;

And may its whale-like stomach feel no motion

To cast thee, like a JONAH, up again!

O D E XIV.

The Poet exhibiteth the inconstancy of the world, by a most elegant comparifon of a flock of ftarlings.

YOUNG artifts, it may fo fall out,
That folks fhall make a grievous rout;
Follow you—praise your painting to the fkies;
When, probably, a ribband, (fie upon it!)
A feather, or a tawdry bonnet,
Caught, by its glare, their wonder-fpying eyes.
Therefore, don't thence fuppofe that ye inherit
Mountains of unexampled merit;
That always ye fhall be purfu'd,
And like a wond'rous beauty woo'd.

Great is the world's inconstancy, God knows!—
Fame, like the ocean, ebbs, as well as flows;
Next year the million pitches on a ruff,
A balloon cap, a fawl, a muff;
For you, no longer cares a fingle ruff,
Following some other brother of the brush.

To raife to noble flights the Mufe's wing,
A fmile's a very pretty thing;
To whose fweet aid I'm oft a humble debtor,
T'illustrate with more force the thing I mean;
And if the fmile be neat and clean,
Tant mieux—that is—fo much the better.

Therefore, young folks, as there's a great deal in't,
Accept one juft imported from the mint.

You've

You've seen a flock of starlings, to be sure,
 A hundred thousand in a mess or more;
 Who fortunately having found
 A lump of horse-litter upon the ground,
 Down drops the chattering cloud upon the dung;
 Then, Lord, what doings! Heav'ns, what admiration!
 What joy, what transport 'midst the speckled nation!
 How busy ev'ry beak, and ev'ry tongue!
 All talking, gabbling, but none list'ning,
 Let but a cowdab show its grass-green face,
 They're up, without so much as saying grace;
 And lo! the busy flock around it pitches;
 Just as upon the lump before,
 They gabble, wonder, and adore!
 And equal brother MARTYN's * speeches.
 These starlings show the world, with great propriety,
 Mad as March hares, or curlews for VARIETY.

O D E XV.

The great PETER despiseth Frenchmen.

I BEG it as a favour, my young folks,
 Ye will not copy, monkey-like, the French,
 Whose pictures, justly, are all standing jokes,
 Whether they represent a man or wench.
 If Monsieur paints a man of fashion,
 Making an obeisance well bred,

The

* A much-admired speaker in the House of Commons, who
nem. con. was baptized the Starling MARTYN.

The gentleman's a ram-cat in a passion,

His back all crumpled o'er his head:

Or, if he paints a wretch upon the wheel,

And bone breaking's no trifling thing, G-d knows!

Amidst his pains the fellow's so genteel!

He feels with such decorum all the blows!

Or if a culprit's going to the devil,

Which some folks also deem a serious evil,

So dégagé you see the man advance!

His arms, hands, shoulders, turn'd-out toes,

Madona-lifted eyes, and cock'd-up nose,

Proclaim the pretty puppy in a dance.

I've seen a sleeping VENUS, I declare,

With hands and legs stretch'd out with such an air!

Her neck and head so twisted on one shoulder,

With such a beav'nly smile, that each beholder

Would swear (disdaining DANCING's vulgar track)

The Dame was walking minuets on her back!

E'en an old woman yielding up her breath

By means of cholic, stone, or gravel,

How smirkingly she feels the pangs of death!

With what a grace her soul prepares to travel!

A Frenchman's angel is an OPERA PUNK;

His Virgin Marys, milliners half drunk;

Our blest Redeemer, a rank petit-mâitre,

In every attitude and feature;

The humble Joseph, so genteelly made,

Poor gentleman—as if above his trade,

And only fit to compliment his wife—

So delicate! as if he scarcely knew

Oak from deal board—a gimlet from a screw,

And never made a MOUSE-TRAP in his life.

Think

their most

Think not I wantonly the French attack—
 I never will put MERIT on the rack :
 No!—yet, I own, I hate the shrugging dogs—
 I've liv'd amongst them, eat their frogs,
 And vomited them up, thank God, again ;
 So that I'm able now to say,
 I carried nought of theirs away,
 Which otherwise had made the puppies vain.

O D E XVI.

The conceited PETER turneth an arrant egotist—Mentioneth a number of fine folks—This minute condemneth WILL WHITEHEAD'S verses ; and the next, exculpateth the Laureat, by clapping the right saddle on the right horse.

NO giant more rejoiceth in his course,
 Not COUNT O'KELLY in a winning horse ;
 Not MISTRESS HOBART * to preserve a box,
 Not GEORGE the THIRD to triumph o'er CHARLES
 FOX ;
 Not Spain's wise Monarch to bombard Algiers—
 Not pillories, obeying LAW's stern voice,
 Can more rejoice
 To hold KITT ATKINSON's two ears ;

VOL. I.

H

Not

* The contest between Mrs. Hobart and Lady Salisbury, with their seconds, about a box at the Opera, is a SUBJECT for the most sublime Epic !

Not more rejoiceth patriotic PITT,
 By patriotic grocers to be fed;
 Not Mother WINDSOR* in a nice young Tit,
 Nor gaping Deans, to catch a Bishop dead;
 Not more reform'd JOHN WILKES, to court the Crown,

Nor SKINNER in his Aldermanic gown,
 Nor Common-Councilmen on turtle feeding;
 Not more rejoice old envious maids, so stale,
 To hear of weeping Beauty a sad tale,
 And tell the world a reigning toast is breeding—
 Than I, the Poet, in a lucky Ode,
 That catches at a hop the Cynic face,
 Kills by a laugh its grave bubonic grace,
 And tears, in spite of him, his jaws abroad.

And are there such grave Dons that read my rhymes?
 All gracious Heav'n forgive their crimes!

Oh! be their lot to have wife-talking wives;

And if in reading they delight,

To read, ye Gods! from morn to night,

WILL WHITEHEAD'S † Birth-day Sonnets all their lives.

P'rhaps, reader, thou'rt a tinket, or a tanner,
 And mendest kettles in a pretty manner;

Or

* A priestess of the Cyprian Goddess.

† This Ode was written before a late Laureat resigned his earthly crown for a heavenly one. May Mr. TOM WARTON be more successful in his courtly adulations, and not verify the Latin adage—Ex nihilo nihil fit; which is thus elegantly translated, 'There is no making a velvet purse of a sow's ear.'

Or tannest hides of bulls, and cows, and calves:
 But if the saucepan or the kettle
 Originally be bad metal,
 Thou'lt say, "It only can be done by halves;"
 Or if by nature bad the bullocks' skins,
 "They'll make vile shoes and boots for people's skins."

Then wherefore do I thus abuse
 WILL WHITEHEAD's hard-driv'n Muse?
 Who merits rather PITY's tend'rest sigh:
 For what the Devil can he do,
 When forc'd to praise—the Lord knows who!
 Verse must be dull on subjects so damn'd dry.

O D E XVII.

The classic PETER adviseth Painters to cultivate taste—Lasheth some of the ignorant—Accuseth Painters of an affection for vulgarity, whom he horsewhippeth—Recommendeth a charming subject—Telleth the secret of his love, and giveth a die-away sonnet of former days—Persecuteth TENIERS' devils, but applaudeth the execution.

PAINTERS, improve your education;
 That surely stands in need of reformation.
 I've heard that some can neither write nor read,
 Which does no honour to the hand or head.
 Many, I know, would rather paint a bear,
 Or monkey playing his quaint tricks,
 Than some sweet damsel, whom all hearts revere,
 Whose charms the eye of admiration fix—

Would rather see a stump with strength exprest,
 Than all the snowy fulness of her breast;
 Or lip, that Innocence so sweetly moves;
 Or smile, the fond Elysium of the Loves.
 This brings those days to mem'ry, when my tongue
 To CYNTHIA's beauty pour'd my soul in song;
 When, on the margin of the murm'ring stream,
 My fancy frequent form'd the golden dream
 Of CYNTHIA's grace—of CYNTHIA's smiles divine,
 And made those smiles and peerless beauty mine.

It brings to mem'ry, too, those dismal times,
 When nought my sighs avail'd, and nought my rhymes;

When at the silent, solemn close of day,

My pensive steps would court the darkling grove,
 To hear, in Philomela's lonely lay,

The fainting echoes of my luckless love;
 Till night's increasing shades around me stole,
 And mingled with the gloom that wrapp'd my soul.

Reader—Dost choose a sonnet of those days?
 Take it; and say not I'm a foe to PRAISE.

TO CYNTHIA.

O THOU! whose love-inspiring air
 Delights, yet gives a thousand woes;
 My day declines in dark despair,
 And night hath lost her sweet repose.

Yet

Yet who, alas! like me was blest,
To others e'er thy charms were known;
When Fancy told my raptur'd breast,
That Cynthia smil'd on me alone?

Nymph of my soul! forgive my sighs:
Forgive the jealous fires I feel;
Nor blame the trembling wretch, who dies,
When others to thy beauties kneel.

Lo! theirs is every winning art,
With Fortune's gifts, unknown to me!
I only boast a simple heart,
In love with INNOCENCE and THEE.

Build not, alas! your popularity
On that beast's back yclep'd Vulgarity;
A beast that many a booby takes a pride in;
A beast beneath the noble PETER's riding.

How should the man with appetite unchaste,
Stuffing on carrion dread, his hound-like paunch,
Judge of an ortolan's delicious taste,
Or feel the flavour of a dainty haunch?
Or, wont with bitter purl to wet his clay,
How should he judge of Claret or Tokay?

TENIERS' devils, witches, monkeys, toads,
That make me shudder whilst I pen these Odes,
Most truly painted, to be sure you'll find:
How greater far the excellence to paint
With heaven-directed eye, the charming SAINT,
And mark th' emotions of her angel-mind!

Envy

Envy not such as have in dirt surpass ye;
 'Tis very, very easy to be nasty!

O D E XVIII.

The moralizing Bard exposeth the unfairness of mankind in the article of laughing—Descanteth upon wit—Disclaimeth pretension to it—Maketh love to Candour, and modestly concludeth.

HOW dearly mortals love to laugh and grin!
 Just as they love to stuff themselves to chin
 With other people's meat—good saving sense!
 Because at other folks' expence;
 But turn to laugh on them—how chang'd their notes!

“O damn 'em! this is serious—cut their throats!”
 WIT, says an author that I do not know,
 Is like TIME's scythe—cuts down both friend and foe;

Ready each object; tyger-like, to leap on!

“Lord! what a butcher this same WIT! thank God!

“ (A critic cries) in Master PINDAR's Ode,
 “We spy th' effect of no such dangerous wea“pon.”

No, Sir—'tis dove-ey'd CANDOUR's charms
 I woo to these desiring arms;

She

She is my Goddess; to her shrine I bend:
 NYMPH of the voice that beats the morning lark,
 Sweet as the dulcet note of either PARK*,
 Be thou my soft companion and my friend.

Thy lovely hand my Pegasus shall guide,
 And teach thy modest pupil how to ride:
 Thus shall I hurt not any group composers,
 From SARAH BENWELL's brush, to MARY MOZER's†.

O D E XIX.

The judicious PETER giveth most wholesome advice to landscape painters.

W HATE'ER your wish, in landscape to excel,
 London's the very place to mat it;
 Believe the oracles I tell,

There's very little landscape in a garret.
 Whate'er the flocks of fleas you keep,
 'Tis badly copying them for goats and sheep,
 And if you'll take the Poet's honest word,
 A bug must make a miserable bird.

A rush-light in a bottle's neck, or stick,
 Ill represents the glorious ORB of MORN;
 Nay, though it were a candle with a wick,
 'Twould be a representative forlorn.

I think,

* Two brothers of distinguished merit on the Oboe.

† The last of those Ladies, an R. A. by means of a sublime picture of a plate of GOOSEBERRIES—the other in hopes of Academic honours, through an equal degree of merit.

I think, too, that a man would be a fool,
For trees, to copy legs of a joint stool;

Or ev'n by them to represent a stump:
Also by broomsticks—which though well he rig
Each with an old fox-colour'd wig,

Must make a very poor autumnal clump.

You'll say, "Yet such ones oft a person sees
In many an artist's trees;

And, in some paintings, we have all beheld,
Green bays hath surely sat for a green field;
Bolsters for mountains, hills, and wheaten mows;
Cats, for ram-goats; and curs, for bulls and cows."

All this, my lads, I freely grant;
But better things from you, I want.

As SHAKSPEARE says, (a Bard I much approve)
"Lift, lift, Oh! lift," if thou dost PAINTING love.

CLAUDE painted in the open air!

Therefore to Wales at once repair,

Where scenes of true magnificence you'll find;
Besides this great advantage—if in debt,
You'll have with creditors no tête-à-tête:

So leave the bull-dog bailiffs all behind;
Who, hunt you with what noise they may,
Must hunt for needles in a stack of hay.

O D E XX.

The Poet hinteth to Artists the value of Time.

THE man condemn'd on Tyburn-tree to swing,
Deems such a show, a very dullish thing;
He'd rather a spectator be, I ween,
Than the sad actor in the scene.

He blames the LAW's too rigid resolution:
If with a beef-steak stomach—in his prime,
Lord, with what reverence he looks on Time!

And, most of all—the hour of execution!
And as the cart doth to the tree advance,
How wond'rous willing to postpone the Dance!

Believe me, Time's of monstrous use;
But, ah! how subject to abuse!
It seems that with him, folks were often clay'd:
I do pronounce it, Time's a public good,
Just like a youthful Beauty—to be wood'd,
Made much of, and be properly enjoy'd.

Time's sand is wonderfully small;
It slips between the fingers in a hurry:
Therefore, on each young artist let me call,
To prize it as an Indian does his Curry;
Whether his next rare Exhibition be
Amidst the great R. A.'s—or on a Tree.

* An universal food in the East-Indies.

O D E XXI.

The unfortunate PETER lamenteth the loss of an important
Ode, by rats—He prayeth devoutly for the rats.

HIATUS maxime defendus!

I've lost an ODE of charming praise;
From like misfortune, Heav'n defend us

The sweetest of my Lyric lays!
Where many a youthful artist shone with fame,
Like his own pictures in a fine gilt frame.

Perdition catch the roguish rats!
Their trembling limbs shall fill the maws of cats,
Were I to be their sole adviser:

Vermin! like trunk-makers, kings, pastry-cooks,
Dealing in legions of delightful books,
Yet, with the learning, not a whit the wiser.
Thank G—d! the Ode unto MYSELF they spar'd;
And, lo! the labour of the lucky Bard.

O D E XXII.

TO MYSELF.

The exalted PETER wistheth to make the gaping world acquainted with the place of his nativity; but before he can get an answer from himself, he most sublimely bursteth forth into an address to Mevagizzy and Mousehole, two fishing towns in Cornwall—The first celebrated for pilchards, the last for giving birth to DOLLY PENTREATH—The Poet praiseth the Honourable DAINES BARRINGTON, and pilchards—Forgetteth the place of his nativity; and, like his great ancestor of Thebes, leaveth his readers in the dark.

O THOU! whose daring works sublime
Defy the rudest rage of TIME,
Say!—for the world is with conjecture dizzy,
Did Mousehole give thee birth, or Mevagizzy?

HAIL, Mevagizzy! with such wonders fraught!
Where boats, and men, and stinks, and trade, are stirring;
Where pilchards come in myriads to be caught;
Pilchard! a thousand times as good as herring.
Pilchard! the idol of the Popish nation!
Hail, little instrument of vast salvation!
Pilchard, I ween, a most soul-saving fish,
On which the Catholics in Lent are cramm'd;
Who, had they not, poor souls, this lucky dish,
Would feed on flesh, and therefore all be damn'd.
Pilchards!

Pilchards! whose bodies yield the fragrant oil,
 And make the London-lamps at midnight smile;
 Which lamps, wide spreading salutary light,
 Beam on the wandering BEAUTIES of the night,
 And show each gentle youth their cheeks' deep roses,
 And tell him whether they have eyes and noses.

Hail, Moufehole! birth-place of old DOLL PENT-REATH,*

The last who jabber'd Cornish—so says DAINES,
 Who, bat-like, haunted ruins, lane, and heath,

With Will-o'-Wisp, to brighten up his brains.
 DAINES! who a thousand miles, unwearied, trots
 For bones, brags farthings, ashes, and old pots:

Ransacks the mouldy mansions of the dead,

To prove that men in days of yore,

Eyes, ears, and noses, like us Moderns, wore;
 And travell'd just like us too, with a head!

* A very old woman of Moufehole, supposed (falsely however) to have been the last who spoke the Cornish language. The Honourable antiquarian, DAINES BARRINGTON, Esq. journeyed some years since, from London to the Land's-end, to converse with this wrinkled, yet delicious morceau. He entered Moufehole in a kind of triumph; and, peeping into her hut, exclaimed, with all the fire of an enraptured lover, in the language of the famous Greek Philosopher—"EUREKA!" The couple kissed; DOLL soon after gabbled; DAINES listened with admiration; committed her speeches to paper, not venturing to trust his memory with so much treasure. The transaction was announced to the Society; the Journals were enriched with their dialogues; the old Lady's picture was ordered to be taken by the most eminent artist, and the Honourable Member to be publicly thanked for the DISCOVERY!

O D E XXIII.

PETER concludeth his Odes—Seemeth hungry—Expostulateth with the Reader.

TOM Southern to John Dryden went one day,
To buy a head and tail piece for his play :

“ Thomas,” quoth John, “ I’ve sold my goods too “ cheap ;

“ So, if you please, my price shall take a leap.”

O, Reader, look me gravely in the face ;

Speak, is not that with me and thee the case ?

For this Year’s Odes I charge thee half-a-crown ;

So, without grumbling, put thy money down ;

For things are desperately ris’n, good Lord !

Fish, flesh, coals, candles, window-lights, and board.

Why should not charming Poetry then rise,

That comes so dev’lish far too—from the skies ?

And lo ! the verses that adorn this page,

Beam, comet-like, alas ! but once an age.

I have a great deal to say

FAREWELL ODES,

FOR

THE YEAR M,DCC,LXXXVI.

—RIDENTEM DICERE VERUM
QUID VETAT?— HORAT.

THE YEAR BOOKS

OF THE

FAREWELL ODES.

ODE I.

PETER talketh of resigning the Laureatship—He prophesieth the triumph of the Artists on his resignation—The Artists also prophecy to PETER's disadvantage—PETER's last comforts, should their prophecy be fulfilled.

PETER, like fam'd Christina, Queen of Sweden,
Who thought a wicked court was not an Eden,
This year, resigns the laurel crown for ever!

What all the fam'd ACADEMICIANS wish;
No more on painted fowl, and flesh, and fish,
He shows the world his carving skill so clever:
Brass, iron, woodwork, stone, in peace shall rest—
“Thank God!” exclaim the works of Mister WEST.

“Thank God!” the works of LOUTHERBOURG exclaim—

For guns of critics, no ignoble game—

“No longer now afraid of rhyming praters,

“Shall we be christen'd tea-boards, varnish'd waiters:

“No verse shall swear that ours are paste-board rocks,

“Our trees, brass wigs, and mops, our fleecy flocks.”

“Thank Heav’n!” exclaims RIGAUD, with spark-
 “ling eyes,
 “Then shall my pictures in importance rise,
 “And fill each gaping mouth and eye with won“der.”

Monfieur Rigaud,
 It may be so,

To think thy stars have made so strange a blunder,
 That bred to paint, the genius of a glazier;
 That spoil’d, to make a dauber, a good brazier.
 None but thy partial tongue (believe my lays)
 Can dare stand forth the herald of thy praise:
 Could FAME applaud, whose voice my verse re-
 veres,
 JUSTICE should break her trump about her ears.

“Thank Heav’n!” cries Mister GARVY; and “thank “God!”

Cries Mister COPLEY, “that this Man of Ode
 “No more, Barbarian-like, shall o’er us ride:
 “No more like beads, in nasty order strung,
 “And round the waist of this vile Mohawk hung,
 “Shall academic scalps indulge his pride.

“No more hung up in this dread fellow’s rhyme,
 “Which he most impudently calls sublime,
 “Shall we, poor, inoffensive souls,
 “Appear just like so many moles,
 “Trapp’d in an orchard, garden, or a field;
 “Which mole-catchers suspend on trees,
 “To shew their titles to their fees,
 “Like doctors, paid too often for the kill’d.”

Pleas’d

Pleas'd that no more my verses shall annoy ;
 Glad that my blister Odes shall cease their sting-
 ing ;

Each wooden figure's mouth expands with joy ;
 Hark ! how they all break forth in fingering !

In boastful sounds the grinning ARTISTS cry,
 " LO ! PETER's hour of insolence is o'er :

" His Muse is dead—his lyric pump is dry—

" His Odes, like stinking fish, not worth a groat
 " a score :

" Art thou, then, weak, like us, thou snarling sni-
 " v'ler ?

" Art thou like one of us, thou lyric driv'ler ?

" Our Kings and Queens in glory now shall lie,

" Each unmolested, sleeping in his frame ;

" Our ponds, our lakes, our oceans, earth, and sky,

" No longer, scouted, shall be put to shame :

" No poet's rage shall root our stumps and stump-
 " lings,

" And swear our clouds are flying apple-dumplings :

" Fame shall proclaim how well our plum-trees bud,

" And sound the merits of our marle and mud.

" Our oaks, our brushwood, and our lofty elms,

" No jingling tyrant's wicked rage o'erwhelms,

" Now this vile FELLER is laid low :

" In peace shall our stone hedges sleep,

" Our huts, our barns, our pigs, and sheep,

" And wild fowl, from the eagle to the crow."

" They who shall see this PETER in the street,

" With fearless eye his front shall meet,

- “ And cry, ‘ Is this the man of keen remark?
 “ Is this the blade,’ shall be their taunting speech—
 “ A dog! who dar’d to snap each artist’s breech, “ Nay, bite Academicians like a shark?
 “ He whose broad cleaver chopp’d the sons of paint,
 “ Crush’d like a marrowbone each lovely faint;
 “ Spar’d not the very clothes about their backs;
 “ The little duck-wing’d cherubims abus’d,
 “ Poor lambkins! had they fall’n among the “ BLACKS;
 “ He, once so furious, soon shall want relief,
 “ Stak’d through the body, like a paltry thief.
 “ How art thou fall’n, O Cherokee!” they cry;
 “ How art thou fall’n! the joyful roofs resound;
 “ Hell shall thy body, for a rogue, surround;
 “ And there, for ever roasting, mayst thou lie!
 “ Like Dives, mayst thou stretch in fires along,
 “ Refus’d one drop of beer to cool thy tongue!”

Ye godly gentlemen, repress your yell,
 Your hearty wishes for my soul restrain;
 For if our works can put us into hell,
 Kind Sirs! we certainly shall meet again.

O D E II.

A most pleasant history of the Academic Dinner—PETER pieth the PRINCE of WALES, Duke of ORLEANS, Duke FITZJAMES, Count LAUZUN, Lords CAERMARTHEN and BESBOROUGH, &c. and praises Mr. WELTJIE—Exculpate the PRESIDENT—Condemneth Sir W. CHAMBERS and the COMMITTEE for their bad management—PETER talketh of visiting the French KING and the Duke of ORLEANS.

W HENE'ER ACADEMICIANS run astray,
Such should the moral PETER's song reclaim:
 Of paint, this Ode shall nothing sing or say;
 My eagle satire darts at diff'rent game;
 Against decorum, I abhor a sinner;
 And therefore lash the Academic dinner.

Th' ACADEMY, though marvellously poor,
 Can once a year afford to eat:
 By means of kind donations at the door,
 The members made a comfortable treat;
 Like gipsies in a barn, around their king,
 That annual meet, to eat, and dance, and sing.
 A feast was made of flesh, fish, tarts, creams, jellies,
 To suit the various qualities of bellies:
Mine grumbled to be ask'd, and be delighted;
 But wicked PETER's paunch was not invited.

Yet though no message waited on the BARD,
 With compliments from Academic names,
 The PRINCE of WALES receiv'd a civil card,
 His Grace of ORLEANS too, and Duke FITZ-
 JAMES;

Count

Count de LAUZUN, and Count CONFLAN,
 A near relation to the man
 In whose poor sides old HAWKE once fix'd his claws,
 Were welcom'd by the ACADEMIC LORDS,
 Either by writing or by words,
 To come and try the vigour of their jaws.

Unfortunately for the modest DUKES,
 The nimble artists, all with greyhound looks,
 Fell on the meat, with teeth prodigious able ;
 Seiz'd, of the Synagogue, the highest places,
 And left the poor forlorn, their GALLIC GRACES,
 To nibble at the bottom of the table !

There sat, too, the sweet simpering Lord CARMAR-
 THEN,

As one of the Canaille, not worth a farthing !
 But what can titles, virtues, at a feast,
 Where glory waits upon the greatest beast ?

To see a stone-cutter and mason
 High mounted o'er fine men of quality,
 By no means can our annals blazon
 For feats of courtly hospitality.

I've heard, however, one or two were tanners :
 Granted—it doth not much improve their manners.

They probably, in answer, may declare,
 They thought the feast just like a hunt ;
 In which, as soon as ever starts the hare,
 Each Nimrod tries to be the first upon't :
 As he's the greatest, 'midst the howling fufs,
 Who first can triumph o'er poor dying PUSS.

PETERS * most justly rais'd his eyes of wonder,
 And wanted decently to give them grace ;
 But bent on ven'son and on turbot-plunder,
 A clattering peal of knives and forks took place :
 Spoons, plates, and dishes, rattling round the table,
 Produc'd a new edition of old Babel.

They had no stomach, o'er a grace, to nod,
 Nor time enough to offer thanks to GOD :
That might be done, they wisely knew,
 When they had nothing else to do.

HIS HIGHNESS entering somewhat rather late,
 Could scarcely find a knife, or fork, or plate :
 But not one single maiden dish,
 Poor gentleman ! of flesh or fish.

Most woefully the pastry had been paw'd,
 And trembling jellies barbarously claw'd :
 In short, my gentle readers to amaze,
 HIS HIGHNESS pick'd the bones of the R. A.'s.

O WELTJIE †, had thy lofty form been there,
 And seen thy PRINCE so serv'd with scrap and slop,
 Thou surely wouldst have brought him better fare—
 A warm beef-steak, perchance, or mutton chop.

Thou wouldst have said, “ De PRINCE of WALES,
by Got,

“ Do too muss honour to be to der feast ;

“ Vere he can't heb von beet of meat dat's hot ;

“ But treated wid de bones shust like a beast.

“ De

* A clergyman, and one of the Academicians.

† The Prince's German cook.

" De PRINCE, he was too great to sheet and eat
 " De bones and leafings of de meat ;
 " And munsh vat dirty low-lif'd rogues refuse,
 " By Got! not fit to vipe de PRINCE's shoes."

Great BESBOROUGH's Earl, too, came off second best ;
 His murmuring stomach had not half a feast ;

And therefore it was natural to mutter :
 To rectify the fault, with joyless looks,
 His lordship bore his belly off to BROOKES,
 To fill the grumbler up with bread and butter.

Sirs! those manœuvres were extremely coarse ;
 This really was the essence of ill breeding :
 Not for your souls could you have treated worse,
 Bum-bailiffs, by this dog-like mode of feeding.

Grant, you eclips'd a pack of hounds, with glee
 Pursuing, in full cry, the fainting game ;
 Surpass'd them, too, in gobbling down the prey ;
 Still, great R. A.'s, I tell you, 'twas a shame :

Grant, each of you the wond'rous man excell'd,
 Who beat a butcher's dog in eating tripe ;
 And that each paunch with guttling was so swell'd,
 Not one bit more could pass your swallow-pipe :

Grant, that you dar'd such stuffing feats display,
 That not a soul of you could walk away :
 Still, 'midst the triumphs of your gobbling fame,
 I tell you, great R. A.'s, it was a shame.

Grant, you were greas'd up to the nose and eyes,
 Your cheeks all shining like a lantern's horn,
 With tearing hams, and fowls, and gibblet pies,
 And ducks, and geese, and pigeons newly born :
 Though

Though great, in your opinion, be your fame,
I tell you, great R. A.'s, it was a shame.

This, let me own—the candour-loving Muse
Most willingly Sir JOSHUA can excuse,

Who tries the nation's glory to increase;
Whose genius rare is very seldom nodding,
But deep on painting subjects plodding,
To rival Italy and Greece.

But pray, Sir WILLIAM *, what have you to say?
No such impediment is in your way;

Genius can't hurt your etiquette attention;
And Messieurs TYLER, WILTON, and RICAUD,
Have you a genius to impede you?—No!

Nor many a one besides that I could mention.

This year (God willing) I shall visit France,
And taste of LOUIS, Grand Monarque! the prog:
His Grace of ORLEANS, so kind, perchance,
May ask me to his house to pick a frog:
And yet, what right have I to visit there?
Who see a Prince so vilely treated here.

Ye Royal Artists, at your future feasts,
I fear you'll make their GRACES downright Daniels:
And as the PROPHEET din'd amongst wild beasts,
The DUKES may join your pointers and your spaniels.

* Sir W. Chambers.

O D E III.

PETER giveth sage advice to mercenary artists, and telleth a most delectable story of a country bumpkin and a peripatetic razor-seller.

FORBEAR, my friends, to sacrifice your fame
To sordid gain, unless that you are starving:
I own that hunger will indulgence claim

For hard stone heads and landscape carving,
In order to make haste to sell and eat;
For there is certainly a charm in meat:
And in rebellious tones will stomachs speak,
That have not tasted victuals for a week.

But yet there are a mercenary crew,
Who value fame no more than an old shoe;
Provided for their daubs they get a sale;
Just like the man—but stay—I'll tell the tale.

A fellow in a market town,
Most musical, cry'd razors up and down,
And offer'd twelve for eighteen-pence;
Which certainly seem'd wond'rous cheap,
And for the money, quite a heap,
As ev'ry man would buy, with cash and sense.

A country Bumpkin the great offer heard:
Poor Hodge, who suffer'd by a broad black beard,
That seem'd a shoe-brush stuck beneath his nose:
With cheerfulness the eighteen-pence he paid,
And proudly to himself, in whispers, said,
“ This rascal stole the razors, I suppose.”

“ No

" No matter if the fellow be a knave,

" Provided that the razors shave;

" It certainly will be a monstrous prize."

So home the clown, with his good fortune, went,
Smiling in heart and foul content,

And quickly soap'd himself to ears and eyes.

Being well lather'd from a dish or tub,
Hodge now began with grinning pain to grub,
Just like a hedger cutting furze:

'Twas a vile razor!—then the rest he try'd—

All were impostors—" Ah!" Hodge sigh'd,

" I wish my eighteen pence within my purse."

In vain to chafe his beard, and bring the Graces,

He cut, and dug, and winc'd, and stamp'd and swore;
Brought blood, and danc'd, blasphem'd, and made
wry faces,

And curs'd each razor's body o'er and o'er.

His muzzle, form'd of opposition stuff,

Firm as a Foxite, would not lose its ruff;

So kept it—laughing at the steel and suds:

Hodge, in a passion, stretch'd his angry jaws,

Vowing the direst vengeance, with clench'd claws,

On the vile CHEAT that sold the goods.

" Razors! a damn'd, confounded dog,

" Not fit to scrape a hog!"

Hodge fought the fellow—found him, and begun:

" P'rhaps, Master Razor-rogue, to you 'tis fun,

" That people flay themselves out of their lives:

" You rascal! for an hour have I been grubbing,

" Giving my crying whiskers here a scrubbing,

" With razors just like oyster-knives.

" Sirrah!

- “ Sirrah ! I tell you, you’re a knave,
 “ To cry up razors that can’t shave.”
 “ Friend,” quoth the razor-man, “ I’m not a knave:
 “ As for the razors you have bought,
 “ Upon my soul I never thought
 “ That they would shave.”
 “ Not think they’d shave !” quoth Hodge, with wond’ring eyes,
 And voice not much unlike an Indian yell ;
 “ What were they made for then, you dog ?” he cries.
 “ Made !” quoth the fellow, with a smile—“ to sell.”

ODE IV.

PETER observeth the Lex Talionis.

WEST tells the world that PETER cannot rhime :
 PETER declares point blank that WEST can’t paint.
 WEST swears I’ve not an atom of sublime :
 I swear he hath no notion of a saint ;
 And that his cross-wing’d cherubims are fowls,
 Baptiz’d by naturalists, owls ;
 Half of the meek apostles, gangs of robbers ;
 His angels, sets of brazen-headed lubbers.
 The Holy Scripture says, “ All flesh is grass ;”—
 With Mister WEST, all flesh is brick and brass,
 Except his horse-flesh, that, I fairly own,
 Is chiefly of the choicest Portland stone.

I’ve

I've said, too, that this artist's faces
Ne'er paid a visit to the GRACES:

That on Expression, he can never brag:
Yet for this article hath he been studying;
But in it, never could surpass a pudding—
No, gentle reader, nor a pudding bag.

I dare not say that Mister WEST

Cannot found criticism impart:

I'm told the man with technicals is blest,

That he can talk a deal upon the art:
Yes, he can talk, I do not doubt it—
“About it, goddess, and about it!”

Thus, then, is Mister WEST deserving praise;
And let my justice the fair laud afford;
For, lo! this far-fam'd artist cuts both ways,
Exactly like the Angel GABRIEL's sword:

The beauties of the art, his converse shows;
His canvas, almost ev'ry thing that's bad!
Thus at th' Academy, we must suppose,
A man more useful never could be had;
Who in himself, a host, so much can do;
Who is both precept and example too.

O D E V.

Great advice is given to gentlemen authors—To Mr. WEBB and Mr. H. WALPOLE particularly—PETER sheweth wonderful knowledge in the art of painting—Animadverteth on the SQUIRE of STRAWBERRY HILL.

ASTRONOMERS should treat of stars and comets;

Doctors, of affasætida and vomits,
And apoplexies, those light troops of Death,
That use no ceremony with our breath;
Ague and dropfy, jaundice and catarrh,
The grim-look tyrant's heavy horse of war.

Farriers should write on farcys and the glanders;
Bug-doctors, only upon bed-disorders;
Farmers, on land, ploughs, pigs, ducks, geese and ganders;

Nightmen alone, on aromatic ordures.

The artists should on painting solely write;
Like David, then they may "good things indite."
But when the mob of gentlemen
Desert their province, and take up the pen,
The Lord have mercy on the art!

Their crow-quills can no light impart.
This verse be thine, Squire Webb *—it is thy due:
And Mister HORACE WALPOLE †, what think you?

HORACE,

* Author of a Treatise on Painting, who seems to display a greater parade of erudition than real knowledge in the art.

† A gentleman once respected in the literary world; an amateur, but by no means a connoisseur in painting, and a wholesale dealer in

HORACE, thou hast some trifling taste and sense;
Then don't, of folly, be at such expence;

Do

in flummery to PEOPLE OF WORSHIP. When Mr. H. Walpole penned his flattering advertisement †, he should have considered that the province of an historian is impartial truth. Let us see how he has acquitted himself—"Posterity (writeth Mr. W.) appreciates impartially the works of the dead. To posterity he leaves the continuation of these volumes; and recommends to the lovers of arts the industry of Mr. Vertue, who preserved notices of all his contemporaries, as he had collected of past ages, and thence gave birth to this work. In that supplement will not be forgotten the wonderful progress, in miniature, of Lady Lucan, who has arrived at copying the most exquisite works of Isaac and Peter Oliver, Hoskins and Cooper, with a genius that almost depreciates those masters, when we consider that they spent their lives in attaining perfection; and who, soaring above their modest timidity, has transferred the vigour of Raphael to her copies in water-colours. There will be recorded the living etchings of Mr. H. Bunbury, the second Hogarth, the first imitator who ever fully equalled his original; and who, like Hogarth, has more humour when he invents, than when he illustrates—probably because genius can draw from the sources of nature with more spirit than from the ideas of another. Has any painter ever executed a scene, a character of Shakespeare, that approached to the prototype so near as Shakespeare himself attained to nature? Yet is there a pencil in a living hand as capable of pronouncing the passions as our unequalled poet; a pencil not only inspired by his insight into nature, but by the graces and taste of Grecian artists. But it is not fair to excite the curiosity of the public, when both the rank and bashful merit of the possessor, and a too rare exertion of superior talents, confine the proofs to a narrow circle. Whoever has seen the drawings, and bas-reliefs, designed and executed by Lady Diana Beauclerc, is sensible that these imperfect encomiums are far " short

† Vide Anecdotes of Painting, Vol. IV. Page xi.

Do not to Lady LUCAN * pay such court ;
Her better knowledge will not thank thee for't.

Ah!

" short of the excellence of her works. Her portrait of the " Duchess of Devonshire, in several hands, confirms the truth
" of part of these assertions. The nymph-like simplicity of " the figure is equal to what a Grecian statuary would have " formed for a dryad or goddess of a river. Bartolozzi's print
" of her two daughters after the drawing of the same lady, is " another specimen of her singular genius and taste. The gay
" and sportive innocence of the younger daughter, and the " demure application of the elder, are as characteristically con-
" trasted as Milton's Allegro and Penseroso. A third female
" genius is Mrs. Damer, daughter of General Conway, in a
" walk more difficult and far more uncommon than painting.
" The annals of statuary record few artists of the fair sex, and " not one that I recollect of any celebrity. Mrs. Damer's busts
" from the life are not inferior to the antique ; and theirs, we are " sure, were not more like. Her shock dog, large as life, and " only not alive, has a looseness and softness in the curls that " seemed impossible to terra-cotta : it rivals the marble one of " Bernini in the royal collection. As the ancients have left us
" but five animals of equal merit with their human figures,
" namely, the Barberini goat, the Tuscan boar, the Mattei
" eagle, the eagle of Strawberry Hill, and Mr. Jennings's, now
" Mr. Duncombe's, dog, the talent of Mrs. Damer must appear " in the most distinguished light. Aided by some instructions
" from that masterly statuary Mr. Bacon, she has attempted and " executed a bust in marble. Ceracchi, from whom first she " received four or five lessons, has given a whole figure of her
" as the Muse of sculpture, in which he has happily preserved
" the graceful lightness of her form and air."—Such is the praise !
and such the objects of it !

But we have another crow to pull with Mr. W. (I beg his pardon, the EARL OF ORFORD) before we part. Speaking of VANDYKE's marriage to a daughter of LORD GOWRY, he thus expresses

* A lady of some ingenuity in the miniature department.

Ah! don't endeavour thus to dupe her,
By swearing that she equals COOPER*.

So gross the flattery, faith! it seems to show
That verily thou dost not know.

The pow'rs requir'd for copying a picture,
And those for copying Dame Nature,
Alas! a much more arduous matter!

So don't expose thyself, but mind my stricture.

Thou'lt say it was mere compliment;
That nothing else was thy intent,

Although it might disgrace a boy at school:

I grant the fact, and think that no man
Says or writes fillier things to woman;

But still 'tis making each of you a fool.

Yet, HORACE, think not that I write

Through spite; very grievous green

Think not I read thy works with jealous pain;
Lord, no! although no favourite with me,

expresses himself: "Towards the end of his (VANDYKE's) life,
" the King bestowed on him for a wife, MARY, the daughter
" of the unfortunate Lord GOWRY, which, if meant as a " signal honour, might be calculated too to depress the disgraced
" family, by connecting them with the blood of a painter."

Such is the liberal spirit of the historian of Strawberry Hill!
such is the reflexion from the pen of a man who pretends to almost an adoration for the Michael Angelos, the Raphaelles, the Corregios, the Titians, the Reynoldses: a reflexion that dares mention the vanity of title, and the DIVINITY of GENIUS, in the same sentence; the trumpery present of Kings, and the greatest gift of the ALMIGHTY!

* A famous miniature-painter in the time of Cromwell.

Thou mayst be something of a bel esprit :

Let me not damn the windmill of thy brain ;
It is a pretty and ingenious mill,
Just fit to grind for folk round Strawb'rry Hill !

O D E VI.

PETER still continueth to give great advice, and to exhibit deep reflection.—He telleth a miraculous story.

THERE is a knack in doing many a thing,
Which labour cannot to perfection bring :

Therefore, however great in your own eyes,
Pray do not hints from other folks, despise:

A fool on something great, at times, may stumble,
And consequently be a good adviser :

On which, for ever, your wise men may fumble,
And never be a whit the wiser.

Yes ! I advise you, for there's wisdom in't,
Never to rise superior to a hint :

The genius of each man, with keenness view ;

A spark, from this or that man, caught,
May kindle, quick as thought,

A glorious bonfire up, in you.

A question of you, let me beg—

Of fam'd Columbus and his egg,

Pray, have you heard?—" Yes."—Oh, then if you
please,

I'll give you the two Pilgrims and the Peas.

THE PILGRIMS AND THE PEAS:

A TRUE STORY.

A BRACE of finners, for no good,
 Were order'd to the Virgin Mary's shrine,
 Who at Loretto dwelt in wax, stone, wood,
 And, in a curl'd white wig, look'd wond'rous fine.

Fifty long miles had those sad rogues to travel,
 With something in their shoes much worse than gravel;

In short, their toes, so gentle, to amuse,
 The priest had order'd peas into their shoes:

A nostrum famous in old Popish times
 For purifying souls that stunk with crimes;

A sort of apostolic salt,
 That Popish parsons for its powers exalt
 For keeping souls of finners sweet,
 Just as our kitchen salt keeps meat.

The knaves set off on the same day,
 Peas in their shoes, to go and pray;
 But very diff'rent was their speed, I wot:
 One of the finners gallop'd on,
 Light as a bullet from a gun;
 The other limp'd as if he had been shot.

ONE saw the VIRGIN soon—peccavi cry'd—
 Had his soul whitewash'd all so clever;
 Then home again he nimbly hied;
 Made fit, with saints above, to live for ever.

In coming back, however, let me say,
 He met his brother rogue, about half way;
 Hobbling with outstretch'd bum and bending knees;
 Damning the souls and bodies of the peas;
 His eyes in tears, his cheeks and brows in sweat,
 Deep sympathizing with his groaning feet.

"How now!" the light-toed, whitewash'd pilgrim broke—

"You lazy lubber!"—

"Ods curse it!" cried the other, "'tis no joke—

"My feet, once hard as any rock,

"Are now as soft as blubber.

"Excuse me, Virgin Mary, that I swear;

"As for Loretto, I shall not get there:

"No! to the Dev'l my sinful soul must go;

"For damme if I ha'n't lost ev'ry toe.

"But, brother finner, do explain

"How 'tis that you are not in pain;

"What Pow'r hath work'd a wonder for your
 "toes:

"Whilst I, just like a snail, am crawling,

"Now swearing, now on Saints devoutly bawling,

"Whilst not a rascal comes to ease my woes?

"How is't that you can like a greyhound go,

"Merry, as if that nought had happen'd, burn
 "ye!"

"Why," cry'd the other, grinning, "you must "know,

"That just before I ventur'd on my journey,

"To walk a little more at ease,

"I took the liberty to boil my peas."

O D E VII.

PETER grinneth deliciously at the blind idolatry of the present age for the ancient masters; and also at the illiberality of artists of the present day, towards each other.

YOUNG men, be cautious of each critic word
That, blasphemous, may much offence afford;

I mean, that wounds an ancient master's fame:
At Titian, Guido, Julio, Veronese,
Your length'ning phiz let admiration seize,
And throw up both your eyes at Raphael's name.

Ev'n by a print-shop should you chance to pass,
Adore their effigy inside the glass:

Just as, with Papists, the religious care is,
In churches, lanes, to bend their marrowbones
To bees-wax saints, bons-dieux of stones,

And beech, or deal, or wainscot Virgin Marys.

Whate'er their errors, they no more remain;
For TIME, like fullers' earth, takes out each stain;
Nay more—on faults that modern works would tar-
nish,

TIME spreads a sacred coat of varnish.

Spare not on brother artists' backs, the lash;
Put a good wire in't—let it lash;

Since ev'ry stroke with int'rest is repaid:
For, though ye cannot kill the man outright,
Yet, by this effort of your rival spite,

Fifty to one if ye don't spoil his trade.
His ruins may be feathers for your nest:—
The maxim's not amiss—probatum est.

O D E VIII.

The Poet inquireth into the state of the EXHIBITION—Lasheth
 Father TIME for making great geniuses, and destroying them—
 Praiseth REYNOLDS—Fancieth a very curious dialogue between King ALEXANDER and the Deer, the subject of Mr.
 WEST's picture—Turneth to Mr. WEST's Resurrection.

WELL, Muse! what is there in the Exhibition?
 How thrive the beauties of the graphic art?
 Whose racing genius seems in best condition
 For GLORY's plate to start?

Say what sly rogues old Fame cajole?
 Speak, who hath brib'd her trumpet, or who stole?
 For much is prais'd that ought in fires to mourn;
 Nay, what would ev'n disgrace a fire to burn.

What artist boasts a work sublime,
 That mocks the teeth of raging TIME?
 Old fool! who, after he hath form'd with pains
 A genius rare,
 To make folks stare,

Knocks out his brains:
 Like children, dolls creating with high brags;
 Then tearing all their handy-works to rags.

Lo! REYNOLDS shines with undiminish'd ray!
 Keeps, like the bird of Jove, his distant way:
 Yet, simple portrait strikes too oft our eyes;
 Whilst HIST'RY, anxious for his pencil, sighs.

We

We don't desire to see on canvas live,
The copy of a jowl of lead;
When for th' original we would not give
A small pin's head.

This year, of picture, Mister WEST
Is quite a Patagonian maker:
He knows that bulk is not a jest;
So gives us painting by the acre.

But ah! this ARTIST's brush can never brag
Upon KING ALEXANDER and the STAG;
For, as they play'd at loggerheads a rubber,
We surely ought to see a handsome battle
Between the MONARCH and the PIECE of CATTLE;
Whereas each keeps his distance, like a lubber.

His MAJESTY, upon his breech laid low,
Seems preaching to his horned foe;
Observing what a very wicked thing,
To hurt the sacred person of a KING:

And seems, about his business, to intreat him
To march, for fear the hounds should eat him,
The STAG appears to say, in plaintive note,

"I own, KING ALEXANDER, my offence:

"True! I've not show'd my loyalty, nor sense;

"So bid your huntsmen come and cut my throat."

The cavalry, adorn'd with fair stone bodies,
Seem on the dialogue with wonder staring;
And on their flinty backs, a set of noddies,
Not one brass farthing for their MASTER caring,

Behold!

Behold! one fellow lifts his mighty spear
 To save the owner of the Scottish crown;
 Which, harmless hanging o'er the gaping deer,
 Seems in no mighty hurry to come down.

Another, on a pegasus, comes flying!
 His phiz, his errand much belying;
 For if he means to baste the beast so cruel,
 God knows, 'tis with a face of water-gruel.

So then, sweet Muse, the picture boasts no merit—
 As flat as dish-water, or dead small-beer—
 Or, what the mark is tolerably near,
 As heads of aldermen, devoid of spirit.

Well then! turn round—view t'other side the room,
 And see his SAVIOUR mounting from the tomb:
 Is this piece, too, with painting fins so cramm'd,
 Born to increase the number of the damn'd?

My sentiments by no means I refuse—
 Was our REDEEMER like that wretched thing?
 I do not wonder that the cunning Jews
 Scorn'd to acknowledge him for KING!

O D E IX.

PETER moraliseth, and giveth good advice.

ENVY and JEALOUSY, that pair of devils,
 Stuff'd like PANDORA's box with wond'rous evils,
 I hate, abhor, abominate, detest:
 Like CIRCE, turning man into a beast.
 Beneath their cankering breath no bud can blow;
 Their black'ning pow'r resembles smut in corn,
 Which kills the rising ears that should adorn,
 And bid the vales with golden plenty glow.

Yet, fierce in yonder dome each demon reigns;
 Their poison swells too many an artist's veins;
 Draws from each labouring heart the fearful sigh,
 And casts a fullen gloom on ev'ry eye.

BRUSHMEN! accept the counsel PETER sends,
 Who scorns th' acquaintance of this brace of fiends:
 Should any, with uncommon talents, tow'r;
 To any, is superior science given;

Oh, let the weaker feel their happier pow'r,
 Like plants that triumph in the dews of Heav'n!
 Be pleas'd, like REYNOLDS, to direct the blind;
 Who aids the feeble fault'ring feet of youth;
 Unfolds the ample volume of his mind,
 With genius stor'd, and NATURE's simple truth:

Who, though a SUN, resembles not his brother;
 Whose beams so full of jealousy conspire,
 Whene'er admitted to the room, to smother
 The humble kitchen, or the parlour fire.

O D E X.

PETER speaketh figuratively—Accommodateth himself to vulgar readers—Lasheth pretenders to fame—Concludeth merrily.

A MODEST love of praise I do not blame;
But I abhor a rape on Mistress FAME.
Although the Lady is exceeding chaste,
Young forward bullies seize her round the waist;
Swear, nolens volens, that she shall be kiss'd;
And though she vows she does not like 'em,
Nay, threatens, for their impudence, to strike 'em,
The saucy rascals still persist.

Reader! of images, here's no confusion;
Thou therefore understand'st the Bard's allusion:
But possibly thou hast a thickish head;
And therefore no vast quantity of brain;
Why then, my precious FIG OF LEAD,
'Tis necessary to explain.

Some artists, if I so may call 'em,
So ignorant (the foul fiend maul 'em!)
Mere driv'lers in the charming art,
Are vastly fond of being prais'd;
Wish to the stars, like Blanchard, to be rais'd:
And rais'd they should be, reader—from a cart.

If disappointed in some STENTOR's tongue,
Upon themselves they pour forth prose or song;
Or buy it in some venal paper,
And then heroically vapour.

What

What prigs to immortality aspire,
 Who stick their trash around the room!
 Trash meriting a very diff'rent doom—
 I mean the warmer regions of the fire!
 Heav'n knows, that I am anger'd to the soul,
 To find some blockheads of their works so vain;
 So proud to see them hanging cheek-by-jowl
 With *his, whose pow'rs the Art's high fame sustain.
 To wond'rous merit their pretension,
 On such vicinity suspension,
 Brings to my mind a not unpleasant story,
 Which, gentle readers, let me lay before ye:
 A shabby fellow chanc'd, one day, to meet
 The British ROSCIUS in the street,
 GARRICK, on whom our nation justly brags;
 The fellow hugg'd him with a kind embrace:
 " Good Sir, I do not recollect your face," Quoth Garrick—" No!" replied the man of rags.—
 " The boards of Drury you and I have trod
 " Full many a time together, I am sure."—
 " When?" with an oath, cry'd GARRICK—" for by
 " G—
 " I never saw that face of yours before!
 " What characters, I pray,
 " Did you and I together play?"
 " Lord!" quoth the fellow, " think not that I mock:
 " When you play'd HAMLET, Sir, I play'd the " Cock †."

ODE

* The President.

† In the Ghost Scene.

O D E XI.

PETER talketh sensibly and knowingly—Recommendeth it to ARTISTS to prefer pictures for their MERIT.—Discovereth musical knowledge, and sheweth, that he not only hath kept company with Fiddlers, but Fiddle-makers—He satirizeth the Pseudo-Cognoscenti.—Praiseth his ingenious neighbour, Sir JOSHUA.

BE not impos'd on by a name;
 But bid your eye the picture's merit trace:
 POUSSIN at times in outline may be lame,
 And GUIDO's angels destitute of grace.
 Yet lo! a picture of some famous school:
 A warranted old daub of reputation,
 Where charming PAINTING's almost ev'ry rule
 Hath suffer'd almost ev'ry violation,
 Oft hath been gaz'd at, by devouring eyes,
 Where NATURE, banish'd from the picture, sighs:
 So some old DUCHESS, as a badger gray,
 Her snags by TIME, sure DENTIST, snatch'd away,
 With long, lank, flannel cheeks;
 Where AGE, in ev'ry wrinkled feature,
 Unto the poor, weak, shaking creature,
 Of death, unwelcome tidings speaks;
 Draws from the gaping mob the envying look,
 Because her husband chanc'd to be a DUKE.
 How many pasteboard rocks, and iron seas;
 How many torrents wild, of still stone water;
 How many brooms, and broomsticks meant for trees,
 Because the fancy'd labours of SALVATOR *,
 Whose

* Salvator Rosa.

Whose pencil, too, most grossly may have blunder'd;
Have brought the blest possessor many a hundred?

Thus prove a crowd, a STAINER *, or AMATI†;

No matter for the fiddle's sound;

The fortunate POSSESSOR shall not bat eye

A doit, of fifty, nay a hundred pound:

And though what's vulgarly baptiz'd a rep,

Shall in a hundred pounds be deem'd dog-cheap.

It tickles one excessively to hear

Wise prating pedants the old masters praise;

Damning by wholesale, with sarcastic sneer,

The wretched works of modern days;

Making at living wights such fatal pushes,

As though not good enough to wipe their brushes.

And yet on each wise cognoscenté ass,

Who shall for hours on paint and sculpture din
ye,

A person, with facility, may pass

RIGAUD for RAPHAEL—BACON for BERNINI;

Or, little as an OVEN to VESUVIUS,

WILL TYLER for PALLADIO or VITRUVIUS!

One would imagine, by the madd'ning fools

Who talk of nothing but the ancient schools,

And vilify the works of modern brains,

They think poor Mother NATURE's art is fled,

That now she cannot make a head,

Who took with old Italian nob's such pains;

Nay, turn'd a driv'ler, that her pow'r so sunk is,

Tame soul! she nothing now can make but monkeys.

“ Look

* A German Fiddle-maker.

† A maker of fiddles, called Cremonas.

"Look at your fav'rite REYNOLDS," is their strain;
 "Allow'd by all, the first in EUROPE's eye;
 "One atom of repute can REYNOLDS gain,
 "When TITIAN, RUBENS, and VANDYKE, are nigh?
 "Say, what can REYNOLDS near CORREGIO's line?"
 Blinkards, permit me to inform ye—shine!

O D E XII.

PETER increaseth in wisdom, and adviseth wisely—Seemeth angry at the illiberality of Nature in the affair of his good acquaintance the LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR of ENGLAND, and Mr. PEPPER ARDEN—PETER treateth his readers with love-verses of past times.

COPY not NATURE's form too closely,
 Whene'er she treats th' original too grossly:
 For when she gives deformity for grace,
 Pray have a little mercy on the face.
 Indeed 'twould be but charity to flatter
 Some dreadful works of seeming drunken Nature.
 As for example: Let us now suppose
 THURLOW's black scowl, and PEPPER ARDEN's nose:
 But when your pencil's powers are bid to trace
 The smiles of DEVONSHIRE—DUNCANNON's grace;
 To bid the blush of beauteous * CAMPBELL rise,
 And wake the radiance of AUGUSTA's † eyes, (Gad!

* Lady Charlotte.

† Second daughter of the King.

(Gad! Muse, thou art beginning to grow loyal)
 And paint the graces of the PRINCESS ROYAL;
 Try all your art—and when your toils are done,
 You show a flimsy meteor for a Sun.
 Or should your skill attempt her face and air,
 Who fir'd my heart, and fix'd my roving eye,
 The LOVES, who robb'd a world to make her fair,
 Would quickly triumph, and your art defy.
 Sweet NYMPH!—but, reader, take the song
 Which CYNTHIA's charms alone, inspir'd;
 That left of yore the poet's tongue,
 When LOVE his raptur'd fancy fir'd.

S O N G.

FROM her, alas! whose smile was love,
 I wander to some lonely cell:
 My sighs too weak the maid to move,
 I bid the flatterer HOPE, farewell.
 Be all her Siren arts forgot,
 That fill'd my bosom with alarms:
 Ah! let her crime, a little spot,
 Be lost amidst a world of charms.
 As on I wander slow, my sighs
 At ev'ry step for CYNTHIA mourn:
 My anxious heart within me dies,
 And sinking, whispers, "Oh! return."
 Deluded heart! thy folly know,
 Nor fondly nurse the fatal flame;
 By absence thou shalt lose thy woe;
 And only flutter at her name.

 Readers!

Readers! I own the song of love is sweet;
 Most pleasing to the soul of gentle PETER:
 Your eyes, then, with another let me treat,
 Yes, gentle Sirs, and in the same sweet metre.

SONG TO DELIA.

SAY, lonely MAID, with down-cast eye,
 O DELIA! say, with cheeks so pale,
 What gives thy heart the lengthen'd sigh,
 That tells the world a mournful tale?

Thy tears that thus each other chase,
 Bespeak a bosom swell'd with woe;
 Thy sighs, a storm that wrecks thy peace,
 Which souls like thine should never know.

O tell me, doth some favour'd youth,
 With virtue tir'd, thy beauty slight;
 And leave those thrones of love and truth,
 That lip, and bosom of delight?

Perhaps to nymphs of other shades,
 He feigns the soft, impassion'd tear;
 With sighs their easy faith invades,
 That treach'rous won thy witless ear.

Let not those MAIDS thy envy move,
 For whom his heart may seem to pine;
 That HEART will ne'er be blest by love,
 Whose guilt could force a pang from thine.

O D E XIII.

Pious PETER acknowledgeth great obligations to the Reverend Mister MARTIN LUTHER—Yet lamenteth the effects of this PARSON'S reformation on Painting.

WE PROTESTANTS owe much to MARTIN LUTHER,
Who found to Heav'n a shorter way and smother;
And shall not soon repay the obligation:
MARTIN against the Papists got the laugh;
Who, as the butchers bleed and bang a calf
To whiteness—bled and bang'd unto salvation:
As if such drubbings could expel their sins;
As if that Pow'r, whose works with awe we view,
Grac'd all our backs with sets of comely skins,
Then order'd us to beat them black and blue.
Well then! we must confess for certain,
That much we owe to brother MARTIN,
Who alter'd, for the better, our religion:
Yet, by it, glorious PAINTING much did lose;
Was pluck'd, poor GODDESS! like a goose;
Or, for the rhyme-sake, like a pigeon.
Mad at the WHORE OF BABYLON, and BULL,
Down from the churches men began to pull
Pictures, that long had held a lofty station;
Pictures of SAINTS, of pious reputation,

For curing, by a miracle, the ills
 That now so stubborn yield not to devotions,
 But unto blisters, boluses, and potions,
 That make such handsome 'pothecaries bills.

Down tumbled ANTHONY who preach'd to Sprats;
 And HE * who held discourses with a Hog,
 That, grunting, after him so us'd to jog,
 Came down by favour of long sticks and bats.

The SAINTS who grinn'd on spits, like ven'son roasting;

Broiling on gridir'ns; baking in an oven;
 Or on a fork, like cheese of Cheshire, toasting;
 Or kick'd to death, by Satan's hoof so cloven;
 All humbled to the ground were forc'd to fall,
 Spits, forks, and gridir'ns, ovens, dev'l and all.

Ev'n Saints of poor Old England's breeding,
 In wonders, many foreign ones, exceeding,
 Our hot REFORMERS did as roughly handle:
 In troth, poor harmless souls! they met no quarter,

But down were tumbled, MIRACLE and MARTYR;
 Put up in lots, and sold by inch of candle.

Had we been Papists—Lord! we still had seen
 Devils and Devils mates, young pimping liars
 Tempting the blushing NUNS of frail fifteen,
 With gangs of ogling, rosy, wanton FRIARS:
 Which Nuns, so pure, no love-speech could cajole;
 Who starv'd the body, to preserve the soul.

Then

* Commonly known by the name of PIG ANTHONY.

Then had we seen St. DENNIS with his head
 Fresh in his hand, and, with affection, kissing;
 As if the nob, that from his shoulders fled,
 By knife or broad-sword, never had been missing:
 Then had we seen, upon their friendly coating,
 SAINTS on the waves, like gulls and wigeons, floating.

I've seen a SAINT on board a ship,
 To whom, for a fair wind, the Papists pray,
 Well flogg'd from stem to stern, by birch and whip,
 Poor wooden fellow! twenty times a day:

Pull'd by the nose, and kick'd—call'd lubber, owl,
 To make him turn a wind, to fair from foul!
 And oft these things have brought a prosp'rous gale,
 When pray'rs and curses have been found to fail.
This, had we Papists been, had grac'd our churches,
 Saints, seamen, nose-pulling, kicks, whips, and birches.

O D E XIV.

PETER attacketh the R. A.'s.

YE ROYAL SIRs, before I bid adieu,
 Let me inform you, some deserve my praise:
 But trust me, gentle 'Squires, ye are but few
 Whose names would not disgrace my lays;
 You'll say, with grinning, sharp, sarcastic face,
 "We must be bad indeed, if that's the case."

L 2

Why,

Why, if the truth I must declare,
So, gentle 'squires, you really are!

I'm greatly pleas'd, I must allow,
To see the foreigners beat hollow;
Who stole into that dome the Lord knows how;
(I hope to God no more will follow):
Who, curs'd with a poor sniv'ling spirit,
Were never known to vote for merit:—

Poor narrow-minded imps,
Hanging together just like shrimps.
I own, (so little they have merited)
That from yon noble dome,
Made almost an Italian and French home,
I long to see the vermin ferreted.

Yet where's the house, however watch'd by cats,
That can get rid of all its rats?
Or, if a prettier simile may please,
Where is the bed that hath not fleas?
Or if a prettier still—what London rugs
Have not at times been visited by bugs?

O D E XV.

PETER taketh leave—Displayeth wonderful learning—Seemeth sorry to part with his Readers—Administereth crumbs of comfort.

MY dearest readers! 'tis with grief I tell,
That now, for ever, I must bid farewell!

Glad, if an Ode of mine, with grins, can treat ye,

Valete :

And if you like the Lyric PETER's oddity,

Plaudite.

Rich as a Jew am I in Latian lore—

So, classic readers, take a sentence more :

Pulchrum est monstrari digito, et dici hic est !

Says JUVENAL, who lov'd a bit of fame :

In English—Ah! 'tis sweet among the thickest

To be found out, and pointed at by name.

To hear the shrinking GREAT exclaim, " That's

" PETER,

" Who makes much immortality by metre ;

" Who nobly dares indulge the tuneful whim,

" And cares no more for KINGS than KINGS for

" him !"

Yet one word more before we part :

Should any take it grievously to heart ;

Look melancholy, pale, and wan, and thin,

Like a poor pullet that hath eat a pin ;

Put on a poor desponding face, and pine,

Because that PETER the Divine

Resolves

Resolves to give up Painting Odes:
 By all the rhyming Goddeffes and Gods,
 I here, upon a poet's word, protest,
 That if it is the world's request

That I again in Lyrics should appear;
 To; rather than be guilty of the sin
 Of losing GEORGE the THIRD one SUBJECT'S skin,
 My LYRIC BAGPIPE shall be tun'd next year.

THE LOUISIANA,
AN HEROI-COMIC POEM,

CANTO I.

Prima Syracosio dignata est ludere versu
Nostra, nec erubuit sylvas habitare Thalia;
Cum canerem reges et prælia, Cynthus aurem
Vellit et admonuit——

VIRGIL,

I, who so lately in my Lyric lays
Sung to the praise and glory of R. A.'s;
And sweetly tun'd to Love the melting line,
With OVID's art, and SAPPHO's warmth divine;
Said, (nobly daring!) "MUSE, exalt thy wings,
'LOVE and the SONS OF CANVAS quit for KINGS."
APOLLO, laughing at my powers of song,
Cry'd "PETER PINDAR, prithee hold thy tongue,"
But I, like Poets, self-sufficient grown,
Reply'd, "APOLLO, prithee hold thy own,"

TO THE READER.

GENTLE READER,

IT is necessary to inform thee, that His Majesty actually discovered, some time ago, as he sat at table, a LOUSE on his plate. The emotion occasioned by the unexpected appearance of such a guest can be better imagined than described.

An edict was, in consequence, passed for shaving the Cooks, Scullions, &c. and the unfortunate LOUSE condemned to die.

Such is the foundation of the LOUSIAD.—With what degree of merit the Poem is executed, the *un-*critical as well as critical Reader will decide.

The ingenious AUTHOR, who ought to be allowed to know somewhat of the matter, hath been heard privately to declare, that, in his opinion, the Batrachomyomachia of Homer, the Secchia Rapita of Tassoni, the Lutrin of Boileau, the Dispensary of Garth, and the Rape of the Lock of Pope, are not to be compared to it; and to exclaim at the same time, with all the modest assurance of an author—

Cedite, scriptores Romani; cedite, Graeci—
Nil ortum in terris, Lousiadâ, melius.

Which, for the sake of the mere English Reader, is thus beautifully translated:

Roman and Grecian Authors, great and small,
The Author of the LOUSIAD beats you all,

THE ARGUMENT.

L O U S I A D.

CANTO THE FIRST.

THE LOUSE I sing, who, from some head unknown,
Yet born and educated near a throne,
Dropp'd down—(so will'd the dread decree of Fate!)
With legs wide sprawling on the Monarch's plate;
Far from the raptures of a wife's embrace;
Far from the gambols of a tender race,
Whose little feet he taught with care to tread
Amidst the wide dominions of the head;
Led them to daily food with fond delight,
And taught the tiny wand'ers where to bite;
To hide, to run, advance, or turn their tails,
When hostile combs attack'd, or vengeful nails:
Far from those pleasing scenes ordain'd to roam,
Like wise Ulysses, from his native home;
Yet, like that sage, though forc'd to roam and mourn,
Like him, alas! not fated to return;
Who,

Who, full of rags and glory, saw his boy *
 And wife † again, and dog ‡ that dy'd for joy.
 Down dropp'd the luckless LOUSE, with fear ap-
 pall'd,
 And wept his wife and children as he sprawl'd.
 Thus, on a promontory's misty brow,
 The POET's eye, with sorrow, saw a cow
 Take leave abrupt of bullocks, goats, and sheep,
 By tumbling headlong down the dizzy steep;
 No more to reign a queen amongst the cattle,
 And urge her rival beaus, the bulls, to battle;
 She fell §, rememb'ring ev'ry roaring lover,
 With all her wild courants in fields of clover.
 Now on his legs amidst a thousand woes,
 The LOUSE, with judge-like gravity, arose:
 He wanted not a motive to entreat him,
 Beside the horror that the King might eat him:
 The dread of gasping on the fatal fork,
 Stuck with a piece of mutton, beef, or pork,
 Or drowning 'midst the sauce in dismal dumps,
 Was full enough to make him stir his stumps.
 Vain hope of stealing unperceiv'd away!
 He might as well have tarried where he lay,
 Seen was the LOUSE, as with the Royal brood
 Our hungry King amus'd himself with food;
 Which proves (though scarce believ'd by one in ten)
 That Kings have appetites like common men;
 And that, like London Aldermen and Mayor,
 Kings feed on solids less refin'd than air.

Paint, heav'nly Muse, the look, the very look,
 That of the Sov'reign's face possession took
 When first he saw the LOUSE, in solemn state,
 Grave as a Spaniard, march across the plate!
 Yet, could a LOUSE a British King surprise,
 And like a pair of saucers stretch his eyes?
 The little tenant of a mortal head,
 Shake the great RULER of three realms with dread?
 Good Lord! (as somebody sublimely sings)
 What great effects arise from little things!
 As many a loving swain and nymph can tell,
 Who, following Nature's law, have lov'd too well!

Not with more horror did his eyes behold
 Charles Fox, that cunning enemy of old,
 When Triumph hung upon his plotting brains,
 And dear PREROGATIVE was just in chains:
 Not with more horror did his eye-balls work
 Convulsive on the patriotic Burke,
 When guilty of economy, the crime!
 Edmund wide wander'd from the true sublime,
 And, cat-like, watchful of the flesh and fish,
 Cribb'd from the Royal table many a dish;
 Saw ev'ry slice of bread and butter cut,
 Each apple told, and number'd ev'ry nut;
 And gaug'd (compos'd upon no sneaking scale)
 The Monarch's belly like a cask of ale;
 Convinc'd that, in his scheme of state-salvation,
 To starve * the Palace, was to save the Nation:
 Not

* His Majesty was really reduced some time since to a most mortifying dilemma. The apples at dinner time having been, by a too

Not more aghast he look'd, when, 'midst the course,
 He tumbled, in a stag-chase, from his horse,
 Where all the Nobles deem'd their Monarch dead ;
 But luckily he pitch'd upon his head.

Not VENISON EATERS at the vanish'd fat,
 With stomachs wider than a Quaker's hat :
 Not with more horror Mister Serjeant PLIANT
 Looks down upon an empty-handed client :
 Not with more horror stares the rural Maid,
 By hopes, by fortunetellers, dreams, betray'd,
 Who sees her ticket a dire blank arise,
 Too fondly thought the twenty-thousand prize,
 With which the simple damsel meant, no doubt,
 To bless her faithful fav'rite, Colin Clout.

Not with more horror stares each lengthen'd feature,
 Of some fine, fluttering, mincing petit-maitre,
 When of a wanton chimney-sweeping wag
 The beau's white vestment feels the footy bag :
 Not with more horror did the Devil look,
 When Dunstan by the nose the dæmon took,
 (As gravely say our legendary songs)
 And led him with a pair of red-hot tongs :
 Not Lady Worsley, chaste as many a nun,
 Look'd with more horror at Sir Richard's fun,
 When,

a too great liberality to the Royal children, expended ; the King ordered a supply, but was informed that the BOARD OF GREEN CLOTH would positively allow no more. Enraged at the unexpected and unroyal disappointment, he furiously put his hand into his pocket, took out sixpence, sent a PAGE for two-penny-worth of pippins, and received the change.

When, rais'd on high to view her naked charms,
 He held the peeping Captain in his arms;
 Like David, that most am'rous little dragon,
 Ogling sweet Bethsheba without a rag on:

Not more the great Sam House * with horror
 star'd,

By mob affronted to the very beard;
 Whose impudence (enough to damn a jail)
 Snatch'd from his waving hand his fox's tail,
 And stuff'd it, 'midst his thunders of applause,
 Full in the center of Sam's gaping jaws,
 That, forcing down his patriotic throat,
 Of "Fox and Freedom!" stopp'd the glorious note.

Not with more horror Billy Ramus † star'd,
 When Puff ‡, the Prince's hair-dresser, appear'd
 Amidst

* In Westminster Hall, where the sense (the author was just about to say nonsense) of the people was to be taken on an election.

† Billy Ramus—emphatically and constantly called by His Majesty Billy Ramus; one of the Pages who shaves the Sovereign, airs his shirts, reads to him, writes for him, and collects anecdotes.

‡ Puff, his Royal Highness's hair-dresser, who attending him at Windsor, the Prince, with his usual good-nature, ordered him to dine with the PAGES. The pride of the Pages immediately took fire, and a petition was dispatched to the King and Prince, to be relieved from the distressful circumstance of dining with a hair-dresser. The petition was treated with the proper contempt, and the Pages commanded to receive Mr. Puff into their mess, or quit the table. With unspeakable mortification Mr. Ramus and his brethren submitted; but, like the poor Gentoos who lose their Cash, have not held up their heads since.

Amidst their eating room, with dread design,
To sit with PAGES, and with PAGES dine!

Not with more horror Gloster's Duchess star'd,
When (blest in metaphor!) the King declar'd,
That not of all her mongrel breed, one whelp
Should in the Royal kennel ever yelp:

Not more that man so sweet, so unprepar'd,
The gentle 'Squire of Leatherhead *, was scar'd,
When, after prayers so good, and rare a sermon,
He found his front attack'd by fierce Miss Vernon;
Who meant (Thalestris-like, disdaining fear!)
To pour her foot in thunder on his rear;
Who, in God's house §, without one grain of grace,
Spit, like a vixen, in his Worship's face;
Then shook her nails, as sharp as taylor sheers,
That itch'd to scrape acquaintance with his ears.

Not Atkinson † with stronger terror started
(Somewhat afraid, perchance, of being carted)
When JUSTICE, a sly dame, one day thought fit
To pay her serious compliments to Kit;

Ask'd

* Kynaston is the name of the gentleman assailed by the furious Maid of Honour, for disapprobation of the lady as an acquaintance for his wife.

§ Verily in the House of the Lord, on the Lord's Day, in the year of our Lord 1785, in the village of Leatherhead, in the county of Surry, did this profane salival assault take place on the phiz of 'Squire Kynaston, to the disgrace of his family, the wonder of the parson, the horror of the clerk, and the stupefaction of the congregation.

† Mr. Christopher Atkinson's airing on the pillory is sufficiently known to the public.

Ask'd him a few short questions about corn,
 And whisper'd, she believ'd he was forsworn;
 Then hinted, that he probably would find,
 That though she sometimes wink'd, she was not blind.

Not more ASTURIAS' Princess * look'd affright,
 At breakfast, when her spouse, the unpolite,
 Hurl'd, madly heedless both of time and place,
 A cup of boiling coffee in her face;
 Because the fair one eat a butter'd roll,
 On which the selfish Prince had fix'd his soul:
 Not more astonish'd look'd that Prince to find
 His royal father to his face unkind;
 Who, to the cause of injur'd beauty won,
 Seiz'd on the proud proboscis of his son,
 (Just like a tiger of the Lybian shade,
 Whose furious claws the helpless deer invade,
 And led him, till that son its durance freed,
 By asking pardon for the brutal deed;
 Led him thrice round the room (the story goes)
 Who follow'd with great gravity his nose,
 Resolv'd at first (for Spaniards are stiff stuff)
 To ask no pardon, though the snout came off:
 Not more astonish'd look'd that Spanish King, †
 Whene'er he miss'd a snipe upon the wing:

M

Not

* This quarrel between the Prince of Asturias and his Princess, with the interference of the Spanish Monarch, as described here, is not a poetic fiction, but an absolute fact, that happened not many months ago.

† His Most Catholic Majesty's shooting merits are universally acknowledged: Though far advanced in years, he is still the admiration of his subjects, and the envy of his brother Kings,

Not more astonish'd look'd that King of Spain,
 To see his gun-boats blazing on the main :
 Not Doctor Johnson more, to hear the tale
 Of vile Piozzi's marrying Mistress Thrale ;
 Nor Doctor Wilson, child of am'rous folly,
 When young Mac Clyfter bore off Kate Macaulay.*

What dire emotions shook the Monarch's soul !
 Just like two billiard balls his eyes 'gan roll ;
 Whilst anger all his Royal heart possess'd,
 That, swelling, wildly bump'd against his breast ;
 Bounc'd at his ribs with all its might so stout,
 As resolutely bent on jumping out,
 T' avenge, with all its pow'rs, the dire disgrace,
 And nobly spit in the offender's face.
 Thus a large dumpling to its cell confin'd,
 (A very apt allusion, to my mind)
 Lies snug, until the water waxeth hot,
 Then bustles 'midst the tempest of the pot :
 In vain !—the lid keeps down the child of dough,
 That bouncing, tumbling, sweating, rolls below.

“ What's that ! what's that ! ” th' astonish'd Monarch
 cries,

(Lifting to pitying Heav'n his piteous eyes)

“ What monster's that, that's got into the house ?

“ Look, look, look, Charly ! is not that a louse ? ”

The

as a SHOT ; and it is well known, that even on those days when the Royal Robes are obliged to be worn, his breeches pockets are stuffed with gun flints, screws, hammers, and other implements necessary to the destruction of snipes, partridges, and wild pigs.

* The fair historian.

The Queen look'd down, and said, " Mine Gote!
" good la!"

And with a smile the grey-back'd STRANGER saw.
Each Princess strain'd her lovely neck to see,
And, with another smile, exclaim'd, " Good me!"—

" Mine Gote! Good me! is that all you can say?"
(Our gracious Monarch cry'd, with huge dismay.)

" What! what! a silly vacant smile take place

" Upon your Majesty's and children's face,

" Whilst that vile LOUSE (soon, soon to be unjointed!)

" Affronts the presence of the LORD'S ANOINTED!"

Dash'd, as if tax'd with Hell's most deadly sins,
The Queen and Princesses drew in their chins,
Look'd prim, and gave each exclamation o'er,
And, very prudent, " word spake never more."
Sweet Maids! the beauteous boast of BRITAIN'S Isle,
Speak—were those peerless lips forbid to smile?
Lips! that the soul of simple NATURE moves—
Form'd by the bounteous hands of all the LOVES!
Lips of delight! unstain'd by SATIRE's gall!
Lips that I never kiss'd—and never shall.

Now, to each trembling Page, a poor mute mouse,
The pious MONARCH cried, " Is this your Louse?"

" Ah! Sire," (reply'd each Page with pig-like whine)

" An't please your Majesty, it is not mine."

" Not thine?" (the hasty Monarch cried agen)

" What? what? what? what? what? who the de-
" vil's then?"

Now at this sad event the SOVEREIGN, sore,
Unhappy, could not eat a mouthful more:

His wiser Queen, her gracious stomach studying,
 Stuck most devoutly to the beef and pudding;
 For Germans are a very hearty sort,
 Whether begot in Hog-styes or a Court;
 Who bear (which shews their hearts are not of stone)
 The ills of others better than their own.

Grim TERROR seiz'd the souls of all the Pages,
 Of different sizes, and of different ages;
 Frighten'd about their pensions or their bones,
 They on each other gap'd like Jacob's sons!

Now to a PAGE, but which we can't determine,
 The growling Monarch gave the plate and vermin:
 "Watch well that blackguard animal," he cries,
 "That soon or late, to glut my vengeance, dies!
 "Watch, like a cat, that vile marauding LOUSE,
 "Or George shall play the devil in the house.
 "Some Spirit whispers, that to Cooks I owe
 "The precious visitor that crawls below;
 "Yes, yes! the whisp'ring Spirit tells me true,
 "And soon shall vengeance all their locks pursue.
 "Cooks, scourers, scullions too, with tails of pig,
 "Shall lose their coxcomb curls, and wear a wig."
 Thus roar'd the King—not Hercules so big;
 And all the Palace echo'd—"Wear a wig!"

FEAR, like an ague, struck the pale-nos'd Cooks,
 And dash'd the beef and mutton from their looks;
 Whilst from each cheek the rose withdrew its red,
 And PITY blubber'd o'er each menac'd head.

But lo! the great COOK-MAJOR * comes! his eyes
 Fierce as the redd'ning flame that roasts and fries;

His

* Dixon.

His cheeks like bladders, with high passion glowing,
 Or like a fat Dutch trumpeter's when blowing.
 A neat white apron his huge corse embrac'd,
 Ty'd by two comely strings about his waist :
 An apron that he purchas'd with his riches,
 To guard from hostile grease his velvet breeches—
 An apron that, in Monmouth-Street high hung,
 Oft to the winds with sweet deportment swung.

“ Ye fons of dripping, on your Major look !
 (In sounds of deep-ton'd thunder cry'd the Cook)

“ By this white apron, that no more can hope

“ To join the piece in Mister Inkle's shop ;

“ That oft hath held the best of Palace meat,

“ And from his forehead wip'd the briny sweat ;

“ I swear this head disdains to lose its locks ;

“ And those that do not, tell them they are Blocks,

“ Whose head, my Cooks, such vile disgrace en“ dures ?

“ Will it be yours, or yours, or yours, or yours ?

“ Ten thousand crawlers in that head be hatch'd,

“ For ever itching, but be never scratch'd !

“ Then may the charming perquisite of grease

“ The Mammon of your pocket ne'er increase ;—

“ Grease ! that so frequently hath brought you coin,

“ From veal, pork, mutton, and the great SIR

“ LOIN.

“ O brothers of the spit, be firm as rocks :

“ Lo ! to no King on earth I yield these locks.

“ Few are my hairs behind, by age endear'd !—

“ But, few or many, they shall not be shear'd.

“ Sooner

“ Sooner shall Madam Schwellenberg *, the jade,
 “ Yield up her fav’rite perquisites of trade;
 “ Give up her sacred Majesty’s old gowns,
 “ Caps, petticoats, and aprons, without frowns;
 “ She! who for ever studies mischief—She!
 “ Who soon will be as busy as a bee,
 “ To get the liberty of locks enslav’d,
 “ And ev’ry harmless cook and scullion shav’d—
 “ She, if by chance a British Servant Maid,
 “ By some insinuating tongue betray’d,
 “ Induc’d the fair forbidden fruit to taste,
 “ Grows, luckless, somewhat bigger in the waist;
 “ Rants, storms, swears, turns the penitent to door,
 “ Grac’d with the pretty names of B—ch and W—,
 “ To range a prostitute upon the Town,
 “ Or, if the weeping wretch think better, drown:—
 “ But, if a GERMAN Spider-brusher fails,
 “ Whose nose grows sharper, and whose shape tells “ tales;
 “ Hush’d is th’ affair—the Queen and She, good
 “ dame,
 “ Both club their wits to hide the growing shame;
 “ To wed her, get some fool—I mean some wife
 “ man;
 “ Then dub the prudent Cuckold an Exciseman—
 “ She! who hath got more insolence and pride,
 “ God mend her heart! than half the world beside;
 “ She! who, of guttling fond, stuffs down more “ meat,
 “ Heav’n help her stomach! than ten men can eat!
 “ Ten

* Mistress of the Robes to her Majesty.

“ Ten men ! aye, more than ten—the hungry hag !

“ Why, zounds ! the woman’s stomach’s like a bag :

“ She ! who will swell the uproar of the house,

“ And tell the King damn’d lies about the louse ;

“ When probably that louse (a vile old trull !)

“ Was born and nourish’d in her own gray skull,

“ Sooner the room shall buxom NANNY * quit,

“ Where oft she charms her master with her wit ;

“ Tells tale of ev’ry body, ev’ry thing,

“ From honest courtiers to the thieves who swing—

“ Waits on her Sov’reign while he reads dispatches,

“ And wisely winds up state affairs or watches :

“ Sooner the PRINCE (may Heav’n his income

“ mend !)

“ Shall quit his bottle, mistress, or his friend ;

“ Laugh at the drop on MISERY’s languid eye ;

“ And hear her sinking voice without a sigh ;

“ Break for the wealth of realms his sacred word,

“ And let the world write coward on his sword ;

“ Sooner shall ham from fowl and turkey part,

“ And stuffing leave a calf’s or bullock’s heart :

“ Sooner shall toasted cheese take leave of mustard,

“ And from the codlin tart be torn the custard ;

“ Sooner these hands the glorious haunch shall spoil,

“ And all our melted butter turn to oil :

“ Sooner our pious KING, with pious face,

“ Sit down to dinner without saying grace ;

“ And ev’ry night salvation pray’rs put forth,

“ For Portland, Fox, Burke, Sheridan, and North :

“ Sooner

* Buxom Nanny—a female servant of the Palace, who constantly attends the King when he reads dispatches.

" Spooner shall fashion order frogs and snails,
 " And dishclouts stick eternal to our tails!
 " Let GEORGE view MINISTERS with surly LOOKS,
 " Abuse 'em, kick 'em—but revere his COOKS!"—
 " What, lose our locks!" reply'd the roasting crew,
 " To Barbers yield 'em?—Damme if we do!
 " Be shav'd like foreign dogs one daily meets,
 " Naked and blue, and shiv'ring in the streets!
 " And from the Palace be ashamed to range,
 " For fear the world should think we had the mange;
 " By taunting boys made weary of our lives,
 " Broad-grinning wh—es, and ridiculing wives!"—

" Rouse, OPPOSITION!" roar'd a tipsey Cook,
 With hands a-kimbo, and bubonic look—
 " 'Tis SHE alone our noble curls can keep—
 " Without HER, MINISTERS would fall asleep:
 " 'Tis she who makes great men—our FOXES, PITTS,
 " And sharpens, whetstone-like, the Nation's wits:
 " Knocks off your knaves and fools, however great,
 " And, broom-like, sweeps the cobwebs of the State:
 " In casks like sulphur that expels bad air,
 " And makes, like thunder-claps, foul weather fair;
 " Acts like a gun, that, fir'd at gather'd foot,
 " Preserves the chimney and the house to boot:
 " Or, like a school-boy's whip, that keeps up
 " tops,
 " The sinking Realm, by flagellation, props.
 " Our Monarch must not be indulg'd too far;
 " Besides! I love a little bit of war.
 " Whether to crop our curls he boasts a right,
 " Or not, I do not care the Louse's bite;

" But

" But then, no force-work! No! No force, by

" Heav'n!

" COOKS! YEOMEN! SCOURERS! we will not be

" driv'n.

" Try but to force a PIG against his will,

" Behold! the sturdy GENTLEMAN stands still!

" Or, p'rhaps, (his pow'r to let the driver know)

" Gallops the very road he should not go—

" No force for me!—The FRENCH, the fawning

" dogs,

" E'en let them lose their freedom, and eat frogs;

" Damme! I hate each pale soupe-maigre chief—

" Give me my darling liberty and beef."

He spoke—and from his jaws a lump he slid,

And, swearing, manful flung to earth his QUID.

Then swelling PRIDE forbade his tongue to rest,

Whilst wild emotions labour'd in his breast—

Now sounds confus'd his anger made him mutter,

And, when he thought on shaving, curses sputter.

Such is the sound (the simile's not weak)

Form'd by what mortals BUBBLE * call, and SQUEAK,

When 'midst the frying-pan, in accents savage,

The beef so surly quarrels with the cabbage.

" Be shav'd!" a Scullion loud began to bellow,

Loud as a parish bull, or poor OTHELLO,

Plac'd by that rogue IAGO upon thorns,

With all the horrors of a pair of horns;

Loud

* The modest Author of the LOUSIAD must do himself the justice to declare here, that his simile of the Bubble and Squeak is vastly more natural and more sublime than Homer's black pudding on a grid-iron, illustrating the motions and emotions of his hero ULYSSES. Vide ODYSSEY.

Loud as th' EXCISEMAN * struggling for his life,
 And panting in a most inglorious strife;
 When on his face the smuggling Princess sprung,
 And, cat-like clawing, to his visage clung.

“ Be shav'd like pigs !” rejoin'd the scullion's mate,

His dishclout shaking, and his pot-crown'd pate :
 “ What barber dares it, let him watch his nose,
 “ And, curse me ! dread the rage of these ten toes.”
 So saying, with an oath to raise one's hair,
 He kick'd with threat'ning foot the yielding air.

Thus have I seen an Ass (baptiz'd a JACK)
 Grac'd by a CHIMNEY-SWEEPER on his back,
 Prance, snort, and fling his heels with liberality,
 In imitation of a HORSE of QUALITY.

“ Be shav'd !” an understrapper TURNBROCHE
 cry'd,

In all the foaming energy of pride—

“ Zounds ! let us take His Majesty in hand !

“ The King shall find he lives at our command :

“ Yes ; let him know, with all his wond'rous state,

“ His teeth and stomach on our wills shall wait :

“ We

* This affair happened a few years since—An Exciseman seizing some smuggled goods belonging to a Princess, a relation of the Great Frederic, her HIGHNESS fell upon the poor Rat de Cave, and almost scratched his eyes out : the Exciseman made a formal complaint to the King, begging to be reliev'd from the disgrace. The gallant Monarch returned for answer, that he gave up the duties to his cousin the Princess ; but could not conceive how the hand of a fair Lady could dishonour the face of an Exciseman.

“ We rule the platters, we command the spit,
 “ And George shall have his mels when we think fit ;
 “ Stay till ourselves shall condescend to eat,
 “ And then, if we think proper, have his meat.”

Thus having fed on venison rather coarse,
 A colt, or crocodile, or dish of horse,
 The Tartar quits his smoaky hut with scorn,
 Sounds to the kingdoms of the world his horn ;
 And treating MONARCHS like his slaves or swine,
 Informs them they have liberty to dine.

“ Heav’ns !” cry’d a YEOMAN, with much learning grac’d,
 In books as well as meat, a man of taste,
 Who read with vast applause the daily news,
 And kept a close acquaintance with the MUSE ;
 Conundrum, rebus made, acrostic, riddle ;
 And sung his dying sonnet to the fiddle,
 When LOVE, with cruel dart, the murd’ring thief,
 His heart had spitted, like a piece of beef ;
 “ Are these,” he said, “ of KINGS, the whims and “ jokes ?

“ Then KINGS can be as mad as common folks.
 “ DAME NATURE, when a PRINCE’S head she makes,
 “ No more concern about the inside takes,
 “ Than of the inside of a bug’s or bat’s,
 “ A flea’s, a grasshopper’s, a cur’s, a cat’s !
 “ As careless as the ARTIST, trunks designing,
 “ About the trifling circumstance of lining ;
 “ Whether of Cumberland he use the plays,
 “ Miss Burney’s novels, or Miss Seward’s lays ;

“ Or,

" Or sacred dramas of Miss Hannah More,
 " Where all the NINE, with little MOSES, snore;
 " Or good 'Squire Pindar's Odes, or Wharton's
 " stick;
 " Or Horace Walpole's Doubts upon King Dick,
 " Who furious drives, at times, his old goose quill,
 " On Strawb'rry, (Reader!) not th' Aonian Hill;
 " Whether he doom the ROYAL SPEECH to cling,
 " Or those of Lords and Commons to the King;
 " Where one begs money, and the others grant
 " So easy, freely, friendly, complaisant,
 " As though the cash were really all their own,
 " To purchase knick-knacks * that disgrace a throne.
 " Ah, me! did people know what trifling things
 " Compose those idols of the earth call'd Kings,
 " Those counterparts of that important fellow,
 " The children's wonder—SIGNOR PUNCHINELLO;
 " Who struts upon the stage his hour away;
 " His outside, gold—his inside, rags and hay;
 " No more as GOD's Vicegerents would they shine,
 " Nor make the world cut throats for RIGHT DI-
 " VINE,

" Those LORDS of Earth, at dinner, we have seen,
 " Sunk, by the merest trifles, with the spleen—
 " Oft for an ill-dress'd egg have heard them groan,
 " And seen them quarrel for a mutton bone:

" At

* The Civil List, we are inclined to think, feels deficiencies from toys—For an instance, we will appeal to Mr. Cumming's non-descript of a time-piece at the Queen's House, which cost nearly two thousand pounds. The same artist is also allowed 200*l. per annum* to keep the bauble in repair.

“ At salt or vinegar, with passion, fume,
 “ And kick dogs, chairs, and pages, round the “ room. *

“ Alas! how often have we heard them grunt,
 “ Whene’er the rushing rain hath spoil’d a HUNT!
 “ Their sanguine wishes cross’d, their spirits clogg’d,
 “ Mere riding disheclouts homeward they have jogg’d;
 “ Poor imps! the sport (with all their pride and “ pow’r)

“ Of NATURE’s diuretic stream—a show’r!
 “ This we, the actors in the farce, perceive;
 “ But this the distant world will ne’er believe,
 “ Who fancy KINGS to all the virtues born,
 “ Ne’er by the vulgar storms of passion torn;
 “ But, blest with souls so calm, like summer seas,
 “ That smile to Heav’n, unruffled by a breeze:
 “ Who think that KINGS, on wisdom always fed,
 “ Speak sentences like BACON’s brazen head;
 “ Hear from their lips the vilest nonsense fall,
 “ Yet think some heav’nly spirit dictates all;
 “ Convince their bodies of celestial clay,
 “ And, though all ailment, sacred from decay;
 “ To nods and smiles their gaping homage bring,
 “ And thank their God their eyes have seen a KING!

“ Lord!

* This is partly a picture of the last reign as well as the present. The passions of George the Second were of the most impetuous kind—his hat and his favourite minister, Sir Robert Walpole, were too frequently the foot-balls of his ill humour—nay, poor Queen Caroline came in for a share of his foot benevolence. But he was a Prince of virtues—ubi plura nitent, non ego paucis offendar maculis.

- " Lord! in the circle when our ROYAL MASTER
 " Pours out his words as fast as hail, or faster,
 " To country 'Squires, and wives of country 'Squires;
 " Like stuck pigs staring, how each oaf admires!
 " Lo! ev'ry syllable becomes a GEM!
 " And if, by chance, the Monarch cough, or hem,
 " Seiz'd with the symptoms of a deep surprise,
 " Their joints with rev'rence tremble, and their eyes
 " Roll wonder first; then, shrinking back with fear,
 " Would hide behind the brains, were any there.
 " How taken is this idle world by show!
 " Birth, riches, are the Baals to whom we bow;
 " Preferring, with a soul as black as foot,
 " A rogue on horseback, to a saint on foot.
 " See FRANCE, see PORTUGAL, SICILIA, SPAIN,
 " And mark the desert of each DESPOT's brain;
 " Whose tongues should never treat with taunts a
 " Fool;
 " Who prove that nothing is too mean to rule.
 " What could the PRINCE, high tow'ring like a
 " steeple,
 " Without the MAJESTY of Us the PEOPLE?
 " Go, like the King of Babylon *, to grafs,
 " Or wander, like a beggar with a pafs!
 " However modern KINGS may COOKS despise,
 " WARRIORS and KINGS were cooks, or Hist'ry
 " lies.—
 " PATROCLUS broil'd beef-steaks to quell his hun-
 " ger:
 " The mighty AGAMEMNON potted conger!—
 " And

* Nebuchadnezzar.

“ And CHARLES of SWEDEN, ’midst his guns and “ drums,
“ Spread his own bread and butter with his thumbs.
“ Be shav’d! — No! — sooner pill’ries, jails, the “ stocks,
“ Shall pinch this corpse, than BARBERS snatch my “ locks.”
“ Well hast thou said,” a Scourer bold rejoin’d;
“ Damme! I love the man who speaks his mind.”
Then in his arms the orator he took,
And swore he was an angel of a Cook.
Awhile he held him with a Cornish hug;
Then seiz’d, with glorious grasp, a pewter mug,
Whose ample womb nor cyder held nor ale,
But nectar fit for Jove, and brew’d by THRALE.
“ A health to Cooks,” he cried, and wav’d the pot;
“ And he who fights for titles is a sot—
“ Let Dukes and Lords the world in wealth surpass;
“ Yet many a lion’s skin conceals an ass.
“ Lo! this is one amongst my golden rules,
“ To think the greatest men the greatest fools:
“ The GREAT are judges of an opera song,
“ And fly a Briton’s for a eunuch’s tongue;
“ Thus idly squand’ring for a squall their riches,
“ To faint with rapture at those cats in breeches.
“ Accept this truth from me, my lads—the man
“ Who first found out a spit, or frying-pan,
“ Did ten times more towards the public good,
“ Than all the tawdry titles since the flood:
“ Titles! that KINGS may grant to asses, mules,
“ The scorn of sages, and the boast of fools.”

He ended—All the Cooks exclaim'd, "Divine!"
 Then whisper'd one another, 'twas "damn'd fine!"
 Thus spoke the SCOURER like a man inspir'd,
 Whose speech the HEROES of the kitchen fir'd:
 Grooms, master scourers, scullions, scullions' mates,
 With all the overseers of knives and plates,
 Felt their brave souls like frisky cyder work,
 Whizzing in opposition to the cork:
 Earth's Potentates appear'd ignoble things,
 And Cooks of greater consequence than Kings;
 Such is the pow'r of words, where truth unites,
 And such the rage that injur'd worth excites!
 The SCOURER's speech, indeed, with reason blest,
 Inflam'd with godlike ardour all the rest.
 That if a barn Heav'n's vengeful light'ning draw,
 The flame ethereal darts amongst the straw;
 Doors, rafters, beams, owls, weazels, mice and rats,
 And (if unfortunately mousing) cats;
 All feel the fierce devouring fire in turn,
 And, mingling in one conflagration, burn.

"Sons of the SPIT," the Major cry'd again,
 "Your warlike speeches prove you blest with brain;
 "Brain! that Dame Nature gives not ev'ry head,
 "But fills the vast vacuity with lead!—
 "Yet ere for opposition we prepare,
 "And bravely battle in the cause of HAIR;
 "Methinks 'twould be but decent to petition,
 "And tell the King, with firmness, our condition:
 "Soon as our sad complaint he hears us utter,
 "His gracious heart may melt away like butter;
 "Fair MERCY shine amidst our gloomy house,
 "And anger'd MAJESTY forget the LOUSE."

AS many people persist in their incredulity with respect to the attack made by the Barbers on the heads of the harmless Cooks, I shall exhibit a list of the unhappy sufferers: it is the Palace list, and therefore as authentic as the Gazette.

A TRUE LIST OF THE SHAVED AT BUCKINGHAM HOUSE.

Two Master Cooks,	Two Soil-carriers,
Three Yeoman ditto,	Two Door-keepers,
Four Grooms,	Eight Boys,
Three Children,	Five Pastry People,
Two Master Scourers,	Eight Silver Scullery,
Six Under Scourers,	for laughing at the

HEROI-COMIC POEM,

CANTO II.

" — Qualis ab incepto." HORACE.

" As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world
" without end."

THE ARGUMENT.

INVOCATION to the Muse—Degeneracy of modern poets—

The ragged state of the ladies of Parnassus—Sad condition of bards—Praise of Mr. West's great picture of King Alexander and the Stag—More invocation to the Muses—The tricks of those Ladies—Their impositions on Poets and Poetesses—A compliment to King George and Dr. Herschell, on their intimacy with the Moon, and important discoveries in that planet—Invocation to Apollo—Invocation to Conscience—Conscience described—The great powers of Conscience—More invocation to Conscience—Truth and Falshood, their situations—More invocation to Conscience—The praise of Royal economy and a Hanoverian College—Address to Gottingen—More invocation to Conscience—Mr. Hastings's bulse, Mrs. Hastings's bed and cradle properly treated—More words to Conscience—The fatal power of Conscience over the late Mr. Yorke and Lord Clive—Address to Fame—A request to the aforesaid Gentlewoman, instructing her how to dispose of some of her trumpets—Description of her pseudo-votaries—The Bard blushing for the quantity of invocation—Procession of his Epic Poem—Madam Schwellenberg described with a plate of ham—Account of her birth, parentage, and education—Account of Pride—Madam Schwellenberg's visit to the King—His Majesty's most gracious speech—Madam Schwellenberg's answers—Address to Readers on Ladies swearing—Sir Francis Drake, the Steward of the Household, described—not to be confounded with the famous Sir Francis Drake, who died near 200 years ago—The perquisites of the present Sir Francis—Description of the dining-room belonging to the Cooks at Buckingham House—The entertainment and utensils of this room—Dixon the Cook-Major's speech—Story of a Nabob and a Beggar—Cook-Major Dixon's speech in continuation—Speech of another Cook—The Cooks in the dumps—The Cook-Major's rejoinder to the Cook's speech—A very sensible speech—Conclusion with a beautiful simile—The petition of the Cooks.

LOUSIA D.

CANTO THE SECOND.

NYMPHS of the sacred fount, around whose brink
Bards rush in droves, like cart-horses, to drink;
Dip their dark beards amidst your streams so clear,
And, whilst they gulp it, with it ale or beer;
Far more delighted to possess, I ween,
Old Calvert's brewhouse for their Hippocrène;
And blest with beef, their ghostly forms to fill,
Make Dolly's chophouse their Aonian hill;
More pleas'd to hear knives, forks, in concert join,
Than all the tinkling cymbals of the NINE;
Assist me—ye who themes sublime pursue,
With scarce a shift, a stocking, or a shoe!
Such pow'r have satires, epigrams, and odes,
As make ev'n bankrupts of the born of gods,
As well as mortal bards, who oft bewail
Their unsuccessful madrigals in jail,
Where penn'd, like hapless cuckoos, in a cage,
The ragged warblers pour their tuneful rage;

Deck

Deck the damp walls with verse of various quality,
And, from their prisons, mount to immortality.

Ah! tell me where is now thy blush, O SHAME!
Shall bards through jails explore the road to Fame?
Like souls of Papists in their way to glory,
Doom'd at the half-way house, call'd Purgatory,
To burn, before they reach the realms of light,
Like old tobacco-pipes, from black to white?
Yet let me say again, that pow'rful rhyme
Hath lifted poets to a state sublime;
To lofty pill'ries rais'd their sacred ears
High o'er the heads of marvelling compeers,
Whose eggs, potatoes, turnips, and their tops,
Paid flying homage to their tuneful chops!
Blest state! that gives each fair exalted mien,
To grace in print a monthly magazine;
And deck the shops with sweet engravings dress'd,
'Midst angels, sinners, Saints of Mister WEST;
Where brave King ALEXANDER and the DEER,
A noble bustling hodge-podge shall appear,
From that fam'd * picture which our wonder drew,
And pour'd its brazen splendors on the view;
Bright as the pictures that with glorious glare,
On pent-house high, in Piccadilly stare,
Where lions seem to roar, and tigers growl,
Hyænas whine, and wolves in concert howl;
And, by their goggling eyes and furious grin,
Inform what shaggy devils lodge within.

Ye

* A whole ære of canvas so daubed by colour as to give it the appearance of a brass foundery.

Ye NYMPHS who, fond of fun, full many a time,
Mount on a jack-ass many a child of rhyme,
And make him think, astride his braying hack,
He moves sublime on Pegasus's back:

Ye MUSES, oft by brainless poets sought
To bid the stanza chime, and swell with thought;
Who, whelping for OBLIVION, fain would save
Their whining puppies from the sullen wave;
Assist me! YE who visit towns and hovels,
To teach our girls in bibs to eke out novels,
And treat with scorn (far nobler knowledge study-
ing)

The humble art of making pye or pudding:
Who bid our Sapphos of their verse be vain,
And fancy all Parnassus in their brain;
And, 'mid the bustle of their lucubrations,
Take downright madness for your inspirations;
Charm'd with the cadence of a lucky line,
Who taste a rapture equal, GEORGE, to thine;
When, blest at DATCHET, thro' thy HERSCHELL's glass,

That brings from distant worlds a horse, an ass,
A tree, a windmill, to the curious eye,
Shirts, stockings, blankets, that on hedges dry,
Thine eyes, at evenings late, and mornings soon,
Unfated feast on wonders in the Moon;
Where HERSCHELL on volcanoes, mountains, pores,
And happy NATURE's true sublime explores;
Whilst thou, so modest, (wonderful to tell!)
On LUNAR trifles art content to dwell,
Flies, grasshoppers, grubs, cobwebs, cuckoo spittle;
In short, delighted with the world of little;

Which

Which WEST shall paint, and grave Sir JOSEPH BANKS

Receive from thy historic mouth with thanks ;
Then bid the vermin on the journals * crawl,
Hop, jump, and flutter, to amuse us all.

And thou, great PATRON † of the double quill,
That slays by rhyme, and murders by a pill,
A pretty kind of double-barrel'd gun,
More giv'n to tragic than to comic fun ;
Auspicious PATRON of the paunch and backs
Of those all-daring rascals christen'd quacks,
To whom our purse and lives are legal plunder,
Who, hawk-like, keep the human species under :

GOD of those Gentlemen of gingling brains,
Who, for their own amusement, print their strains ;
Strains that ne'er soar'd beyond the beetle's flight,
Save on the pinions of a school-boy's kite ;
Strains arrant strangers to a depth profound,
Save when deep pilgrimaging under ground,
In humble rags, like Tinnerns in a mine,
They pay their court to CLOACINA's shrine ;
Strains that no ray of light nor warmth proclaim,
Save when, committed to the fire, they flame ;
Strains that a circulation never found,
Save when they turn'd on beef or ven'son round :
Oh ! aid, as lofty HOMER says, my nouse
To sing sublime the MONARCH and the LOUSE !

NYMPHS, PHOEBUS, in my first heroic chapter
I should have pray'd for crumbs of tuneful rapture :

Thus

* Of the Royal Society.

†. Apollo.

Thus to forget my friends was not so clever;
But, says the proverb, "better late than never."
Well! since I'm in the invocation trade,
To CONSCIENCE let my compliments be paid—

CONSCIENCE, a terrifying little sprite,
That, bat-like, winks by day, and wakes by night;
Hunts through the heart's dark holes each lurking vice,

As sharp as weasels hunting eggs or mice;
Who, when the lightnings flash, and thunders crack,
Makes our hair bristle like a hedge-hog's back;
Shakes, ague-like, our hearts with wild commotion;
Uplifts our saint-like eyes with dread devotion;
Bids the poor trembling tongue make terms with Heav'n,

And promise miracles to be forgiv'n;
Bids spectres rise, not very like the Graces,
With goggling eyes, black beards, and Tyburn faces;
With scenes of fires of glowing brimstone scares,
Spits, forks, and proper culinary wares
For roasting, broiling, frying, fricasseeing
The SOUL, that sad offending little Being;
That stubborn stuff, of salamander make,
Proof to the fury of the burning lake.

O CONSCIENCE! thou strait jacket of the soul,
The madding fallies of the bard control;
Who, when inclin'd, like brother bards, to lie,
Bring TRUTH's neglected form before his eye;
Fair MAID! to towns and courts a stranger grown,
And now to rural swains almost unknown,

Whose

Whose company was once their prudent choice ;
Who once, delighted, listen'd to her voice ;
When in their hearts the gentler passion strove,
And CONSTANCY went hand in hand with LOVE !
Sweet TRUTH, who steals through lonely shades along,
And mingles with the turtle's note her song ;
Whilst FALSEHOOD, rais'd by sycophantic tricks,
Unblushing, flaunts it in a coach and six.

CONSCIENCE! who bid'st our Monarch; from the nation,
Send sons to Gottingen for education,
Since helpless CAM and ISIS, lost to knowledge,
Are ideots to this Hanoverian college,
Where simple SCIENCE beams with orient ray;
The great, the glorious ATHENS of the day!
So says the RULER of us English fools,
Who cannot judge like him of WISDOM's schools.

Dear attic GOTTINGEN! to thee I bow,
Of Knowledge, oh! most wonderful milch cow!
From whom huge pails the royal boys shall bring,
And give, we hope, a little to the —.
Though Thee, besides the knowledge they may reap,
The lads shall get their board and lodging cheap;
And learn, like their good parents, to subsist
Within the limits of the Civil List;
Who seldom bid a Minister implore
A little farther pittance for the poor.

CONSCIENCE! who, to the wonder of his SIRE,
Had'ft from his wonted ftate a PRINCE retire,
And,

And, like a subject, humbly seek the shade,
That not a tradesman might remain unpaid :
An action that the soul of ENVY stings—
A deed unmentioned in the book of KINGS :

CONSCIENCE ! who mad'st a Monarch, by thy
pow'r
Send pris'ner the fam'd Di'mond * to the Tow'r ;
So witchingly that look'd him in the face,
And impudently sought to bribe his GRACE :
Where, too, the cradle and the bed shall rest,
That on the same damn'd errand left the East—
Thus fall of gem and pearl the treas'rous tribe,
And beds and cradles that would MONARCHS bribe !

CONSCIENCE ! who now canst like a cart-horse draw ;
Now, lifeless sinking, scarcely lift a straw ;
So diff'rent are thy pow'rs at diff'rent times,
Thou dear companion of the man of rhymes !
Thou ! who at times canst like a lion roar
For one poor sixpence ; yet, like NORTH, canst snore,
Though rapine, murder, try to ope thine eyes,
And raging Hell with all his horrors rise ;
Whose eye on petty frauds can fiercely flame,
Yet wink at full-blown crimes that blast a name !

O CONSCIENCE ! who didst bid to madness work
(So great thy pow'r) the brain of hapless YORK,
And mad'st him cut from ear to ear his throat,
That luckless spoil'd his patriotic note ;
Yet wanted'st strength to force from his hard eye
One drop—who help'd him to yon spangled sky ;
Whose

* Such is the story of the late fly Bulse that stole into St. James's.

Whose damned pray'rs, feign'd tears, and tongue of art,

Won on the weakness of his honest heart!
Poor YORK! without a stone whose reliques lie,
Though VIRTUE mark'd the murder with a sigh!

O CONSCIENCE! who to CLIVE didst give the knife
That, desp'rate plunging, took his forfeit life;
Who, lawless plund'rer, in his wild career,
Whelm'd ASIA's eye with woe, and heart with fear;
Whose wheels on carnage roll'd, and, drench'd with blood,

From gasping Nature forc'd the blushing flood;
Whilst HAVOCK, panting with triumphant breath,
Nerv'd his red arm, and hail'd the hills of death.—
And now to thee, O lovely FAME, I bend;
Let all thy trumpets this great work commend:
Give one apiece to all the learn'd Reviews,
And bid them sound the labours of the Muse:
Give to the Magazines a trumpet each,
And let the swelling note to doomsday reach:
To daily News-papers a trumpet give;
Thus shall my epic strain for ever live:
Thus shall my book descend to distant times,
And rapt posterity resound my rhymes.
By future Beauties shall each tone be prest,
And, with their lapdogs, live a parlour guest.

Thee, dearest FAME, some mercenaries hail,
Merely to gain their labours a good sale;
Or rise to fair preferment by thy tongue,
Though deaf as adders to thy charms of song;

Just

Just as the hypocrites say pray'rs, sing psalms,
Bestow upon the blind and cripple alms;
Yield glory to the Pow'r who rules above,
Not from a principle of heav'nly love,
But, sneaking rascals! to obtain, when dead,
A comfortable lodging over head,
When forc'd by age, or doctors, or their spouses,
The vagrants quit their sublunary houses.

With tiresome invocation having done,
At length our glorious Epic may go on.
Lo! Madam SCHWELLENBERG, inclin'd to cram,
Was wond'rous busy o'er a plate of ham;
A ham that once adorn'd a German pig,
Rough as a bear, and as a jack-ass big;
In woods of Westphaly by hunters smitten,
And sent a present to the Queen of Britain.

But ere we farther march, ye Muses, say
Somewhat of Madam SCHWELLENBERG, I pray,
If ancient poets mention but a horse,
We read his genealogy of course:
Oh! say, shall horses boast the deathless line,
And o'er a Lady's lineage sleep the Nine?

By virtue of her father and her mother,
This woman saw the light without much pother;
That is—no grand commotions shook our earth;
Apollo danc'd no hornpipe at her birth,
To say to what perfection she was born,
What wit, what wisdom should the Nymph adorn:
No bees around her lips in clusters hung,
To tell the future sweetness of her tongue;

Around

Around her cradle perch'd no cooing dove,
To mark the soul of innocence and love;
No smiling Cupids round her cradle play'd,
To shew the future conquests of the maid,
Whose charms would make the jealous sex her foes,
And with their lightnings blast a thousand beaux.
Indeed the Muse must own a trifling pother
Sprung up between the father and the mother;
For, after taking methods how to gain her,
They knew not how the dev'l they should maintain
her.

Heav'n's! what! no prodigy attend her birth,
Who awes the greatest palace upon earth?
Yes! a black cat round the bantling squall'd,
Join'd its young cries, and all the house appall'd:
Now here, now there, he sprung with visage wild,
And made a bold attempt to kiss the child;
Bats pour'd in hideous hosts into the room,
And, imp-like, flitting, form'd a sudden gloom;
Then to the cradle rush'd the dark'ning throng,
And, raptur'd, shriek'd congratulating song;
Which song, in concert with the squalls of puffs, Seem'd, in plain German, "Thou art one of
In Strelitz first this Dame the light espy'd,
Born to a good inheritance of pride;
For, howe'er paradoxical it be,
PRIDE pigs with people of a low degree,
As well as with your folks of fortune struts;
Like rats that live in palaces or huts;
Or bugs, an animal of pompous gait,
That dwell on beds of straw, or beds of state;

Or

Or monkeys vile, whose tooth inglorious grapples,
Now with ananas, now with rotten apples.
Hail, PROTEUS PRIDE, whose various pow'rs of throat

Can swell the trumpet's loud and saucy note;
And if a meaner air can serve thy turn,
In panting, quiv'ring sounds of Jew-harps, mourn!
Hail, PRIDE, companion of the great and little,
So abject, who canst lick a patron's spittle;
Whine like a sneaking puppy at his door,
And turn the hind part of thy wig before;
Nay, if he orders, turn it inside out,
And wear it, Merry-Andrew like, about;
Heed not the grinning world a single rush,
But bear its pointed scorn without a blush!
Yet fain wouldst thou the creuching world be-stride,

Just like the RHODIAN BULLY o'er the tide;
The brazen wonder of the world of yore,
That proudly stretch'd his legs from shore to shore,
And saw of Greece the loftiest navy travel,
In dread submission, underneath his navel.

So much for Pride—great, little, humble, vain;
And now for Madam SCHWELLENBERG again.

Whether the Nymph could ever boast a grace,
That deign'd to pay a visit to her face,
The MUSE is ignorant, she must allow;
Yet knows this truth, that not one sparkles more.
If ever beauties, in delight excelling,
Charm'd on her cheek, they long have left their dwelling.

This

This Nymph a mantua-maker was, I ween,
 And priz'd for cheapness by our saving Queen,
 Who (where's the mighty harm of loving money?)
 Brought her to this fair land of milk and honey,
 And plac'd her in a most important sphere—
 INSPECTRESS GENERAL of the Royal Geer.

Soon as this woman heard the Louse's tale,
 At once she turn'd, like walls of plaster, pale.
 But first the ham of Westphaly she gobbled,
 And then to seek the LORD'S ANOINTED hobbled:
 HIM full of wrath, like Peleus' son of yore,
 When Agamemnon took away his wh—,
 In all the bitterness of wrath she found;
 The Queen and Royal Children staring round.
 "O Swelly!"—thus the madden'd Monarch roar'd,
 Whilst wild impatience wing'd each rapid word;
 For, lo! the solemn march of graceful speech,
 'The KING long since had bid to kiss his b—h.
 The broken language that his mouth affords
 Are heads and tails, and legs and wings of words,
 That give imagination's laughing eye
 A lively picture of a gible't pye.—

"O Swelly, Swelly!" cry'd the furious King,
 "What! what a dirty, filthy, nasty thing!—
 "That thus you come to ease my angry mind,
 "Indeed is very, very, very, very kind.—
 "What's your opinion, hæ!"—the Monarch rav'd:
 "Yes, yes, the cooks shall ev'ry one be shav'd—
 "What! what! hæ! hæ! now tell me, Swelly,
 "pray,
 "Shan't I be right in't—What! what! Swelly, hæ?
 "Yes,

- " Yes, yes, I'm sure on't, by the Louse's looks,
 " That he belong'd to some one of the cooks.
 " Speak, Swelly; shan't we shave each filthy jowl?
 " Yes, yes, and that we will, upon my soul."

To whom the DAME, with elevated chin,
 Wide-staring eyes, and broad, contemptuous grin :

- " Yes, sure as dat my soul is to be sav'd,
 " So sure de dirty rascals sal be shav'd—
 " Shav'd to de quick be ev'ry moder's son—
 " And curse me if I do not see it done!
 " De barbers soon der nasty locks sal fall on,
 " Nor leave vone standing for a Louse to crawl on.
 " If on der skulls de razor do not shine,
 " May gowns and petticoats no more be mine—
 " Curl, club, and pigtail, all sal go to pot,
 " For fush curs'd nastiness, or I'll be rot;
 " Or else to Strelitz let me quickly fly,
 " Dat dunghill, dat poor pighouse to de eye;
 " Where from his own mock throne de Princee, so
 " great,
 " Can jump into anoder Princee estate—
 " Iss, by de God dat made dis eart and me,
 " No single lousy rascal sal go free."

Reader, thou raisest both thy marv'ling eyes,
 In all the staring wildness of surprise,
 As if the poet did not truth revere,
 And fanciest gentlewomen could not swear:
 Go, fool, and seek the ladies of the mud,
 Queens of the lakes, or damsels of the flood,
 Nymphs, Nereids, or what vulgar tongues call drabs,
 Who vend at Billingsgate their sprats and crabs;

Tell them their fish all stink, and thou wilt hear
 Whether fine gentlewomen ever swear :
 Nay, visit many of our courtly dames,
 When wrath their dove-like gentleness inflames ;
 Lo ! thou shalt find, by many a naughty word,
 They use small ceremony with the Lord,
 In spite of all that godly books contain,
 That teach them not to take his name in vain.

“ Thanks, Swelly, thanks, thanks, thanks,” the KING reply’d ;

“ Like me, you have not got a grain of pride.

“ Yes, yes, if I am master of this house—

“ Yes, yes, the locks shall fall, and then the Louse.”

He spoke—and to confirm the dreadful doom,
 His head he shook, that shook the dining room.
 Thus Jove of old, the dread, the THUND’RING GOD,
 Shook, when he swore, OLYMPUS with his nod.

“ Yes,” cry’d the KING, “ yes, yes, their curls shall “ quake—

“ But tell me, where, where, where’s Sir FRANCIS
 “ DRAKE ?”

O, Reader, think not ’twas that DRAKE, Sir
 FRANCIS,

Whose wond’rous actions seem almost romances ;
 Who shone in sense profound, and bloodiest wars,
 And rais’d the nation’s glory to the stars ;
 Who first in triumph sail’d around the world,
 And vengeance on the foes of Britain hurl’d ;
 But HE who skulks around the Royal kitchen,
 Which if he catch a neighbour’s dog or bitch in,
 Lets

Lets fly, to strike the four-legg'd mumper dead,
A poker, or a cleaver, at his head.

Not that Sir FRANCIS DRAKE who, god-like, bore
Fair Freedom, Science to th' Atlantic shore;

To Pagans gave the Gospel's saving grace,
And planted Virtue 'midst a barb'rous race;

Spread on the darken'd realms the blaze of light—

But he who sees the spoons and plates are bright;

Sees that the knives before the King and Queen

Are, like the pair of royal stomachs, keen:

Not he, whose martial frown whole kingdoms shook,

But he whose low'ring visage shakes a cook:

Not he who pour'd on Mexico his tars;

But he, at London, who with linen wars,

Napkins and damask tablecloths * affails

With scissars, razors, knives, and teeth and nails;

Who dares with Doylies desp'rate war to wage,

Such is his province and domestic rage,

If, like his predecessors, he hath grace,

And calls his conquests, perquisites of place.

'Twas not that DRAKE who bade his daring crew

Run with their bayonets the Spaniards through;

But that important DRAKE, in office big,

Instructing cooks to spit a goose or pig:

Not he who took the Spaniards by the nose,

And prisons fill'd with Britain's graceless foes;

O 2

But

* It was a common practice in the last and preceding reigns (the present being somewhat more economical) to tear and cut the Royal linen privately, which, on account of the teeth, knife, nail, or scissar wounds, were never more used, but went as perquisites to Treasurers and Masters of the Household.

But he who bids the geese, his pris'ners, die,
 And stuffs their legs and gizzards in a pye :
 He who, three times a week, a Green-cloth Lord,
 Sits, wisdom-fraught, at that important Board
 With wise compeers, in judge-like order study-
 ing,

Whether the KING shall have a tart or pudding.
 Not he, by virtues to the world endear'd,
 By foes respected, and by friends rever'd ;
 Prompt to relieve the supplicating sigh,
 Who never dash'd with tears the asking eye ;
 But wak'd of joy the long departed beam,
 Deep sunk in sorrow's unremitting stream :—
 But he, with generosity at strife,
 Who never gave a sixpence in his life ;
 Who, if he ever ask'd a friend to dine,
 Requested favours that outweigh'd his wine :
 From lane to lane, who steals with wary feet,
 Just like the cautious hare that seeks his seat :
 Who, though a city * near him, rears her head,
 And wealthy villages around him spread,
 No friend, no neighbour near his mansion found,
 Like CAIN surveys a solitude around.
 'Twas this Sir FRANCIS, quite a diff'rent man
 From him who round the world with glory ran :
 Forbid it, Heav'n ! that e'er the MUSE untrue
 Should give to any man another's due !

MUSE, leave we now the Monarch, vengeance brewing,
 To take a peep at what the Cooks were doing.

In

* Exeter.

In that snug room, * the scene of shrewd remark,
 Whose window stares upon the faunt'ring Park ;
 Where many a hungry bard, and gambling sinner,
 In chop-fall'n sadness, counts the trees for dinner ;
 In that snug room where any man of spunk
 Would find it a hard matter to get drunk ; †
 Where coy Tokay ne'er feels a cook's embraces,
 Nor Port nor Claret show their rosy faces ;
 But when old Adam's beverage flows with pride,
 From wide-mouth'd pitchers, in a plenteous tide ;
 Where veal, pork, mutton, beef, and fowl and fish,
 All club their joints to make one handsome dish ;
 Where stew-pan covers serve for plates, I ween,
 And knives and forks and spoons are never seen ;
 Where pepper issues from a paper bag,
 And for a crewet stands a brandy cag ;
 Where Madam SCHWELLENBERG too often sits
 Like some old tabby in her mousing fits,
 Demurely squinting with majestic mien,
 To catch some fault to carry to the QUEEN :
 In that snug room, like those immortal Greeks,
 Of whom, in book the thirteenth, OVID speaks ;
 Around the table, all with sulky looks,
 Like culprits doom'd to Tyburn, sat the Cooks :
 At length, with phiz that show'd the man of woes,
 The sorrowing King of spits and stewpans rose.
 Like PAUL at Athens, very justly fainted,
 And by the charming brush of Raphael painted,
 With

* The Larder.

† This will be deemed strange by my country readers ; but it is nevertheless true.

With outstretch'd hands, and energetic grace,
 He fearless thus harangues the ROASTING RACE;
 Whilst gaping round, in mute attention, sit
 The poor forlorn disciples of the spit.

"Cooks, scullions, hear me ev'ry mother's son—

"Know that I relish not this Royal fun:

"GEORGE thinks us scarcely fit ('tis very clear)

"To carry guts, my brethren, to a bear."—

"Guts to a bear!" the Cooks, up-springing, cry'd—

"Guts to a bear!" the Major loud reply'd.

"Guts to the dev'l!" loud roar'd the Cooks again,
 And toss'd their noses high in proud disdain:

The plain translation of whose pointed noses

The reader needeth not, the bard supposes;

But if the reason some dull reader looks,

'Tis this—whatever Kings may think of Cooks,

Howe'er crown'd heads may deem them low-born
 things,

Cooks are possess'd of souls as well as Kings.

Yet are there some who think (but what a shame!)

Poor people's souls like pence of Birmingham,

Adulterated brass—base stuff—abhorr'd—

That never can pass current with the LORD;

And think, because of wealth they boast a store,

With ev'ry freedom they may treat the poor:

Witness the story that my Muse, with tears,

Relates, O Reader, to thy shrinking ears.

With feeble voice and deep desponding sighs,

With fallow cheek and pity-asking eyes,

A WRETCH, by age and poverty decay'd,

For farthings lately to a NABOB pray'd;

The

The NABOB, turkey-like, began to swell,
And damn'd the beggar to the pit of hell.
“ Oh! Sir,” the suppliant was heard to cry,
(The tear of mis'ry trickling from his eye)
“ Though I'm in rags, and wond'rous, wond'rous
“ poor,
“ And you with gold and silver cover'd o'er,
“ There won't in heav'n such difference, Sir, take “ place,
“ When we before the LORD come face to face.”—
“ You face to face with me!” the NABOB cry'd,
In all the insolence of upstart pride—
“ You face to face with me, you dog, appear!
“ Damme, I'll kick you, if I catch you there.”—
Oh, shocking blasphemy! oh, horrid speech!
Where was the fellow born?—the wicked wretch!—
So black an imp would pull, I do suppose,
A bulse of di'monds from a BEGUM's nose;
Or make, like DOULAH, careless of his soul,
A new edition of the old Black Hole.

“ What's life,” the Major said, “ my brethren,
“ pray,
“ If force must snatch our first delights away?
“ Relentless shall the Royal mandate drag
“ The hairs that long have grac'd this filken bag;
“ Hairs to a barber scarcely worth a fig,
“ Too few to make a foretop for a wig?
“ Must razors vile these locks so scanty, shave,
“ Locks that I wish to carry to my grave;
“ Hairs, look, my lads, so wonderfully thin,
“ Old SCHWELLENBERG hath more upon her chin?”
“ Yes,

" Yes, that she hath," exclaim'd a Cook, " by God,
 " A damn'd old German good-for-nothing toad.
 " Yes, yes, her mouth with beard divinely bristles—
 " Curse me, I'd rather kiss a bunch of thistles.
 " Oh! were it but His Majesty's commands
 " To give her gentle jawbones to these hands;
 " I'd shave her, like a punish'd soldier, dry;
 " No killing fow should make a sweeter cry:
 " I'd pay my compliments to Madam's chin;
 " I'll answer for't I'd make the devil grin:
 " The razor most deliciously should work;
 " I'd trim her muzzle; yes, I'd scrape her pork:
 " I'd teach her to some purpose to behave,
 " And show the witch the nature of a shave.
 " O woman, woman! whether lean or fat,
 " In face an angel, but in a soul a cat!"

He ended—when each mouth upon the stretch,
 Crown'd with a loud horse-laugh the classic speech.

Too soon, alas! RESENTMENT seiz'd the hour,
 And JOKE resign'd his grin-provoking pow'r;
 RAGE dimm'd of mirth the sudden sunny sky,
 And fill'd with gloomy oaths each scowling eye;
 Whilst GRIEF, returning, took her turn to reign,
 Sunk ev'ry heart, and sadden'd ev'ry mien;
 Drew from their giddy heights the laughing graces—
 For much is GRIEF dispos'd to bring down faces.

" Son of the spit," the Major, strutting, cry'd,
 " I like thy spirit, and revere thy pride:
 " I'd rather hear thee than a Bishop preach,
 " For thou hast made a very pretty speech.

" Such

- “ Such is the language that the Gods should hear,
“ And such should thunder on the Royal ear.
“ Yet, son of dripping, though thou speak’st my “ notions,
“ We must not be too nimble in our motions.
“ Awhile, heroic brothers, let us halt ;
“ Soft fires, the proverb tells us, make sweet malt.
“ And yet again I bid you stand like rocks,
“ And battle for the honour of your locks.
“ Lo ! in these aged hairs is all my joy ;
“ To have them, is my being to destroy.
“ What’s life, if life has not a bliss to give ?
“ And, if unhappy, who would wish to live ?
“ CONTENT can visit the poor spider’d room ;
“ Pleas’d with the coarse rush mat and birchen
“ broom ;
“ Where parents, children, feast on oaten bread,
“ With cheeks as round as apples, and as red ;
“ Where HEALTH with vigour nerves their backs
“ and hams,
“ Sweet souls, tho’ ragged as young colts or rams ;
“ Where calmly sleep the parents with their dar-
“ lings,
“ Though nibbled by the fleas as thick as star-
“ lings ;
“ Lull’d to their rest, beneath the coarsest rugs,
“ And dead to bitings of a thousand bugs.
“ CONTENT, mild maids ! delights in simple things,
“ And envies not the state of Queens or Kings ;
“ Can dine on sheep’s head, or a dish of broth,
“ Without a table or a tablecloth ;

“ Nor

- “ Nor wilhes, with the fashionable group,
“ To visit HORTON’s shop for turtle soup;
“ Can use a bit of packthread for a jack,
“ And sit upon a chair without a back:
“ Nay, wanting knives, can with her fingers work,
“ And use a wooden skewer for a fork.
“ Sweet maid! who thinks not shoes of leather shock-
“ ing,
“ Nor feels the horrors in a worsted stocking;
“ Her temper mild, no huckaback can shock,
“ Though for her lovely limbs it forms a smock.
“ Pleas’d with the nat’ral curls her face that shade,
“ No graves are robb’d for hair to form a braid:
“ Her breast of native plumpness ne’er aspires
“ To swelling merrythoughts of gauze and wires,
“ To look like crops of ducks (with labour born)
“ Stretch’d by a superfluity of corn.
“ With Nature’s hips, she sighs not for cork rumps,
“ And scorns the pride of pinching stays or jumps;
“ But, pleas’d from whalebone prisons to escape,
“ She trusts to simple nature for a shape;
“ Without a warming-pan can go to bed,
“ And wrap her petticoat about her head;
“ Nor sigh for cobweb caps of Mechlin lace,
“ That shade of Quality the varnish’d face:
“ Sweet nymph, like doves, she seeks her straw-built “ nest,
“ And in a pair of minutes is undrest;
“ Whilst all the fashionable female clans,
“ Undressing, seem unloading caravans.
“ No matter from what source Contentment springs;
“ ’Tis just the same in Cooks as ’tis in Kings;
“ And

“ And if our souls are set upon our hair,
 “ Let snip-snap barbers—nay, let Kings, beware,
 “ Nor tempt the dangerous rage of true John Bulls,
 “ And clap, like fools, the edge-tool to our skulls.
 “ Tread on a worm, he shows his rage and pain,
 “ By turning on the wounding heel again :
 “ Nay, ev’n inanimates appear to feel ;
 “ On the loose stone, if chance direct your heel,
 “ Lo ! from its womb the sudden stream ascends,
 “ To prove the foot was not among its friends ;
 “ And calling in the aid of neighbour mud,
 “ O’er the fair stocking spouts the sable flood.”

So spoke the Major, with resentment fir’d ;
 Spoke like a man ; indeed, like man inspir’d.
 Some Critic cries, with sharp, fastidious look,
 “ Bard, bard, this is not language for a Cook.”—
 “ O snarler ! but I’ll lay thee any wager,
 “ It is not too sublime for a Cook Major.”

“ Behold ! to remedy our sad condition,”
 The Major cry’d, I’ve cook’d up a Petition :
 “ This carries weight with it, or I’m mistaken,
 “ Shall shake the Monarch’s soul, and save our ba“ con.”

Then jumping on a barrel, thus aloud
 He read sonorous to the gaping crowd.

Thus reads a parish-clerk in church a brief,
 That begs for burnt-out wretches kind relief—
 Relief, alas ! that very rarely reaches
 The poor petitioners, the ruin’d wretches ;
 But (lost its way) unfortunately steers
 To fat churchwardens and fat overseers ;

Improves

Improves each dish, augments the punch and ale,
And adds new spirit to the smutty tale.

THE PETITION OF THE COOKS.

“ YOUR Majesty’s firm friends and faithful Cooks,
“ Who in your Palace merry liv’d as grigs,
“ Have heard, with heavy hearts and downcast looks,
“ That we must all be shav’d, and put on wigs :
“ You, SIRE, who with such honour wear your Crown,
“ Should never bring on ours disgraces down.

“ Dread Sir ! we really deem our heads our own,
“ With ev’ry sprig of hair that on them springs :
“ In France, where men like spaniels lick the Throne,
“ And count it glory to be cuff’d by Kings,
“ Their locks belong unto the Grand Monarque,
“ Who swallows privileges like a shark.

“ Be pleas’d to pardon what we now advance ;
“ We dare your Sacred Majesty assure,
“ That there’s a diff’rence between us and France ;
“ And long, we hope, that diff’rence will endure.
“ We know King LEWIS would, with pow’r so dread,
“ Not only cut the hair off, but the head.

“ Oh ! tell us, Sir, in loyalty so true,
“ What dire designing raggamuffins said,
“ That we, your Cooks, are such a nasty crew,
“ Great Sir ! as to have crawlers in our head ?
“ My Liege, you can’t find one thro’ all our house ;
“ Nor if you’d give a guinea for a louse.

“ What

- “ What creature ’twas you found upon your plate
“ We know not ; if a louse, it was not ours :
“ To shave each Cook’s poor unoffending pate,
“ Betrays too much of arbitrary pow’rs ;
“ The act humanity and justice shocks :
“ Let him who owns the crawler lose his locks.
“ But grant upon your plate this louse so dread,
“ How can you say, Sir, it belongs to us ?
“ Maggots are found in many a princely head ;
“ And if a maggot, why then not a louse ?
“ Nay, grant the fact ; with horror should you shrink ?
“ It could not eat your Majesty, we think.
“ Hunger, my Liege, hath oft been felt by Kings,
“ As well as people of inferior state ;
“ Quarrels with Cooks are, therefore, dangerous
“ things :
“ We cannot answer for your stomach’s fate ;
“ For, by your size, we frankly must declare,
“ You feed on more substantial stuff than air.
“ My Liege, an Universe hath been your foes ;
“ The times have look’d most miserably black ;
“ America hath try’d to pull your nose ;
“ French, Dutch, and Spaniards, try’d to bang
“ your back :
“ ’Twould be a serious matter, let us tell ye,
“ Were we to buccaneer it on your belly.
“ You see the spirit of your Cooks, then, Sire, “ Determin’d nobly to support their locks ;
“ And should your guards be order’d out to fire,
“ Their guns may be oppos’d by spits and crocks :
“ Knives,

“Knives, forks, and spoons, may fly, with plates
“a store,

“And all the thunder of the kitchen roar.

“NAT. GARDNER, Yeoman of the Mouth, declares

“He’ll join the standard of your injur’d Cooks;

“Each scullion, turnbroche, for redress prepares,

“And puts on very formidable looks:

“Your women too—imprimis, Mistress DYER,

“Whose eggs are good as ever felt a fire:

“Next Sweeper-general BICKLEY, Mistress MARY,

“With that fam’d bell-ringer call’d Mistress LO-

“MAN;

“ANN SPENCER, guardian of the Necessary;

“That is to say, the necessary woman:

“All these, an’t please you, Sir, so fierce, deter-

“mine

“To join us in the cause of hair and vermin.

“DAY,

“Who find your Sacred Majesty in linen,

“Are ready to support us in our fray—

“You can’t conceive the passion they have been in;

“They swear so much your scheme of shaving hurts,

“You shan’t have pocket-handkerchiefs or shirts.

“The grocers, CLARKE and TAYLOR, curse the “scheme,

“And say, whate’er we do, the world wo’n’t

“blame us;

“So COMBER says, who gives you milk and cream;

“And thus your old friend Mister LEWIS RA-

“MUS:

“We

- “ We think your Sacred Majesty would mutter
 “ At loss of sugar, milk, and cream, and butter.
 “ Suppose, an’t please you, Sir, that Mistress KNUT-
 “ TON
 “ And Mistress MAISHFIELD, fierce as tiger cats;
 “ One Overseer of all the beef and mutton,
 “ The other, Lady President of sprats—
 “ Suppose, in opposition to your wish,
 “ This locks away the flesh, and that the fish?
 “ Suppose JOHN CLARKE refuse supplies of mustard,
 “ So necessary to your beef and bacon?
 “ WILL ROBERTS, all the apple-pye and custard?
 “ Your Majesty would growl, or we’re mistaken.
 “ Suppose that WELLS, to plague your stomach stu“ dying,
 “ From Sunday, sacrilegious, steals the pudding?
 “ Suppose that RAINSFORTH with our corps unites—
 “ We mean the man who all the tallow handles;
 “ Suppose he locks up all the mutton lights,
 “ How could your Majesty contrive for candles?
 “ You’d be (excuse the freedom of remark)
 “ Like some Administrations, in the dark.
 “ We dare assure you that our grief is great;
 “ And oft indeed our feelings it enrages,
 “ To see your Sacred Majesty beset
 “ By such a graceless gang of idle pages:
 “ And, with submission to your judgment, Sire,
 “ We think old Madam SCHWELLENBERG a liar.

“ Suppose,

- " Suppose, Great Sir, that, by your cruel fist,
 " The barbers should attack our humble head,
 " And that we should not choose to breed a riot,
 " Because we might not wish to lose our bread;
 " Say, would the triumph o'er each harmless Cook
 " Make GEORGE THE THIRD like ALEXANDER
 " look?
 " Dread Sir, reflect on JOHNNY WILKES's fate,
 " Supported chiefly by a paltry rabble;
 " WILKES bade defiance to your frowns and state,
 " And got the better in that famous squabble;
 " Poor was the victory you wish'd to win,
 " Which sat the mouth of EUROPE on the grin.
 " O King, our wives are in the kitchen roaring,
 " All ready in rebellion now to rise;
 " They mock our humble method of imploring,
 " And bid us guard against a wig surprise:
 " Yours is the hair," they cry, " th' Almighty gave
 " ye,
 " And not a King in Christendom should shave ye."
 " Lo! on th' event the world impatient looks,
 " And thinks the joke is carried much too far:
 " Then pray, Sir, listen to your faithful Cooks,
 " Nor in the Palace breed a civil war:
 " Loud roars our band, and, obstinate as pigs,
 " Cry, ' Locks and liberty, and damn the wigs!' "

THE ARGUMENT.

A sublime, natural, elegant, and original description of NIGHT—Modesty of the stars—Slumbering situation of their M-j—s with a compliment to their constancy—The charming PRINCESSES asleep—high compliments bestowed on them—A prophetic suggestion of a courtship between one of our PRINCESSES and some great German Duke—An account of Mister MORPHEUS, vulgarly called the God of Sleep—his civility to the people, in giving them pretty dreams, by way of compensation for shutting up their mouths, eyes, and ears, for a dozen or fourteen hours together—The solemn amusements of SILENCE—A Night-picture of London—The Palace, a night-scene—The goodness of certain COURT LORDS to the MAIDS of HONOUR—Kind embraces placed in a new light, and vindicated—More account of the Palace, containing a thirsty fly, a hungry cat, a starved bull-dog, and frost-nipped crickets—An account of MADAM FAME's journey to the Den of MADAM DISCORD—An account of MADAM DISCORD—An inventory of her cell—Account of her excursions—her pictures and music—her sudden flight to Buckingham-House—assumes the shape of MADAM SCHWELLENBERG—whispers his Majesty—The speech to Majesty—Majesty's fine answer in his sleep—DISCORD quits Majesty—takes the form of MADAM HAGGERDORN—and goes to the MAJOR's bed-side, and whispers rebellion to him—Her speech—The MAJOR sits upright in his bed—handles his pig-tail—The MAJOR's most pathetic curses—his sensible soliloquy on wigs—his attack on Kings in general, and praise of our most gracious King in particular—The MAJOR strikes a light—a rich comparison—visits a Master Cook—Vast difference between a battle fought in a field, and in a news-paper—The descent of the Cooks to the kitchen—A great and apt comparison—The Cooks look about for day-light with horror—The situation of their souls described—finely illustrated by a GREAT WOMAN's apprehensions for her fine diamond stomacher—Lord EGL—T—N and an old Maid—A most tender and just apostrophe to the frail FAIR-ONES of the Town—a tear dropped on their unhappy condition—their part taken by the poet, and, in a great measure, vindicated—The Poet's thunder-bolt launched at a certain great Limb of the Law, by way of palliation—A short, yet more charming reflexion on the female heart, when in love—The Poet returns to the Cooks—continues to describe their dread of day-light, by more apt comparisons of hungry authors—General Conflagration—Sir WILLIAM CHAMBERS and the BISHOP of EXETER—Some allusion to his Majesty's journey to Exeter—Extracts from a manuscript poem of a Devonshire Humourist, one JOHN PLOUGHSHARE—The MAJOR vainly endeavours to banish his fears by whistling and humming a couple of tunes—The names of the unsuccessful tunes—The MAJOR's choice of them only known to the great AUTHOR of NATURE.

THE
L O U I S I A D.

CANTO THE THIRD.

NIGHT, like a widow in her weeds of woe,
Had gravely walk'd for hours our world below:
Hobgoblins, spectres in her train, and cats;
Owls round her hooting, mix'd with shrieking bats,
Like wanton Cupids in th' Idalian grove,
That flickering sport around the Queen of Love.
Now like our Quality, who darkling rise,
Each star had op'd its fashionable eyes;
Too proud to make appearance, too well bred,
Till SOL, the vulgar wretch, had gone to bed.

His wisdom dead to sublunary things,
In leaden slumber snor'd the best of *****;
In slumber lifeless, with seraphic mien,
Close at his back, too, snor'd his gentle *****;
Unlike the pair of modern days, that weds,
And, in one fortnight, bawls for different beds!

Blest

Blest imp! now MORPHEUS o'er each Princess stole,
 And clos'd those radiant eyes that vainly roll!
 Eyes! Love's bright stars! but doom'd in vain to shine;
 For, ah! what youth shall say "those orbs are
 "mine?"

Then, what are eyes, alas! the brigbtest eyes,
 Forbid to languish on a lover's sighs?
 The pouting lip, the soft luxuriant breast,
 If coldly fated never to be press'd?
 Ah, vainly those like dew-clad cherries glow;
 And this as vainly vies with Alpine snow!
 The breath that gives of Araby the gales,
 The voice that sounds enchantment, what avails?
 The Juno form, the purple bloom of May,
 Gifts of the Graces, all are thrown away!

But, possibly, some German Duke may move,
 And make a tendre of his heavy love!
 His wide dominions—miles, p'rhaps, nine or ten;
 His Myrmidonian phalanx—fifty men!
 But lo! his heart, the fount whence honour springs,
 Swell'd with the richest blood of ancient kings!
 He comes! not for high birth, his own before!
 Great Duke! he comes to woo our golden ore,
 And add (how truly happy Britain's fate!)
 Another leech to suck the sanguine State;
 To join (composing what a goodly row!)
 The Place-broker, old SCHW—— and Co.

Now MORPHEUS (in compassion to mankind,
 Made, by his magic, deaf, and dumb, and blind)
 Amus'd

Amus'd with dreams man's ambulating soul,
To recompense him for the time he stole;
Bade the beau dance, his Delia melt away,
Who box'd his ears so cruel through the day;
Of ancient damsels eas'd the lovesick pains,
Brought back lost charms, and fill'd their laps with fwains;

Gave placid cuckoldom a constant dame;
To brainless authors, bread and cheese and fame;
Made driv'ling Monarchs schemes of wisdom plan,
And Nature's rankest coward kill his man;
Gave to the chap-fall'n courtier wealth and power,
Who felt no favour at the levee hour,
Though tip-toe'd, hawk-like, watchful all the while,
To seize the faintest glimpse of Royal smile;
Bade happy Aldermen assume new airs,
Be-chain'd with all the splendour of Lord May'rs;
And bade them too (without a groat to pay)
Re-gobble all the turtle of the day:
Bade GL——R think his might could match a mouse,
And CHAMBERS fancy he could build a house;
And LADY MOUNT, th' antipodes of Grace,
Think that she does not frighten with her face.

Now SILENCE in the country stalk'd the dews,
As if he wore a flannel pair of shoes,
Lone list'ning, as the Poets well remark,
To falling mill-streams, and the mastiff's bark;
To loves of wide-mouth'd cats, most mournful tales;
To hoot of owls amid the dusky vales,
To hum of beetles, and the bull-frog's snore,
The spectre's shriek, and ocean's drowzy roar.

Lull'd

Lull'd was each street of London to repose,
Save where it echo'd to a WATCHMAN's nose;
Or where a WATCHMAN, with ear-piercing rattle,
Rous'd his brave brothers from each box to battle;
To fall upon the CYNTHIAS of the night,
Sweet Nymphs! whose sole profession is Delight!
Thus the gaunt wolves the tender lambs pursue,
And hawks, in blood of doves, their beaks imbrue!
Thus on the flies of evening rush the bats,
And mastiffs sally on the am'rous cats!

Still was the Palace, save where now and then
The tell-tale feet of love-designing men,
Night-wand'ring Lords, soft patting on the floor,
Of Maids of Honour sought the chamber door;
Obliging door! that, op'ning to the tap,
Admitted Lords to take a social nap,
And chase most kindly from each timid maid
The ghosts that frightful haunt the midnight shade:
For very horrid 'tis, we all must own,
For poor defenceless Nymphs to lie alone;
Since nights are often doleful, dark, and drear,
And raise in gentle breasts a world of fear.
Nay, were not Lords ordain'd for Ladies' charms;
To guard from perils dire, and dread alarms?
Yes! and like lock'd-up gems those charms to keep,
Amidst the spectred solitude of sleep.
How wicked then to fly in NATURE's face,
And deal damnation on a kind embrace!
Pardon, ye grave Divines, this doctrine strange,
Who think my morals may have caught the mangle.
Still was the Palace, save where some poor fly,
Which thirst just ready to drop down and die,
Buzz'd

Buzz'd faint petitions to his Maker's ear,
 To show him one small drop of dead small beer;
 Save where the cat, for mice, so hungry, watching,
 Swore the lean animals were scarce worth catching;
 Save where the dog so gaunt, in grumbling tone,
 By dreams deluded, mouth'd a mutton bone;
 Save where, with throats to sounds of horror strain'd,
 Crickets of coughs and rheumatisms complain'd,
 Lamenting sore, amid a Royal hold,
 "How hard that crickets should be kill'd by cold!"

Now FAME to DISCORD's dreary mansion flew,
 To tell the Beldame more than all she knew,
 Who, at the Devil's table, for her work,
 For ever welcome finds a knife and fork:
 DISCORD, a sleepless hag, who never dies,
 With snipe-like nose, and ferret-glowing eyes,
 Lean, fallow-cheeks, long chin, with beard supply'd,
 Poor crackling joints, and wither'd parchment hide,
 As if old drums, worn out with martial din,
 Had clubb'd their yellow heads to form her skin;
 DISCORD, who, pleas'd a universe to sway,
 Is never half so blest'd as in a fray:
 DISCORD, to deeds, indeed, most daring giv'n,
 Who bade vile Satan raise a dust in Heav'n;
 Stirr'd up the sweetest angels to rebel,
 And sunk the fairest forms to darkest Hell;
 Bade, by her din, the humblest spirits rise,
 Bold to dethrone the Monarch of the Skies;
 For which they very properly were sent,
 Unhappy Legions! into banishment;
 Doom'd, for such most abominable sinning,
 To broil on charcoal, with eternal grinning.

DISCORD,

DISCORD, who whisper'd to the jealous Cain,
 "Go crack thy brother's box that holds his brain;"
 Which Cain perform'd, in godliness unstable,
 That foe to piety and brother Abel:
 DISCORD, who haunts poor G——'s maudlin DAME,
 And make her Duke of wisdom cry out "Shame!"
 Who, after dinner, for her honours screams,
 And grasps a British crown in drunken dreams;
 Then roars as though (what richly she deserves)
 The D-ke had clapp'd a broomstick to her nerves;
 DISCORD, who also often doth profane
 The goodly streets and courts of Drury-lane;
 Where bawd meets bawd, blaspheming, swearing,
 drunk,
 Pimp knocks down pimp, and punk abuses punk;
 DISCORD, delighting in the wordy war,
 The pillar of the Senate and the Bar;
 DISCORD, who makes a  delight in ode,
 Slight † Square of Hanover for Tott'nham Road,
 Where, with the taste sublime of Goth and Vandal,
 He orders the worst works of heavy Handel;
 ‡ Encores himself, till all the audience gape,
 And suffers not a quaver to escape:
 DISCORD, all eye, all mouth, all ear, all nose,
 For ever warring with a world's repose!

When FAME arriv'd, the shaving tale to tell,
 Pleas'd was the red-ey'd Fury in her cell,

Where

† Gallini's Rooms are in this Square, in which is performed the celebrated Professional Concert.

‡ This was a most ludicrous circumstance that happened not long since, when his  and the Orchestra were left to themselves and God save the King.

Where scorpions crawl'd, where screech'd that noisy
fowl,

Known in Great-Britain by the name of OWL ;
Bats shriek'd, and grillatalpas join'd the sound,
Cats squall'd, pigs whin'd, and adders hiss'd around.

Close to the restless wave her mansion lay,
Receding from the beam of cheerful day :
Hence on black wing the HAG was wont to roam,
And join the witches 'mid the stormy gloom ;
Howl with delight amid the thunder's roar ;
Hang o'er the wrecks that crowd the billowy shore ;
See, 'midst each flash, the heads of seamen rise,
And drink with greedy ears their drowning cries.
Around her dwelling various portraits hung,
Of those whose noisy names in hist'ry rung.
Here, with spread arms, whom Grace and Fury fill,
Thund'ring damnation, star'd Stentorian HILL :
There curs'd, SIR JOSEPH BANKS, in quest of fame,
At finding fleas and lobsters not the same,
Here a prime fav'rite, of a fainted band,
Hell in his heart, and torches in his hand ;
LORD GEORGE, by mobs huzza'd, and, what is odd,
Burning poor Papists for the love of God ;
Pleas'd as old Nero on each falling dome,
Sublimely fiddling to the flames of Rome !
There, in respect to Kings, not over nice,
That Revolution-finner—DOCTOR PRICE ;
Whose labours, in a most uncourtly stile,
Win not, like gentle BURKE's, the Royal smile ;
Gain not from good DIVINES both praise and thanks,
Call'd, by the wicked, " Gospel Mountebanks,
" Mere

" Mere Quack pretenders, from their lofty station
 " Puffing off idle nostrums of Salvation;
 " Who, where the milk and honey flows, resort,
 " Like rooks in corn fields, black'ning all the
 " Court."

Here, leading all her bears so savage forth,
 Wild rag'd the AMAZONIAN of the North,
 With RUIN leagu'd, t' attack the Turkish hive,
 And leave not half a Mussulman alive:
 There storm'd a VIXEN, far and near renown'd
 For sweetness, meekness, piety profound;
 Her Sons abusing (in abuses old),
 With all the fury of a German scold!
 These, with some scores, were seen, of equal fame,
 Thanks to a lonely taper's livid flame!
 The form of MADAM SCHWELLENBERG she took,
 Her broken English, garb, and sin-like look,
 Then sought the Palace and the Royal ear,
 And whisper'd thus, " Mine God, Ser, nebber fear—
 " Oh, please your Majesty, you ver ver right:
 " Shave all de rascal, if but out of spite.
 " Lord! Lord! how vill a mighty Monarch look,
 " Not able, O mine God! for shave a cook!
 " Dat like a king, I say, what can't do dat?
 " Mine God! pray haf more spirit dan a cat.
 " Ser, in mine court, de prince be great as king—
 " He scorn to ax one word about a ting.
 " Mine God! de cook mufs nebber dare make
 " groan,
 " Nor dare to tell a Prince der soûl der own:
 " 'Tis the dam Englis only, dat can say,
 " ' Boh! fig for king! by God, I'll haf my way.'

" I haf see Court enough—a Prince and Dook;
 " But nebber wifh on fufh as dis to look :
 " I fay ver often to myfelf—Goode God !
 " I nebber wifh a crown mine head for load !
 " I do not wifh myfelf more greater efils :
 " A king of Englis be a King of defils.
 " To punifhment de lousy rascal bring,
 " And fhow dem all wat 'tis for be a King.
 " America haf cover us vid fhame ;
 " Jack Wilkes, too, be a dam, dam uglifh name ;
 " And fal de paltry Cook be conquerer too ?—
 " No, God forbid ! as dat vill nebber do.
 " De hair mufs fall before your royal eye,
 " 'Tis fomething, fags ! to triumph 'pon poor fly."—
 Pleas'd with her voice, the King of Nations fmil'd,
 For Pow'r with Monarchs is a fav'rite child :
 " What ! what ! not fhawe 'em, fhawe 'em, fhawe 'em,
 " fhawe 'em ?
 " Not all the world, not all the world fhall fawe 'em.
 " I'll fheer 'em, fheer 'em, as I fheer my fheep."—
 Thus fpoke the mighty Monarch in his fleep :
 Which proves that Kings in fleep a fpeech may make,
 Equal to what they utter broad awake.

Charm'd with the mischief full on Fanny's view,
Quick to the Major's room the FURY flew :
Put off the form of SCHWELLENBERG, and took
Of MADAM HAGGERDORN the milder look :
A woman, in whose soul no guile is seen,
The Mistress of the Robes to our good Queen—
A Queen, who really has not got her peer ;
A Queen, to this our kingdom wond'rous dear ;
Which

Which shews, however folks are apt to sport,
That all the Virtues may be found at court.
Now in the MAJOR's ear the Beldame said,
" YAN DIXON—YAN, you must not, man, be 'fraid.
" I like mush your peteeehon to de King,
" Though GEORGE will swear 'tis dam, dam faucy
" ting;
" And swear, dat as his soul is to be save,
" Dat ebbry von of you sal all be shave:
" YAN DIXON, rader your dear life lay down,
" Dan be de laugh (mine Gote!) of all de town.
" De ver, ver littel boy an girl you meet,
" Vill point and laugh and hoot you trow de street.
" De same (mine Gote!) vill chimney-fweep behave,
" And cry, ' Dere go the blockhead dat was shave.'
" ' Dere go von poor shave fellow!' cry de Trull,
" ' Because he had de louse upon his scull.'
" I know he say, dat you sal louse your lock,
" Before to-morrow mornin twalfe o'clock.
" I tink dere may be battle—nebber mind,
" I hope dat Godamighty will be kind.
" What if de King make noise about de house,
" For noting but dis dam confounded louse;
" He be but von, you know; an den for you,
" Mine Gote! YAN DIXON, you is fifty-two:
" Tink, YAN, how GEORGE vas frighten by de mob,
" When Lord GEORGE GORDON make dat burnin
" job.
" Mine Gote! YAN, mind me, rader lose dy place
" Dan suffer such dam nasty dam disgrace.
" I tell you true, indeed; ver true, dear YAN,
" His majesty be ver goot sort of man;

" But

" But ver ver like indeed as oder men,
 " Dat is, a leetel stubborn now an den.
 " Tink, YAN, of dat ver ugly ting, a wig,
 " For pot-boy and de pot-girl run der rig!
 " Boh! filthy ting, enough de deffil scare;
 " And made perhap of dismal dead man's hair!
 " I sal not wonder if, dy soul for shock,
 " A ghost come feize upon der stolen lock.
 " No, fags! nor vonders if dey come an pull
 " De vig vid mush, mush fury from dy scull.
 " 'Pon som poor strumpet head perhap dat grow'd,
 " Dat die of dam disorder, nasty toad!"—

Thus saying, lo! the Fury made retreat,
 And left the Lord of Saucepans in a sweat,
 Just like King Richard in his tent, JOHN rear'd,
 And verily a man of woes appear'd.
 Now handling his small pig-tail, " Now you're
 " here,"

Exclaim'd the MAJOR, " but not long, I fear:
 " Perhaps some good may follow this same dream,
 " And resolution mar this shaving scheme.
 " Curs'd be the Loufe that so much mischief bred,
 " And yields to barbers' boys the harmless head:
 " Curs'd be the razor-maker, curs'd the prig
 " Who thought upon that greasy thing—a wig.
 " Sure, 'twas some mangy beast, some scabby rogue,
 " Who brought a thing so filthy into vogue!
 " Had NATURE meant the scare-crow to be worn,
 " Infants with wigs had certainly been born.
 " But lo! with little hair, and that uncurl'd,
 " But not with wigs, they come into the world!

" What

“ What shame, that sheep, that horses, cows, and “ bulls,

“ Should club their tails, to furnish Christian skulls!

“ But what a sacrilegious shame, the dead

“ Can’t keep, poor souls, their locks upon their “ head!

“ What shame, the spectres, in the midnight air,

“ Should wander, screaming for their plunder’d hair!

“ Curs’d be the shaving plan, I say again,

“ Although the bantling of a royal brain!”

Thus curs’d the MAJOR to NIGHT’s list’ning ear,

Enough to turn a christian pale to hear!

Thus, heedless of hereafter, for a pin

Will men and women run their souls in sin!

Now paus’d the MAJOR, with a thoughtful air;

And now soliloquy’d with solemn stare:

“ Drunk with dominion, gorg’d with vicious “ thoughts,

“ With folly teeming, doz’d by Flatt’ry’s draughts,

“ Taught to admire their very maudlin dreams,

“ And think their brains’ dull mudpools, WISDOM’s streams,

“ Too many a monarch lies; but, lo! not ours!

“ A King, who WISDOM’s very self devours;

“ Snaps at arts, sciences, where’er they rise,

“ With all the fire of boys at butterflies.

“ Such cannot surely own a little heart;

“ Therefore our locks and we may never part.”

Now, from a stool, a tinder-box he took,

And fiercely with the stone the steel he struck;

And, after many unsuccessful shocks,

The sparks inflam’d the tinder in the box;

Which,

Which, by a match which JOHN did sagely handle,

Gave sudden lustre to a farthing candle.

Thus, if small things with great we may compare,
We see hard pedagogues, with furious air,
Strike with the fist, and often with a stick,
Light through a scholar's scull, ten inches thick.

Now, full illuminated, DIXON stole,
Where lay a Master-cook within his hole:
From whence, to all th' inferior Cooks they went,
Inclin'd to Opposition's big intent;
But, not so fierce, alas! for opposition,
As in the threat'ning, bullying Petition;
For men (it is reported) dash and vapour
Less on the field of battle than on paper.
Thus, in the hist'ry of each dire campaign,
More carnage loads the news-paper than plain.
And now the Cooks and Scullions left each nest;
And now, behold, they one and all were drest.

Lo! fullen to the kitchen mov'd the throng,
Gloom on each eye, and silence on each tongue:
How much like crape-clad mourners round a bier!
But, ah! impress'd with sorrow more sincere;
For oft, at tombs, with joy the bosom burns—
There, 'tis the sable back alone that mourns.
Now making, with a few dry chips, a fire,
They fullen sat, their grief commix'd with ire;
Sad ruminating all around the flame,
Like Harry and his band, of deathless name,
Near Agincourt, expectant of the day
Big with the horrors of a bloody fray;

Q

A fray

A fray that threaten'd his poor little band,
 To sweep it, just like spiders, to that land
Terra incognita yclep'd, which stretches
 Afar—of which, imperfect are our sketches;
 Since all who have survey'd this distant bourn,
 So welcom'd were not suffer'd to return.
 Thus did the Cooks expect the fatal morn,
 When, sheep-like, every head was to be shorn.

Now to the whitening east they cast their sight,
 And wish'd, but vainly, an eternal night:
 Not with less pleasure stares upon the day,
 The wretch condemn'd hard Nature's debt to pay;
 Condemn'd ere noon to act a deed abhorr'd;
 To stretch, for Justice' sake, the fatal cord:
 Not with less pleasure shrunk (unknown to shame),
 A meat, drink, snuff, and diamond-loving DAME,
 When told, "That if poor Hastings went to
 " pot,

" Away went pearls, and jewels, and what not,
 " Torn from the stomacher so fine, yet foul,
 " Which AV'RICE thirsted for, and RAPINE stole:"
 Not with less pleasure, in the vale of life,
 Poor EGL-N-T-N beheld a youthful wife,
 (Forc'd, on a bed of ice, sweet flow'r, to bloom;
 Ah! forc'd to shine, a sun-beam, on a tomb)
 That blooming youthful wife, inclin'd to stray
 With HAM-LTON, all in a billing way;
 Just like two turtles, or a pair of lambs,
 Or ewes so playful with the frisky rams:

Not with less glee an old and hopeless maid
 Surveys the sun ascending from the shade;

A sun,

A fun, that gives a younger sister's charms,
 So hated, to a bridegroom's happy arms :
 Not with less joy, that raging chaste old maid
 Sees the frail Fair-ones in the Cyprian trade
 Escape the whip and gaol, and hemp beside,
 By means of gentle MISTER JUSTICE HYDE.
 Sweet wrecks of beauty ! though, with aspic eye,
 And glance disdainful, PRUDERY pass them by,
 With mincing step, and squinting cautious dread,
 As though their looks alone contagion shed.
I view each pallid WRETCH with grief sincere,
 And call on PIT for her tend'rest tear ;
 See, on their cheeks, the blush of VIRTUE burn ;
 Hear from their souls the sigh of RUIN mourn ;
 View, veil'd in HORROR's gloom, their swimming
 eyes,

Beaming with hopeless wishes to the skies,
 Like the pale MOON's dim solitary form,
 Wrapp'd in the darkness of the midnight storm.
 Too oft, by TREACH'RY's winning smile betray'd,
 Too fondly trusting, falls the simple maid !
 Too many a TH—L—E walks the world of woe,
 To foul of INNOCENCE the sacred snow !
 To love, yet nurse the thought of villain art,
 How hard a lesson for the partial heart !
 Too hard a lesson for the female soul,
 Where LOVE no partner owns, and scorns controul.

Not with less pleasure doth a Poet look
 On cruel criticism, which damns his book,
 Or recommends it to that peaceful shore
 Where books and bards are never heard of more,

Than look'd each man, with lengthen'd boding beard,
 On that sad morn, which doom'd them to be shear'd:
 Not with less pleasure, likewise, let me say,
 A hungry author sees his dying play;
 Child of his dotage, who surveys its fall,
 Just as mankind shall view the tumbling Ball,
 When sun, moon, stars, and all the distant spheres,
 Burst in one general wreck about their ears.
 Not with less pleasure did * SIR WILLIAM'S eye
 See SOMERSET'S bold wing desert its sky;
 A fall, at which the Nation's purse exclaims,
 That thund'ring crush'd the back of roaring THAMES:
 Not with less pleasure did SIR WILLIAM'S ear,
 A second crash of this fam'd fabric hear;
 When poor SIR JOSHUA, with his painting band,
 Swore the dread day of judgment just at hand.
 Not with less glee, tenacious of his dross,
 Ross † started—Reader! not the Man of Ross—
 When MAJESTY, to rest his royal head,
 Ask'd of the Church's mitred Son a bed;

Poor

* This gentleman still retains the place of Comptroller of the Board of Works, to the Kingdom's surprize; but demerit in Building, as well as in Painting, is a sufficient recommendation to a certain species of PATRONS, particularly if the Professors are despised by the people at large. It is the money of this Nation that is sought for, not the merit. The circumstance of being a foreigner too (for this same SIR WILLIAM CHAMBERS is a Swede), carries with it another strong claim to favouritism!

† The present BISHOP of EXETER, who, when his MAJESTY visited that ancient City lately, most handsomely excused himself the honour of entertaining his ROYAL MASTER, by billeting him upon DEAN BULLER. The following lines, extracted from

Poor Man ! who proving, like his Sovereign, poor,
 Begg'd him to knock at good DEAN BULLER's door;
 BULLER, who took his wand'ring master in,
 And stuff'd with corn and oil his scrip and skin;
 For

a manuscript performance of one JOHN PLOUGHSHARE, called
 The ROYAL PROGRESS, we think, will elucidate this part of our EPIC, and not be unacceptable to our readers.

' In comm'd the King at laste to town,
 ' With doubt and zweet az nutmeg brown,
 ' The hosses all in smoke;
 ' Huzzaing, trumpeting, and ringing,
 ' Red colours vleeing, roaring, dringing,
 ' Zo mad zeem'd all the voke.
 ' Wiping his zweaty jaws and poll,
 ' All over doubt we spied 'SQUIRE ROLLE,
 ' Close by the King's coach trattin;
 ' Now shoving in the coach his head,
 ' Meaning (we thoht) it might be zed,
 " 'SQUIRE ROLLE and GEORGE be chattin."

' Now went the ALDERMEN and MAY'R,
 ' Zome with cut wigs, and zome with hair,
 ' The Royal voke to ken;
 ' When MEASTER MAY'R, upon my word,
 ' Pok'd to the King a gert long fword,
 ' Which he pok'd back agen.

' Now thoofe that round his Worship stood,
 ' Declar'd it clumsily was dood;
 ' Yet SQUIRT, the people zay,
 ' Brandish'd a gert hofs glyster-pipe,
 ' To make un in his lesson ripe,
 ' That took up half a day.

' Now down droo Vore-street did they com,
 ' Zum hallowin, and screeching zum:

' Now

For which (on gratitude so wont to dote)
 The Monarch gave a TUMBLER—worth a groat!
 O glorious act! an act, how seldom seen!
 O what a day of gladness for the Dean!

A gift

‘ Now trudg’d they to the DEAN’S;
 ‘ Becaze the BISHOP zent mun word,
 “ A could not meat and drink avord,
 “ A had not got the means.”
 ‘ A zed, that, “ az vor he, poor man,
 “ A had not got a pot or pan,
 “ Nor spoon, nor knife, nor vork;
 “ That he was weak, and ould, and squeal,
 “ And zeldom made a hearty meal,
 “ And zeldom drade a cork.”
 ‘ Indeed, a is a moderate man,
 ‘ And zo be all the clargy clan,
 ‘ That with un come to chatter;
 ‘ Who, when they’re ax’d to a glafs of wine,
 ‘ To one the wother they tip the sign,
 ‘ And beg my Lord’s fine water.
 ‘ Then az vor rooms—why, there agen
 “ A could not lodge a cock, nor hen,
 “ They were zo small,” a zed;
 “ And, az vor beds, they wudn’t do,
 “ In number about one or two,
 “ Vor self and JOAN the maid.
 “ In voolish things, a wudn’t be cort;
 “ ’Twas stoopid to treat vokes for nort:—
 “ No; twazn’t heese desire.
 “ Prefarment, too, waz to an eend,
 “ The King woud never more vor’n zend,
 “ To lift un one peg higher.

“ And

A gift so rare, so noble, so sublime,
 Will stupify the sons of distant time.
 This, let the BULLER Family record;
 This brittle treasure let the BULLERS hoard;
 Yet show, exulting, upon gala days,
 To bid some favour'd GUEST admire and praise.
 Now did the MAJOR hum a tune so sad!
 Chromatic—in the robes of sorrow clad:
 But, lo! the ballad could not fear controul,
 Nor exorcise the Barbers from his soul:
 And now his lifted eyes the cieling sought;
 And now he whistled—not for want of thought.
 A mournful air the whistling MAJOR chose:
 Still on his rolling eye the razors rose,
 From grave to sprightly now he chang'd—a jig—
 Still o'er his haunted fancy wav'd the wig;
 Still saw his eye alarm'd, the * Scratch abhorr'd,
 Like wild Macbeth's, the visionary sword.—

Thus,

“ And yet vokes zay's a man o' sense,
 “ Honest and good—but hoardth his pence;
 “ Can't peart with drink nor met:
 “ An then why vore?” the peepel rail:—
 “ To greaze a vat ould pig in the tail—
 “ OULD WEYMOUTH o' Long Leat.”

‘ Well, to the DEAN's, bounce in they went,
 ‘ And all the day in munchin spent,
 ‘ And guzlin, too, no doubt;
 ‘ And while the Gentry drink'd within,
 ‘ The Mob, with brandy, ale, and gin,
 ‘ Got roaring drunk without.’

* A small wig, or rather an apology for a wig, so called, and generally worn by our most amiable and august Monarch.

Thus, from what Kings, alas! may fancy fun,
His loving subjects may be glad to run:

Thus, when SAINT SWITHEN from his fountain pours,

(SAINT SWITHEN, tutelary Saint of show'rs)
Beaux skip, belles scamper, fly the cocks and hens,
With drooping plumage, to the shelt'ring pens;
While lo! the waddling ducks Te Deum utter,
Flap their glad wings, and gabble through the gutter.

Sing, MUSE! or, lo! our Canto not complete,
What air he humm'd, and whistled all so sweet.
HOMER, of ev'ry thing minutely speaks,
From Heaven's ambrosia, to a camp's beef-steaks:
Then let us, MUSE, adopt a march sublime,
And try to rival HOMER with our rhyme;
Who, had a NIT, in JUNO's tresses bred,
Dropp'd on divine MINERVA's wiser head;
Or COOK-like FLEA, exploring some new track,
Hopp'd from the clouds to AGAMEMNON's back;
The BARD had sung the fall in verse divine,
And CRITICS heard the sound along the line.
JOVE call'd his JUNO only saucy bitch;
The POET thought it would his song enrich:
JOVE, too, just threaten'd, with some birchen rods,
To whip her publicly before the Gods;
The BARD (though but a flogging-bout at most)
Deem'd it indeed too sacred to be lost:
JOVE call'd his daughter only bitch and fool
(Poor PALLAS, treated like a girl at school),
Threaten'd to ham-string her fix fav'rite nags,
And tear her bran-new phaëton to rags;

The

The BARD, who never wrote an idle word,
Bade his bold verse, the GOD's bold speech record:
And had the THUND'RER but broke wind, the song
Had, imitative, born the blast along.—
Then be it known to all the world around,
To folks above, and people under ground,
To fish and fowl, and every creeping thing—
Lillibullero, and God save the King
Were actually the very airs he chose!
But wherefore—GOD ALMIGHTY only knows!

CANTO IV.

THE ARGUMENT.

MORNING and MAJESTY get out of bed together—A most solemn and pathetic address to the Muse, with respect to Omens—A serious complaint against the Omens for their non-appearance on so important an occasion—The wives and daughters of the Cooks seek the Palace, to encourage their husbands—A beautiful comparison of cocks and hens—The dismay of the Cooks—The natural history of eyes—MISTER RAMUS enters the kitchen—MISTER RAMUS is praised for dexterity in shaving MAJESTY—MISTER RAMUS's consequence with MAJESTY superior to that of great Ministers—MISTER RAMUS's namby-pamby name Billy, given by MAJESTY—The dread occasioned by MISTER RAMUS's appearance amongst the Cooks—MISTER SECKER, Clerk of the Kitchen, enters in a passion—MISTER SECKER threatens tremendously—A wife of one of the Cooks nobly answers MISTER SECKER, and vows opposition—MISTER SECKER replies with astonishment, vociferation, and threat—The HEROINE's rejoinder to MISTER RAMUS, with much sarcasm—MISTER SECKER groweth very wroth—studieth revenge—PRUDENCE appeareth to him, and administereth great and wholesome advice—PRUDENCE becalmeth the Clerk of the Kitchen—A second HEROINE appeareth, speechifieth, and threateneth—sily alludeth to the immense wealth of male MAJESTY, and the heaps of diamonds belonging to female MAJESTY—praiseth her husband's cleanliness, and denieth a louse-existence in his head, and squinteth at MISTER SECKER as the probable owner of the animal—MISTER SECKER rageth a second time—One of the finest comparisons in the world, between MISTER SECKER in a passion, and a LEG OF MUTTON and TURNIPS in the pot—The POET pauseth, moralizeth, and trembleth at that Devil, lately introduced to the world, called EQUALITY, the enemy of MAJESTY—Some of the sweetest lines in the world on the occasion—PRUDENCE re-entereth to becalm MISTER SECKER, by clapping her hand on his mouth—An inexpressible apt bottle-

bottle-of-small-beer comparifon—The COOK-MAJOR rifeth in wrath, and is very fatirical on MISTER SECKER—The CLERK OF THE KITCHEN replies with intrepidity—A great deal of good Company rushes into the kitchen—MISTER SECKER commands filence, and announces the will of his Sovereign—The SOVEREIGN eloquently announceth alfo his own will—A fwcet and fublime comparifon, equal to any thing in HOMER.

CANTO THE FOURTH.

WITH With beauteous LAMBERT's blush, and RUSSEL's smiles,
AURORA peep'd upon the first of Isles;
And lo, to bleating flock, and whistling bird,
Uprose the Sun, and uprose G. THE THIRD,
Who left his Queen so charming, and her room,
To talk of hounds and horses with the Groom.
Say, MUSE, what! not one cloud with low'ring looks,
To gloom compassion on the heads of Cooks?
What! not one solitary omen sent;
Not one small sign, to tell the great event?
On CATO's danger, clouds of ev'ry shape
Hung on the firmament their dismal crape;
AURORA wept, poor girl, with sorrow big;
And PHOEBUS rose without his golden wig!
But now the skies their usual manners lost,
The sun and moon, and all the starry host!
No raven at the window flapp'd his wings,
And croak'd portentous to the Cooks of Kings;
No

No horses neigh'd, no bullocks roar'd so stout;
No sheep, like sheep be-devil'd, ran about;
No lightnings flash'd, no thunder deign'd to growl;
No walls re-echo'd to the mournful owl;
No jackals bray'd affright; no ghost 'gan wail;
No comet threaten'd empires with his tail;
No witches, wildly screaming, rode the broom;
No pewter platters danc'd about the room.
Thus unregarded droop'd each menac'd head,
As though the omens all were really dead;
As unregarded (what a horrid slur!)
As though the Monarch meant to shave a cur!

Now to the kitchen of the Palace came
Full many a damsel sweet, and daring dame,
The wives and daughters of those Cooks forlorn
Whose luckless heads were threaten'd to be shorn:
Ire in each eye, and vengeance in each hand,
To cheer their husbands, pour'd the boastful Band!
Thus, when the ancient Britons rush'd to battle,
Their wives intrepid join'd the general rattle;
Encouraging their husbands in the fray,
For fear some pale-nos'd rogues might run away:
O glorious act!—repelling coward fear.—
Thus cocks fight bravest when the hens are near.

Now on the band of Ladies star'd the Cooks,
And seem'd to shew hair-ruin in their looks,
Great is the eloquence of eyes indeed—
Much hist'ry in those tell-tale orbs we read!
What though no bigger than a button-hole,
Yet what a wondrous window to the soul!
The bosom's joy, and grief, and hope, and fear,
In lively colours are depicted here!

Now

Now to the crowded kitchen RAMUS springs,
 RAMUS, call'd BILLY by the best of Kings;
 Who much of razors and of soap-suds knows,
 Well skill'd to take Great CÆsar by the nose:
 Much by his Sovereign lov'd, a trusty Page,
 Who often puts great Statesmen in a rage;
 Poor LORDS! compell'd against their will to wait,
 Though ass-like laden with affairs of State,
 Till Page and Monarch finish deep disputes
 On buckskin breeches, or a pair of boots!

Billy, a pretty name of love, so sweet,
 Familiar, easy, for affection meet!
 Thus formal Patrick is transform'd to Paddy;
 And Father, by the children christen'd Daddy:
 And OLIVER, who could e'en Kings control,
 By many a thousand is baptiz'd OLD NOLL.

Speak, READER, didn't thou ever see a ghost?
 If so—thou stoodest staring, like a post:
 Thus did the COOKS on BILLY RAMUS stare,
 Whose frightful presence porcupin'd each hair.
 Now enter'd *SECKER—and now thus he spoke:—
 “This Louse affair's a very pretty joke!
 “Arn't you aham'd of it, you dirty dogs?—
 “Zounds! have you all been sleeping with the hogs?
 “But mind—you'll be, to all your great delight,
 “Bald as so many coots before 'tis night.
 “No murmurs, gentlemen—'tis all in vain:
 “When Monarchs order, who shall dare complain?”
 Now from the female Band, a HEROINE rav'd,
 “G-d curse me, if my husband shall be shav'd!

VOL. I.

R

“You

* Late Clerk of the Kitchen.

" You shan't, you shan't the fellow's head disgrace ;

" I say the man shall sooner lose his place.

" Wigs, like the very devil, I loath, I hate—

" And curse me, if a nightcap hugs his pate."—

" How, IMPUDENCE!" the wrathful SECKER cry'd,
With horror staring, and a mouth yard-wide—

" Where, where's my stick, my cane, my whip, my " switch ?

" Who taught rebellion t'ye, you saucy b—?"—

" Myself," with hands akembow, cry'd the Dame :

" I tell ye, MISTER SECKER, 'tis a shame ;

" I tell ye that the Cooks will all be fools,

" To suffer razors to come near their skulls.

" Bitch too, forsooth! the language of a hog!

" If I'm a bitch, then somebody's a dog."

Now all th' internal man of SECKER boil'd ;
From thought to thought of turbulence he toil'd :
Now, resolution-fraught, he wish'd to stick her,
Now in her face to spit, and now to kick her.
But PRUDENCE in that very moment came,
And sweetly whisper'd to the man of flame—

" Fie, SECKER! kick a woman! SECKER, fie!

" On matter more sublime, thy prowess try—

" No glory springs from kicking wives of Cooks :

" Strive to surpass great Kings in binding books ;

" Transcend great Kings in forcing stubborn kine

" To breakfast on horse-chestnuts, sup, and dine ;

" In educating pigs, be thou as deep ;

" And learn, like Kings, to feel the rumps of sheep.

" Go, triumph at the market-towns with wool :

" Go, breed for lady-cows the bravest bull ;

" Tow'r o'er the scepter'd GREAT in fat of lambs,

" And rise a rival in the breed of rams.—

- “ These be thine acts—from hence fair glory flows, “ Whose beam, a bonfire round a Monarch glows.
 “ Surpass in charity towards the Poor;
 “ Nor bully starving MERIT from the door.
 “ Behold, for patronage lean GENIUS pant!
 “ What though the wealthy Great a taste may want,
 “ Yet, would they cast their eyes on pining MERIT,
 “ Those eyes would quickly warm her frozen spirit.
 “ The fool may lift the MOURNER from the tomb,
 “ And bid the buried seeds of GENIUS bloom.
 “ Yes, fools of Fortune, did those fools incline
 “ To look on humble WORTH, might bid her shine:
 “ Thus tallow candles in a chandelier,
 “ Make the keen beauties of the glass appear,
 “ Call into note a thousand trembling rays,
 “ And share the merit of the mingled blaze.
 “ The GREAT should bid like SUNS their treasures
 “ flow,
 “ Whose beams wide-spreading no distinction know;
 “ But equal bid the crab and pine be ripe,
 “ And light at once a system and a pipe.”

Thus PRUDENCE spoke, when SECKER to the
DAME,

Confess'd his fault, and stopp'd the bursting flame.
 Now storm'd a second Heroine from the band,
 Call'd JOAN, and full at SECKER made a stand—
 “ I say, TOM shan't be shav'd—he shan't—he shan't,
 “ Leek porridge, stirabout, we'll sooner want;
 “ We'll rather hunt the gutters for our meat;
 “ Cry mackrel, or sing ballads through the street;
 “ Foot stockings, mend old china, or black shoes,
 “ Sooner than TOM, poor soul, his locks shall lose, R 2 “ Humph!

- " Humph ! what a pretty hoity toity's here ?
 " THOMAS, I say, shan't lose his locks, poor dear !
 " Shav'd too ! cause people happen to be poor—
 " I never heard of such a trick before.
 " Folks think they may take freedoms with a Cook—
 " Go, ask your MASTER if he'd shave a Duke.
 " Nor—if he dar'd to do it, I'll be curst :
 " No, SECKER, he would eat the razor first.
 " Good lord ! to think poor people's heads to plun-
 " der—
 " Why, lord ! are people drunk, or mad, I wonder ?
 " What ! shall my poor dear husband lose his locks
 " Because a ha'n't ten millions in the stocks ?
 " Because on me, forsooth, a can't bestow
 " A di'mond petticoat, to make a show ?
 " Marry come up, indeed—a pretty joke—
 " Any thing's good enough for humble folk :
 " Shov'd here and there, forsooth ; call'd dog
 " and b—,
 " God blefs us well, because we are, not rich.
 " People will soon be beat about with sticks,
 " Forsooth, because they han't a coach and fix.
 " A shan't be shav'd, and I'm his lawful wife :
 " The man was never lousy in his life.
 " As what his mother says—his nearest kin—
 " ' Tom never had a blotch upon his skin,
 " ' But when a had the measles and small pox.'
 " What for, then, shall the fellow lose his locks ?
 " ' She never in her life-time saw (she says)
 " ' A tidier, cleaner lad, in all her days—
 " ' And all her neighbours said with huge surprise,
 " ' A finer boy was never seen with eyes !'

" So,

- " So, Mister SECKER, let's have no more touffe ;
 " Hunt further for the owner of the louse.
 " Sir, 'tis a burning shame, I'm bold to say,
 " To take poor people's character away.
 " Who knows the varmine is n't your own, ods-
 " fish !
 " You're fond of peeping into ev'ry dish."

Again of SECKER boil'd th' internal man ;
 Thought urging thought, again to rage began :
 Huge thoughts of diff'rent fizes swell'd his soul ;
 Now mounting high, now sinking low they roll ;
 Bustling here, there, up, down, and round about ;
 So wild the mob, so terrible the rout !
 How like a LEG OF MUTTON in the pot,
 With turnips thick surrounded all so hot !
 Amidst the gulph of broth, sublime, profound,
 Tumultuous, jostling, how they rush around !
 Now up the turnips mount with skins of snow,
 While restless lab'ring MUTTON dives below—
 Now lofty soaring, climbs the leg of sheep,
 While TURNIP downward plunges 'mid the deep ;
 Strange such resemblances in things should lie !
 But what escapes the Poet's piercing eye ?
 Just like the Sun—for what escapes his ray,
 Who darts on deepest shade the golden day ?

Muse, let us pause a moment—here we see
 A woman, certainly of low degree,
 Reviling folk of elevated station ;
 Thus waging war with mild SUBORDINATION.
 Should sweet SUBORDINATION chance to die,
 Adieu to Kings and Courtier-men so high ;

Then

Then will that IMP EQUALITY prevail,
 Who knows no difference between head and tail;
 Then MAJESTY, the lofty nose who lifts,
 With tears shall wash and iron her own shifts;
 To darn her stockings, from her height descend,
 Which now are giv'n to * MACKENTHUN to mend—
 Turn her fair fingers into vulgar paws,
 And wash her dirty laces and her gauze.
 Then dimm'd are coronets that awe inspire,
 And sceptres stuff'd, like faggots, in the fire.
 Ne'er let me view the hour, my soul that shocks,
 When female Majesty shall wash her smocks;
 Such humbled grandeur let me never see;
 Soapfuds and Sov'reignty but ill agree;
 Malkin and Majesty, but ill accord:
 Rubbers and Royalty, are kin abhorr'd!
 Strange union! 'tis the Vulture and the Bat;
 A gulph and mudpool—elephant and rat;
 A great Archbishop, and an Undertaker;
 The Muse of Epic, and a riddle-maker;
 A roaring King in tragedy sublime;
 And he who plays poor Pug in Pantomime;
 The Lord who in the Senate wonder draws,
 Firm in the fair support of Freedom's cause;
 And that same Lord, behind the scenes, a snail,
 Who, crawling, of an actress † holds the tail;
 MARCHESI on the stage with steel and plume,
 And that MARCHESI in a lady's room;

Sir

* A lady, attendant on the Princesses.

† Miss Farren.

Sir * JOSEPH, Jove-like, with his hammer'd arm,
 Who thund'ring breaks of sleep the opiate charm;
 And that SIR JOSEPH, with a simple look,
 Collecting simples near the simple brook.

Again came PRUDENCE, Quaker-looking form,
 Sweet-humour'd Goddess, to suppress the storm,
 Who clapp'd her hands (indeed an act uncouth)
 Full on the gaping hole of SECKER's mouth;
 Compressing thus a thousand iron words,
 Sharp ev'ry soul of them as points of swords:
 But soon her hand forsook his lips and chin;
 Who own the Goddess, and but gave a grin.
 Thus from a fretful bottle of small beer,
 If, mad, the cork should leap with wild career;
 Lo, to the bottle's mouth the butler flies,
 And with dexterity his hand applies!
 In vain the liquor bustles 'mid the dome;
 John quells all fury, and subdues the foam!
 Now rose the MAJOR—"Mister SECKER—Sir,
 "You make in this affair a pretty stir!
 "'Twere doubtless a fine present in a box,
 "To offer to our sovereign Lord, the locks:
 "Some vast reward would follow, to be sure;
 "A pretty little, sweet, snug, sinecure.
 "Yes—MASTER SECKER well can play his cards:
 "Sublime achievements claim sublime rewards.
 "I humbly do presume, Sir, that his Grace
 "Has promis'd ye a warm Exciseman's place:

"Some

* SIR JOSEPH BANKS. A part of his royal insignia is a hammer to knock down a dispute, and keep the Royal Society awake.

"Some folks are Jacks-in-office, fond of power!"
Thus spoke the Cook, like vinegar so sour.

"No matter, Master Major, what I get;

"All that I know, is this, your heads shall sweat:

"I'll see the business done—depend upon't—

"I'll order matters, d—n me if I don't:

"Yes, Master Dixon, you shall know who's who—

"Which is the better gemman, I or you."

Thus answers SECKER to the man of woes,

And points his satire with a cock'd-up nose.

Scarce had he utter'd, when a noise was heard;

And now behold a motley band appear'd!

With Babel sounds at once the kitchen rings,

Of Groom, Page, Barber, and the best of Kings!

And lo, the best of Queens must see the fun;

And lo, the Princesses so beauteous run;

And Madam SCHWELLENBERG came hobbling too;

Poor lady, losing in the race a shoe!

But in revenge-pursuit, the loss how slight!

The world would lose a leg, to please a spite.

And now for Peace did SECKER bawl aloud;

And lo, PEACE came at once among the crowd.

In courts of justice thus, to hush the hum,

"Silence!" the cryer calls, and all is mum—

"Cooks, Scullions, all, of high and low degree,

"Attend, and learn our Monarch's will from me.

"Our Sov'reign Lord the King, whose word is fate,

"Wills in his wisdom to see shav'd each pate:

"Then, Gentlemen, pray take your chairs at once;

"And let each barber fall upon his sconce."—

Thus thunder'd SECKER with a MARS-like face,

And struck dire terror through the roasting race.

Thus

Thus roar'd ACHILLES 'mid the martial fray,
When ev'ry frighted Trojan ran away.

Calm was the crowd, when thus the King of Isles
Firm for the shave, but yet with kingly smiles—

“ You must be shav'd—you shall, you must indeed :

“ No, no, I sha'nt let slip a single head—

“ A very filthy, nasty, dirty trick—

“ The thought on't turns my stomach—makes me
“ sick.

“ Louse—louse—a nasty thing, a louse I hate :—

“ No, no, I'll have no more upon my plate.

“ One is sufficient—yes, yes—quite a store—

“ I'll have no more—no more, I'll have no more.”

Thus spoke the King, like ev'ry king who gives
To trifles, lustre that for ever lives.

Thus stinking vapours from the oozy pool,
Of cats and kittens, dogs and puppies full,
Bright SOL sublimes, and gives them golden wings,
The cloud on which some say, the Cherub sings.

Thus rook'd Achilles, and the martial fray,
When every instant Trojan ran away.

Calm was the crowd, when from the King of Iles
Thus to the brave, but yet with kindly smiles—

"You shall be lov'd—you shall, you must indeed:
No, no, I shall let slip a single head—

"A silly thing, really, silly trick—
The thought, and turns my stomach—makes me

"Sick.
Loud—loud—a noisy thing, a noise I hate—

"No, no, I'll have no more upon my plate.
One is sufficient—yes, yes—quite a feast—

"I'll have no more—no more, I'll have no more.
Thus spoke the King, like every king who gives

To ridges, ridges that for ever live,
Thus smiling, roars from the dizzy pool,

Of his redoubtless dogs, and prouder still,
Bright sea-birds, and gives them golden wings,

The cloud on which they fly, the clouds that

JAMES BOSWELL ESQ

JOURNAL OF A TOUR TO THE WERIDIS

DOCTOR JOHNSON

POETICAL EPISTLE, &c.

O BOSWELL, Bozzy, Bruce,* whate'er thy name,

Thou mighty shark for anecdote and fame;
Thou jackall, leading lion Johnson forth
To eat McPherson † 'midst his native North;
To frighten grave professors with his roar,
And shake the Hebrides from shore to shore—
All hail! At length, ambitious Thane, thy rage
To give one spark to FAME's bespangled page
Is amply gratified—a thousand eyes
Survey thy books with rapture and surprise!
Loud, of thy Tour, a thousand tongues have spoken,
And wonder'd that thy bones were never broken!

Triumphant, thou thro' TIME's vast gulph shalt fail,
The pilot of our literary whale;

Close

* Vide Note, page 16.

† The translator (but in Dr. Johnson's opinion the author) of the Poems attributed to OSSIAN.

Close to the classic RAMBLER shalt thou cling,
 Close as a supple courtier to a king;
 Fate shall not shake thee off with all its pow'r,
 Stuck like a bat to some old ivy'd tow'r.
 Nay, though thy Johnson ne'er had blest'd thine
 eyes,

Paoli's deeds had rais'd thee to the skies!
 Yes! his broad wing had rais'd thee (no bad hack)
 A tom-tit twitt'ring on an eagle's back.

THOU, curious scrapmonger, shalt live in song
 When death hath still'd the rattle of thy tongue;
 E'en future babes to lisp thy name shall learn,
 And Bozzy join with Wood, and Tommy Hearn,
 Who drove the spiders from much prose and rhyme,
 And snatch'd old stories from the jaws of TIME,
 Sweet is thy page, * I ween, that doth recite
 How thou and Johnson, arm in arm, one night,
 March'd through fair Edinburgh's pactolian show'rs,
 Which CLOACINA bountifully pours;
 Those gracious show'rs that fraught with fragrance
 flow,

And gild, like gingerbread, the world below.
 How sweetly grumbled too was Sam's remark,
 "I smell you, Master Bozzy, in the dark!"
 Alas! historians are confounded dull;
 A dim Bœotia reigns in every skull;
 Mere beasts of burden, broken-winded, flow,
 Heavy as cart-horses, along they go;
 Whilst thou, a will-o'-whisp, up, down, here, there,
 Wild dartest coruscations ev'ry where.

What

* Vide page 14.

What tasteless mouth can gape, what eye can close,
 What head can nod o'er thy enlivening prose?
 To others' works, the works of thy inditing
 Are downright di'monds to the eyes of whitening.
 Think not I flatter thee, my slipper friend;
 For well I know that flatt'ry would offend:
 Yet honest praise, I'm sure, thou would'st not shun,
 Born with a stomach to digest a tun!
 Who can refuse a smile, that reads thy page,
 Where surly Sam, inflam'd with Tory rage,
 Nassau bescoundrels, and with anger big,
 Swears Whigs are rogues, and ev'ry rogue a Whig?
 Who will not, too, thy pen's minutiae bless,
 That gives posterity the RAMBLER'S * dress;
 Methinks I view his full, plain suit of brown,
 The large grey bushy wig that grac'd his crown,
 Black worsted stockings, little silver buckles,
 And shirt that had no ruffles for his knuckles.
 I mark the brown great-coat of cloth he wore,
 That two huge Patagonian pockets bore,
 Which Patagonians (wond'rous to unfold!)
 Would fairly both his Dictionaries hold.
 I see the RAMBLER § on a large bay mare,
 Just like a Centaur ev'ry danger dare,
 On a full gallop dash the yielding wind,
 The colt and Bozzy scamp'ring close behind.

Of Lady Lochbuy † with what glee we read,
 Who offer'd Sam, for breakfast, cold sheep's head;
 Who, press'd and worry'd by this dame so civil,
 Wish'd the sheep's head and woman's at the devil.

* Vide page 9.

† Page 429.

I see you failing both in Buchan's * pot—
 Now storming an old woman † and her cot;
 Who, terrified at each tremendous shape,
 Deem'd you two Demons ready for a rape:
 I see all marv'ling at M^rLeod's together
 On Sam's remarks † on whey and tanning leather:
 At Gorrichatachin's, § the Lord knows how,
 I see thee, Bozzy, drunk as David's sow,
 And begging, with rais'd eyes and lengthen'd chin,
 Heav'n not to damn thee for the deadly sin:
 I see too, the stern moralist regale,
 And pen a Latin ode to Mistress Thrale. ||
 I see, without a night-cap on his head,
 Rare sight! bald Sam in the Pretender's ¶ bed:
 I hear (what's wonderful!) unsought by studying,
 His classic dissertation upon pudding: **
 Of provost Jopp, †† I mark the marv'ling face,
 Who gave the Rambler's freedom with a grace:
 I see too, trav'ling from the ISLE of Egg, †††
 The humble servant §§ of a horse's leg;
 And SNIP, the taylor, from the ISLE of MUCK, ||||
 Who stitch'd in SKY with tolerable luck:
 I see the horn that drunkards must adore;
 The horn, the mighty horn of Rorie More; ¶¶
 And bloody shields that guarded hearts in quarrels,
 Now guard from rats the milk and butter barrels.
 Methinks the Caledonian dame I see
 Familiar sitting on the RAMBLER's knee,
 Charming,

Charming, with kisses sweet, the chuckling sage:
 Melting with sweetest smiles the frost of age;
 Like SOL, who darts at times a cheerful ray
 O'er the wan visage of a winter's day.
 "Do it again, my dear," (I hear SAM cry)
 "See who first tires, my charmer, you or I."
 I see thee stuffing, with a hand uncouth,
 An old dry'd whiting in thy JOHNSON'S mouth;
 And lo! I see, with all his might and main,
 Thy JOHNSON spit the whiting out again.
 Rare anecdotes! 'tis anecdotes like these
 That bring thee glory, and the million please!
 On these shall future times delighted stare,
 Thou charming haberdasher of small ware!
 STEWART and ROBERTSON, from thee, shall learn
 The simple charms of HIST'RY to discern:
 To thee, fair HIST'RY'S palm, shall LIVY yield,
 And TACITUS, to BOZZY, leave the field!
 JOE MILLER'S self, whose page such fun provokes,
 Shall quit his shroud, to grin at BOZZY'S jokes!
 How are we all with rapture touch'd, to see
 Where, when, and at what hour, you swallow'd tea!
 How, once, to grace this ASIATIC treat,
 Came haddocks, which the RAMBLER could not eat.
 Pleas'd, on thy book thy Sov'reign's eye-balls roll,
 Who loves a gossip's story from his soul!
 Blest with the mem'ry of the Persian king,*
 Who, ev'ry body knows, and ev'ry thing;
 Who's dead, who's married, what poor girl beguil'd
 Hath lost a paramour, and found a child;

Which gard'ner hath most cabbages and peas,
 And which old woman hath most hives of bees;
 Which farmer boasts the most prolific sows,
 Cocks, hens, geese, turkeys, goats, sheep, bulls, and cows;

Which barber best the ladies' locks can curl;
 Which house in Windsor sells the finest purl;
 Which chimney-sweep best beats, in gold array,
 His brush, and shovel, on the first of May;
 Whose dancing dogs in rigadoons excel;
 And whose the puppet-shew, that bears the bell;
 Which clever smith, the prettiest man-trap* makes,
 To save from thieves the royal ducks and drakes,
 The Guinea hens and peacocks, with their eggs,
 And catch his loving subjects by the legs.

Oh! since the Prince of gossips reads thy book,
 To what high honours may not Bozzy look?

The sun-shine of his smile may soon be thine—

Perchaunce, in converse thou may'st hear him shine:

Perchaunce, to stamp thy merit through the nation,

He begs of Johnson's Life, thy dedication;

Asks questions† of thee, and, O lucky elf,

Most kindly answers ev'ry one himself.

Blest

* His M——y hath planted a number of those trusty guardians around his park at Windsor, for the benefit of the public.

† Just after Dr. Johnson had been honoured with an interview with a certain great personage, in the Queen's library at Buckingham House, he was interrogated by a friend concerning his reception, and his opinion of the r-y-l intellect.—“His M——y seems to be possessed of some good nature and much curiosity (replied the Doctor): as for his rec, it is not contemptible. His M——y indeed was multifarious in his questions; but, thank God, he answered them all himself.”

Blest with the classic learning * of a college,
 Our K—g is not a miser in his knowledge :
 Nought in the storehouse of his brains turns musty ;
 No razor-wit, for want of use, grows rusty :
 Whate'er his head suggests, whate'er he knows,
 Free as election beer from tubs, it flows !
 Yet, ah ! superior far !—it boasts the merit
 Of never fuddling people with the spirit !
 Say, Bozzy, when, to bless our anxious fight,
 When shall thy volume † burst the gates of light ?
 Oh, cloth'd in calf, ambitious brat, be born—
 Our kitchens, parlours, libraries, adorn !
 My fancy's keen anticipating eye,
 A thousand charming anecdotes can spy :
 I read, I read of G—ge the learn'd ‡ display
 On Lowth's and Warburton's immortal fray :
 Of G—ge, whose brain, if right the mark I hit,
 Forms one huge Cyclopædia of wit ;
 That holds the wisdom of a thousand ages,
 And frightens all his workmen and his pages !

S 2

O Bozzy,

* This is a very extraordinary circumstance : the late P——
 D——r retained three parts of the money ordered for the education of her children. The effect of this miserable conduct was so conspicuous in her daughter M——A, that the letters received from her during her residence in Denmark, were absolutely unintelligible.

† The Life of Dr. Johnson.

‡ His M——y's commentary on the quarrel, in which the Bishop and the Doctor pelted one the other with dirt so gracefully, will be a treasure to the lovers of literature ! Mr. B. hath as good as promised it to the public, and, we hope, means to keep his word.

O Bozzy, still, thy tell-tale plan pursue :
 The world is wond'rous fond of something new ;
 And, let but SCANDAL's breath embalm the page,
 It lives a welcome guest from age to age.
 Not only say who breathes an arrant knave,
 But who hath sneak'd a rascal to his grave :
 Make o'er his turf (in Virtue's cause) a rout,
 And, like a d-mn'd good Christian, pull him out.
 Without a fear, on families harangue ;
 Say who shall lose their ears, and who shall hang ;
 Publish the demi-reps, and punks—nay more,
 Declare what virtuous wife will be a wh-re.
 Thy brilliant brain, conjecture can supply,
 To charm through ev'ry leaf the eager eye.
 The blue-stocking * society describe,
 And give thy comment on each joke, and jibe :
 Tell what the women are, their wit, their quality,
 And dip them in thy streams of immortality !

Let Lord M'Donald threat thy breech to kick, †
 And o'er thy shrinking shoulders shake his stick :
 Treat with contempt the menace of this Lord ;
 'Tis Hist'ry's province, Bozzy, to record,
 Though Wilkes abuse thy brain, that airy mill,
 And swear poor Johnson murder'd by thy quill ;

What's

* A club chiefly composed of most learned ladies, profound critics, and self-delegated ARBITERS of taste, to which Mr. B. was admitted.

† A letter of severe remonstrance was sent to Mr. B. who, in consequence, omitted, in the second edition of his Journal, what is so generally pleasing to the public, viz. the scandalous passages relative to this nobleman.

What's that to thee? Why let the victim bleed—
 Thy end is answer'd, if the nation read.
 The fiddling Knight, * and tuneful Mistress Thrale,
 Who frequent hobb'd or nobb'd with Sam, in ale,
 Snatch'd up the pen (as thirst of fame inspires!)
 To write his jokes and stories by their fires;
 Then why not thou, each joke and tale enrol,
 Who like a watchful cat, before a hole,
 Full twenty years (inflam'd with letter'd pride)
 Didst mousing sit before Sam's mouth so wide,
 To catch as many scraps as thou wert able—
 A very Laz'rus at the rich man's table?
 What though against thee porters † bounce the door,
 And bid thee hunt for secrets there no more;
 With pen and ink so ready at thy coat,
 Exciseman-like, each syllable to note,
 That giv'n to printer's devils, (a precious load!)
 On wings of print comes flying all abroad?
 Watch then the venal valets—smack the maids,
 And try with gold to make them rogues and jades;
 Yet should their honesty thy bribes resent;
 Fly to thy fertile genius, and invent:
 Like old Voltaire, who plac'd his greatest glory
 In cooking up an entertaining story;
 Who laugh'd at TRUTH, whene'er her simple tongue
 Would snatch amusement from a tale or song.
Oh!

* Sir John Hawkins, who (as well as Mrs. Thrale, now Madam Piozzi) threatens us with the life of the late lexicographer.

† This is literally true—"Nobody is at home."—Our great people want the taste to relish Mr. Boswell's vehicles to immortality. Though in London, poor Bozzy is in a desert.

Oh! whilst, amid the anecdotic mine,
 Thou labour'st hard to bid thy HERO shine,
 Run to Bolt Court, † exert thy Curl-like || foul,
 And fish for golden leaves from hole to hole:
 Find when he ate and drank, and cough'd and sneez'd,
 Let all his motions in thy book be squeez'd:
 On tales, however strange, impose thy claw;
 Yes, let thy amber lick up ev'ry straw:
 Sam's nods, and winks, and laughs, will form a treat;
 For all that breathes of Johnson must be great!

Blest be thy labours, most advent'rous Bozzi,
 Bold rival of Sir John, and Dame Piozzi;
 Heav'ns! with what laurels shall thy head be crown'd!
 A grove, a forest, shall thy ears surround!
 Yes, whilst the RAMBLER shall a comet blaze,
 And gild a world of darkness with his rays;
 Thee too, that world, with wonderment, shall hail,
 A lively, bouncing cracker at his tail!

 temples of Cloacina for the letters of Pope and Swift.

P O S T S C R I P T.

AS Mr. BOSWELL'S Journal hath afforded such universal pleasure by the relation of minute incidents, and the great Moralist's opinion of men and things, during his northern tour; it will be adding greatly to the anecdotal treasury, as well as making Mr. B. happy, to communicate part of a Dialogue that took place between Dr. Johnson, and the Author of this Congratulatory Epistle, a few months before the Doctor paid the great debt of nature. The Doctor was very cheerful that day; had on a black coat and waistcoat, a black plush pair of breeches, and black worsted stockings, a handsome grey wig, a shirt, a muslin neckcloth, a black pair of buttons in his shirt sleeves, a pair of shoes ornamented with the very identical little buckles that accompanied the philosopher to the Hebrides; his nails were very neatly pared, and his beard fresh shaved with a razor fabricated by the ingenious Mr. Savigny.

P. P. " Pray, Doctor, what is your opinion of " Mr. Boswell's literary powers?"

Johnson. " Sir, my opinion is, that whenever Boszy expires, he will create no vacuum in the region of literature—he seems strongly affected by the cacoethes scribendi; wishes to be thought a rara avis, and in truth so he is—your knowledge in ornithology, Sir, will easily discover, to what species of bird I allude." Here the Doctor shook his head, and laughed.
 . of

P. P. "What think you, Sir, of his account of Corfica?—of his character of Paoli?"

Johnson. "Sir, he hath made a mountain of a wart. But Paoli has virtues. The account is a far-rago of disgusting egotism and pompous inanity."

P. P. "I have heard it whispered, Doctor, that, should you die before him, Mr. B. means to write your life."

Johnson. "Sir, he cannot mean me so irreparable an injury.—Which of us shall die first, is only known to the Great Disposer of events; but were I sure that James Boswell would write my life, I do not know whether I would not anticipate the measure, by taking his." (Here he made three or four strides across the room, and returned to his chair with violent emotion.)

P. P. "I am afraid that he means to do you the favour."

Johnson. "He dares not—he would make a scarecrow of me. I give him liberty to fire his blunderbuss in his own face, but not murder me. Sir, I heed not his αυτος εφα—BOSWELL write my life! why the fellow possesses not abilities for writing the life of an ephemeron."

THE ARGUMENT.

ON the death of DOCTOR JOHNSON, a number of people, ambitious of being distinguished from the mute part of their species, set about relating and printing stories and bons-mots of that celebrated moralist. Among the most zealous, though not the most enlightened, appeared Mr. BOSWELL and MADAME PIOZZI, the HERO and HEROINE of our ECLOGUE. They are supposed to have in contemplation the Life of JOHNSON; and to prove their biographical abilities, appeal to SIR JOHN HAWKINS for his decision on their respective merits, by quotations from their printed anecdotes of the DOCTOR. SIR JOHN hears them with uncommon patience, and determines very properly on the pretensions of the contending parties.

BOZZY AND PIOZZI;

A

TOWN ECLOGUE.

WHEN JOHNSON fought (as Shakespear says)
that bourn,
From whence, alas! no travellers return;
In humbler English, when the Doctor died,
APOLLO whimper'd, and the MUSES cried;
PARNASSUS mop'd for days, in business slack,
And, like a hearse, the hill was hung with black;
MINERVA, sighing for her fav'rite son,
Pronounc'd, with lengthen'd face, the world undone;
Her owl, too, hooted in so loud a style,
That people might have heard the BIRD a mile;
JOVE wip'd his eyes so red, and told his wife,
He ne'er made JOHNSON's equal in his life;
And that 'twould be a long, long time, if ever,
His art could form a fellow half so clever:
VENUS, of all the little Loves the dam,
With all the GRACES, sobb'd for BROTHER Sam:
Such were the heav'nly howlings for his death,
As if DAME NATURE had resign'd her breath.
Nor

Nor less sonorous was the grief, I ween,
 Amidst the natives of our earthly scene:
 From beggars, to the GREAT who hold the helm,
 One Johnso-mania rag'd through all the realm!

“ Who (cry'd the world) can match his prose or “ rhyme?

“ O'er wits of modern days he tow'rs sublime!
 “ An oak, wide spreading o'er the shrubs below,
 “ That round his roots, with puny foliage, blow;
 “ A pyramid, amidst some barren waste,
 “ That frowns o'er huts, the sport of ev'ry blast;
 “ A mighty ATLAS, whose aspiring head
 “ O'er distant regions casts an awful shade.
 “ By kings and beggars! lo! his tales are told,
 “ And ev'ry sentence glows a grain of gold!
 “ Blest! who his philosophic phiz can take,
 “ Catch ev'n his weaknesses—his noddle's shake,
 “ The lengthen'd lip of scorn, the forehead's scowl,
 “ The low'ring eye's contempt, and bear-like growl.
 “ In vain, the CRITICS aim their toothless rage!
 “ Mere sprats, that venture war with whales to “ wage:

“ Unmov'd he stands, and feels their force no more
 “ Than some huge rock amidst the wat'ry roar,
 “ That calmly bears the tumults of the deep,
 “ And howling tempests, that as well may sleep.”

Strong, 'midst the RAMBLER'S cronies, was the rage

To fill with SAM'S bons-mots and tales the page:
 Mere flies, that buzz'd around his setting ray,
 And bore a splendor, on their wings, away!

Thus

Thus round his orb the pigmy planets run,
And catch their little lustre from the SUN.

At length, rush'd forth two CANDIDATES for fame;
A Scotchman one, and one a London dame;
That, by the emphatic JOHNSON, christen'd BOZZY;
This, by the Bishop's license, DAME PIOZZI;
Whose widow'd name, by toppers lov'd, was THRALE,
Bright in the annals of election ale;
A name, by marriage, that gave up the ghost!
In poor PEDOCCHIO *—no!—PIOZZI, lost!
Each seiz'd with ardour wild, the gray goose quill;
Each set to work the intellectual mill;
That pecks of bran, so coarse, began to pour,
To one poor solitary grain of flour.

Forth rush'd to light, their books—but who should
say,

WHICH bore the palm of anecdote away?
This, to decide, the RIVAL WITS agreed
Before SIR JOHN their tales and jokes to read,
And let the KNIGHT's opinion, in the strife,
Declare the prop'rest pen to write SAM's Life:
SIR JOHN, renown'd for musical † palavers;
The Prince, the King, the Emperor of Quavers!
Sharp in solfeggi, as the sharpest needle;
Great in the noble art of tweedle-tweedle;
Of Music's College form'd to be a FELLOW,
Fit for MUS. D. or MAESTRO DI CAPELLA:

Whose

* The author was nearly committing a blunder—fortunate indeed was his recollection; as Pedocchio signifies, in the Italian language, that most contemptible of animals, a LOUSE.

† Vide his History of Music.

Whose volume, though it here and there offends,
 Boasts German merit—makes by bulk amends.
 High plac'd the venerable QUARTO sits,
 Superior frowning o'er octavo wits
 And duodecimos, ignoble scum!
 Poor prostitutes to ev'ry vulgar thumb!
 Whilst undefil'd by literary rage,
 He bears a spotless leaf from age to age.

Like school-boys, lo! before a two-arm'd chair
 That held the KNIGHT wise judging, stood the PAIR;
 Or like two poneys on the sporting round,
 Prepar'd to gallop when the drum should sound,
 The COUPLE rang'd—for vict'ry, both as keen,
 As for a tott'ring bishopric, a DEAN,
 Or patriotic BURKE, for giving glorious bastings
 To that intolerable fellow HASTINGS.
 Thus with their songs contended VIRGIL's swains,
 And made the valleys vocal with their strains,
 Before some gray-beard SAGE, whose judgment ripe,
 Gave goats for prizes to the prettiest pipe.

“ Alternately in anecdotes go on;
 “ But first, begin you, MADAM,” cry'd SIR JOHN :
 The thankful DAME low curtsied to the CHAIR,
 And thus, for vict'ry panting, read the FAIR :

MADAME PIOZZI*.

SAM JOHNSON was of MICHAEL JOHNSON born;
 Whose shop of books did LITCHFIELD town adorn :
 Wrong-headed, stubborn as a halter'd RAM;
 In short, the model of our HERO SAM :

Inclin'd

* Vide Piozzi's Anecdotes, page 3.

Inclin'd to madness too—for when his shop
 Fell down, for want of cash to buy a prop,
 For fear the thieves might steal the vanish'd store,
 He duly went each night, and lock'd the door!

B O Z Z Y. *

Whilst JOHNSON was in Edinburgh, my WIFE,
 To please his palate, studied for her life:
 With ev'ry rarity she fill'd her house,
 And gave the DOCTOR, for his dinner, grouse:

MADAME PIOZZI. †

Dear DOCTOR JOHNSON was in size an ox,
 And from his UNCLE ANDREW learn'd to box;
 A MAN to wrestlers and to bruisers dear,
 Who kept the ring in SMITHFIELD a whole year.
 The Doctor had an Uncle too, ador'd
 By jumping gentry, call'd CORNELIUS FORD;
 Who jump'd in boots, which JUMPERS never choose,
 Far as a famous JUMPER jump'd in shoes.

B O Z Z Y. ‡

At supper, rose a dialogue on witches,
 When CROSBIE said, there could not be such b-tch-s;
 And that 'twas blasphemy to think such hags
 Could stir up storms, and on their broomstick nags
 Gallop along the air with wond'rous pace,
 And boldly fly in GOD ALMIGHTY's face:

But

‡ Page 39.

There, whilst he sat, he took in wond'rous learning;
 For much his bowels were for knowledge yearning;
 There heard the story which we BRITONS brag on,
 The story of ST. GEORGE and eke the DRAGON.

BOZZY.*

When FOOTE his leg, by some misfortune, broke,
 Says I to JOHNSON, all by way of joke,
 "SAM, Sir, in PARAGRAPH, will soon be clever,
 "And take off PETER better now than ever."
 On which, says JOHNSON, without hesitation,
 "GEORGE† will rejoice at Foot's depeditation."
 On which, says I, a penetrating elf!
 "Doctor, I'm sure you coin'd that word yourself."
 On which he laugh'd, and said, I had divin'd it,
 For, bonâ fide, he had really coin'd it.
 "And yet, of all the words I've coin'd, (says he)
 "My Dictionary, Sir, contains but three."

MADAME PIOZZI.

The DOCTOR said, "In literary matters,
 "A Frenchman goes not deep—he only smatters."
 Then ask'd, what could be hop'd for from the dogs;
 Fellows that liv'd eternally on frogs?

We stately walk'd, as soon as supper ended :
 The LANDLORD and the WAITER both attended :
 The LANDLORD, skill'd a piece of grease to handle,
 Before us march'd, and held a tallow candle ;
 A lantern (some fam'd Scotsman its creator)
 With equal grace was carried by the WAITER.
 Next morning, from our beds we took a leap,
 And found ourselves much better for our sleep.

MADAME PIOZZI.*

In Lincolnshire, a lady shew'd our friend
 A grotto, that she wish'd him to commend ;
 Quoth she, " How cool in summer this abode !"—
 " Yes, Madam, (answer'd Johnson) for a toad."

BOZZY.†

Between old Scalpa's rugged isle and Rasay's,
 The wind was vastly boist'rous in our faces :
 'Twas glorious, JOHNSON's figure to set sight on—
 High in the boat, he look'd a noble TRITON !
 But, lo ! to damp our pleasure Fate concurs,
 For Joe, the blockhead, lost his master's spurs :
 This for the RAMBLER's temper was a rubber,
 Who wonder'd Joseph could be such a lubber.

MADAME PIOZZI.‡

I ask'd him if he knock'd TOM OSBORN § down ;
 As such a tale was current through the town—
 Says I, " Do tell me, DOCTOR, what befell."—
 " Why, dearest lady, there is nought to tell :
 " I ponder'd

* Page 203.

§ Bookseller.

“ I ponder’d on the prop’rest mode to treat him—
 “ The dog was impudent, and so I beat him!
 “ Tom, like a fool, proclaim’d his fancied wrongs;
 “ Others, that I belabour’d, held their tongues.”

Did any one, that he was happy, cry—
 JOHNSON would tell him plumply, ’twas a lie.
 A LADY * told him she was really so;
 On which he sternly answer’d, “ MADAM, no!
 “ Sickly you are, and ugly—foolish, poor;
 “ And therefore can’t be happy, I am sure.
 “ ’Twould make a fellow hang himself, whose ear
 “ Were, from such creatures, forc’d such stuff to “ hear.”

BOZZY.†

Lo! when we landed on the Isle of MULL,
 The megrims got into the DOCTOR’s scull:
 With such bad humours he began to fill,
 I thought he would not go to ICOLMKILL:
 But lo! those megrims (wonderful to utter!)
 Were banish’d all by tea and bread and butter!

MADAME. PIOZZI.

Quoth I to JOHNSON—Doctor, tell me true,
 Who was the best man that you ever knew?
 He answer’d me at once, GEORGE PSALMANAZAR;
 Keen in the English language as a razor.
 Such was the strange, the strangest of replies,
 That rais’d the whites of both my wond’ring eyes;
 As this same GEORGE, in imposition strong,
 Beat the first liars that e’er wagg’d a tongue.

I wonder'd yesterday, that one JOHN HAY,
 Who serv'd as Ciceroné on the way,
 Should fly a man of war—a spot so blest—
 A fool! nine months, too, after he was prest.
 Quoth JOHNSON, “No man, Sir, would be a failor,
 “With sence to scrape acquaintance with a jailor.”

MADAME PIOZZI.†

I said, I lik'd not goose, and mention'd why:—
 One smells it, roasting on the spit, quoth I.
 “You, Madam,” cry'd the DOCTOR, with a frown,
 “Are always gorging—stuffing something down:
 “MADAM, 'tis very nat'ral to suppose,
 “If in the pantry you will poke your nose,
 “Your maw with ev'ry sort of victuals swelling,
 “That you must want the blifs of dinner smelling.”

BOZZY.

As at ARGYLE's grand house my hat I took,
 To seek my alehouse, thus began the Duke:
 “Pray, Mister Boswell, won't you have some tea?”
 To this I made my bow, and did agree—
 Then to the drawing-room we both retreated,
 Where LADY BETTY HAMILTON was seated
 Close by the DUCHESS, who, in deep discourse,
 Took no more notice of me than a horse.
 Next day, myself and Doctor JOHNSON took
 Our hats, to go and wait upon the Duke.

Next

Next to himself the DUKE did JOHNSON place ;
But I, thank God, sat second to his GRACE.
The place was due most surely to my merits—
And faith, I was in very pretty spirits :
I plainly saw (my penetration such is)
I was not yet in favour with the DUCHESS.
Thought I, I am not disconcerted yet ;
Before we part, I'll give her GRACE a sweat—
Then looks of intrepidity I put on,
And ask'd her, if she'd have a plate of mutton.
This was a glorious deed, must be confess'd !
I knew I was the Duke's, and not her guest,
Knowing—as I'm a man of tip-top breeding,
That great folks drink no healths whilst they are feeding,
I took my glass, and looking at her GRACE,
I star'd her like a devil in the face ;
And in respectful terms, as was my duty,
Said I, “ My LADY DUCHESS, I salute ye : ”
Most audible, indeed, was my salute,
For which some folks will say I was a brute ;
But, faith, it dash'd her, as I knew it would ;
But then I knew that I was flesh and blood.

MADAME PIOZZI.*

Once at our house, amidst our ATTIC feasts,
We liken'd our acquaintances to beasts :
As for example—some to calves and hogs,
And some to bears, and monkeys, cats and dogs ;
We said, (which charm'd the DOCTOR much, no doubt)
His mind was like, of ELEPHANTS, the snout,
That

That could pick pins up, yet possess'd the vigour
For trimming well the jacket of a TIGER.

BOZZY. ‡

August the fifteenth, Sunday, Mister Scott
Did breakfast with us—when upon the spot;
To him, and unto DOCTOR JOHNSON, lo!
Sir WILLIAM FORBES, so clever, did I shew;
A man that doth not after roguery hanker;
A charming Christian, though by trade a banker;
Made too of good companionable stuff;
And this, I think, is saying full enough:
And yet it is but justice to record,
That when he had the measles—'pon my word,
The people seem'd in such a dreadful fright,
His house was all furrounded day and night,
As if they apprehended some great evil,
A general conflagration, or the devil.
And when he better'd—oh! 'twas grand to see
'em
Like mad folks dance, and hear 'em sing Te Deum.

MADAME PIOZZI. §

Quoth JOHNSON, "Who d'ye think my life will " write!"—
" GOLDSMITH," said I.—Quoth he, "The dog's
" vile spite,
" Besides the fellow's monstrous love of lying,
" Would doubtless make the book not worth the " buying."

BOZZY.

BOZZY.*

That worthy gentleman, good Mr. Scott,
 Said, 'twas our SOCRATES's luckless lot
 To have the WAITER, a sad nasty blade,
 To make, poor gentleman, his lemonade;
 Which WAITER, much against the DOCTOR's wish,
 Put with his paws the sugar in the dish:
 The DOCTOR, vex'd at such a filthy fellow,
 Began, with great propriety, to bellow;
 Then up he took the dish, and nobly flung
 The liquor out of window on the dung;
 And DOCTOR SCOTT declar'd, that, by his frown,
 He thought he would have knock'd the fellow down.

MADAME PIOZZI.†

Dear DOCTOR JOHNSON left off drinks fermented;
 With quarts of chocolate and cream contented;
 Yet often down his throat's prodigious gutter,
 Poor man! he pour'd a flood of melted butter!

BOZZY.

With glee, the DOCTOR did my girl behold;
 Her name VERONICA, just four months old.
 This name VERONICA, a name though quaint,
 Belong'd originally to a Saint;
 But to my old Great Grandam it was giv'n—
 As fine a woman as e'er went to Heav'n;
 And what must add to her importance much,
 This lady's genealogy was Dutch.

* Page 13.

† Page 102.

The man who did espouse this dame divine,
 Was ALEXANDER, Earl of Kincardine;
 Who pour'd along my body, like a sluice,
 The noble, noble, noble blood of BRUCE!
 And who that own'd this blood could well refuse
 To make the world acquainted with the news?
 But to return unto my charming child—
 About our Doctor JOHNSON she was wild;
 And when he left off speaking, she would flutter,
 Squall for him to begin again, and sputter!
 And to be near him a strong wish express'd,
 Which proves he was not such a horrid beast.
 Her fondness for the Doctor pleas'd me greatly;
 On which I loud exclaim'd in language stately,
 Nay, if I recollect aright, I swore,
 I'd to her fortune add five hundred more!

MADAME PIOZZI.*

One day, as we were all in talking lost,
 My mother's fav'rite spaniel stole the toast;
 On which, immediately, I scream'd, "Fie on her—
 "Fie, BELLE," said I, "you us'd to be on honour."
 "Yes," JOHNSON cry'd; "but, Madam, pray be "told,
 "The reason for the vice is—BELLE grows old."
 But JOHNSON never could the dog abide,
 Because my mother wash'd and comb'd his hide.
 The truth on't is—BELLE was not too well bred,
 Who always would insist on being fed;
 And very often too, the faucy SLUT
 Insisted upon having the first cut.

BOZZY.

BOZZY.

Last night much care for JOHNSON's cold was us'd,
Who, hitherto, without his nightcap snooz'd;
That nought might treat so wonderful a man ill,
Sweet Miss M'LEOD did make a cap of flannel;
And after putting it about his head,
She gave him brandy as he went to bed.

MADAME PIOZZI.*

One night we parted at the DOCTOR's door,
When thus I said, as I had said before,
“Don't forget Dicky, DOCTOR—mind poor Dick.”
On which he turn'd round on his heel so quick, “Madam,” quoth he, “and when I've serv'd that “elf,
“I guess I then may go and hang myself.”

BOZZY.†

At night, well soak'd with rain, and wond'rous weary,
We got as wet as shags to INVERARY;
We supp'd most royally—were vastly frisky,
When JOHNSON order'd up a gill of whisky:
Taking the glass, says I, “Here's Mistress Thrale.”—
“Drink her in whisky not,” said he, “but ale.”

MADAME PIOZZI.‡

The DOCTOR had a cat, and christen'd Hodge,
That at his house in Fleet-Street us'd to lodge.

‡ Page 102.

This Hodge grew old, and sick, and us'd to wish
 That all his dinners might be form'd of fish :
 To please poor Hodge, the Doctor, all so kind,
 Went out, and bought him oysters to his mind ;
 This every day he did—nor ask'd black FRANK *,
 Who deem'd himself of much too high a tank,
 With vulgar fish-fags to be forc'd to chat,
 And purchase oysters for a mangy cat.

SIR JOHN.

For God's sake stay each anecdotic scrap ;
 Let me draw breath, and take a trifling nap ;
 With one half-hour's restoring slumber blest,
 And Heav'n's assistance, I may bear the rest.

Aside]—What have I done, inform me, gracious
 Lord !

That thus my ears with nonsense should be bor'd ?
 Oh ! if I do not in the trial die,
 The Devil and all his brimstone I defy.
 No punishment in other worlds I fear ;
 My crimes will all be expiated here.
 Ah ! ten times happier was my lot of yore,
 When rais'd to consequence that all adore,
 I sat, each session, king-like, in the chair,
 Aw'd ev'ry rank, and made the million stare ;
 Lord paramount o'er ev'ry Justice riding ;
 In causes, with a Turkish sway, deciding !
 Yes, like a noble Bashaw, of three tails,
 I spread a fear and trembling through the jails ?

Blest,

* Dr. Johnson's servant.

Blest, have I brow-beaten each thief and strumpet,
 And blasted on them, like the last day's trumpet.
 I know no paltry weakness of the soul—
 No sniv'ling pity dares my deeds control:
 Asham'd, the weakness of my King I hear;
 Who, childish, drops on ev'ry *death a tear.
 Return †, return again, thou glorious hour,
 That to my grasp once gav'st my idol, pow'r;
 When at my feet the humble knaves would fall;
 The thund'ring Jupiter of HICKS'S HALL.

The KNIGHT thus finishing his speech so fair,
 Sleep pull'd him gently backwards in his chair;
 Op'd wide the mouth that oft on jail-birds swore,
 Then rais'd his nasal ORGAN to a roar,
 That actually surpass'd, in tone and grace,
 The grumbled ditties of his fav'rite base. ‡

* Such is the report concerning his most tender-hearted MAJESTY, when he suffers the law to take its course on criminals. How unlike the Great FREDERIC of Prussia, who delights in a hanging!

NOW from his sleep the KNIGHT, affrighted, sprung,

Whilst on his ear the words of JOHNSON rung;
For, lo! in dreams, the furly RAMBLER rose,
And wildly staring, seem'd a man of woes.

“Wake, HAWKINS,” (growl'd the Doctor, with a frown)

“And knock that fellow and that woman down:

“Bid them with JOHNSON's life proceed no further;

“Enough already they have dealt in murther:

 " Tell PETER PINDAR, should you chance to meet
 " him,
 " I like his genius—should be glad to greet him :
 " Yet let him know, crown'd heads are sacred things,
 " And let him reverence more the best of kings ; †
 " Still on his pegasus continue jogging,
 " And give that BOSWELL's back another flogging."

Such was the dream that wak'd the sleeping Knight,
 And op'd again his eyes upon the light—

Who,

† This is a strange and almost incredible speech from JOHNSON's mouth, as, not many years ago, when the age of a certain GREAT PERSONAGE became the subject of debate, the Doctor broke in upon the conversation with the following question:—"Of what importance to the present company is his age?—Of what importance would it have been to the world if he had never existed?" If we may judge likewise from the following speech, he deemed the present possessor of a certain THRONE as much an usurper as KING WILLIAM, whom, according to MR. BOSWELL's account, he bescoundrels. The story is this:—An acquaintance of JOHNSON's, Miss REYNOLDS, asked him if he could not sing. He replied, "I know but one song; and that is, 'The KING shall enjoy his own again.'"

Who, mindless of old JOHNSON and his frown,
 And stern commands to knock the couple down,
 Resolv'd to keep the peace—and, in a tone
 Not much unlike a mastiff o'er a bone,
 He grumbled, that, enabled by the nap,
 He now could meet more biographic scrap;
 Then nodding with a magistratual air,
 To farther anecdote he call'd the FAIR.

MADAME PIOZZI.*

Dear Doctor JOHNSON lov'd a leg of pork,
 And hearty on it would his grinders work:
 He lik'd to eat it so much overdone,
 That one might shake the flesh from off the bone.
 A veal pye too, with sugar cramm'd and plums,
 Was wond'rous grateful to the Doctor's gums,
 Thought us'd from morn to night on fruit to stuff,
 He vow'd his belly never had enough.

BOZZY.†

One Thursday morn did Doctor JOHNSON wake,
 And call out "Lanky, Lanky," by mistake—
 But recollecting—"Bozzy, Bozzy," cry'd—
 For in contractions JOHNSON took a pride!

MADAME PIOZZI.‡

Whene'er our friend would read in bed by night,
 Poor Mifter THRALE and I were in a fright;
 For, blinking on his book too near the flame,
 Lo! to the fore-top of his wig it came.

Burnt

Burnt all the hairs away, both great and small,
Down to the very net-work, nam'd the caul.

BOZZY.*

At Corrachatachin's, in hoggism funk,
I got with punch, alas! confounded drunk:
Much was I vex'd that I could not be quiet,
But, like a stupid blockhead, breed a riot—
I scarcely knew how 'twas I reel'd to bed.
Next morn I wak'd with dreadful pains of head,
And terrors too, that of my peace did rob me;
For much I fear'd the Moralist would mob me.
But as I lay along, a heavy log,
The Doctor, ent'ring, call'd me drunken dog.
Then up rose I with apostolic air,
And read in Dame M'KINNON's book of pray'r,
In hopes for such a sin to be forgiv'n,
And make, if possible, my peace with heav'n.
'Twas strange that, in that volume of divinity,
I op'd the Twentieth Sunday after Trinity,
And read these words—' Pray be not drunk with
 ' wine,
' Since drunkenness doth make a man a swine.'
" Alas!" says I, " the sinner that I am!"
And having made my speech, I took a dram.

MADAME PIOZZI†

One day, with spirits low, and sorrow fill'd,
I told him that I had a cousin kill'd:

" My

* Page 317.

† Page 63.

" My dear," quoth he, " for heav'n's sake hold your
 " canting ;
 " Were all your coufins kill'd, they'd not be want-
 " ing :
 " Though Death on each of them should set his
 " mark,
 " Though ev'ry one were spitted like a lark,
 " Roasted, and giv'n that dog there for a meal,
 " The loss of them the world would never feel :
 " Trust me, dear Madam, all your dear relations
 " Are nits—are nothing in the eye of nations."

Again, * says I, one day, " I do believe,
 " A good acquaintance that I have will grieve
 " To hear her friend hath lost a large estate."—
 " Yes," answer'd he, " lament as much her fate,
 " As did your horse (I freely will allow)
 " To hear of the miscarriage of your cow."

BOZZI.†

At Enoch, at M'Queen's, we went to bed ;
 A colour'd handkerchief wrapp'd JOHNSON's head :
 He said, " God blefs us both—good night;" and then,
 I, like a parish clerk, pronounc'd Amen !
 My good companion soon by sleep was seiz'd ;
 But I, by lice and fleas, was sadly teaz'd ;
 Methought a spider, with terrific claws,
 Was striding from the wainscot to my jaws ;
 But slumber soon did every sense entrap,
 And so I funk into the sweetest nap.

Trav'ling in Wales, at dinner-time we got on Where, at Leweny, lives Sir ROBERT COTTON.
 At table, our great Moralist to please,
 Says I, "Dear Doctor, arn't those charming peas?"
 Quoth he, to contradict, and run his rig,
 "Madam, they possibly might please a pig."

BOZZY.†

Of thatching, well the Doctor knew the art;
 And with his threshing wisdom made us start:
 Describ'd the greatest secrets of the Mint,
 And made folks fancy that he had been in't.
 Of hops and malt 'tis wond'rous what he knew;
 And well as any brewer he could brew.

MADAME PIOZZI.‡

In ghosts the Doctor strongly did believe,
 And pinn'd his faith on many a liar's sleeve.
 He said to Doctor LAWRENCE, "sure I am,
 "I heard my poor dear mother call out 'SAM.'
 "I'm sure," said he, "that I can trust my ears;
 "And yet, my mother had been dead for years."

BOZZY.§

When young, ('twas rather silly I allow)
 Much was I pleas'd to imitate a cow.
 One time, at Drury Lane, with Doctor BLAIR,
 My imitations made the playhouse stare!

So very charming was I in my roar,
 That both the galleries clapp'd, and cried "Encore."
 Blest by the general plaudit and the laugh,
 I try'd to be a jackass and a calf;
 But who, alas! in all things can be great?
 In short, I met a terrible defeat;
 So vile I bray'd and bellow'd, I was hiss'd;
 Yet all who knew me, wonder'd that I miss'd.
 BLAIR whisper'd me, " You've lost your credit
 " now ;

" Stick, BOSWELL, for the future, to the Cow."

MADAME PIOZZI.*

Th' affair of Blacks when JOHNSON would discuss,
 He always thought they had not souls like us;
 And yet, whene'er his family would fight,
 He always said black FRANK † was in the right.

BOZZY. ‡

I must confess that I enjoy'd a pleasure
 In bearing to the North so great a treasure:
 Thinks I, I'm like a bulldog or a hound,
 Who, when a lump of liver he hath found,
 Runs to some corner, to avoid a riot,
 To gobble down his piece of meat in quiet:
 I thought this good as all JOE MILLAR's jokes;
 And so I up, and told it to the folks.

MADAME PIOZZI. ||

Some of our friends wish'd JOHNSON would compose

The lives of authors who had shone in prose :
As for his pow'r, no mortal man could doubt it—
Sir RICHARD MUSGRAVE, he was warm about it ;
Got up, and sooth'd, intreated, begg'd and pray'd,
Poor man ! as if he had implor'd for bread.
“ Sir RICHARD,” cry'd the Doctor, with a frown,
“ Since you're got up, I pray you, Sir, sit down.”

BOZZY.

Of Doctor JOHNSON having giv'n a sketch,
Permit me, Reader, of myself to preach :
The world will certainly receive with glee
The slightest bit of history of me.
Think of a gentleman of ancient blood !
Prouder of title than of being good ;
A gentleman just thirty-three years old ;
Married four years, and as a tiger bold ;
Whose bowels yearn'd Great Britain's foes to tame,
And from the cannon's mouth to swallow flame ;
To get his limbs by broad swords carv'd in wars,
Like some old bedstead, and to boast his scars ;
And, proud immortal actions to achieve,
See his hide bor'd by bullets like a sieve.
But lo ! his father, a well-judging Judge,
Forbade his son from Edinburgh to budge ;
Resolv'd the French should not his b—side claw ;
So bound his son apprentice to the law.

U 2

This

This gentleman had been in foreign parts,
 And, like ULYSSES, learnt a world of arts :
 Much wisdom his vast travels having brought him,
 He was not half the fool the people thought him,
 Of prudence, this same gentleman was such,
 He rather had too little than too much.
 Bright was this gentleman's imagination,
 Well calculated for the highest station :
 Indeed so lively, give the Dev'l his due,
 He ten times more would utter than was true ;
 Which forc'd him frequently, against his will,
 Poor man ! to swallow many a bitter pill :
 One bitter pill among the rest he took,
 Which was, to cut some scandal from his book.
 By DOCTOR JOHNSON he is well portray'd :
 Quoth SAM, " Of BOZZY it may well be said,
 " That, through the most inhospitable scene,
 " One never can be troubled with the spleen,
 " Nor ev'n the greatest difficulties chafe at,
 " Whilst such an animal is near to laugh at."

MADAME PIOZZI.*

For me, in Latin, DOCTOR JOHNSON wrote
 Two lines upon Sir JOSEPH BANKS's goat ;
 A goat ! that round the world so curious went ;
 A goat ! that now eats grafs that grows in Kent !

BOZZY.†

To Lord MONBODDO a few lines I wrote,
 And by the servant, Joseph, sent this note :

" Thus

* Page 72.

† Page 207.

" Thus far, my Lord, from Edinburgh, my home,
 " With Mifter SAMUEL JOHNSON, I am come;
 " This night, by us, must certainly be seen
 " The very handsome town of ABERDEEN.
 " For thoughts of JOHNSON, you'll be not apply'd to;
 " I know your Lordship likes him less than I do.
 " So near we are—to part, I can't tell how,
 " Without so much as making him a bow :
 " Besides, the RAMBLER says, to see MONBODD,
 " He'd go at least two miles out of his road;
 " Which shows that he admires (whoever rails)
 " The pen which proves that men are born with tails.
 " Hoping that as to health your Lordship does well,
 " I am your servant at command,
 " JAMES BOSWELL."

MADAME PIOZZI.*

On Mifter THRALE's old hunter JOHNSON rode,
 Who with prodigious pride the beast bestrode;
 And as on BRIGHTON DOWNS he dash'd away,
 Much was he pleas'd to hear a sportsman say,
 That at a chase he was as tight a hand
 As e'er a sporting lubber in the land.

BOZZY.†

One morning, JOHNSON, on the isle of MULL,
 Was of his politics excessive full :
 Quoth he, " That PULTENEY was a rogue 'tis plain ;
 " Besides, the fellow was a Whig in grain."
 Then to his principles he gave a banging,
 And swore no Whig was ever worth a hanging.
 " 'Tis

" 'Tis wonderful," says he, " and makes one stare,
 " To think the Livery chose JOHN WILKES Lord
 " May'r ;
 " A dog, of whom the world could nurse no hopes ;
 " Prompt to debauch their girls, and rob their
 " shops."

MADAME PIOZZI.

Sir, I believe that anecdote a lie ;
 But grant that JOHNSON said it—by the bye,
 As WILKES unhappily your friendship shar'd,
 The dirty anecdote might well be spar'd.

BOZZY.

Madam, I stick to truth as much as you,
 And damme if the story be not true.
 What you have said of JOHNSON and the larks,
 As much the RAMBLER for a savage marks.
 'Twas scandalous, ev'n CANDOUR must allow,
 To give the hist'ry of the horse and cow.
 What but an enemy to JOHNSON'S fame,
 Dar'd his vile prank at LITCHFIELD playhouse name,
 Where, without ceremony, he thought fit
 To fling the man and chair into the pit ?
 Who would have register'd a speech so odd
 On the dead STAY-MAKER * and Doctor DODD ?

MADAME PIOZZI.

SAM JOHNSON'S threshing knowledge and his thatching,
 May be your own inimitable hatching ;

Pray

* Piozzi's Anecdotes, page 51, first edition.

Pray of his wisdom can't you tell more news?
 Could not he make a shirt, and cobble shoes,
 Knit stockings, or, ingenious, take up stitches;
 Draw teeth, dress wigs, or make a pair of breeches?
 You prate too of his knowledge of the MINT,
 As if the RAMBLER really had been in't.
 Who knows, but you will tell us, (truth forsaking)
 That each bad shilling is of JOHNSON's making;
His, each vile sixpence that the world hath cheated;
 And his, the art that ev'ry guinea sweated?
 About his brewing knowledge you will prate too,
 Who scarcely knew a hop from a potatoe:
 And though of beer he joy'd in hearty swigs,
 I'd pit against his taste my husband's pigs.

BOZZY.

How could your folly tell, so void of truth,
 That miserable story of the youth,
 Who, in your book, of Doctor JOHNSON begs
 Most seriously to know if cats laid eggs!

MADAME PIOZZI.

Who told of Mistress Montague the lie—
 So palpable a falsehood?—Bozzy, fie!

BOZZY.

Who, madd'ning with an anecdotic itch,
 Declar'd that JOHNSON call'd his mother b-tch?

MADAME PIOZZI.

Who, from M'Donald's rage to save his snout,
 Cut twenty lines of defamation out?

BOZZY.

B O Z Z Y.

Who would have said a word about SAM's wig,
Or told the story of the peas and pig?
Who would have told a tale so very flat,
Of FRANK the Black, and HODGE the mangy cat?

MADAME PIOZZI.

Good me! you're grown at once confounded tender;

Of DOCTOR JOHNSON's fame a fierce defender:
I'm sure you've mention'd many a pretty story
Not much redounding to the Doctor's glory.
Now for a saint upon us you would palm him—
First murder the poor man, and then embalm him!

B O Z Z Y.

Why truly, Madam, JOHNSON cannot boast—
By your acquaintance, he hath rather lost.
His character so shockingly you handle,
You've sunk your comet to a farthing candle.
Your vanities contriv'd the sage to hitch in,
And brib'd him with your cellar and your kitchen:
But luckless JOHNSON play'd a losing game;
Though beef and beer he won, he lost his fame.

MADAME PIOZZI.

One quarter of your book had JOHNSON read,
First-criticism had rattled round' your head.
Yet let my satire not too far pursue—
Your book has merit, give the Dev'l his due.

Where Grocers and where Pastry-cooks reside,
 Thy book, with triumph, may indulge its pride;
 Preach to the patty-pans sententious stuff,
 And hug that idol of the nose, call'd snuff;
 With all its stories cloves and ginger please,
 And pour its wonders to a pound of cheese!

B O Z Z Y.

Madam, your irony is wond'rous fine!
 Sense in each thought, and wit in ev'ry line;
 Yet, Madam, when the leaves of my poor book
 Visit the Grocer, or the Pastry-cook,
Tours, to enjoy of Fame the just reward,
 May aid the trunk-maker of Paul's Church-Yard;
 In the same alehouses together us'd,
 By the same fingers they may be abus'd,
 The greasy snuffers yours, perchance, may wipe,
 Whilst mine, high honour'd, lights a toper's pipe.
 The praise of COURTENAY * my book's fame secures—

Now, who the devil, Madam, praises yours?

MADAME PIOZZI.

Thousands, you blockhead—no one now can doubt it;
 For not a soul in London is without it.

The

* The lively rattle of the House of Commons—indeed its MOMUS; who seems to have been selected by his constituents more for the purposes of laughing at the misfortunes of his country, than healing the wounds. He is the author of a poem lately published, that endeavours, totis viribus, to prove that DOCTOR JOHNSON was a brute as well as a moralist!

The folks were ready CADELL to devour,
 Who sold the first edition in an hour.
 So!—COURTENAY's praises save you!—ah! that 'Squire
 Deals, let me tell you, more in smoke than fire.

B O Z Z Y.

Zounds! he has prais'd me in the sweetest line—

MADAME PIOZZI.

Aye! aye! the verse and subject equal shine.
 Few are the mouths that COURTENAY's wit rehearse—
 Mere cork in politics, and lead in verse.

B O Z Z Y.

Well, Ma'am! since all that JOHNSON said or wrote,
 You hold so sacred, how have you forgot
 To grant the wonder-hunting world a reading
 Of SAM's Epistle, just before your wedding;
 Beginning thus, (in strains not form'd to flatter)
 “MADAM,
 “If that most ignominious matter
 “Be not concluded”—

Farther shall I say?

No—we shall have it from yourself some day,
 To justify your passion for the Youth,
 With all the charms of eloquence and truth.

MADAME

MADAME PIOZZI.

What was my marriage, Sir, to you or him?
 He tell me what to do!—a pretty whim!
He, to propriety, (the beast) resort!
 As well might elephants preside at court.
 Lord! let the world to damn my match agree;
 Good God! JAMES BOSWELL, what's that world to me?

The folks who paid respects to Mistress THRALE,
 Fed on her pork, poor souls! and swill'd her ale,
 May sicken at PIOZZI, nine in ten—
 Turn up the nose of scorn—good God! what then?
 For me, the Dev'l may fetch their souls so great;
They keep their homes, and I, thank God, my meat.
 When they, poor owls! shall beat their cage, a jail,
I, unconfin'd, shall spread my peacock tail;
 Free as the birds of air, enjoy my ease,
 Choose my own food, and see what climes I please.
I suffer only—if I'm in the wrong:
 So, now, you prating puppy, hold your tongue.

SIR JOHN.

For shame! for shame! for Heav'n's sake both be quiet—
 Not BILLINGSGATE exhibits such a riot.
 Behold, for SCANDAL, you have made a feast,
 And turn'd your idol, JOHNSON, to a beast:
 'Tis plain that tales of ghosts are arrant lies,
 Or instantaneously would JOHNSON rise;
 Make you both eat your paragraphs so evil,
 And for your treatment of him, play the devil.

Just

Just like two Mohawks on the man you fall;
 No murd'rer is worse serv'd at SURGEONS HALL.
 Instead of adding splendour to his name,
 Your books are downright gibbets to his fame.
 Of those, your anecdotes—may I be curst,
 If I can tell you which of them is worst.
 You never with posterity can thrive—
 'Tis by the RAMBLER'S death alone you live;
 Like wrens (that in some volume I have read)
 Hatch'd by strange fortune in a horse's head,
 Poor Sam was rather fainting in his glory,
 But now his fame lies foully dead before ye:
 Thus to some dying man, (a frequent case)
 Two doctors come, and give the coup de grace.
 Zounds, Madam! mind the duties of a wife,
 And dream no more of Doctor JOHNSON'S Life;
 A happy knowledge in a pye or pudding
 Will more delight your friends than all your study-
 ing;

One cut from ven'son to the heart can speak
 Stronger than ten quotations from the Greek;
 One fat Sir Loin possesses more sublime
 Than all the airy castles built by rhyme.
 One nipperkin of stingo with a toast
 Beats all the streams the Muses Fount can boast;
 Blest, in one pint of porter, lo! my belly can Find raptures, not in all the floods of Helicon.
 Enough these anecdotes your pow'rs have shown;
 SAM'S Life, dear Ma'am, will only damn your own.

For thee, JAMES BOSWELL, may the hand of Fate
 Arrest thy goose-quill, and confine thy prate!

Thine

Thine egotisms the world disgusted hears—
 Then load with vanities no more our ears,
 Like some lone puppy, yelping all night long,
 That tires the very echoes with his tongue.
 Yet, should it lie beyond the pow'rs of Fate
 To stop thy pen, and still thy darling prate;
 To live in solitude, oh! be thy luck,
 A chattering magpie on the Isle of MUCK.

Thus spoke the Judge; then leaping from the chair,
 He left, in consternation lost, the Fair:
 Black FRANK * he fought on anecdote to cram,
 And vomit first † a life of furly SAM.
 Shock'd at the little manners of the Knight,
 The rivals marv'ling mark'd his sudden flight;
 Then to their pens and paper rush'd the twain
 To kill the mangled RAMBLER o'er again.

* Doctor JOHNSON's Negro servant.

† The KNIGHT's volume is reported to be in great forwardness, and likely to distance his formidable competitors.

N. B. The quotations from Mr. Boswell are made from the second edition of his Journal; those from Mrs. Piozzi, from the first edition of her Anecdotes.

While glowing the world's delighted
In its joy, with voices no more
Like a lark's song, rising all night
That from the very bottom of the earth
You should be here, and the power of love
To stop the pen, and tell the story
To live in love, and the power of love
A constant magic on the life of love
They spoke the lark's song, when singing
We are in love, and the power of love
Which is the power of love, and the power of love
And love is the power of love, and the power of love
The power of love, and the power of love, and the power of love
Then to the power of love, and the power of love
To all the power of love, and the power of love

READER,

I THINK it necessary to inform thee, if thou hast not read Mr. Warton's Ode, that I mean not to say that he hath, TOTIDEM VERBIS, sung what I have asserted of him; I therefore beg that my Ode may be considered as an amplification of the ingenious Laureat's idea.

Example

I THINK it necessary to inform thee, it soon will not read Mr. Weston's Obedience I mean not to say that he had, for some years, been what I have called of him; I therefore beg that you Obed may be considered as an anticipation of the admission of the same.

P R O Æ M I U M.

KNOW, Reader, that the LAUREAT's post sublime

Is destin'd to record, in handsome rhyme,

The deeds of British Monarchs, twice a year :

If great—how happy is the tuneful tongue!

If pitiful—as Shakespeare says) the song

“ Must fuddle fools, and chronicle small beer.”

But Bards must take the up-hill with the down ;

Kings cannot always oracles be hatching :

Maggots are oft the tenants of a crown—

Therefore, like those in cheese, not worth the catching.

O gentle Reader! if, by God's good grace,

Or (what's more sought) good interest at Court,

Thou gett'st, of Lyric Trumpeter, the place,

And hundreds are, like gudgeons, gaping for't ;

Hear! (at a palace if thou mean'st to thrive)

And of a steady coachman learn to drive.

Whene'er employ'd to celebrate a King,

Let Fancy lend thy Muse her loftiest wing—

Stun with thy minstrelsy th' affrighted sphere;
 Bid thy voice thunder like a hundred batteries,
 For common sounds, conveying common flatteries,
 Are zephyrs whisp'ring to the Royal ear.

Know—glutton-like, on praise each Monarch crams:
 Hot spices suit alone their pamper'd nature:
 Alas! the stomach, parch'd by burning drams,
 With mad-dog terror starts at simple water.

Fierce is each royal mania for applause;
 And, as a horse-pond wide, are Monarch maws—
 Form'd therefore on a pretty ample scale:
 To sound the decent panegyric note,
 To pour the modest flatt'ries down their throat,
 Were offering shrimps for dinner to a whale.

And mind, whene'er thou strik'st the lyre to Kings,
 To touch to Abigails of Courts, the strings;
 Give the Queen's Toad-eater a handsome fop,
 And swear she always has more grace
 Than ev'n to sell the meanest place—
 Swear too, the woman keeps no Title-shop;

Sells not, like Jews in Paul's Church-yard their ware,
 Who on each passenger for custom stare,
 And, in the happy tones of traffic, cry,
 "Sher! wat you buy, Sher?—Madam! wat you buy?"

Thus, Reader, ends the Prologue to my Ode!

The true-bred Courtiers wonder whilst I preach—
 And, with grave vizards, and stretch'd eyes to God,
 Pronounce my Sermon a most impious speech:

With

With all my spirit—let them damn my lays—
A Courtier's curses are exalted praise.

I HEAR a startled Moralist exclaim,

“ Fie, PETER, PETER! fie for shame!

“ Such counsel disagrees with my digestion.”

Well! well! then, my old SOCRATES, to please thee,

For much I'm willing of thy qualms to ease thee,

I'll nobly take the other side the question.

Par Exemple :

FAIR Praise is sterling gold—all should desire it—

Flatt'ry, base coin—a cheat upon the nation;

And yet, our vanity doth much admire it,

And really gives it all its circulation.

FLATT'RY'S a fly insinuating screw;

The World—a bottle of Tokay so fine—

The engine always can its cork subdue,

And make an easy conquest of the wine.

FLATT'RY'S an ivy wriggling round an oak;

This oak is often honest blunt JOHN BULL—

Which ivy would its great supporter choak,

Whilst JOHN (so thick the walls of his dark scull)

Deems it a pretty ornament, and struts—

Till Master IVY creeps into JOHN's guts,

And gives poor thoughtless JOHN a set of gripes:

Then, like an organ, opening all his pipes,

JOHN roars; and, when to a consumption drain'd,

Finds out the knave his folly entertain'd.

PRAISE

PRAISE is a modest, unassuming maid,
 And simply as a Quaker beauty drest;
 No ostentation hers—no vain parade;
 Sweet nymph! and of few words posselt;
 Yet, heard with rev'rence when she silence breaks,
 And dignifies the man of whom she speaks.

FLATT'RY'S a pert French Milliner—a jade
 Cover'd with rouge, and flauntingly array'd—
 Makes saucy love to ev'ry man she meets,
 And offers ev'n her favours in the streets.

And yet, instead of heeding public hisses,
 Divines so grave—Philosophers can bear her;
 What's stranger still, with childish rapture hear her;
 Nay, court the smiling harlot's very kisses.

O D E.

RICH as Dutch cargoes from the fragrant East;
Or custard pudding at a city feast,

Tom's incense greets his Sovereign's hungry nose:
For, bating Birth-day torrents from Parnassus,
And New-year's spring-tide of divine molasses,
Fame in a scanty rill to Windsor flows!

Poets (quoth tuneful Tom) in ancient times,
Delighted all the country with their rhymes;

Sung Knights and barbed steeds with valour big:
Knights who encounter'd witches—murder'd wizards,

Flogg'd Pagans, till they grumbled in their gizzards;
Rogues! with no more religion than a pig:

Knights who illumin'd poor dark souls,
Through pretty little well-form'd eyelet holes,
By pious pikes and godly lances made—
Tools! that work'd wonders in the holy trade;
With battle-axes fit to knock down bulls,

And therefore qualified (I wot) full well,

With force the sacred Oracles to tell
Unto the thickest unbelieving sculls;

Knights, who, so famous at the game of Tourney,
Took boldly to the Holy Land a journey,

To

To plant, with swords, in hearts, the Gospel seeds;
 Just as we hole, for cucumbers, hot-beds,
 Or pierce the bosom of the fullen earth,
 To give to radishes or onions birth:

Knights, who, when tumbled on the hostile field,
 And to an enemy oblig'd to yield,

Could neither leg, nor arm, nor neck, nor nob stir;
 Poor devils! who, like alligators hack'd,
 At length by hammers, hatchets, sledges, crack'd,
 Were dragg'd from coats of armour—like a lobster.

Great (says the Laureat) were the Poet's puffings
 On idle daring red-cross raggamuffins,

Who, for their childishness, deserv'd a birch:
 Quoth Tom, a worthier subject now, thank God!
 Inspires the lofty Dealer in the Ode,

Than blockheads battling for old Mother Church.

Times (quoth our courtly Bard) are alter'd quite;
 The Poet scorns what charm'd of yore the fight;

Goths, Vandals, castles, horses, mares:
 The polish'd Poet of the present day
 Doth in his tasty shop display,
 Ah! vastly prettier-colour'd wares.

The Poet moulds his harp to manners mild,
 Quoth Tom—to Monarchs, who, with rapture wild,
 Hear their own praise with mouths of gaping wonder,
 And catch each crotchet of the Birth-day thunder:
 Crotchets that scorn the praise of common folly—
 Though not most musical—most melancholy;
 Ah! crotchets doom'd to charm our ears no more,
 Although by Mister PARSONS set in score;

Drear

Drear and eternal silence doom'd to keep,
Where the dark waters of oblivion sleep:
To speak in humbler English—doom'd to rest,
With court addresses, in a musty chest.

Yet all the Lady Amateurs declar'd,
They were the charming'st things they ever heard;
As for example—all the angel GIDEONS—

That is, my Lady, and her daughters fair,
With coal-black eyebrows, and sweet Hebrew air—
The lovely produce of the two religions:
Thus, in their virtues, fox-hounds best succeed,
When sportsmen very wisely cross the breed:
And thus with nobler lustre shines the fowl
Begot between a game-hen and an owl.

Sir Sampson too declar'd, with voice divine,

“ Dat shince he haf turn Chreestian, and eat bog,
“ He nebber did hear moosbic half sho fine;
“ No! nebber shince he lefs de Shinnygogue.

His Grace of Queensb'rry too, with eyes though dim,
And one deaf ear, was there in wonder drown'd!
Lift'ning, in attitude of Corp'ral Trim,
He rais'd his thin grey curl to catch the sound:

Then swore the airs would never meet their matches,
But in his own immortal glees and catches.*
Yet were those crotchets all condemn'd to rest
In the dark bosom of a musty chest!

Crotchets that form'd into so sweet an air,
As charm'd my Lady Mayores and Lord Mayor;
Who

* Though not a PURCELL, his Grace is allowed, by many of his musical guests, to be a very pretty catch-maker.

Who thought (and really they were true believers)
The music equall'd marrow-bones and cleavers.

Strains! that the Reverend Bishops had no qualams
In saying, that they equall'd David's Psalms;
But not surpass'd in melody the bell
That mournful foundeth an Archbishop's knell;
Strains! that Sir Joseph Mawbey deem'd divine,
Sweet as the quavers of his fattest swine.

E'en bluff Lord Brudenell's self* admir'd the strain,
In all the tuneful agonies of pain;
Who, winking, beat with duck-like nods the time,
And call'd the music and the words sublime.

Yes, this most lofty Lord admir'd the Ode;
A Lord who, too, delights in Opera-dancing;
Thus sagely both those useful arts advancing,
Most nobly spreading Britain's fame abroad.

So much by dancing is his Lordship won,
Behind the Op'ra scenes he constant goes,
To kiss the little finger of COULON,†
To mark her knees, and many-twinkling toes.

Too, all the other Lords, with whispers swarming,
Cry'd, bravo! bravo! charming! bravo! charm-
ing!

And Majesty itself, to music bred,
Pronounc'd it "Very, very good, indeed!"
Indulging, p'rhaps, the very nat'ral dream,
That all its charms were owing to the theme.

Not

* A prodigious Amateur:—without his Lordship there can be no rehearsal.

† A first dancer at the Opera.

Not but some small degree of harmless pleasure
 Might in the brace of R-y-l bosoms rise,
 To think they heard it without waste of treasure;
 As sixpences are lovely in their eyes.

For, not long since, I heard a forward dame
 Thus, in a tone of impudence, exclaim—
 “ Good God ! how Kings and Queens a song adore !
 “ With what delight they order an encore !
 “ When that same song, encor’d, for nothing flows !
 “ This MADAM MARA to her sorrow knows.
 “ To Windsor, oft, and eke to Kew,
 “ The R-y-l mandate MARA drew.
 “ No cheering drop the Dame was ask’d to sip ;
 “ No bread was offer’d to her quiv’ring lip ;
 “ Though faint, she was not suffer’d to sit down :
 “ Such was the goodness—grandeur of the Cr—n !
 “ Now tell me, will it ever be believ’d,
 “ How much for song and chaise-hire she receiv’d ?
 “ How much pray, think ye ? ”—Fifty guineas—
 “ No.”

Most surely forty.—“ No, no.”—Thirty.—“ Poh !
 “ Pray, guess in reason—come, again.”—
 Alas ! you jeer us—Twenty at the least ;
 No man could ever be so great a b—st
 As not to give her twenty for her pain.—
 “ To keep you, then, no longer in suspense,
 “ For MARA’s chaise-hire and unrivall’d note,
 “ Out of their wonderful benevolence,
 “ Their bounteous M—ies gave—not a groat.”
 “ Aye ! ” cry’d a second stand’rer, with a sneer,
 “ I know a story like it—You shall hear.—

" Poor MISTRESS SIDDONS, she was order'd out
 " To wait too upon MAJESTY, to spout—
 " To read old SHAKESPEARE'S As you like it to 'em;
 " And how to mind their stops, and commas, shew
 " 'em;

" She read—was told 'twas very, very fine,
 " Excepting here and there a line—

" To which the Royal wisdom did object—
 " And which, in all the pride of emendation,
 " And partly to improve her reputation,

" His M-j—y thought proper to correct:
 " Then turning to the Partner of his Bed,
 " On tiptoe mounted by self-approbation,

" A very modest elevation,
 " He cry'd, ' Mind, CHARLY, that's the way to read.'

" The ACTRESS reading, spouting—out of breath,

" Stood all the time—was nearly tir'd to death;

" Whilst their great M-j—ies, in royal style,

" At perfect ease were sitting all the while.

" Nor offer'd to her was one drop of beer,

" Nor wine, nor chocolate, her heart to cheer:

" Ready to drop to earth, she must have sunk,

" But for a child, that at the hardship shrunk—

" A little PRINCE, who mark'd her situation,

" Thus, pitying, pour'd a tender exclamation:

" La! MISTRESS SIDDONS is quite faint indeed,

" How pale! I'm sure she cannot longer read:

" She somewhat wants, her spirits to repair,

" And would, I'm sure, be happy in a chair.'

" What

“ What follow’d?—Why, the R-y-l pair arose

“ Surly enough, one fairly may suppose!

“ And to a room adjoining made retreat,

“ To let her, for one minute, steal a seat.

“ At length the Actress ceas’d to read and spout

“ Where generosity’s a crying sin:

“ Her curt’fy dropp’d—was nodded to—came out—

“ So rich!”—How rich?—“ as rich as she went
“ in.”

Such are the stories twain!—Why, grant the fact,
Are PRINCES, pray, like common folks to act?

Should MARA call it cruelty, and blame

Such R-y-l conduct, I’d cry, Fie upon her!

To Mistress SIDDONS freely say the same—

Sufficient for such people is the honour!

E’en I, the BARD, expect no gifts from KINGS,

Although I’ve said of them such handsome things;

Nay, not their eye’s attention, whose bright ray

Would like the SUN, illumine my poor lay,

And, like the SUN, so kind to procreation,

Increase within my brain the maggot nation.

So much for idle tales.—Now, MUSE, thy strain

Digressive, turn to Drawing-Rooms again.

There too was PITT, who scrap’d and bow’d to ground,

And whisper’d Majesty, ’twas vastly fine;

Then wish’d such harmony could once be found

Where he, each day, was treated like a swine

By that arch-fiend CHARLES FOX, and his vile party;

Villains! in nought but black rebellion hearty;

Fellows!

Fellows! who had the impudence to place
 The sacred sceptre underneath the mace,
 And twisted ropes, with malice disappointed,
 To hamper or to hang the LORD'S ANOINTED.

To whom a certain SAGE so earnest cry'd,

" Don't mind—don't mind—the rogues their aim have miss'd—

" Don't fear your place, whilst I am well supply'd—

" But mind, mind poverty of Civil List.

" Swear that no K—g's so poor upon the globe;

" Compare me—yes, compare me to poor JOB.

" What, what, PITT—hæ? we must have t'other
 " grant—

" What, what? You know, PITT, that my old
 " dead AUNT *

" Left not a sixpence, PITT, these eyes to bless,

" But from the parish sav'd that fool at Hesse.

" But mind me—hæ, to plague her heart when
 " dying,

" I was a constant hunter—Nimrod still;

" And when in state as dead's a mack'rel lying,

" I car'd not, for I knew the Woman's Will.

" And three days after she was dead,

" Which some folks thought prodigiously profane,

" I took it—yes—I took it in my head,

" To order Sir John Brute at Drury-Lane:

" Had

* The late PRINCESS AMELIA sent nearly four hundred thousand pounds out of the kingdom; yet what is that sum to ten or twelve millions, which may one day travel from the nation? This is a serious affair, and which ought to be looked to.

- " Had she respected me, I do aver,
 " I should have stay'd at home, and thought of her.
 " And mind—keep GEORGE as poor as a church
 " mouse ;
 " Vote not a halfpenny for Carleton House :
 " This may appear like wonderful barbarity—
 " But mind, PITT, mind—he gains in popularity.
 " I see him o'er his Father try to rise,
 " And mount an eagle to the skies ;
 " But poverty will check his darling flight—
 " Besides, should GEORGE receive a grant,
 " He gets the golden orbs I want—
 " The Civil-List deficiencies, good night !
 " And hæ ! that wicked son-in-law of BROWN,*
 " Losing all sort of rev'rence for a Crown,
 " Hath sent me in a bill so dread—
 " What's very strange too, PITT, I'll tell ye more—
 " The rascal came into my house, and swore
 " 'Twas a just bill, and that he must be paid ;
 " Yes, that he would, he swore—(how saucy ! PITT),
 " Or send a lawyer to me with a writ.
 " Down sent I RAMUS to him o'er and o'er,
 " To say that BROWN had had enough—
 " And bid him to the Palace come no more
 " To pester Majesty with bills and stuff.

" What,

* Mr. Holland, the architect, who married a daughter of the late Capability Brown, and who hath several times impertinently troubled the Palace with a bill of two thousand pounds, due for work done by his father-in-law in the Royal gardens.

“ What, PITT, pray don’t you think I’m right—
 “ quite right ?”

On which the Premier, with a fault’ring bow,
 Star’d in the face by TRUTH—looking I don’t know
 how,

Hem’d out a faint assent—Heav’ns, how polite !
 How pretty ’twas in PITT, what great good sense,
 Not to give Majesty the least offence !

Whereas, the CHANCELLOR, had he been there,
 Whose tutor, one would think, had been a bear,
 Thinking a Briton to no forms confin’d,
 But born with privilege to speak his mind,
 Had answer’d with a thund’ring tongue,

“ I think your Majesty d-mn-tion wrong :—

“ I know no moral or prescriptive right

“ In Kings to * * * a subject of a mite :

“ Give him his just demand—it is but fit—

“ Such littlenesses look extremely odd—

“ Before me should the matter come, by G-d

“ Your Majesty will cursedly be bit :—

“ Kings by a sense of honour should be sway’d—

“ Holland must, will, by G-d he shall, be paid.”

Lord ROCHFORD, too, the gentle youth ! was there,
 Whose sweet falsetto voice is often sported
 In glees and catches ; so that all who hear,
 Believe a pretty semi-vir imported.

Anxious to please the royal pair
 Lord SALISBURY prais’d the words and air ;
 My Lord—who boasts a pretty tuneful palate,

Who

Who kindly teaches cobblers how to sing,
 Instructs his butler, baker, on the string,
 And with Apollo's laurel crowns his valet.*

" A cobbler, baker, chang'd to a musician,
 " Butlers, and lick-trenchers!" my reader roars;

" The sacred art is in a sweet condition—

" A pretty way of rubbing out old scores!

" God bless his generosity and purse:

" Soon probably his grandmother, or nurse,

" May to the happy band unite their notes—

" Perchance, the list respectable to grace,

" His Lordship's fav'rite horse may shew his face,

" And earn, as chorus singer, all his oats."

There too, that close attendant on the KING,

Sir CHARLES, † the active, elegant, and supple,
 Join'd with the happy Beings of the ring,

And bow'd and scrap'd before the sceptred couple;
 Pour'd high encomium on the birth-day din,
 And won the meed of many a royal grin.

Sir CHARLES! the most polite, devoted man,

Form'd perfectly upon the Courtier plan,

Watches each motion of the royal lips,

And round His Majesty so lively skips:

VOL. I.

Y

Keen

* His Lordship made some sad appointments to his Majesty's band—ignorant, unmusical rogues, who receive the salary, and thrum by proxy: however he hath behaved better lately, and made atonement, by giving SHIELD, DANCE, BLAKE, PARKE, and HACKWOOD, to the band.

† Sir Charles Thompson.

Keen as a hawk, observes his Sovereign's eye,
 Explores its wants, and dwells upon its stare,
 As if he really was to live or die

According to th' appearance of the glare :
 Hops, dances, of true courtliness the type,
 Just like a pea on a tobacco-pipe.

Oft will his sacred M——y look down,
 With aspect conscious of a glorious Crown ;
 Look down with furlly grandeur on the Knight,
 As if such servile homage was his right ;
 And, by a stare, inform the fearful thing,
 The diff'rence 'twixt a subject and a King.

Thus when a little fearful puppy meets
 A noble Newfoundland dog in the streets,
 He creeps, and whines, and licks the lofty brute ;
 Curls round him, falls upon his back, and then
 Springs up and gambols—frisks it back agen,
 And crawls in dread submission to his foot ;
 Looks up, and hugs his neck, and seems t'intreat
 him,

With ev'ry mark of terror, not to eat him.

The Newfoundland dog, conscious of his might,
 Cocks high his tail and ears, his state to show ;
 Then lifts his leg (a little unpolite)
 And almost drowns the suppliant below ;

Then seems, in full-blown majesty, to say,
 “ Great is my power—but, lo ! I'll not abuse it ;
 “ I'm CÆSAR ! paltry creature, go thy way ;
 “ But mind, I can devour thee, if I chuse it.”

Sir CHARLES at theatres oft shows his mien,
Skips from his Majesty behind the scene,

To make a famous actress blest, by saying,
How pleas'd the Monarch is—how oft he clapp'd,
How oft the Queen her fan so gracious tapp'd,
In approbation of her charming playing!

Then will the Knight, with motions all so quick,
Rush back again, o'erjoy'd, through thin and thick,
And to their Sacred Majesties repair,
Loaded with curtsies, speeches, thanks, fine things!
Proud as some old dame's nag with queens and kings
Of gingerbread, to grace a country fair.

Then will Sir CHARLES race back, with bold career,
With something new, the Royal mouths shall utter,
Sweet to the Actress's astonish'd ear,
As sugar-plumbs to brats—or bread and butter;

Then back to Majesty Sir CHARLES will fly
With the great Actress's sublime reply;
As for example—"Dear Sir CHARLES, dear friend,
" Pray thank their Majesties' extreme good nature,
" Who in their goodnesses can condescend
" To honour thus their poor devoted creature:
" Whose patronage gives glory to a name;
" Whose smiles alone confer immortal fame.—
" I beg, Sir CHARLES, you'll say the humblest things,
" Commend me to the best of Queens and Kings."

Back with the messages Sir CHARLES will run,
And with them charm of Majesty the Sun,
And bid him, like his brother in the skies,
Dart smiling radiance from his mouth and eyes!

Thrice happy Knight! all parties form'd to please!
Blest porter of such messages as these!

Thus midst the battle's rage, like lightning, scours
An Aide-de-camp, his General's orders carrying;
Bravely he gallops through the bullet show'rs,
But scarce a single minute tarrying;
Then to the General back with answer comes,
'Midst the deep thunder of great guns and drums;
Now forth again with more command he sallies,
Then back, then forth again behold him hurry;
To this which runs away, to that which rallies,
All bustle, uproar wild, and hurry scurry!

Yet was there one who much the day decry'd—
Old Lady MARY DUNCAN (says report).

"What, no dear, dear Castrato here!" she sigh'd;
"Why then, p-x take the roarings and the Court;
"Then Lord have mercy on my tortur'd ears,
"And shield me from the shouts of such He Bears.

"Are such the pretty notes to please?
"Then may I never more hear sounds like these!
"In days of yore they might have had their
"merit,

"Amongst the rams-horns to have borne a bob,
"That did at Jericho the wond'rous job—
"Knock'd down the wall with so much spirit.

"The sounds may answer to play tricks
"Amongst a pack of drunken asses;
"To break, as if it were with sticks,
"The bones of bottles and poor glasses.

"Where,

“ Where, where is Pacchierotti’s heart-felt strain?

“ Where Rubinelli’s softenuto note?

“ That tickled oft my sighing soul to pain?

“ That bade my senses in Elysium float?

“ Avaunt! you vile black-bearded rogues—avaunt!

“ ’Tis smoother chins, and sweeter tones, I want.”

My Lord of EXETER was also there,

Who, marv’ling, cock’d his time-discerning ear

To strains that did such honour to a Throne:

There UXBRIDGE taught the audience how to think,

With much significant and knowing wink,

And speeches clad in Wisdom’s critic tone;

Who look’d musicians through with half-shut eyes;

Most solemn, most chromatically wise!

SANDWICH, the glory of each jovial meeting,

This fiddler now—now that, so kindly greeting,

Appear’d, and shrewdly pour’d his habs and hums:

Great in tattoo, my Lord, and cross-hand roll;

Great in the dead-march stroke sublime of Saul,

He beats Old Afsbridge * on the kettle-drums.

What pity, to our military host

That such a charming drummer should be lost!

And feel through life his glories overcast

At that dull Board †, where, never could he learn,

Of ships, the diff’rence between stem and stern,

Hen-coops and boats, the rudder and the mast.

Say

* A kettle-drummer of great celebrity.

† The Admiralty.

Say—'midst the tuneful tribe was EDMUND BURKE?
 No! MUN was cutting out for HASTINGS, work;
 Writing to Cousin WILL † and Co. to league 'em
 Against that rogue, who like a ruffian rose,
 And tweak'd a bulse of jewels from the nose
 Of Dames in India, christen'd Munny Begum.

EDMUND! who formerly look'd fierce as Grimbald
 On that most horrid imp, Sir 'Thomas Rumbold;
 Vow'd, like a sheep, to slay that Eastern thief;
 Till strange good fortune open'd EDMUND's eyes:
 Oh! then he heard of Innocence the cries,
 And, like Jew converts, damn'd his old belief.
 Yet, let some praise for MUN's conversion pass
 To that great wonder-worker, Saint Dundas.

EDMUND! who battled hard for POWELL's life,
 And swore no man, in virtue, e'er went further;
 To prove which oath, this POWELL took a knife,
 And made the world believe it, by self-murther.

Reader, suppose I give thee a small Ode,
 Made when vile TIPPOO SAIB in triumph rode,
 And play'd the devil on our Indian Borders,
 In person, or by vile Satanic orders:

When Edmund Burke, so famous for fine speeches,
 From trope to trope, a downright rabbit, skipping,
 Meant, school-boy like, to take down HASTINGS'
 breeches,

And give the noble GOVERNOR a whipping?

If rightly, Reader, I translate thy phiz,
 Thou smil'st consent—I thank thee—Here it is.

But

† In India.

But mark my cleanliness ere I begin:
 Know, I've not caught the itch of party sin;
 To PITT, or FOX, I never did belong;
 TRUTH, TRUTH I seek—so help me GOD OF SONG!

P'rhaps to a Heathen oath thou may'st demur:
 Well then—Suspicion that I mayn't incur,

But, like a Christian, swear I do not sham—
 By all the angels of yon lofty sky,
 Where burning seraphims and cherubs cry,
 I'm of no party—curse me if I am!

By all those wonder-monger saints and martyrs,
 Cut for the love of God in halves and quarters;

By each black soul in purgatory frying;
 By all those whiter souls, though we can't see 'em,
 Singing their Ave-Mary and Te-Deum

On yon bright cloud—I swear I am not lying.

No! free as air the Muse shall spread her wing,
 Of whom, and when, and what she pleases, sing;
 Though Privy-Councils, * jealous of her note,
 Prescrib'd, of late, a halter for her throat.

Let Folly spring—my eagle, falcon, kite,
 Hawk—satire—what you will, shall mark her flight;
 Through huts or palaces ('tis just the same),
 With equal rage, pursue the panting game;
 And lay (by princes, or by peasants, bred)
 Low at the OWNER's feet, the CUCKOO, dead.

* This is a piece of secret history,

ODE TO EDMUND.

MUCH edified am I by EDMUND BURKE!

Well pleas'd I see his mill-like mouth at work,
Grinding away for poor Old England's good:

He gives of elocution such a feast!

He tells of such dread doings in the East!

And sighs, as t'were, for his own flesh and blood.

Shroff, Chout, Lack, Omra, Dustuck, Nabob, Bunder,
Crore, Choultry, Begum, leave his lips in thunder.

With matchless pathos, Mun describes the gag

Employ'd by that damn'd son of HYDER NAIG,
Nam'd TIPPOO—Gags! that British mouths detest!

Occasion'd partly by that man so sad,

That HASTINGS!—oh! deserving all that's bad—

That villain, murd'rer, tyrant, dog, wild beast!

Poor EDMUND sees poor Britain's setting sun;

Poor EDMUND groans—and Britain is undone!

Reader! thou hast, I do presume,

(God knows though) been in a snug room,

By coals or wood made comfortably warm;

And often fancy'd that a storm without

Hath made a diabolic rout—

Sunk ships—tore trees up—done a world of harm.

Yes! thou hast lifted up thy tearful eyes,

Fancying thou heardest of mariners the cries;

And sigh'd, "How wretched now must thousands be!

"Oh! how I pity the poor souls at sea!"

When,

When, lo! this dreadful tempest, and his roar,
A zephyr—in the key-hole of the door!

Now, may not EDMUND's howlings be a sigh
Pressing through EDMUND's lungs for loaves and fishes,

On which he long hath look'd with longing eye,
To fill poor EDMUND's not o'er-burden'd dishes?

Give MUN a sop—forgot will be complaint;
BRITAIN be safe, and HASTINGS prove a Saint.

NOW for the Drawing-room—O Muse, so mad-
ding,

Delighted in digression to be gadding.

Hampden and Fortescue (brave names!) attended—
The last in Catches wonderfully mended.

The lovely Lady Clarges too was there,

To all the graces as to music born;

Whose notes so sweetly melting soothe the ear!

Soft as the robin's to the blush of morn!

There too the rare Viol-di-Gamba Pratt,

Whose fingers fair the strings so nicely pat,

And bow that brings out sounds unknown at Babel,

Though not so sweet as those of Mister Abel.

Dear Maid! the daughter of that Prince of Pratts,

Who music cons as well as law; and swears

The girl shall scrub no foul's but Handel's airs,

To whom he thinks our great composers, cats:

Id

Id est, Sacchini, Haydn, Bach, and Gluck,
 And twenty more, who never had the luck
 To please the nicer ears of some crown'd FOLK ;
 Ears that, like other people's though they grow,
 Poor creatures ! really want the sense to know
 Psalm tunes so mournful from the old Black Joke.

That musty music-hunter too—Mus. D.
 Much-travel'd Burney, came to hear and see ;
 HE, in his tour, who found such great protectors—
 Kings, Queens, Dukes, Margraves, Margravines,
 Electors,

Who ask'd the Doctor many a gracious question,
 And treated him with marv'lous hospitality ;
 Guessing he had as clever a digestion
 For meat and drink, as music of rare quality.

Not with much glee the Doctor heard the Ode,
 But turn'd his disappointed eyes to GOD ;
 And wish'd it his own setting, with a sigh ;
 For, ere to Sal'sbury's house the Doctor came,
 To get, as ODE-SETTER, enroll'd his name,
 Behold ! behold the wedding was gone by.

Ah ! how unlucky that the prize was lost !
 Parsons, who, daring, dash'd through thick and thin—

Eclipse the second ! got like lightning in,
 When Burney just had reach'd the distant post.

Yet, gentle Muse, let candour this allow,
 That, though his heart was mortified enow,
 The Doctor did his rival's art admire,
 And own'd his maiden crotchets full of fire ;
 Crotchets !

Crotchets! though sweet, alas! condemn'd to lie,
Like Royal virtues, hid from mortal eye!

Crotchets that songful Mister Parsons ties
To Tom's big phrase, to make sublimer cries;
Thrice happy union to entrance the soul!
How like the notes of cats, a vocal pair,
By boys (to catch their wild and mingled air)
Ty'd tail to tail, and thrown across a pole!

But where was great Sir Watkyn all this time?
Why heard he not the air and lofty rhyme?
The sleek Welsh Deity, who music knows;
The ALEXANDER of the Tot'n'am * troops,
Who, tutor'd by his stampings, nods, grunts, whoops,
Do wond'rous execution with their bows?

Sir Watkyn, deep in dismal dudgeon gone,
Far in his Cambrian villa † sat alone;
To Mistress Walsingham ‡ he scrubb'd his base,
Whilst anger swell'd the volume of his face,
Flaming, like suns of London in a fog;
Of Mistress Walsingham he sung with ire;
His eyes as red as ferret's eyes, with fire;
His mighty soul for vengeance all agog.

ACHILLES thus, affronted to the beard,
His sledge-like fist o'er Agamemnon rear'd,

And

* Sir Watkyn is a Member of the Ancient Music Concert in Tottenham-Street, and much attended to, both for his art and science.

† Wynnestay.

‡ The quarrel between the Knight and the Lady was a wonderful one—Tantæne animis celestibus ira?

And down his throat would fain his words have ramm'd;

Who, after oaths (a pretty decent volley,)
And rating the long Monarch for his folly,
Inform'd the King of Men he might be d-mn'd;
Then to his tent majestic strode, to strum,
And scrape his anger out on tweedle-dum.

Yet Mistress Walsingham the Ode attended;
From 'Squire Apollo lineally descended—
A dame who dances, paints, and plays, and sings;
The Saint Cecilia—Queen of wind and strings!
Though scarcely bigger than a cat—a dame,
'Midst the Bas Bleus, a giant as to fame.

When fiddle, hautboy, clarinet, bassoon,
On Sunday (deem'd by us good Christians, odd)
Unite their clang, and pour their merry tune
In jiggish gratitude to God;

Lo! if a witless Member should desire,
Instead of Handel, strains perchance of Haydn,
A fierce SEMIRAMIS she flames with fire—
This Amazonian, crotchets-loving maiden!
She looks at him with such a pair of eyes!

Reader, by way of simile-digression,
Which to my subject happily applies—
Didst ever see Grimalkin in a passion,
Lifting her back, and ears, and tail, and hair;
Giving her two expressive goggles,
(Not in the sweet and tender style of oglers)
A fierce, broad, wild, fix'd, furious, threat'ning stare?

If

If so—thou may'st some faint ideas have
 Of this great Lady at her tuneful club—
 Who very often hath been heard to rave,
 And with much eloquence the Members snub.

Some people by their souls will swear,
 That if Musicians miss but half a bar,
 Just like an Irishman she starts to bother :
 And, in the violence of quaver madness,
 Where nought should reign but harmony and gladness,

She knocks one tuneful head against another ;
 Then screams in such chromatic tones
 Upon Apollo's poor affrighted sons,
 Whose trembling tongues, when hers begins to sound,
 Are, in the dire vociferation, drown'd !

Thus when old Oxford's bell, baptiz'd Great
Tom,

Shakes all the city with his iron tongue,
 The little tinklers might as well be dumb
 As ask attention to their puny song,
 So much the Lilliputians are o'ercome
 By the deep thunder of the Mighty Tom.

Handel, as fam'd for manners as a pig,
 Enrag'd, upon a time pull'd off his wig,
 And flung it plump in poor Cuzzoni's face,
 Because the little Syren miss'd a grace :
 Musicians, therefore, should beware ;

Or in the face of some unlucky chap,
 Although she cannot fling a load of hair,
 She probably may dart her cap.

Oft when a youth to some sweet blushing maid
 Hath slyly whisper'd amatory things,
 And, more by passion than by music sway'd,
 Broke on the tuneful dialogue of strings;
 Rous'd like a tigress from a fav'rite feast,
 Up hath the valiant Gentlewoman sprung,
 With lightning look, and thund'ring tongue;
 Ready with outstretch'd neck to eat the beast
 That boldly dar'd—so blasphemously rash—
 Mix with the air divine his love-sick trash,
 Reader, attend her—she will so enrich ye
 With music knowledges of every kind,
 From that poor nothing-monger, old Quilici,
 To Handel's lofty and capacious mind;
 Run wild divisions on the various merit
 Of this and that composer's spirit—

On GLUCK's sublimities be all so chatty;
 Talk of the serio-comic of Piccini,
 Compare the elegance of sweet Sacchini,
 And iron melodies of old Scarlatti!

But not one word on British worth, I ween;
 Their very mention gives the Dame the spleen:
 'Twere e'en disgrace to tell their mawkish names:
 Mere cart-horses—poor uninventive fools,
 Who neither music make, nor know its rules;
 Whose works should only come to light in flames.
 To depths of music doth this Dame pretend,
 Nought can her science well transcend—

If you the Lady's own opinion ask;
 And when she talks of musical enditers,
 She shows a vast acquaintance with all writers,
 And takes them critically all to task.

Dear

Dear Gentlewoman! who, so great, so chaste,
 So foreign in her tweedle-dummiſh taſte,
 Faints at the name of that enchanting fellow,
 The melting Amoroſo, Paiſiello!

With notes on Tarchi, Sarti, will o'erwhelm ye;
 Giordani, ſweeter than the Hybla honey;
 Anfoſſi, Cimerofa, Bach, Bertoni,

Rauzzini, Abel, Pleyel, Guglielmi!
 Can tell you, that th' Italian ſchool is airy,
 Expreſſive, elegant, light as a fairy;
 The German, heavy, deep, ſcholastic;

The French, moſt miſerably whining, moaning,
 Oft like poor devils in the colic groaning,
 Noify, and ſcreaming, hideous, Hudibrastic.

The female viſitors around her gaze,
 With wond'ring eyes, and mouths of wide amaze,
 To hear her pompouſly demand the key
 Of ev'ry piece muſicians play;
 Aſtoniſh'd ſee this Petticoat Apollo,

With ſtamping foot, and beck'ning hands
 And head, time-nodding iſſue high commands,
 Beating the Tot'n'am-road Director * hollow.

Yes—they behold, amaz'd, this tuneful whale,
 And catch each crotchet of her rich diſcourſe,
 Utter'd with claſſic elegance and force,

On Diatonic and Chromatic ſcale:
 Then ſtare to ſee the Lady wiſely pore
 On ſcientific zig-zag ſcore.

Reader, at this great Lady's Sunday meeting,
 'Midſt tuning inſtruments, each other greeting;
Screaming

* Joah Bate, Eſquire.

Screaming as if they had not met for years,
So joyous, and so great their clatter!—say,
Didst ever see this Lady striking A

Upon her harpsichord, with bending ears?
With open mouth, and stare profound,
Attention nail'd, and head awry,
Watching each atom of the tuneful cry,
Till Alamire unison goes round?

Didst ever see her hands outstretch'd like wings,
Towards the Band, though led by CRAMER,
Wide swimming for pianos on the strings—

Now sudden rais'd, like Mister Christie's hammer,
To bid the forte * roar in sudden thunder,
And fill the gaping multitude with wonder?
Thou never didst?—then, friend, without a hum,
I envy thee a happiness to come!

“He moulds his harp,” quoth Tom, “to manners
“mild;”

To Kings, for babe-like manners simple styl'd,
And grac'd with virtues that would fill a tun;
To him the Poet humbly makes a leg,
Who, goose-like, brooding o'er the fav'rite egg
Of Genius, gives the Phoenix to the sun.

To him, who for such eggs is always watching,
And never more delighted than when hatching;
Which makes the number offer'd to the sun,
So vast!—why, verily as thick as peas,
That people may collect, with equal ease,
A thousand noble instances, as one.

What

* Motions established by the Cognoscenti for showing the light and shade of music.

What numbers, WISDOM to his care hath giv'n!
 All hatch'd—some living—others gone to Heav'n:
 Thus in the pinnick's * nest the cuckoo lays,
 Then, easy as a Frenchman, takes her flight:
 Due homage to the eggs the pinnick pays,
 And brings the little lubbers into light.
 The modern poet sings, quoth Tom again,
 Of M—chs, who, with economic fury,
 Force all the tuneful world to Tot'n'am-lane,
 And lock up all the doors of harmless Drury. †

Say, why this curse on Drury's harmless door,
 That thus, in anger, M——y should lock it?
 Muse, are the Tot'n'am-street subscribers poor?
 Will Drury keep some pence from Tot'n'am's pocket?

Doth threat'ning bankruptcy extend a gloom
 O'er the proud walls of Tot'n'am's regal room?

Perchance 'tis Mara's song that gives offence!

Hinc illæ lacrymæ!—I fear:

The song that once could charm the R—l sense,
 Delights, alas! no more the Royal ear.

Gods!

* A bird so called in some countries, that attends the wife bird, and feeds him.

† The Oratorios were to have been performed at Drury-lane, this year, under the conduct of Mr. LINLEY and Dr. ARNOLD.—The MARA was to have exhibited her vocalities. This would have been a death-stroke to the pigmy performance in Tottenham-court Road. How should the pigmy be saved? By killing the giant: and lo! his death-warrant hath been signed.—By what power of the constitution? None!—Can the Grand Monarque do more? Quicquid delirant Reges, plequntur Achivi.

Gods! can a guinea darken ev'ry note,
And make the nightingale's a raven's throat?

But let me give his I——y a hint,
Fresh from my brain's prolific mint:
Suppose we amateurs should, in a fury,
Just take it in our John-Bull heads to say
(And lo! 'tis very probable we may)
“ We will have Oratorios at Drury?”

How must he look? Blank—wonderfully blank;
And think such speech an insult on his rank:
What could he do?—oppose with ire so hot?
I think his M——y had better not! *

Pity a King should with his subjects squabble
About an Oratorio or a Play:
It puts him on a footing with the rabble;
And that is most unkingly, let me say.

Suppose he comes off conqueror!—alas!
For such a victory he ought to figh.
But, Lord! suppose it so should come to pass,
That Majesty comes off with a black eye?
Whether he lose or win the day,
The world will christen it a paltry fray.

Kings should be never in the wrong †—
They never are, some wiseacres declare.

Poh!

* Indeed his M——y hath prudently taken the hint.—
DRURY, in spite of the Royal frown, hath had her Oratorios performed, to the no small mortification of poor deserted TOR-TENHAM.

† Yet let us give an instance of wrong proceedings.—A certain K—— and Q——, instead of having concerts at their palace,

Poh! such a speech may do for birth-day song;
But makes us philosophic people stare!

I know a certain owner of a C——n,
Not quite a hundred miles from Windsor town,
Who harbour'd of his neighbour horrid notions—
A widow gentlewoman, who, he said,
Popp'd from her window ev'ry day her head
Impertinent, to watch his Royal motions.

“What?” what?” quoth M——y, “I'll teach
“her eyes
“To take my motions by surprise:
“One cannot breakfast, dine, drink tea, nor sup,
“But, whip! the woman's head at once is out,
“To see and hear what we are all about:
“I'll cure her of that trick—and block her up.”

Mad

palace, in the style of other Princes, such as the King of France, the Emperor, the Empress of Russia, &c. have entered into a private subscription for a concert in a pitiful street. They pay their six guineas a-piece; and, what is more extraordinary, get in their children, as we are told, gratis! What is still more extraordinary, they have entered into a bond for borrowing two thousand pounds for putting the house into a decent repair; fit for the reception of the K—— of the first empire upon earth. Of whom has this money been borrowed?—Marvelling reader! of the poor musicians' fund! which money might have been placed out to a much superior advantage. Let me add, that the subscribers order a formal rehearsal previous to every concert, so that, in fact, they get a double concert for their money;—undoubtedly to the vast satisfaction of the fingers of the happy CRAMER, BORGHİ, SHIELD, CERVETTO, &c. who, in this instance, earn their money not very unlike the patient and laborious animal called a drayhorse.

Mad as his military GRACE *
 For fortifying ev'ry place,
 From dockyards to a necessary house,
 The M——ch dreamt of nothing but the wall,
 The faucy spy in petticoats to maul,
 And make her eagle pride crawl like his louse.

Now workmen came, with formidable stones,
 To block up the poor widow JONES,
 Who mark'd this dread blockade, and, with a frown,
 And to the cause of freedom true,
 One of the old hen's chicks so blue,
 Fast as the K—— built up, the dame pull'd down.
 'Twas up—'twas down—'twas up again—'twas
 down—

Much did the country with the battle ring,
 Between the valiant Widow and the K——,
 That admiration rais'd in Windsor town :
 The mighty battl'ing Broughtons, and the Slacks,
 Ne'er knew more money betted on their backs.

Sing, heav'nly Muse, how ended this affray :
 Just as it happens, faith, nine times in ten,
 When dames so spirited engage with men ;
 That is—th' heroic Widow won the day :

The K—— could not the woman maul ;
 But found himself most shamefully defeated ;
 Then, very wisely, he retreated,
 And, very prudently, gave up the wall.

Now

* Duke of Richmond.

Now sing, O Muse, the warlike ammunition
 Us'd by the Dame in her besieg'd condition,
 That on the host of vile invaders flew;
 Say, did no God nor Goddess cry out, Shame!
 And nobly hasten to relieve the Dame
 From such a resolute and hostile crew?

Yes—Neptune, like her guardian angel, kind,
 Join'd the poor Widow Jones, and ran up stairs;
 Then fiercely caught up certain earthen wares,
 And, pleas'd his fav'rite element to find,
 Bid on their heads, the briny torrents flow,
 And wash'd, like shags, the combatants below.

The goddess Cloacina too, so hearty,
 Rush'd to the Widow's house, and join'd the party;
 But say, what ammunition fill'd her hand,
 Fame for the Widow to acquire,
 To bid the enemy retire,
 And give to public scorn the daring band?

What that strong ammunition was, the Bard
 Heard as a secret—therefore must not tell;
 Nor would he for a thousand pounds reward,
 To beaux reveal it, or the sweetest belle.
 Yet Nature possibly hath made a snout,
 Blest with sagacity to smell it out.

Reader, don't stand so, staring like a calf;
 Thy gaping attitude provokes my laugh;
 Thou think'st that Monarchs never can act ill:
 Get thy head shav'd, poor fool! or think so still.

Whether thou deem'st my story false or true,
 I value not a rush.

Wilt

Wilt have another?—"No."—Nay, prithee do.—

"I won't."—Thou shalt, by Heavens! so prithee
hush!

But ere I give the tale, my tuneful bride,
My Lady Muse, shall talk of Kings and Pride.

Some Kings on thrones are children on the lap;
Children, that all of us see ev'ry day;
Brats that kick, squall, and quarrel with their pap,
Tearing, and swearing they will have their way:
And what, too, their great reputation rifles,
Kings quarrel, just like children, about trifles.

Moreover—'tis a terrible affair
For kingly worship to be kick'd by fellows
Who probably feed half their time on air,
Mending old kettles or old bellows.

My Lady PRIDE's a very lofty BEING,
Much pleas'd with people's scraping, bowing,
kneeing,
Fruitful in egotisms, and full of brags;
Her Ladyship in nought can brook denial;
And, as for insult, 'tis a killing trial,
And more especially from men of rags.

For PRIDE, such is her stateliness, alas!
Rather than feel the kickings of an ass,
Would calmly put up with a leg of horse;
Though pelting her with fifty times the force;
Nay, though her brains came out upon the ground,
Were brains within her head-piece to be found.

A KING AND A BRICKMAKER.*

A T A L E.

A KING, near Pimlico, with nose and state,
 Did very much a neighbouring brick-kiln hate,
 Because the kiln did vomit nasty smoke;
 Which smoke—I can't say very nicely bred—
 Did very often take it in its head
 To blacken the Great House, and try the K— to choak.

His sacred Majesty would, sputt'ring, say,
 Upon a windy day,

“ I'll make the rascal and his brick-kiln hop—
 “ P-x take the smoke—the sulphur!—zounds!—
 “ It forces down my throat by pounds;
 “ My belly is a downright blacksmith's shop.”

One day, he was so pester'd by a cloud—
 He could not bear it, and thus bawl'd aloud:

“ Go,” roar'd his M——y unto a Page,
 Work'd, like a lion, to a dev'lish rage,
 “ Go, tell the rascal who the brick-kiln owns,
 “ That if he dares to burn another brick,
 “ Black all my house like hell, and make me sick,
 “ I'll tear his kiln to rags, and break his bones.”

Off Billy Ramus fet, his errand told:

On which the Brickmaker, a little bold,

Exclaim'd,

* A Mr. Scott.

Exclaim'd, " He break my bones, good Master Page,
 " He say my kiln shan't burn another brick,
 " Because it blacks his house, and makes him sick!
 " Billy, go, give my love to Master's rage,
 " And say, more bricks I am resolv'd to burn;
 " And if the smoke his Worship's stomach turn,
 " Tell him to stop his mouth and snout:
 " Nay more, good Page; his M——y shall find
 " I'll always take th' advantage of the wind,
 " And, dam'me, try to smoke him out."

This was a shameful message to a K—
 From a poor ragged rogue that dealt in mud;
 Yet, though so impudent a thing,
 The fellow's rhet'rick could not be withstood.

Stiff as against poor Hastings, Edmund Burke,
 This Brickmaker went tooth and nail to work,
 And form'd a true Vesuvius on the eye:
 The smoke in pitchy volumes roll'd along,
 Rush'd through the Royal dome with sulphur strong,
 And, thick ascending, darken'd all the sky.

To give the smoke a nastier stink,
 Indignant Reader, what dost think?
 The fellow scrap'd the filthiest stuff together,
 Old wigs, old hats, old woollen caps, old rugs,
 Replete with many a colony of bugs,
 Old shoes, old boots, and all the tribe of leather.

Thus did the cloud of stink and darkness shade
 The building for the Lord's anointed made,
 And blacken it like palls that grace a burying:

Thus

Thus was this man of mud and straw employ'd,
 And at the thought so wicked; overjoy'd,
 Of smoking God's Vicegerent like a herring;
 Of serving him as we do parts of swine,
 With turkey that to please our taste combine:
 But lo! this daring baneful rogue of brick
 Fell, for his Sov'reign fortunately, sick,
 And, ere the wretch could glut his spleen and pride,
 By turning Monarchs into bacon—died.

THE modern bard (quoth Tom) sublimely sings
 Of sharp and prudent economic Kings,
 Who rams, and ewes, and lambs, and bullocks feed,
 And pigs of every sort of breed:
 Of Kings who pride themselves on fruitful sows;
 Who sell skim milk, and keep a guard so stout
 To drive the geese, the thievish rascals, out,
 That ev'ry morning us'd to suck the cows: *

Of Kings who cabbages † and carrots plant
 For such as wholesome vegetables want;
 Who feed, too, poultry for the people's sake,
 Then send it through the villages in carts,
 To cheer (how wond'rous kind!) the hungry hearts
 Of such as only pay for what they take.

The

* Is it possible for this story to be true? We would rather give it as apocryphal.

† Mr. Wharton says in his Ode, "Who plant the Civic Bay;" but he assuredly meant cabbages and carrots:—the fact proves it.

The poet now, quoth Tom's rare lucubration,
 Singeth commercial treaties—commutation—
 Taxes on paint, pomatum, milk of roses,
 Olympian dew, gloves, sticking plaster, hats,
 Quack med'cines for sick Christians, and found rats,

And all that charm our eyes, our mouths, or noses.

The modern bard, says Tom, sublimely sings
 Of virtuous, gracious, good, uxorious Kings,
 Who love their wives so constant from their heart;
 Who down at Windsor daily go a shopping,
 Their heads, right royal, into houses popping,
 And doing wonders in the haggling art.

And why, in God's name, should not Queens and Kings

Purchase a comb, or corkscrew, lace for cloaks,
 Edging for caps, or tape for apron-strings,
 Or pins, or bobbin, cheap as other folks?

Reader! to make thine eyes with wonder stare,
 I tell thee, farthings claim the Royal care!
 Farthings are helpless children of a guinea:

If not well watch'd, they travel to their cost;
 For lo! each copper-visag'd little ninney
 Is very apt to stray, and to be lost.

Extravagance I never dar'd defend;

The greatest Kings should save a candle end:
 Since 'tis an axiom sure, the more folks save,
 The more, indisputably, they must have.

Crown'd heads, of saving should appear examples;
 And Britain really boasts two pretty samples!

The

The modern poet sings, quoth Tom again,
Of sweet excifemen, an obliging train;
Who, like our guardian angels, watch our houses,
And add another civil obligation
That addeth greatly to our reputation—
Hug, in our absences, our loving spouses.

Reader! when tir'd, I'm fond of taking breath:
Now, as thou dost admire the true sublime,
And, consequently, my immortal rhyme,
'Tis clear thou never canst desire my death.

Swans, in their songs, must musically die;
If that's the case then, Reader, so might I.
Let me, then, join thy wishes—stay my rapture,
And nurse my lungs, to sing a second chapter.

IN CONTINUATION.

“GRANT me an honest fame, or grant me none,”

Says Pope, (I don't know where) a little liar;
Who, if he prais'd a man, 'twas in a tone
That made his praise like bunches of sweetbriar,
Which, while a pleasing fragrance it bestows,
Pops out a pretty prickle on your nose.

Were some folks to exclaim, who fill a throne,
“Grant me an honest fame, or grant me none;”
Such Princes were upon the forlorn hope:
Soon, very soon, to reputation dead,
Their idle Laureats, faith, might shut up shop,
And bid their lofty genius go to bed.

Muse, this is all well said; but, not t' offend ye,
I beg you will not cultivate digression—
Plead not the poet's quidlibet audendi;
For surely there are limits to th' expression:
Then cease to wanton thus in episode,
And tell the world of Mister WARTON's Ode.

The modern poet, Laureat THOMAS, says,
To Botany's grand island tunes his lays,
Fix'd for the swains and damsels of St. Giles,
Whose knowledge in the hocus-pocus art
Bids them from Britain somewhat sudden start,
To teach to southern climes their ministerial wiles:

Improve

Improve the wisdom of the commonweal,
 And teach the simple natives how to steal:
 The picklock sciences, so dark, explain;
 And to ingenious murder turn each brain.

Quoth Tom again—the modern poet sings
 Of sweet, good-natur'd, inoffensive Kings;
 Who, by a miracle, escap'd with life—
 Escap'd a damsel's most tremendous knife;
 A knife that had been taught, by toil and art,
 To pierce the bowels of a pye or tart.

Thus, having giv'n a full display
 Of what our Laureat says, or meant to say;
 I'll beg of THOMAS to instruct my ears,
 Why, in his verses, he should call
 The knights who grac'd the high-arch'd Hall,
 A set of bears? *

Why the bold steel-clad knights of elder days
 Art not entitled to a little praise,
 Who for God's cause did palace, house, and but sell;
 As well as Monarchs of the present date,
 Whose dear religion, of which poets prate,
 Might lodge, without much squeezing, in a nutshell?

"What King hath small religion?" thou repliest.
 "If G..... the Th... thou meanest—bard, thou
 "liest."

Hold, THOMAS—not so furious: I know things
 That add not to the piety of

I've

* Vide the word Savage, in the Laureat's Ode for the new year.

I've seen a K. at chapel, I declare,
 Yawn, gape, laugh, in the middle of a pray'r—
 When inward his sad optics ought to roll,
 To view the dark condition of his soul;
 Catch up an opera-glass, with curious eye,
 Forgetting God, some stranger's phiz to spy,
 As though desirous to observe, if Heav'n
 Had Christian features to the visage giv'n;
 Then turn (for kind communication, keen)
 And tell some new-found wonders to the Queen.

Thus have these eyes beheld a cock so stately,
 (Indeed these lyric eyes beheld one lately)

Lab'ring upon a dunghill with each knuckle;
 When, after many a peck, and scratch, and scrub,
 This hunter did unkennel a poor grub,

On which the fellow did so strut and chuckle!
 He peck'd and squinted—peck'd and kenn'd agen,
 Hallooing lustily to Madam Hen;
 To whom, with airs of triumph, he look'd round,
 And told what noble treasure he had found.

"Ah! Peter, Peter," Laureat THOMAS cries,
 "Thou hast no fear of Kings before thy eyes;
 "Great—little—all with thee are equal jokes,
 "And mighty Monarchs merely common folks.
 "Ah! wicked, wicked, wicked Peter, know—"
Know what? "That monarchs are not merely show;
 "Souls they possess, and on a glorious scale."
 To this I answer, THOMAS, with a tale.

A Duke of Burgundy (I know not which)
 Thus, on a certain time, address'd a poet:—

“ I’m much afraid of that same scribbling itch.
 “ You’ve wit—but pray be cautious how you show it;
 “ Say nothing in your rhymes about a King;
 “ If praise, ’tis lies—if blame, a dangerous thing.”
 That is, the Duke believ’d the King, uncivil,
 Might kick the faucy poet to the devil.

T. W.

PETER, there’s odds ’twixt staring and stark mad—

P. P.

Who dares deny it?—So there is, egad!

T. W.

Thou think’st no Prince of common sense possessest—

P. P.

THOMAS, thou art mistaken, I protest.
 On Stanislaus the Muse could pour her strain,
 Who, dying, sunk a Sun upon Lorraine:
 Too like the parted Sun, with glory crown’d—
 He fill’d with blushes deep th’ horizon round.
 Fred’rick the Gréat, who died the other day,
 Had for himself, indeed, a deal to say:

We must not touch upon that King’s belief—
 Because I fear he seldom said his pray’rs;

Nor dare we say the Hero was no thief,
 Because he plunder’d ev’ry body’s wares.

I’m told the Emperor is vastly wise—

And hope that Madam Fame hath told no lies:

Yet, in his disputations with the Dutch,

The Monarch’s oratory was not much:

Full

Full many a trope from bayonet and drum
He threaten'd—but, behold! 'twas all a hum.

Wise are our gracious Q——'s superb relations,
The pride and envy of the German nations;
People of fashion, worship, wealth, and state—
Lo! what demand for them, in heav'n, of late!

Lo! with his knapsack, ev'n just now departed,
As fine a soldier, faith, as ever started—
Whom Death did almost dread to lay his claws on—
Old Captain what's his name?—Saxehilberghaufen:*
For whom (with zeal, for folks of worship, burning)
We once again are blacken'd up by mourning;
To shew by glove, cloth, ribband, crape, and fan,
A peck of trouble for th' old gentleman.

Ah me! what dozens, dozens, dozens,
Our Q—— hath got of uncles, aunts, and cousins!
Egad, if thus those folks continue dying,
Each Briton, doom'd to dismal black,
Must always bear à hearse-like back,
And, like Heraclitus, be always crying.

Great is the northern Empress, I confess!
Much, in her humour, like our good Queen Bess;
Who keeps her fair court dames from getting drunk:†
And all so temperate herself, folks say,
She scarcely drinks a dozen drams a day;
And, in love matters, is a Queen of spunk.

Yet

* Great Uncle to our most gracious Q. He died in the Emperor's service.

† At an Assembly at Petersburg, some years since, which was honoured with the presence of the Empress, one of the rules was, that no lady should come drunk into the room.

Yet like I not such woman for a wife—
 Such heroines, in a matrimonial strife,
 Might hammer from one's tender head hard notes :
 I own my delicacy is so great,
 I cannot in dispute, with rapture, meet
 Women who look like men in petticoats.

Oft in a learn'd dispute upon a cap,
 By way of answer one might have a slap—
 P'rhaps on a simple petticoat or gown—
 Nay! possibly on Madam's being kiss'd!
 And really I would rather be knock'd down
 By weight of argument, than weight of fist.

I like not dames whose conversation runs
 On battles, sieges, mortars, and great guns :
 The milder Beauties win my soften'd soul,
 Who look for fashions with desiring eyes ;
 Pleas'd when on têtes the conversations roll,
 Cork rumps, and merry-thoughts and lovers' sighs.

LOVE! when I marry, give me not an ox—
 I hate a woman like a sentry-box ;
 Nor can I deem that dame a charming creature
 Whose hard face holds an oath in ev'ry feature.

In woman, angel sweetness let me see :
 No galloping horse-godmothers for me.
 I own I cannot brook such many belles
 As Mademoiselle d'Eons, and Hannah Snells :
 Yet men there are (how strange are Love's decrees!)
 Whose palates e'en Jack-Gentlewomen please.

How diff'rent, Cynthia, from thy form so fair,
 That triumphs in a love-inspiring air ;

Superior beaming ev'n where thousands shine—
 Thy form!—where all the tender graces play,
 And, blushing, seem in ev'ry smile to say,
 “ Behold we boast an origin divine!”

See too the Queen of France—a gem, I ween!
 With rev'rence let me hail that charming Queen,
 Bliss to her King, and lustre to her race.
 Though Venus gave of beauty half her store,
 And all the Graces bid a world adore—
 Her smallest beauties are the charms of face.

T. W.

Heav'ns! why abroad for virtues must you roam?

P. P.

Because I cannot find them, Tom, at home.

I beg your pardon—yes—the Prince of Wales
 (Whose actions smile contempt on Scandal's tales)
 Ranks in the Muse's favour high.

I wish some folks, that I could name with ease,
 Blest with his head—his heart—his pow'rs to please—

Then Pity's soul would cease from many a sigh!

The crouching courtiers, that surround a throne,
 And learn to speak and grin from one alone,
 Who watch, like dancing dogs, their master's nod—
 Are ready now, if horsewhipp'd from their places,
 At Carlton House to shew their supple faces,
 And call the Prince they vilify, a God.

T. W.

T. W.

Think'st thou not Cæsar doth the arts possess?

P. P.

Arts in abundance!—Yes, Tom—yes, Tom—yes!

T. W.

Think'st thou not Cæsar would each joy forego,
To make his children happy?

P. P.

No, Tom—no!

T. W.

What! not one bag, to bless a child, bestow?—

P. P.

Heav'n help thy folly!—no, Tom—no, Tom—no!
The fordid souls that Avarice enslaves,
Would gladly grasp their guineas in their graves:
Like that old Greek—a miserable cur,
Who made himself his own executor.

A cat is with her kittens much delighted;

She licks so lovingly their mouths and chins:
At ev'ry danger, lord! how puss is frightened!

She curls her back, and swells her tail, and grins,
Rolls her wild eyes, and claws the backs of curs
Who smell too curious to her children's furs.

This happens whilst her cats are young indeed;

But when grown up, alas! how chang'd their luck!
No more she plays at bo-peep with her breed,
Lies down, and, mewling, bids them come and suck:

A a 2

No

No more she sports and pats them, frisks and purs ;
Plays with their twinkling tails, and licks their furs :
But when they beg her blessing and embraces,
Spits, like a dirty vixen, in their faces.

Nay, after making the poor lambkins fly,
She watches the dear babes with squinting eye ;
And if she spies them with a bit of meat,
Springs on their property, and steals their treat.

No more a tender love she seems to feel ;
The dev'l for HER may eat 'em at a meal—
With all HER foul ; the jade, so wond'rous saving,
Cries “ Off! you now are at your own beard-shav-
“ ing.”

So—to some K...s this evil doth belong ;—
Th' intelligence is good, I make no doubt ;
Who seem to like their offspring when they're young,
But lose that fond affection when they're stout ;
Far off they send them—nor a sixpence give :
I wonder, THOMAS, where such M.....hs live!

Should such a M.....h, THOMAS, cross thy way,
And for thy flatt'ry offer butts of sack ;
Say plainly that he would disgrace thy lay ;
And, turning on him thy poetic back,
Bid, like a porcupine, thine anger bristle ;
Nor damn thy precious soul, to wet thy whistle.

CONCLUSION.

THINK not, friend TOM, I envy thee thy rhyme,
 By numbers, I assure thee, deem'd sublime;
 Or that thy Laureat's place my spleen provokes:
 The King (good man!) and I should never quarrel,

E'en though his royal wisdom gave the laurel
 To Mister TOM-A-STILES, or JOHN-A-NOKES,

Old-fashion'd, as if tutor'd in the ark,

I never sigh'd for GLORY's high degrees:
 This very instant should our Grand Monarque
 Say, "PETER, be my Laureat, if you please;"

"No, please your Majesty," should be my answer,
 With sweetest diffidence and modest grace;

"The office suits a more ingenious] man, Sir;

"In God's name, therefore, let him have the place;

"Unlike the poets, 'tis my vast affliction

"To be a miserable hand at fiction.

"But, Sir, I'll find some lyric undertaker,

"Acrostic, rebus, or conundrum maker,

"Who oft hath rode on Pegasus so fiery,

"And won the sweepstakes in the LADY'S DIARY;

"Such, SIRE, in poetry shall hitch your name,

"And do sufficient justice to your fame."

Principibus placuisse viris non ultima laus est. HORAT.

The BARD whose verse can charm the BEST OF KINGS,
Performeth most extraordinary things!

THE ARGUMENT.

PETER nobly acknowledgeth error, suspecteth an interfering Devil, and supplicateth his Reader—He boasteth, wittily parodieth, and most learnedly quoteth a Latin Poet—He sheweth much affection for Kings, illustrating it by a beautiful simile—PETER again waxeth witty—Resolution declared for rhyme in consequence of encouragement from our two UNIVERSITIES—PETER wickedly accused of King-roasting; refuteth the malevolent charge by a most apt illustration—PETER criticiseth the blunders of the stars—PETER replieth to the charges brought against him by the World—He displayeth great Bible knowledge, and maketh a shrewd observation on KING DAVID, URIAH, and the Sheep, such as no Commentator ever made before—PETER challengeth Courtiers to equal his intrepidity, and proveth his superiority of courage by giving a delectable tale of DUMPLINGS—PETER answereth the unbelief of a vociferous World—Declareth totis viribus love for KINGS—PETER peepeth into Futurity, and telleth the fortune of the PRINCE OF WALES—He descanteth on the high province of ancient Poets, and displayeth classical erudition—PETER holdeth conference with a Quaker—PETER, as usual, turneth rank Egotist—He telleth strange news relating to MAJESTY and PEPPER ARDEN—PETER apologiseth for impudence, by a tale of a French King—PETER, imitating OVID, who was transported for his impudent Ballads, talketh to his ODE—Suggesteth a royal answer to Odes and Ode-factors—Happily selecteth a story of KING CANUTE, illustrating the danger of stopping the mouths of Poets with halters, &c. instead of meat—PETER concludeth with a wise observation.

ODE UPON ODE.

READER, I solemnly protest
I thought that I had worked up all my rhyme!
What stupid demon hath my brain possess'd?
I prithee, pardon me this time:

Afford thy patience through more Ode;
'Tis not a vast extent of road:

Together let us gallop then along:
Most nimbly shall old Pegasus, my hack, stir.

To drop the image—prithee hear more song,
Some 'more last words of Mr. Baxter.'

A wond'rous fav'rite with the tuneful throng,
Sublimely great are PETER's pow'rs of song:
His nerve of satire, too, so very tough,
Strong without weakness, without softness rough.

What HORACE said of streams in easy lay,
The marv'ling World of PETER's tongue may say;
His tongue, so copious in a flux of metre,

"LABITUR ET LABETUR!"

ODE

O D E,

WORLD! stop thy mouth—I am resolv'd to rhyme—

I cannot throw away a vein sublime:

If I may take the liberty to brag;

I cannot, like the fellow in the Bible,

Venting upon his master a rank libel,

Conceal my talent in a rag:

Kings must continue still to be my theme—

Eternally of Kings I dream;

As beggars ev'ry night, we must suppose,

Dream of their vermin, in their beds;

Because, as ev'ry body knows,

Such things are always running in their heads.

Besides—were I to write of common folks,

No soul would buy my rhymes so strange, and jokes;

Then what becomes of mutton, beef, and pork?

How would my masticating muscles work?

Indeed, I dare not say they would be idle;

But, like my Pegasus's chaps, so stout,

Who plays and wantons with his bridle,

And nobly flings the foam about,

So mine would work—"On what?" my reader cries,

With a stretch'd pair of unbelieving eyes—

Heav'n

Heav'n help thy most unpenetrating wit!
On a hard morsel—HUNGER's iron bit.

By all the rhyming goddesses and gods
I will—I must, persist in Odes;

And not a pow'r on earth shall hinder:
I hear both * Universities exclaim,
“PETER, it is a glorious road to fame;
“Eugè Poeta magne—well said, PINDAR!”

Yet some approach with apostolic face,
And cry, “O PETER, what a want of grace

“Thus in thy rhyme to roast a King!”
I roast a King! by heav'n's 'tis not a fact—
I scorn such wicked and disloyal act:

Who dares assert it, says a scandalous thing.

Hear what I have to say of Kings:

If, unsublime, they deal in childish things,

And yield not, of reform, a ray of hope;

Each mighty Monarch strait appears to me

A roaster of himself—Felo de se;

I only act as Cook, and dish him up.

Reader! another simile as rare:

My verses form a sort of bill of fare,

Informing guests what kind of flesh and fish

Is to be found within each dish;

That

* The violence of the Universities on this occasion may probably arise from the contempt thrown on them by his Majesty's sending the Royal Children to Gottingen for education; but have not their Majesties amply made it up to Oxford, by a visit to that celebrated seminary? and is not Cambridge to receive the same honour?

That eating people may not be mistaken,
And take, for ortolan, a lump of bacon.

Whenever I have heard of Kings

Who place in gossipings, and news, their pride,
And knowing family concerns—mean things!

Very judiciously, indeed, I've cry'd,

“ I wonder

“ How their blind stars could make so gross a blun-
“ der !”

“ Instead of sitting on a throne

“ In purple rich—of state so full,

“ They should have had an apron on,

“ And, seated on a three-legg'd stool,

“ Commanded, of dead hair, the sprigs

“ To do their duty upon wigs,

“ By such mistakes, is Nature often foil'd :

“ Such improprieties should never spring—

“ Thus a fine chattering barber may be spoil'd,

“ To make a most indiff'rent King,”

“ Sir, Sir, (I hear the world exclaim)

“ At too high game you impudently aim,

“ How dare you, with your jokes and gibes,

“ Tread, like a horse, on kingly kibes?”

Folks who can't see their errors, can't reform :

No plainer axiom ever came from man ;

And 'tis a Christian duty, in a storm,

To save his sinking neighbour, if he can :

Thus I to Kings my Ode of Wisdom pen,

Because your Kings have souls like common men.

The

The Bible warrants me to speak the truth ;
 Nor mealy-mouth'd my tongue in silence keep :
 Did not good NATHAN tell that buckish youth,
 DAVID the KING, that he stole sheep ?

Stole poor URIAH's little fav'rite lamb—
 An ewe it chanc'd to be, and not a ram ;
 For had it been a ram, the royal glutton
 Had never meddled with URIAH's mutton.

What modern Courtier, pray, hath got the face
 To say to Majesty, " O King !
 " At such a time, in such a place,
 " You did a very foolish thing ?"
 What Courtier, not a foe to his own glory,
 Would publish of his King this simple story ?

THE APPLE DUMPLINGS AND A KING.

ONCE on a time, a Monarch, tir'd with hooping,
 Whipping and spurring,
 Happy in worrying
 A poor, defenceless, harmless buck,
 (The horse and rider wet as muck),
 From his high consequence and wisdom stooping,
 Enter'd, through curiosity, a cot,
 Where sat a poor old woman and her pot.

The wrinkled, blear-ey'd, good, old GRANNY,
 In this same cot, illum'd by many a cranny,
 Had

Had finish'd apple dumplings for her pot :
 In tempting row the naked dumplings lay,
 When, lo ! the MONARCH, in his usual way,
 Like lightning spoke, " What's this ? what's this ?
 " what ? what ?"

Then taking up a dumpling in his hand,
 His eyes with admiration did expand ;
 And oft did Majesty the dumpling grapple :
 " 'Tis monstrous, monstrous hard indeed," he cry'd :
 " What makes it, pray, so hard ?"—The Dame re-
 ply'd,
 Low curtsy'ing, " Please your Majesty, the apple."

" Very astonishing indeed !—strange thing !"
 (Turning the dumpling round, rejoin'd the King.)
 " 'Tis most extraordinary then, all this is—
 " It beats * Pinetti's conjuring all to pieces—
 " Strange I should never of a dumpling dream !
 " But, Goody, tell me where, where, where's the " seam ?"

" Sir, there's no seam (quoth she) ; I never knew
 " That folks did apple dumplings sew."
 " No ! (cry'd the staring Monarch with a grin)
 " How, how the devil got the apple in ?"

On which the Dame the curious scheme reveal'd
 By which the apple lay so sly conceal'd,
 Which made the Solomon of Britain start ;
 Who to the Palace with full speed repair'd,
 And Queen, and Princesses so beauteous, scar'd,
 All with the wonders of the Dumpling art !

There

* Formerly a great favourite at Court.

There did he labour one whole week, to show
 The wisdom of an APPLE-DUMPLING MAKER;
 And lo! so deep was Majesty in dough!
 The Palace seem'd the lodging of a BAKER.

READER, thou likest not my tale—look'st blue :
 Thou art a Courtier—roarest, “Lies, lies, lies!”
 Do, for a moment, stop thy cries—
 I tell thee, roaring infidel, 'tis true.

Why should it not be true?—The greatest men
 May ask a foolish question now and then—

This is the language of all ages.

FOLLY lays many a trap—we can't escape it

Nemo (says some one) omnibus horis sapit :

Then why not Kings, like me and other sages?

Far from despising Kings, I like the breed,

Provided King-like they behave :

Kings are an instrument we need,

Just as we razors want—to shave ;

To keep the State's face smooth—give it an air—

Like my Lord North's; so jolly, round, and fair.

My sense of Kings though freely I impart—

I hate not royalty, Heav'n knows my heart.

Princes and Princesses I like, so loyal—

Great GEORGE's children are my great delight ;

The sweet Augusta, and sweet Princess Royal,

Obtain my love by day, and pray'rs by night.

Yes!

Yes! I like Kings—and oft look back with pride
Upon the Edwards, Harry's of our isle—
Great souls! in virtue as in valour try'd,
Whose actions bid the cheek of Britons smile.

Muse! let us also forward look,
And take a peep into Fate's book.

Behold! the sceptre young AUGUSTUS sways;
I hear the mingled praise of millions rise;
I see uprais'd to Heav'n their ardent eyes,
That for their Monarch ask a length of days.

Bright in the brightest annals of renown,
Behold fair FAME his youthful temples crown
With laurels of unfading bloom;
Behold DOMINION swell beneath his care,
And GENIUS, rising from a dark despair,
His long-extinguish'd fires relume.

Such are the Kings that suit my taste, I own:
Not those where all the littlenesses join;
Whose souls should start to find their lot a throne,
And blush to show their noses on a coin.

Reader, for fear of wicked applications,
I now allude to Kings of foreign nations.

Poets (so unimpeach'd tradition says)
The sole historians were of ancient days,
Who help'd their heroes FAME's high hill to clamber;
Penning their glorious acts in language strong,
And thus preserving, by immortal song,
Their precious names amidst their tuneful amber.

What

What am I doing? Lord! the very same—
 Preserving many a deed deserving Fame,
 Which that old lean, devouring shark, call'd TIME,
 Would, without ceremony, eat:
 In my opinion, far too rich a treat:
 I therefore merit statues for my rhyme.

“ All this is laudable (a Quaker cries);
 “ But let grave WISDOM, Friend, thy verses rule;
 “ Put out thine IRONY's two squinting eyes—
 “ Despise thy grinning monkey, RIDICULE.”

What! slight my sportive monkey, RIDICULE,
 Who acts like birch on boys at school,
 Neglecting lessons—truant, p'rhaps, whole weeks!
 My RIDICULE, with humour fraught, and wit,
 Is that satiric friend, a gouty fit,
 Which bites men into health and rosy cheeks:

A moral MERCURY that cleanseth souls
 Of ills that with them play the devil;
 Like mercury that much the pow'r controls
 Of presents gain'd from ladies over civil.

Reader, I'll brag a little, if you please:
 The ancients did so, therefore why not I?
 Lo! for my good advice I ask no fees,
 Whilst other Doctors let their patients die;
 That is, such patients as can't pay for cure—
 A very selfish, wicked thing, I'm sure.

Now though I'm foul physician to the King,
 I never begg'd of him the smallest thing
 For all the threshing of my virtuous brains;

Nay, were I my poor pocket's state t' impart,
 So well I know my ROYAL PATIENT's heart,
 He would not give me two-pence for my pains.

But hark! folks say the King is very mad:
 The news, if true, indeed, were very sad,
 And far too serious an affair to mock it;
 Yet how can this agree with what I've heard,
 That so much by him are my rhymes rever'd—
 He goes a hunting with them in his pocket?

And when thrown out—which often is the case,
 (In bacon hunting, or of bucks the race)
 My verse so much his Majesty bewitches,
 That out he pulls my honour'd Odes,
 And reads them on the turnpike roads—
 Now under trees and hedges—now in ditches.

Hark! with astonishment, a sound I hear,
 That strikes tremendous on my ear;
 It says, Great Arden, commonly call'd Pepper,
 Of mighty George's thunderbolts the keeper,
 Just like of Jupiter the famous eagle,
 Is order'd out to hunt me like a beagle.

But, eagle Pepper, give my love
 Unto thy lofty master, Mister JOVE,
 And ask how it can square with his religion,
 To bid thee, without mercy, fall on,
 With thy short sturdy beak, and iron talon,
 A pretty, little, harmless, cooing pigeon?

By heav'ns, I disbelieve the fact—
 A Monarch cannot so unwisely act!

Suppose

Suppose that Kings, so rich, are always mumping,
 Praying and pressing Ministers for money ;
 Bidding them on our hive (poor bees !) be thump-
 ing,

Trying to shake out all our honey ;

A thing that oft hath happen'd in our isle !—
 Pray, shan't we be allow'd to smile ?
 To cut a joke, or epigram contrive,
 By way of solace for our plunder'd hive ?

A King of France (I've lost the Monarch's name)
 Had, avaricious, got himself bad fame,
 By most unmannerly and thievish plunges
 Into his subjects purses—

A deep manœuvre that obtain'd their curses,
 Because it treated gentlefolks like spunges.

To show how much they relish'd not such squeezing,
 Such goods and chattel-seizing,
 They publish'd libels to display their hate ;
 To comfort, in some sort, their souls,
 For such a number of large holes
 Eat by this Royal Rat in each estate.

The PREMIER op'd his gullet like a shark,
 To hear such satires on the GRAND MONARQUE,
 And roar'd—" Messieurs, you soon shall feel
 " My criticism upon your ballads,
 " Not to your taste so sweet as frogs and fallads ;
 " A stricture critical, yclep'd BASTILE."

But first he told the tidings to the King ;
 Then swore par Dieu that he would quickly bring

Unto the grinding-stone their noses down—
 No, not a soul of 'em should ever thrive;
 He'd flay them, like St. BARTLEMEW, alive—
 Villains! for daring to insult the Crown.

The Monarch heard Monsieur le PREMIER out,
 And, smiling on his loyalty so stout,

Reply'd, "Monsieur le PREMIER, you are wrong;
 "Don't of the pleasure let them be debarr'd;
 "You know how we have serv'd 'em—faith! 'tis
 "hard

"They should not for their money have a song."

OVID, sweet story-teller of old times,
 (Unluckily transported for his rhymes,
 Address'd his book before he bade it walk;
 Therefore my Worship, and my Ode,
 In imitation of such classic mode,
 May, like two Indian nations, have a talk.

"Dear Ode! whose verse the true sublime affords,
 "Go, visit Kings, Queens, Parasites, and Lords;
 "And if thy modest beauties they adore,
 "Inform them they shall speedily have more."

But possibly a mighty King may say,
 "Ode! Ode!—What? what? I hate your rhyme
 "haranguing;

"I'd rather hear a jackass bray:
 "I never knew a poet worth the hanging.

"I hate, abhor them—but I'll clip their wings;
 "I'll teach the faucy knaves to laugh at Kings:
 "Yes, yes, the rhyming rogues, their songs shall rue
 "A ragged, bold-fac'd, ballad-singing crew.

"Ye

“ Yes, yes, the poets shall my pow’r confess;
“ I’ll maul that spawning devil call’d the Prefs.”

If furious thus exclaim the King of glory,
Tell him, O gentle MUSE, this pithy story.

KING CANUTE AND HIS NOBLES.

A T A L E.

CANUTE was by his nobles taught to fancy,
That, by a kind of royal necromancy,

He had the pow’r OLD OCEAN to controul:
Down rush’d the Royal Dane upon the strand,
And issued, like a Solomon, command—

Poor soul!

“ Go back, ye waves, you blust’ring rogues,” quoth
he,

“ Touch not your Lord and Master, SEA;

“ For by my pow’r almighty, if you do”—

Then staring vengeance, out he held a stick,

Vowing to drive OLD OCEAN to OLD NICK,

Should he ev’n wet the latchet of his shoe.

OLD SEA retir’d—the Monarch fierce rush’d on,

And look’d as if he’d drive him from the land;

But SEA not caring to be put upon,

Made for a moment a bold stand:

Not

Not only make a stand did MISTER OCEAN,
 But to his honest waves he made a motion,
 And bade them give the King a hearty trim-
 ming :

The orders seem'd a deal the waves to tickle ;
 For soon they put his Majesty in pickle,
 And set his Royalties, like geese, a swimming.

All hands aloft, with one tremendous roar,
 Soon did they make him wish himself on shore ;
 His head and ears most handsomely they dous'd ;
 Just like a porpus, with one general shout,
 The waves so tumbled the poor King about—
 No Anabaptist e'er was half so fous'd.

At length to land he crawl'd, a half-drown'd thing,
 Indeed more like a crab than like a King,
 And found his Courtiers making rueful faces.
 But what said CANUTE to the Lords and Gentry,
 Who hail'd him from the water, on his entry,
 All trembling for their lives or places ?

“ My Lords and Gentlemen, by your advice,
 “ I've had with MISTER SEA a pretty bustle ;
 “ My treatment from my foe not over nice,
 “ Just made a jest for ev'ry shrimp and muscle :

“ A pretty trick for one of my dominion !—
 “ My Lords, I thank you for your great opinion.
 “ You'll tell me, p'rhaps, I've only lost one game,
 “ And bid me try another—for the rubber :
 “ Permit me to inform you all, with shame,
 “ That you're a set of knaves, and I'm a lubber.”

Such

Such is the story, my dear Ode,
Which thou wilt bear—a sacred load!

Yet, much I fear, 'twill be of no great use:
Kings are in general obstinate as mules;
Those who surround them, mostly rogues and fools,
And therefore can no benefit produce.

Yet stories, sentences, and golden rules,
Undoubtedly were made for rogues and fools:

But this unluckily the simple fact is;
Those rogues and fools do nothing but admire,
And, all so dev'lish modest, don't desire
The glory of reducing them to practice.

INSTRUC-

And there's no more of that
 In those, I think, and which I think Unhappily were made for you and I
 In this unhappy and happy land
 Those roses and the looking glass
 And all the rest of it, don't you
 The glory of the thing is gone

THE ARGUMENT.

PETER's loyalty—He suspecteth Mr. Warton of joking—
Complimenteth the Poet Laureat—PETER differeth in opinion from Mr. Warton—Taketh up the cudgels for King Edward, King Harry V. and Queen Bess—Feats on Blackheath and Wimbledon performed by our most gracious Sovereign—
King Charles the Second half damned by PETER, yet praised for keeping company with gentlemen—PETER praiseth himself
—PETER reproveth by Mr. Warton—Desireth Mr. Warton's prayers—A fine simile—PETER still suspecteth the Laureat of ironical dealings—PETER expostulateth with Mr. Warton—
Mr. Warton replieth—PETER administereth bold advice—
Wittily calleth Death and physicians poachers—Praiseth the King for parental tendernefs—PETER maketh a natural simile
—PETER furthermore telleth Thomas Warton what to say—
PETER giveth a beautiful example of Ode-writing.

THE CONTENTS OF THE ODE.

INSTRUCTIONS, &c.

TOM, soon as e'er thou strik'st thy golden lyre,
Thy brother PETER's muse is all on fire,
To sing of Kings and Queens, and such rare folk :
Yet, 'midst thy heap of compliments so fine,
Say, may we venture to believe a line?

You Oxford wits most dearly love a joke.

Son of the NINE, thou writest well on nought ;
Thy thund'ring stanza, and its pompous thought,
I think, must put a dog into a laugh :

EDWARD and HARRY were much braver men
Than this new-christen'd Hero of thy pen ;

Yes, laurell'd ODEMAN, braver far by half ;

Tho' on Blackheath, and Wimbledon's wide plain,
GEORGE keeps his hat off in a show'r of rain;
Sees swords and bayonets without a dread,
Nor at a volley winks, nor ducks his head :

Although at grand reviews he seems so blest,
~~And~~ leaves at six o'clock his downy nest,
Dead to the charms of blanket, wife, and bolster ;
Unlike his officers, who, fond of cramming,
And at reviews afraid of thirst and famine,
With bread and cheese and brandy fill their holsters. .

Sure,

Sure, Tom, we should do justice to QUEEN BESS :
 His present Majesty, whom Heav'n long bleſs
 With wiſdom, wit, and arts of choiceſt quality,
 Will never get, I fear, ſo fine a niche
 As that old queen, though often call'd old b—ch,
 In FAME's coloffal houſe of immortality.

As for John Dryden's CHARLES—that King
 Indeed was never any mighty thing ;
 He merited few honours from the pen :
 And yet he was a dev'liſh hearty fellow,
 Enjoy'd his girl and bottle, and got mellow,
 And mind—kept company with GENTLEMEN :

For, like ſome Kings, in hobby grooms,
 Knights of the manger, curry-combs, and brooms,
 Loſt to all glory, CHARLES did not delight—
 Nor jok'd by day with pages, ſervant maids,
 Large, red-poll'd, blowzy, hard two-handed jades :
 Indeed I know not what CHARLES did by night.

THOMAS, I am of candour a great lover ;
 In ſhort, I'm candour's ſelf all over ;
 Sweet as a candied cake from top to toe ;
 Make it a rule that VIRTUE ſhall be prais'd,
 And humble MERIT from her bum be rais'd :
 What thinkeſt thou of PETER now ?

Thou cryeſt, “ Oh ! how falſe ! behold thy King,
 “ Of whom thou ſcarcely ſay'ſt a handſome thing ;
 “ That King has virtues that ſhould make thee ſtare.”

Is it ſo?—Then the ſin's in me—
 'Tis my vile optics that can't ſee ;
 Then pray for them, when next thou ſay'ſt a pray'r.

But,

But, p'rhaps, aloft on his imperial throne,
 So distant, O ye gods! from ev'ry one,
 The royal virtues are like many a star,*
 From this our pigmy system rather far;
 Whose light, though flying ever since creation,
 Has not yet pitch'd upon our nation.

Then may the royal ray be soon explor'd—
 And, THOMAS, if thou'lt swear thou art not hum-
 ming,

I'll take my spying-glass, and bring thee word
 The instant I behold it coming.

But, THOMAS WARTON, without joking,
 Art thou, or art thou not, thy Sov'reign smoking?

How canst thou seriously declare,

That GEORGE the THIRD
 With Cressy's EDWARD can compare,
 Or HARRY?—'Tis too bad, upon my word:
 GEORGE is a clever King, I needs must own,
 And cuts a jolly figure on the throne.

Now thou exclaim'st, "G—d rot it!—PETER, pray,
 "What to the devil shall I sing or say?"

I'll tell thee what to say, O tuneful TOM:
 Sing how a Monarch, when his Son was dying,
 His gracious eyes and ears was edifying,

By Abbey company and kettle-drum:
 Leaving that Son to death and the physician,
 Between two fires—a forlorn-hope condition;

Two

* Such was the sublime opinion of the Dutch astronomer Huygens.

Two poachers, who make man their game,
And, special marksmen! seldom miss their aim.

Say, though the Monarch did not see his Son,
He kept aloof through fatherly affection;
Determin'd nothing should be done

To bring on useless tears, and dismal recollection.
For what can tears avail, and piteous sighs?
Death heeds not howls nor dripping eyes:
And what are sighs and tears but wind and water,
That show the leakyness of feeble nature?

TOM, with my smile thou wilt not quarrel:
Like air and any sort of drink,
Whizzing and oozing through each chink,
That proves the weakness of the barrel.

Say—for the PRINCE, when wet was ev'ry eye,
And thousands pour'd to heav'n the pitying sigh
Devout;

Say how a KING, unable to dissemble,
Order'd Dame SIDDONS to his house, and KEMBLE,
To spout:

Gave them ice creams and wines, so dear!
Deny'd till then a thimblefull of beer;
For which they've thank'd the author of this metre,
Videlicet, the moral-mender PETER,
Who, in his ODE ON ODE, did dare exclaim,
And call such royal avarice, a shame.

Say—but I'll teach thee how to make an ode;
Thus shall thy labours visit FAME's abode,
In company with my immortal lay;
And look, TOM—thus I fire away—

BIRTH-DAY ODE.

THIS day, this very day, gave birth,
Not to the brightest Monarch upon earth,
Because there are some brighter, and as big :

Who love the arts that man exalt to heav'n :

GEORGE loves them also, when they're giv'n
To four-legg'd gentry, christen'd dog and pig,*
Whose deeds in this our wonder-hunting nation
Prove what a charming thing is education.

Full of the art of brewing beer,

The Monarch heard of WHITBREAD's fame :

Quoth he unto the Queen, " My dear, my dear,

" WHITBREAD hath got a marvellous great name :

" CHARLY, we must, must, must see WHITBREAD

" brew—

" Rich as us, CHARLY, richer than a Jew :

" Shame, shame, we have not yet his brewhouse

" seen !"

Thus sweetly said the King unto the Queen !

Red hot with novelty's delightful rage,

To Mister WHITBREAD forth he sent a page,

To say that Majesty propos'd to view,

With thirst of wond'rous knowledge deep inflam'd,

His vats, and tubs, and hops, and hogsheds fam'd,

And learn the noble secret how to brew.

VOL. I.

C c

Of

* The dancing dogs and wise pig have formed a considerable part of the royal amusement.

Of such undreamt-of honour proud,
 Most rev'rently the Brewer bow'd;
 So humbly (so the humble story goes)
 He touch'd e'en terra firma with his nose;

Then said unto the page, hight BILLY RAMUS,
 "Happy are we that our great King should name us,
 "As worthy unto Majesty to shew,
 "How we poor Chifwell people brew."

Away sprung BILLY RAMUS quick as thought:
 To Majesty the welcome tidings brought,
 How WHITBREAD staring stood like any stake,
 And trembled—then the civil things he said—
 On which the King did smile and nod his head;
 For Monarchs like to see their subjects quake:

Such horrors unto Kings most pleasant are,
 Proclaiming rev'rence and humility:
 High thoughts too all those shaking fits declare
 Of kingly grandeur and great capability!

People of worship, wealth, and birth,
 Look on the humbler sons of earth,
 Indeed in a most humble light, God knows!
 High stations are like Dover's tow'ring cliffs,
 Where ships below appear like little skiffs,
 The people walking on the strand, like crows.

Muse, sing the stir that happy WHITBREAD made;
 Poor gentleman! most terribly afraid

He should not charm enough his guests divine:
 He gave his maids new aprons, gowns, and smocks;
 And lo! two hundred pounds were spent in frocks,
 To make th' apprentices and draymen fine:

Busy

Busy as horses in a field of clover,
Dogs, cats, and chairs, and stools were tumbled over,
Amidst the Whitbread rout of preparation,
To treat the lofty RULER of the nation.

Now mov'd King, Queen, and Princesses so grand,
To visit the first Brewer in the land;
Who sometimes swills his beer and grinds his meat
In a snug corner christen'd Chiswell-street;
But oft'ner, charm'd with fashionable air,
Amidst the gaudy Great of Portman-square.

Lord AYLESBURY, and DENBIGH's Lord also,
His Grace the DUKE of MONTAGUE likewise,
With Lady HARCOURT, join'd the raree-show,
And fix'd all Smithfield's marv'ling eyes:
For lo! a greater show ne'er grac'd those quarters,
Since Mary roasted, just like crabs, the martyrs.

Arriv'd, the King broad grinn'd, and gave a nod
To smiling WHITBREAD, who, had God
Come with his angels to behold his beer,
With more respect he never could have met—
Indeed the man was in a sweat,
So much the Brewer did the King revere.

Her MAJESTY contriv'd to make a dip:
Light as a feather then the King did skip,
And ask'd a thousand questions, with a laugh,
Before poor WHITBREAD comprehended half.

Reader! my Ode should have a simile—
Well! in Jamaica, on a tam'rind tree,
Five hundred parrots, gabbling, just like Jews,

I've seen—such noise the feather'd imps did make,
As made my very pericranium ache—

Asking and telling parrot news :

Thus was the brewhouse fill'd with gabbling noise,
Whilst draymen, and the Brewer's boys,

Devour'd the questions that the King did ask :
In diff'rent parties were they staring seen,
Wond'ring to think they saw a King and Queen !

Behind a tub were some, and some behind a cask.

Some draymen forc'd themselves (a pretty luncheon)
Into the mouth of many a gaping puncheon ;
And through the bung-hole wink'd with curious eye,

To view, and be assur'd what sort of things
Were Princesses, and Queens, and Kings,
For whose most lofty station thousands sigh !
And lo ! of all the gaping puncheon clan !
Few were the mouths that had not got a man !

Now MAJESTY into a pump so deep
Did with an opera-glass so curious peep ;
Examining with care each wond'rous matter
That brought up water !

Thus have I seen a magpie in the street,
A chatt'ring bird we often meet,
A bird for curiosity well known ;

With head awry,

And cunning eye,

Peep knowingly into a marrow-bone.

And now his curious M——y did stoop
To count the nails on ev'ry hoop ;

And lo! no single thing came in his way,
That, full of deep research, he did not say,
“What’s this? hæ, hæ? what’s that? what’s this?
“what’s that?”

So quick the words too, when he deign’d to speak,
As if each syllable would break its neck.

Thus, to the world of great whilst others crawl,
Our Sov’reign peeps into the world of small:
Thus microscopic geniuses explore

Things that too oft provoke the public scorn;
Yet swell of useful knowledges the store,
By finding systems in a pepper-corn.

Now boasting WHITBREAD serious did declare,
To make the Majesty of England stare,
That had he butts enoughs, he knew,
Plac’d side by side, to reach along to Kew:

On which the King with wonder swiftly cry’d,
“What, if they reach to Kew then, side by side,
“What would they do, what, what, plac’d end
“to end?”

To whom, with knitted calculating brow,
The Man of Beer most solemnly did vow,
Almost to Windsor that they would extend;
On which the King, with wond’ring mien,
Repeated it unto the wond’ring Queen:
On which, quick turning round his halter’d head,
The Brewer’s horse, with face astonish’d, neigh’d;
The Brewer’s dog too pour’d a note of thunder,
Rattled his chain, and wagg’d his tail for wonder.

Now did the King for other beers enquire,
For Calvert’s, Jordan’s, Thrale’s entire;

And,

And, after talking of these diff'rent beers,
Ask'd WHITBREAD if his porter equall'd theirs?

This was a puzzling, disagreeing question,
Grating like arsenic on his host's digestion;
A kind of question to the Man of Cask
That not ev'n Solomon himself would ask.

Now Majesty, alive to knowledge, took
A very pretty memorandum-book,
With gilded leaves of asses' skin so white,
And in it legibly began to write—

Memorandum.

A charming place beneath the grates
For roasting chefnuts or potatoes.

Mem.

'Tis hops that give a bitterness to beer—
Hops grow in Kent, says WHITBREAD, and elsewhere.

Quære.

Is there no cheaper stuff? where doth it dwell?
Would not horse-aloes bitter it as well?

Mem.

To try it soon on our small beer—
'Twill save us sev'ral pounds a year.

Mem.

To remember to forget to ask
Old WHITBREAD to my house one day.

Mem.

Mem.

Not to forget to take of beer the cask,
The Brewer offer'd me, away.

Now having pencil'd his remarks so shrewd,
Sharp as the point indeed of a new pin,
His Majesty his watch most sagely view'd,
And then put up his asses' skin.

To WHITBREAD now deign'd Majesty to say,
"WHITBREAD, are all your horses fond of hay?"
"Yes, please your Majesty," in humble notes,
The Brewer answer'd—"also, Sir, of oats:
"Another thing my horses too maintains,
"And that, an't please your Majesty, are grains."
"Grains, grains," said Majesty, "to fill their crops?"
"Grains, grains?—that comes from hops—yes,
"hops, hops, hops?"

Here was the King, like hounds sometimes, at fault—
"Sire," cry'd the humble Brewer, "give me leave
"Your sacred Majesty to undeceive:
"Grains, Sire, are never made from hops, but malt."

"True," said the cautious Monarch, with a smile;
"From malt, malt, malt—I meant malt all the "while."

"Yes," with the sweetest bow, rejoin'd the Brewer,
"An't please your Majesty, you did, I'm sure."
"Yes," answer'd Majesty, with quick reply,
"I did, I did, I did, I, I, I, I."

Now

Now this was wise in WHITBREAD—here we find
A very pretty knowledge of mankind :
As Monarchs never must be in the wrong,
'Twas really a bright thought in WHITBREAD's tongue,

To tell a little fib, or some such thing,
To save the sinking credit of a King.

Some Brewers, in the rage of information,
Proud to instruct the RULER of a Nation,
Had on the folly dwelt, to seem damn'd clever!
Now, what had been the consequence? Too plain!
That man had cut his consequence in twain;
The King had hated the wise fool for ever!

Reader, whene'er thou dost espy a nose
That bright with many a ruby glows,
That nose thou may'st pronounce, nay, safely swear,
Is nurs'd on something better than small-beer :

Thus when thou findest Kings in brewing wise,
Or Nat'ral Hist'ry holding lofty station,
Thou may'st conclude, with marv'ling eyes,
Such Kings have had a goodly education.

Now did the King admire the bell so fine,
That daily asks the draymen all to dine ;
On which the bell rung out, (how very proper!)
To show it was a bell, and had a clapper.

And now before their Sovereign's curious eye,
Parents and children, fine, fat, hopeful sprigs,
All snuffling, squinting, grunting in their stye,
Appear'd the Brewer's tribe of handsome pigs :
On which th' observant man, who fills a throne,
Declar'd the pigs were vastly like his own :

On

On which the Brewer, swallow'd up in joys,
Tears and astonishment in both his eyes,
His soul brimfull of sentiments so loyal,

Exclaim'd, "O heav'ns! and can my swine

"Be deem'd by Majesty so fine!

"Heav'ns! can my pigs compare, Sire, with pigs
"royal!"

To which the King assented with a nod:

On which the Brewer bow'd, and said, "Good
God!"

Then wink'd significant on Miss;

Significant of wonder and of bliss;

Who, bridling in her chin divine,
Cross'd her fair hands, a dear old maid,
And then her lowest curt'fy made

For such high honour done her father's swine.

Now did his Majesty so gracious say

To Mister WHITBREAD, in his flying way,

"WHITBREAD, d'ye nick th' Excisemen now and
"then?

"Hæ, WHITBREAD, when d'ye think to leave off
"trade?

"Hæ? what? Miss WHITBREAD's still a maid, a "maid?

"What, what's the matter with the men?

"D'ye hunt?—hæ, hunt? No, no, you are too old—

"You'll be Lord May'r—Lord May'r one day—

"Yes, yes, I've heard so—yes, yes, so I'm told:

"Don't, don't the fine for Sheriff pay;

"I'll prick you ev'ry year, man, I declare:

"Yes, WHITBREAD—yes, yes—you shall be Lord
May'r.

"WHIT-

“ WHITBREAD, d’ye keep a coach, or job one, pray?

“ Job, job, that’s cheapest ; yes, that’s best, that’s “ best.

“ You put your liv’ries on the draymen—hæ?

“ Hæ, WHITBREAD? You have feather’d well
“ your nest.

“ What, what’s the price now, hæ, of all your stock?

“ But, WHITBREAD, what’s o’clock, pray, what’s “ o’clock?”

Now WHITBREAD inward said, “ May I be curst

“ If I know what to answer first ;”

Then search’d his brains with ruminating eye:

But e’er the Man of Malt an answer found,

Quick on his heel, lo, MAJESTY turn’d round,

Skipp’d off, and baulk’d the honour of reply.

Kings in inquisitiveness should be strong—

From curiosity doth wisdom flow :

For ’tis a maxim I’ve adopted long,

The more a man inquires, the more he’ll know.

Reader, didst ever see a water-spout?

’Tis possible that thou wilt answer, “ No.”

Well then! he makes a most infernal rout ;

Sucks, like an elephant, the waves below,

With huge proboscis reaching from the sky,

As if he meant to drink the ocean dry :

At length so full he can’t hold one drop more—

He bursts—down rush the waters with a roar

On some poor boat, or sloop, or brig, or ship,

And almost sinks the wand’rer of the deep :

Thus have I seen a Monarch at reviews

Suck from the tribe of officers the news,

Then

Then bear in triumph off each wond'rous matter,
And soufe it on the Queen with such a clatter!

I always would advise folks to ask questions;

For, truly, questions are the keys of knowledge;
Soldiers, who forage for the mind's digestions;

Cut figures at th' Old Bailey, and at College;
Make Chancellors, Chief Justices, and Judges,
E'en of the lowest green-bag drudges.

The sages say, Dame TRUTH delights to dwell,
Strange mansion! in the bottom of a well.

Questions are then the windlafs and the rope
That pull the grave old gentlewoman up:

* Damn jokes then, and unmannerly suggestions,
Reflecting upon Kings for asking questions.

Now having well employ'd his royal lungs
On nails, hoops, staves, pumps, barrels, and their bungs,

The King and Co. sat down to a collation
Of flesh, and fish, and fowl of ev'ry nation.

Dire was the clang of plates, of knife and fork,
That merc'less fell like tomahawks to work,
And fearless scalp'd the fowl, the fish, and cattle,
Whilst WHITBREAD, in the rear, beheld the battle.

The conqu'ring Monarch, stopping to take breath
Amidst the regiments of death,

Now turn'd to WHITBREAD with complacent round,

And,

* This alludes to the late Dr. Johnson's laugh on a Great Personage, for a laudable curiosity in the Queen's library some years since.

And, merry, thus address'd the Man of Beer :

“ WHITBREAD, is't true? I hear, I hear

“ You're of an ancient family—renown'd—

“ What? what? I'm told that you're a limb

“ Of PYM,* the famous fellow PYM :

“ What, WHITBREAD, it is true what people say?

“ Son of a Round-head are you? hæ? hæ? hæ?

“ I'm told that you send Bibles to your votes—

“ A snuffling round-headed society—

“ Pray'r-books instead of cash to buy them coats—

“ Bunyans, and Practices of Piety :

“ Your Bedford votes would wish to change their fare—

“ Rather see cash—yes, yes—than books of pray'r.

“ Thirtieth of January don't you feed?

“ Yes, yes, you eat calf's head, you eat calf's head.”

Now having wonders done on flesh, fowl, fish,

Whole hosts o'erturn'd, and seiz'd on all supplies;

The royal visitors express'd a wish

To turn to House of Buckingham their eyes :

But first the Monarch, so polite,

Ask'd Mister WHITBREAD if he'd be a Knight.

Unwilling in the list to be enroll'd,

WHITBREAD contemplated the Knights of Peg,

Then to his generous Sov'reign made a leg,

And said, “ He was afraid he was too old.

“ He thank'd however his most gracious King,

“ For offering to make him such a THING.

But

* His Majesty here made a mistake—PYM was his wife's relation.

But ah! a diff'rent reason 'twas, I fear!
 It was not age that bade the Man of Beer
 The proffer'd honour of the Monarch shun:
 The tale of Marg'ret's knife, and royal fright,
 Had almost made him damn the name of Knight,
 A tale that farrow'd such a world of fun.

He mock'd the pray'r * too by the King appointed,

Ev'n by himself the Lord's Anointed:

A foe to fast too, is he, let me tell ye;

And, though a Presbyterian, cannot think

Heav'n (quarrelling with meat and drink)

Joys in the grumble of a hungry belly!

Now from the table with Cæsarean air

Up rose the Monarch with his laurell'd brow,

When Mister WHITBREAD, waiting on his chair,

Express'd much thanks, much joy, and made a bow.

Miss WHITBREAD now so thick her curtsies drops,

Thick as her honour'd father's Kentish hops;

Which hoplike curtsies were return'd by dips

That never hurt the royal knees and hips;

For hips and knees of Queens are sacred things,

That only bend on gala days

Before the best of Kings,

When Odes of triumph sound his praise.—

Now

* For the miraculous escape from a poor innocent insane woman, who only held out a small knife in a piece of white paper, for her Sovereign to view.

Now through a thund'ring peal of kind huzzas,
 Proceeding some from * hir'd and unhir'd jaws,
 The raree-show thought proper to retire;
 Whilst WHITBREAD and his daughter fair
 Survey'd all Chiswell-street with lofty air;
 For, lo, they felt themselves some six feet higher!

Such, THOMAS, is the way to write!
 Thus shouldst thou Birth-day Songs indite;
 Then stick to earth, and leave the lofty sky:
 No more of ti tum tum, and ti tum ti.

Thus should an honest Laureat write of Kings—
 Not praise them for imaginary things:
 I own I cannot make my stubborn rhyme
 Call ev'ry King a character sublime;

For

* When his MAJESTY goes to a playhouse, or brewhouse, or parliament, the LORD CHAMBERLAIN provides some pounds-worth of MOB to huzza their beloved Monarch. At the Playhouse about forty wide-mouthed fellows are hired on the night of their Majesties appearance, at two shillings and sixpence per head, with the liberty of seeing the play gratis. These STENTORS are placed in different parts of the Theatre, who, immediately on the Royal entry into the Stage Box, set up their howl of loyalty; to whom their Majesties, with sweetest smiles, acknowledge the obligation by a genteel bow, and an elegant curtsy. This congratulatory noise of the STENTORS is looked on by many, particularly country ladies and gentlemen, as an infallible thermometer, ascertaining the warmth of the national regard.

For CONSCIENCE will not suffer me to wander
 So very widely from the paths of CANDOUR.
 I know full well some Kings are to be seen,
 To whom my verse so bold would give the spleen,
 Should that bold verse declare they wanted brains.
 I won't say that they never brain possess'd—
 They may have been with such a present bless'd,
 And therefore fancy that some still remains;
 For ev'ry well-experienc'd surgeon knows
 That men who with their legs have parted,
 Swear they have felt a pain in all their toes,
 And often at the twinges started;
 Then star'd upon their oaken stumps, in vain!
 Fancying the toes were all come back again.

If men then, who their absent toes have mourn'd,
 Can fancy those same toes at times return'd;
 So Kings, in matters of intelligences,
 May fancy they have stumbled on their senses.

Yes, Tom—mine is the way of writing Ode—
 Why liftest thou thy pious eyes to God?
 Strange disappointment in thy looks I read;
 And now I hear thee in proud triumph cry,
 “Is this an action, PETER, this a deed,
 “To raise a Monarch to the sky?
 “Tubs, porter, pumps, vats, all the WHITBREAD “throng,
 “Rare things to figure in the MUSE's song!”

THOMAS, I here protest I want no quarrels
 On Kings and Brewers, porter, pumps and barrels—

Far,

Far from the dove-like PETER be such strife!
But this I tell thee, THOMAS, for a fact—
Thy Cæsar never did an act
More wise, more glorious in his life.

Now God preserve all wonder-hunting Kings,
Whether at Windsor, Buckingham, or Kew-house;
And may they never do more foolish things
Than visiting SAM WHITBREAD and his brew-house!

AN

EXPOSTULATORY EPISTLE.

'S LIFE! Thomas, what hath swallow'd all the praise?

Of royal virtues not the slightest mention!
Strung, like mock pearl, so lately on thy lays!
Tell me, a bankrupt, Tom, is thy invention?

How couldst thou so thy PATRON's fame forget,
As not to pay, of praise, the annual debt?

WHITEHEAD and CIBBER, all the Laureat throng,
To FAME's fair Temple, twice a year, presented
Some royal virtues, real or invented,

In all the grave sublimity of song.

Heralds so kind, for many a chance-born WIGHT,
Creeping from cellars, just like snails from earth,
Or moles, or field-mice, stealing into light,
Forge Arms, to prove a loftiness of birth;

Tracing

- Tracing of each ambitious Sir and Madam
The branches to the very trunk of ADAM.

Then why not thou, the herald, TOM, of rhyme,
Still bid thy Royal Master soar sublime?
Bards shine in fiction; then how slight a thing
To make a coat of merit for a King!

Know, General CARPENTER had been a theme
For furnishing a pretty lyric dream;

Once a monopolist of nod and smile;
Of broken sentences and questions rare,
Of snipsnap whispers sweet, and grin, and stare,
For which thy MUSE would travel many a mile.

But lo! the General, for a crying sin,
Lost broken sentences, and nod, and grin,
And stare and snipsnap of the best of Kings;
The sin, the crying sin, of rambling
Where Osnaburgh's good Bishop, gambling,
Lost some few golden feathers from his wings;

Which made th' unlucky General run and drown—
Such were the horrors of the royal frown!
For lo! His M——y most roundly swore
He'd nod to General CARPENTER no more.

Oh! glorious love of all-commanding money!
Dear to some Monarchs, as to Bruin, honey;
Dear as to gamblers, pigeons fit to pluck;
Or show'rs to hackney-coachmen or a duck!

THOMAS, thy lyrics might have prais'd the King
For making sinners mind the Sabbath-day,
Bidding the idle sons of pipe and string,
Instead of scraping jigs, sing psalms and pray;

Thus

Thus piously (against their inclination)
Dragooning souls unto salvation.

The MONARCH gave up Mister JOAH BATE,
With that sweet nightingale his lovely MATE;
Who with the organ and ONE fiddle
Made up a concert every Sunday night:
Thus yielding MAJESTIES supreme delight,
Who relish cheapness e'en in tweedle tweedle.

For NATURE formeth oft a kind
Of money-loving, scraping, save-all mind,
That happy glorieth in the nat'ral thought
Of getting every thing for nought:

From Delhi's diamonds to a Bristol stone;
From royal eagles to a squalling parrot;
From bulls of Basan to a marrow-bone;
From rich ananas to a mawkish carrot:
And getting things for nought, we all must say,
If not the noblest, is the cheapest way.

And often NATURE manufactures stuff
That thinks it never hath enough;
Hoarding up treasure—never once enjoying—
Such is the composition of some souls!
Like jackdaws all their cunning art employing,
In hiding knives, and forks, and spoons, in holes.

Lo! by the pious MONARCH's Proclamation,
The courtier Amateurs of this fair nation
On Sundays con their Bibles—make no riot—
The stubborn UXBRIDGE, music-loving Lord,
Pays dumb obedience to the royal word,
And bids the instruments lie quiet.

Sweet

Sweet Mistress WALSINGHAM is forc'd to pray,
 And turn her eyes up, much against her will;
 SANDWICH sings psalms too, in his pious way;
 And Lady YOUNG forbears the tuneful trill:
 And very politic is Lady Young:
 A husband must not suffer for a song.

The gentle EXETER his treat gave up,
 So us'd upon the sweet repast to sup;
 As eager for his Sunday's quaver dish,
 As cats and rav'nous Aldermen for fish.
 Lord BRUDENELL, too, a Lord with lofty nose,
 Bringing to mind a verse the world well knows;
 Against sublimity that rather wars;
 Which in an almanack all eyes may see:
 "God gave to man an upright form, that he
 " Might view the stars."

I say this watchful LORD, who boasts the knack,
 Behind His Sacred Majesty's great back,
 Of placing for his latter end a chair
 Better than any Lord (so says FAME's trump)
 That ever waited on the royal rump,
 So swift his motions, and so sweet his air;

Who, if His Majesty but cough or hiccup,
 Trembles for fear the King should kick up;
 Drops, with concern, his jaw—with horror freezes—
 Or smiles, "God blefs you, SIRE," whene'er he sneezes;

This Lord, I say, uprais'd his convert chin,
 And curs'd the concert for a crying sin.

King

King WATKYN, from the land of leeks and cheese,
 With sighs, forbore his bas to seize ;
 With huge concern he dropp'd his Sunday airs,
 And grumbled out in Welsh his thankless pray'rs.
 The bas, indeed, Te Deum sung,
 Glad on the willows to be hung.

And really 'twas a very nat'ral case—
 Poor, inoffensive bas !
 For when King WATKYN scrubbeth him—alack !
 The instrument, like one upon the rack,
 Sendeth forth horrid, Inquisition groans !
 Enough to pierce the hearts of stones !

Thus though in concert politics the Knight
 Battled with Mistress WALSINGHAM outright ;
 Yet both agreed to lift their palms,
 Not in hostilities, but singing psalms.

SAL'SBURY was also order'd to reform,
 Who, with my Lady, thought it vastly odd,
 Thus to be forc'd, like sailors in a storm,
 Against their wills to pray to God.

Thus did the royal mandate, through the town,
 Knock nearly all the Sunday concerts down !
 Great act ! ere long 'twill be a sin and shame
 For cats to warble out an am'rous flame !
 Dogs shall be whipp'd for making love on Sunday,
 Who very well may put it off to Monday.

Nay, more the royal piety to prove,
 And aid the purest of all pure religions,
 To Bridewell shall be sent all cooing pigeons,
 And cocks and hens be lash'd for making love :
 Sparrows

Sparrows and wrens be shot from barns and houses,
For being barely civil to their spouses.

Poor Sir JOHN DICK was, lamb-like, heard to bleat
At losing such a Sunday's treat—

Sir JOHN, the happy owner of a star—
Which radiant honour on furtouts he stitches;
Lamenting fashion doth not stretch so far
As sewing them on waistcoats and on breeches;
Which thus would pour a blaze of silver day,
And make the Knight a perfect milky way.

Yet HAMPDEN, CHOLMOND'LY, those sinful shavers,
Rebellious, riot in their Sabbath quavers;
Thus flying in the face of our GREAT KING,
Profane God's resting day with wind and string;
Whilst on the Terrace, 'midst his German band,
On Sunday evenings GEORGE is pleas'd to stand;
Contented with a simple tune alone,
“God save great George our King,” or Bobbing
Joan;

Whilst CHERUBS, leaning from their starry height,
Wink at each other, and enjoy the sight;
And SATAN, from a lurking hole,
Fond of a seeming-godly soul,
His eyes and ears scarce able to believe,
Laughs in his sleeve.

Stay, Muse—the mention of the German band
Bringeth a tale oppressive to my hand,
Relating to a tribe of German boys,
Whose horrid fortune made some little noise;
Sent for to take of Englishmen the places,
Who, gall'd by such hard treatment, made wry faces.

Sent

Sent for they were, to feed in fields of clover,
 To feast upon the Coldstream regiment's fat :
 Swift with their empty stomachs they flew over,
 And wider than a Kevenhuller hat.
 But ah ! their knives no veal nor mutton carv'd !
 To feasts they went indeed, but went and starv'd !
 Their Masters, raptur'd with the tuneful treat,
 Forgot musicians, like themselves, could eat.
 Thus the poor woodcock leaves his frozen shores,
 When tyrant Winter 'midst his tempests roars :
 Invited by our milder sky, he roves ;
 Views the pure streams with joy and shelt'ring groves,
 And in one hour, oh ! sad reverse of fate !
 Is shot, and smokes upon a poacher's plate !

Thus ending a sweet episodic strain,
 I turn, dear THOMAS, to thy Ode again.

What ! make a dish to balk thy Master's gums !

A pudding, and forget the plums !

Mercy upon us ! what a cook art thou !

Dry e'en already !—what a sad milch cow !—

Who gav'st, at first, of fame such flowing pails !—

Say, THOMAS, what thy lyric udder ails ?

Since truth belongs not to the laureat trade,

'Tis strange, 'tis passing strange, thou didst not flatter :

Speak—in light money were thy wages paid ?

Or was thy pipe of sack half fill'd with water ?

Or hast thou, TOM, been cheated of thy dues ?

Or hath a qualm of conscience touch'd thy Muse ?

Thou

Thou might'st have prais'd for dignity of pride
 Display'd not long ago among the Cooks :
 Searching the kitchen with sagacious looks ;
 Wigs, christen'd scratches, on their heads, he spied.

To find a wig on a cook's head
 Just like the wig that grac'd his own,
 Was verily a sight too dread !—
 Enough to turn a King to stone !

On which, in language of his very best,
 His Majesty his royal ire express'd.

“ How, how ! what ! Cooks wear scratches just like “ me !—

“ Strange ! strange ! yes, yes, I see, I see, I see—

“ Fine fellows to wear scratches ! yes, no doubt—

“ I'll have no more—no more when mine's worn

“ out—

“ Hæ ? pretty ! pretty ! pretty too it looks

“ To see my scratches upon Cooks !”

And lo ! as he had threaten'd all so big,
 As soon as ever he wore out the wig,
 He with a pig-tail deign'd his head to match !
 Nor more profan'd his temples with a SCRATCH !

THOMAS, I see my song thy feelings grate—
 Thou think'st I'm joking ; that the King's my hate.

The world may call me liar, but sincerely
 I love him—for a partner, love him dearly ;
 Whilst his great name is on the ferme, I'm sure
 My credit with the Public is secure.

Yes,

Yes, beef shall grace my spit, and ale shall flow,
 As long as it continues George and Co. ;
 That is to say, in plainer metre,
 George and Peter,

Yet, as some little money I have made,
 I've thoughts of turning 'Squire, and quitting trade ;
 This in my mind I've frequently revolv'd ;
 And in six months, or so,
 For all I know,
 The partnership may be dissolv'd,

Whate'er thou think'st—howe'er the world may carp,

THOMAS, I'm far from hating our good King ;
 Yes, yes, or may I thrum no more my harp,
 As DAVID swore, who touch'd so well the string—
 No, TOM ; the idol of thy sweet devotion
 Excites not HATE, whatever else th' emotion.

To write a book on the Sublime, I own,
 Were I a bookseller, I would not hire him ;
 Yet, should I hate the man who fills a throne,
 Because, forsooth, I can't admire him ?

Hate him, because, ambitious of a name,
 He thinks to rival e'en the PRINCE in fame ?
 A Prince of Science—in the arts so chaste !—
 A giant to him in the world of taste ;
 Who from an envious cloud one day shall spring,
 And prove that dignity may clothe a King.

Who, when by Fortune fix'd on Britain's throne,
 Wherever merit, humble plant, is shown,

Will

Will shed around that plant a fost'ring ray;
 Whose hand shall stretch thro' poverty's pale gloom
 From drooping GENIUS, sinking to the tomb,
 And lead the blushing stranger into day.

Who scorns (like some) to chronicle a shilling,
 Once in a twelvemonth to a beggar giv'n;
 By such mean charity (Lord help 'em) willing
 To go as cheap as possible to Heav'n!

Hate him, because, untir'd, the Monarch pores
 On HANDEL's manuscript old scores,
 And schemes successful daily hatches,
 For saving notes o'erwhelm'd-with scratches;
 Recovering from the blotted leaves
 Huge cart-horse minims, dromedary breves;
 Thus saving damned bars from just damnation,
 By way of bright'ning Handel's reputation?
 Who, charm'd with ev'ry crotchet Handel wrote,
 Heav'd into TOT'NAM STREET each heavy note;
 And forcing on the house the tuneless lumber,
 Drove half to doors, the other half to slumber?

Hate him, because the brazen works of WEST,
 His eye (in wonder lost) unsated views?
 Because his walls, with tasteless trumpery drest,
 Robs a poor signpost of its dues?

Hate him, because he cannot rest,
 But in the company of West?
 Because of modern works he makes a jest,
 Except the works of Mister West?

Who by the public, fain would have careft
 The works alone of Mister West!

Who thinks, of painting, truth and taste, the test,
None but the wond'rous works of Mister West!

Who mocketh poor Sir JOSHUA—cannot bear him;
And never suffers WILSON's landscapes near him.

Nor, GAINSB'ROUGH, thy delighted girls and boys,
In rural scenes so sweet, amidst their joys,
With such simplicity as makes us start,
Forgetting 'tis the work of art.

Which wonder and which care of Mister WEST
May in a simile be well exprest:—

A SIMILE.

THUS have I seen a child with smiling face,
A little daisy in the garden place,
And strut in triumph round its fav'rite flow'r;
Gaze on the leaves with infant admiration,
Thinking the flow'r the finest in the nation,
Then pay a visit to it ev'ry hour:
Lugging the wat'ring pot about,
Which JOHN the gard'ner was oblig'd to fill;
The child, so pleas'd, would pour the water out,
To show its marvellous gard'ning skill;
Then staring round, all wild for praises panting,
Tell all the world it was its own sweet planting;
And boast away, too happy elf,
How that it found the daisy all, itself!

ANOTHER

ANOTHER SIMILE.

IN smile if I may shine agen—
 Thus have I seen a fond old hen
 With one poor miserable chick,
 Bustling about a farmer's yard;
 Now on the dunghill labouring hard,
 Scraping away through thin and thick,
 Flutt'ring her feathers—making such a noise!
 Cackling aloud such quantities of joys,
 As if this chick, to which her egg gave birth,
 Was born to deal prodigious knocks,
 To shine the Broughton of game-cocks,
 And kill the fowls of all the earth!

E'EN with his painter let the King be blest;
 Egad! eat, drink, and sleep, with Mister WEST;
 Only let me, excus'd from such a guest,
 Not eat, and drink, and sleep with Mister WEST;
 And as he will not please my taste—no never—
 Let me not give him to the world as clever:
 A better conscience in my bosom lies,
 Than imitate the fellow and his flies.

THE TOPER AND THE FLIES.

A GROUP of topers at a table fat,
 With punch that much regales the thirsty soul:
 Flies soon the party join'd, and join'd the chat,
 Humming, and pitching round the mantling bowl.
 At length those flies got drunk, and, for their sin,
 Some hundreds lost their legs, and tumbled in;
 And sprawling 'midst the gulph profound,
 Like Pharoah and his daring host, were drown'd!
 Wanting to drink—one of the men
 Dipp'd from the bowl the drunken host,
 And drank—then taking care that none were lost,
 He put in ev'ry mother's son agen.
 Up jump'd the bacchanalian crew on this,
 Taking it very much amiss—
 Swearing, and in the attitude to smite:
 “Lord!” cry'd the man, with gravely-lifted eyes,
 “Though I don't like to swallow flies,
 “I did not know but others might.”

WHO says I hate the King, proclaims a lie;
 E'en now a royal virtue strikes my eye!
 To prove th' assertion, let me just relate
 The King's submission to the will of FATE.

Whene'er in hunts the Monarch is thrown out,
 As in his politics—a common thing!
 With searching eyes he stares at first about,
 Then faces the misfortune like a King!

Hearing no news of nimble Mister STAG,
 He sits like PATIENCE grinning on his nag!
 Now, wisdom-fraught, his curious eyeballs ken
 The little hovels that around him rise:

To these he trots—of hogs surveys the styes,
 And nicely numbers every cock and hen.

Then asks the farmer's wife or farmer's maid,
 How many eggs the fowls have laid!
 What's in the oven—in the pot—the crock;
 Whether 'twill rain or no, and what's o'clock;
 Thus from poor hovels gleaning information,
 To serve as future treasure for the nation!

There, terrier like, till pages find him out,
 He pokes his most sagacious nose about,
 And seems in Paradise—like that so fam'd;
 Looking like ADAM too, and EVE so fair;
 Sweet simpletons! who, though so very bare,
 “Were (says the Bible) not asham'd.”

No man binds books so well as GEORGE the Third.
 By thirst of leather glory spurr'd,
 At bookbinders he oft is seen to laugh—
 And wond'rous is the King in sheep or calf!

But see! the PRINCE upon such labour looks
 Fastidious down, and only readeth books!—
 Here by the Sire the Son is much surpass;
 Which FAME should publish on her loudest blast!

The KING beats Monmouth-Street in cast-off riches;
 That is, in coats, and waistcoats, and in breeches;
 Which, draughted once a year for foreign stations,
 Make fine recruits to serve some near relations.

But

But lo! the PRINCE, shame on him! never dreams
Of pretty Jewish, economic schemes!
So very proud, (I'm griev'd, O Tom, to tell it)
He'd rather give a coat away than sell it!

Fair justice to the Monarch must allow Prodigious science in a calf or cow;

And wisdom in the article of swine!
What most unusual knowledge for a King!
Because pig wisdom is a thing

In which no SOV'REIGNS e'er were known to shine.

Yet who will think I am not telling fibs?

The PRINCE, who Britain's throne in time shall grace,

Ne'er finger'd, at a fair, a bullock's ribs,

Nor ever ogled a pig's face!

O dire disgrace! O let it not be known
That thus a father hath excell'd a son!

Truth bids me own that I can bring

A dozen who admire the King;

And should he dream of setting off for HANOVER,

As once he said he would, to spite CHARLES FOX;

Draw all his little money from the stocks,

Shut shop, and carry ev'ry pot and pan over;

I think—indeed I'm sure I know,

That dozen would not let him go;

But in the struggle spend their vital breath,

And hug their idol, probably to death;

As happen'd to a Romish Priest—a tale

That, whilst I tell it, almost turns me pale.

THE ROMISH PRIEST.

A T A L E.

A PARSON in the neighbourhood of ROME,
 Some years ago—how many—I don't say—
 Handled so well his heav'nly broom,
 He brush'd, like cobwebs, sins away.

Brighten'd the black horizon of his parish;
 Gave to the PRINCE OF DARKNESS such hard blows

That SATAN was afraid to show his nose,
 (Except in hell) before this priest so warrish!

To teach folks how to shun the paths of evil,
 And prove a match for Mister DEVIL,
 Was constantly this pious man's endeavour;
 And, as I've said before, the man was clever.

Red-hot was all his zeal—and FAME declares,
 He gallop'd like a hunter o'er his pray'rs;
 For ever lifting to the clouds his forehead—

Petitions on petitions he let fly,
 Which nothing but BARBARIANS could deny—
 In short, the Saints were to compliance worried.

With shoulders, arms, and hands, this Priest devout,
 So well his evolutions did perform;
 His pray'rs, those holy small-shot, flew about
 So thick!—it seem'd like taking Heav'n by storm!

Without

Without one atom of reflection,
No candidate at an election
Did ever labour more, and fume, and sweat,
To make a fellow change his coat,
And bless him with the casting vote,
Than this dear man to get in Heav'n a seat
For souls of children, women, and of men:
No matter which the species—cock or hen!

Thus did he not like that vile Jesuit think
Who makes us all with horror shrink;
A knave high meriting Hell's hottest coals;
Who wrote a shocking book, to prove
That women, charming women, form'd for love,
Have got no souls!

Monster! to think that WOMAN had no soul!
Ha! hast thou not a soul, thou peerless MAID,
Who bidst my rural hours with rapture roll?
Whose beauties charm the shepherds and the shade!

Yes, CYNTHIA, and for souls like thine,
Fate into being drew yon starry sphere;
Then kindly sent thy form divine,
To show what wond'rous blifs inhabits there!

In short, no drayhorse ever work'd so hard,
From vaults, to drag up hoghead, tun, or pipe,
As this good Priest, to drag, for small reward,
The souls of sinners from the Devil's gripe.

Pleas'd were the bighest angels to express
Their wonder at his fine address;

And

And pow'r against the FIEND who makes such strife :

Nay, e'en St. PETER said, to whom are giv'n
The keys for letting people into Heav'n,
He never got more halfpence in his life.

'Twas added that my namesake did declare,
(Peter, the porter of Heav'n gate, so trusty ;)
That, till this Priest appear'd, souls were so rare,
His bunch of keys was absolutely rusty !

Did GENTLEMEN of fortune die,
And leave the CHURCH a good round sum ;
Lo ! in the twinkling of an eye,
The Parson frank'd their souls to kingdom-come !

A letter to the PORTER, or a word,
Insur'd admittance to the LORD.
Nor stopp'd those souls an instant on the road,
To take a roast before they enter'd in ;
For, had they got the plague, 'twas said that God
Had let them enter without quarantine.

Well then ! this Parson was so much admir'd,
So fought, so courted, so desir'd,
Thousands with putrid souls, like putrid meat,
Came for his holy pickle, to be sweet :

Just as we see old hags, with jaws of carrion,
Enter the shop of Mister WARREN ;
Who disappoints that highwayman call'd TIME,
(Noted for robbing Ladies of their prime),
By giving SIXTY-FIVE's pale, wither'd mien,
The blooming roses of SIXTEEN.

Such

Such vast impressions did his sermons make,

He always kept his flock awake—

In summer too—hear, parsons, this strange news,

Ye who so often preach to nodding pews!

A neighb'ring town, into whose people's souls,

SIN, like a rat, had eat large holes,

Begg'd him to be their tinker—their hole-stopper—

For, gentle reader, sin of such a sort is,

It souls corrodeth just as aqua fortis

Corrodeth iron, brass, or copper.

They told him they would give him better pay,

If he'd agree to change his quarters;

Protesting, when his soul should leave his clay,

To rank his bones with those of SAINTS and MAR-

TYRS.

This was a handsome bribe, all Papists know!

But stop—his parish would not let him go:

Then furly did the other parish look,

And swore to have the man by hook or crook;

So seiz'd him, like a graceless throng.

The Priest's parishioners, who lov'd him well,

Rather than to another church belong,

Swore they would sooner see him lodg'd in Hell—

So violent was their objection!

So very strong, too, their affection!

The LADIES, too, united in the strife;

Protesting that they “lov'd him as their life,

“So sweetly he would look when down to pray'r!

“So happy in a sermon choice!

“And then he had of nightingales the voice—

“And holy water gave with such an air!

“Lord!

" Lord! lose so fine a man!—so great a treasure!
 " Yielding such quantities of heavenly pleasure!
 " Forgiving sins so free, too, at confession,
 " However carnal the transgression,
 " In such a charming, love-condemning strain!—
 " He really seem'd to say, ' Go sin again;
 " HELL shall not throw, my angels, on your souls
 " So sweet, a single shovelful of coals."

Now in the fire was all the fat:
 Just as two bulldogs pull a cat,
 Both parishes with furious zeal contended—
 So heartily the holy man was hugg'd,
 So much from place to place his limbs were lugg'd,
 That very fatally the battle ended!

In short, by hugging, lugging, and kind squeezes,
 The man of God was pull'd in fifty pieces!

This work perform'd, the bones were fought for stoutly;

And so the fray continued most devoutly.

Lo, with an arm, away one rascal fled;

This with a leg, and that the head—

Off with the foot another goes—

Another seizes him, and gets the toes.

Nay, some, a relic so intent to crib,

Fought just like mastiffs for a rib;

Nay more, (for truth, to tell the whole, obliges)

A dozen battled for his os coccygis! *

Heav'n, that sees all things, saw the dire dispute,

In which each parish acted like a brute;

Then

* The tip of the rump.

Then bade the dead man as a Saint be fought ;
 Still, to reward him more, his bones enriches
 With pow'r o'er evils, rheumatisms, and itches,
 However dreadful, and wherever caught :
 Thus, by the grace of HIM who governs thunder,
 His very toe-nail could perform a wonder.

THUS might our Monarch, by this dozen men,
 Be hugg'd!—and then! and then! and then! and
 then!

Then what? why, then, this direful ill must spring:
 I a good subject lose, and thou a KING!

No, TOM; no more to strike us with amaze,
 Thy courtly tropes of adulation blaze:

A setting sun art thou, so mild thy beam!
 Thou (like old OCEAN's heaving wave no more,
 That lifts a ship and fly with equal roar)
 Pour'st from thy lyric pipe a sober stream.

No more we hear the gale of Fame
 Wild blust'ring with thy MASTER's name:
 No more ideal virtues ride sublime,
 (Like feathers) on the surge of rhyme.

But lo the cause! it was the ROYAL WILL
 To bid the tempest of his praise be still;
 No more to let his virtues make a rout,
 Blown by thy blasts like paper kites about.

Indeed thy Sov'reign, in thy verse so fine,
 Might justly have exclaim'd at many a line,

“ In peacock’s feathers, lo, this knave arrays me.”
 And like a King of France of whom I’ve read,
 Our gracious Sov’reign also might have said,
 “ What have I done, that he should praise me?”

With pity have I seen thee, SON OF SONG,
 Trundling thy lyric wheelbarrow along,
 Amidst ST. JAMES’s gapers to unload
 The motley mass of pompous ode ;
 And wish’d the sack, for verse the annual prize,
 To poets of a less renown—
 To poor * WILL MASON, who in secret sighs
 To strut beneath the LAUREAT’s leaden crown.

Warm in the praise, thou mightst have been,
 Of thy great King and his great Queen ;
 But not so diabolically hot—
 A downright devil, or a pepper-pot.

By dev’l, (without thy being born a wizard)
 Thou ought’st to know I mean a turkey’s gizzard ;
 So christen’d for its quality, by man,
 Because so oft ’tis loaded with kian—
 This dev’l is such a red-hot bit of meat
 As nothing but the Dev’l himself should eat.

A spoon was large enough, the world well knows !
 Why give the pap of praise then with a ladle ?
 Gently thou shouldst have rock’d him to repose—
 Not like a drunken nurse o’erturn’d the cradle.

I do

* Yes ! poor MISTER MASON strove hard for the Bays ; but lo ! the superior GENIUS of WARTON prevailed against the united powers of the sweetly-whining ELFRIDA, the nobly-bullying
 CARACTACUS, and a heap of cloup-wrapped ODES besides.

I do not marvel that the King was wrath,
(Knowing himself no bigger than a lath),
To find himself a tall, gigantic oak—
'Twas too much of a magic-lantern stroke.

Ah! where was MODESTY, the charming maid?

Where was the rural vagrant straying,
Not to admonish thee, an idle jade,

When thou thy tuneful compliments wert paying?
Yet why this question put I, TOM, to thee?
Lord! how we wits forget—she was with me.

Yes, MODESTY (by very few carest)

Oft condescends to be my guest:
From time to time the maid my rhyme reviews,
And dictates sweet instructions to the MUSE;

Yes, frequent deigns my cottage to adorn,
Just like that blushing damsel call'd MISS MORN,

Who, smiling from the dreary caves of night,
Moves from her east with silent pace and slow
O'er yonder shadowy mount's gigantic brow,
And to my window steals with dewy light,
Then peeping through the panes with cherub mien,
Seems to ask liberty to enter in.

Now vent'ring on the fables of my room,
She sweeps the darkness with her star-clad broom:
Now pleas'd a stronger splendor to diffuse,
Smiles on the plated buckles in my shoes;
Smiles on my breeches, too, of handsome plush,
Where George's head once made no gingling sound,

But where amidst the pockets all was hush;
Such awful silence reign'd around!

Whose

Whose fob, which thieves so often pick,
Was quite a stranger to a watch's click.

Now casting on my pen and ink a ray,
Seeming with sweet reproof to say;

“ The lark to Heav'n her grateful matins sings;

“ Then, PETER, also ope thy tuneful throat,

“ And, happy in a fascinating note,

“ Rise and salute the best of Kings.”

Howe'er the world t' abuse me may be giv'n,
I cannot do without CROWN'D HEADS, by Heav'n!
Bards must have subjects that their genius suit—
And if I've not Crown'd Heads, I must be mute.

My verse is somewhat like a game at Whist;

Which game, tho' play'd by people e'er so keen,
Cannot with much success, alas! exist,

Except their hands possess a King and Queen.

I own, my muse delights in royal folk:

Lead-mines, producing many pretty pounds!

JOE MILLARS, furnishing a fund of joke!

Lo, with a fund of joke a Court abounds!

At royal follies, Lord! a lucky hit

Saves our poor brain th' expence of wit:

At Princes let but Satire lift his gun,

The more their feathers fly, the more the fun,

E'en the whole world, blockheads and men of letters,

Enjoy a cannonade upon their betters,

And, vice versa, Kings and Queens

Know pretty well what scandal means,

And

And love it too—yes, Majesty's a grinner :
 Scandal that really would disgrace a stable
 Hath oft been beckon'd to a royal table,
 And pleas'd a princely palate more than dinner.

I know the world exclaimeth in this guise :

- " Suppose a King not over-wise,
- " (A vice in Kings not very oft suspected)
- " Suppose he does this childish thing, and this,
- " If folly constitutes a Monarch's bliss,
- " Shall such by faucy poets stand corrected?
- " Bold is the man, old Parson Calchas * cries,
- " Who tells a Monarch where his folly lies."
- " Grant that a King in converse cannot shine,
- " And sharp with shrewd remark a world alarm;
- " What business, PETER PINDAR, is't of thine?
- " Grant puerilities—pray where's the harm?"—

To this I answer, " I don't think a King

- " Will go to hell for ev'ry childish thing—
- " Yet mind, I think that one in his great station
- " Should show sublime example to a nation :
- " And when an eagle he should spring
- " To drink the solar blaze on tow'ring wing,
- " With daring and undazzled eyes;
- " Not be a sparrow upon chimneys hopping,
- " His head in holes and corners popping
- " For flies."

TOM, I'm not griev'd that thou hast chang'd thy note,

And op'd on Windsor wall thy tuneful throat ;

For

* Vid. Homer.

For verily it is a rare old mafs !
 Nor angry that to WEST thou doft descend ;
 The King's great painting oracle and friend,
 Who teacheth † JERVAS how to spoil good glafs.

But, fon of ISIS, fince amidft this ode,
 Thou talk'ft of painting, like an ardent lover,
 Of panes of glafs now daubing over,
 Dimming delightfully the great abode ;

Speak—know'ft thou aught of RAPHAEL's rare Car- toons ?

I have not feen them, TOM, for many moons !

Why didft thou not, amidft thy rhyming fit,
 Of thofe moft heav'nly pictures talk a bit—

For which the NATION paid down ev'ry foufe ?
 Rare pictures, brought long fince from HAMPTON
 COURT,

And by a self-taught CARPENTER cut fhort,
 To fuit the pannels of the QUEEN's old houfe.

So fays report—I hope it is not true—
 And yet I verily believe it too ;
 It is fo like some people I could name,
 Whofe pericraniums walk a little lame.

Befhrew me, but it brings to mind
 A cutting ftory, much of the fame kind !

It happ'd at PLYMOUTH town fo fair and fweet,
 Where wandering gutters, wandering gutters meet,
 Making in fhow'rs of rain a monftrous pother ;
 Batt'ring, like RAG-FAIR JEWS, with one the other,
 With

† See the windows designed for the chapel at Windfor.

With carrots, cabbage-leaves, and breathless cats,
Potatoes, turnip-tops, old rags, and hats :

A town that brings to mind SWIFT's City Show'r,
Where clouds to wash its face for ever pour ;
A town where Beau-traps under water grin,
Inviting gentle strangers to walk in ;
Where dwell the Lady Naiads of the flood,
Prepar'd to crown their visitors with mud.

A town where parsons for the living fight,
On every vacancy, with godly might,
Like wrestlers for lac'd hats and buckskin breeches;
Where oft the priest who best his lungs employs
To make the rarest diabolic noise,
With surest chance of vict'ry preaches :
Whose empty sounds alone his labours bless ;
Like cannon fir'd by vessels in distress.

A town where, exil'd by the Higher Pow'rs,
The * ROYAL TAR with indignation lours ;
Kept by his SIRE from London, and from sin,
To say his Catechism to Mistrefs WYNN.

* The Duke of Clarence.

THE PLYMOUTH CARPENTER

AND

THE COFFINS.

IN the last war French pris'ners often dy'd
Of fevers, colds, and more good things beside:

Presents for valour, from damp walls and chinks;
And nakedness, that seldom sees a shirt;
And vermin, and all sorts of dirt;

And multitudes of motley stinks,
That might with smells of any clime compare,
That ever sought the nose, or fields of air.

As coffins are deem'd necessary things,
Forming a pretty sort of wooden wings
For wafting men to graves, for t'other world;
Where, anchor'd, (doom'd to make no voyages more)

The rudders of our souls are put ashore,
And all the sails for ever furl'd;

A carpenter, first cousin to the MAY'R,
Hight Master SCREW, a man of reputation,
Got leave, through borough int'rest, to prepare
Good wooden lodgings for the Gallic nation;
I mean, for luckless Frenchmen that were dead:
And very well indeed SCREW's contract sped.

His good friend DEATH made wonderful demands,
As if they play'd into each other's hands;

As

As if the Carpenter and DEATH went snacks—
 Wishing to make as much as e'er they could
 By this same contract coffin wood,
 For such as DEATH had thrown upon their backs.

This Carpenter, like men of other trades
 Whom conscience very easily persuades
 To take from neighbours useless superfluity,
 Resolv'd upon an economic plan,
 Which shows that in the character of man

Economy is not an incongruity.
 I know some Monarchs say the same—whose pulses
 Beat high for iv'ry chairs and beds and bulses.

For lo, this man of economic sort
 Makes all his coffins much too short:
 Yet snugly he accommodates the dead—
 Cuts off, with much sang-froid, the head;
 And then, to keep it safe as well as warm,
 He gravely puts it underneath the arm;
 Making his dead man quite a PARIS beau!
 Hugging his jowl en chapeau bras.

BUT, Thomas, now to those Cartoons of fame—
 Do ask thy Sov'reign, in my name,

What's to be done with those rare pictures next;
 Some months ago, by night, they travell'd down
 To the Queen's House in Windsor town,
 At which the London folks were vastly vex'd.

For if those fine Cartoons, as hist'ry says,
 Were (much to this great nation's praise)

Bought for BRITANNIA's sole inspection;
Unask'd, to suffer any man to feel 'em,
 Or suffer any forward dame to steal 'em,
 Would be a national reflection.

TOM, ask, to STRELITZ if they're doom'd to go,
 Because the walls are naked there, I know.

Strelitz a mouse-hole is, all dark and drear;
 And, should the pictures be inclin'd to stray,
 Not liking Strelitz, they may lose their way,
 And ramble to some Hebrew auctioneer;

Where, like poor captur'd negroes in a knot,
 The holy wand'ers may be made a lot—
 And, like the goods at Garraway's we handle,
 Christ and the Saints be sold by inch of candle!

Dearly beloved THOMAS, to conclude—

(I see thee ready to bawl out "Amen :")
 Joking apart, don't think me rude
 For wishing to instruct thy lyric pen.

Whether like trout and eels in humble pride,
 Along the simple stream of prose we glide;
 Or stirring from below a cloud of mud,
 Like whales we flounder through the lyric flood;

Or (if a past'ral image charm thee more)
 Whether the vales of prose our feet explore,
 Or, rais'd sublime on Ode's aerial steep,
 We bound from rock to rock like goats and sheep;

Whether we dine with Dukes on fifty dishes,
 Or, poet-like, against our wishes,
 On beef or pork, an economic crumb,
 (Perchance not bigger than our thumb,

Turn'd by a bit of packthread at the fire)
 To satisfy our hunger's keen desire;
 A good old proverb let us keep in view—
Viz. Thomas, "Give the Dev'l his due."
 Whether a Monarch, issuing high command,
 Smiles us to court, and shakes us by the hand;
 Or rude bumbailiffs touch us on the shoulder,
 And bid our tuneful harps in prison moulder;
 Sell not (to meanness' funk) one golden line—
 The MUSE's incense for a gill of wine.

This were a poor excuse of thine, my friend—
 "Few are the people that my Ode attend:
 "I'm like a country clock, poor, lonely thing,
 "That on the staircase, or behind the door,
 "Cries, 'Cuckoo, Cuckoo,' just at twelve and four,
 "And chimes that vulgar tune, "God save the
 "King."

Oh! if deserting WINDSOR's lofty tow'rs,
 To save a sixpence in his barrack bow'rs,
 A MONARCH shuffles from the world away,
 And gives to FOLLY's whims the bustling day;
 From such low themes thy promis'd praise recall,
 And sing more wonders of the old MUD WALL.

PETER'S PROPHECY;

IMPORTANT EPISTLE TO SIR J. BANKS,

ON THE

APPROACHING ELECTION

OF A

PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL SOCIETY.

Tros, Rutilusve fuat, nullo discrimine habeo. VIRGIL.

Rank is a farce—if people fools will be,
A scavenger and king's the same to me.

La Société Royale de Londres fut formée en 1660, six ans avant notre Académie des Sciences. Elle n'a point de récompenses comme la nôtre; mais aussi elle est libre.—Point de ces distinctions désagréables, inventées par l'ABBE' BIGNON, qui distribua l'Académie des Sciences en Savans qu'on payoit, & en Honoraires qui n'étoient pas Savans. La Société de Londres indépendante, & n'étant encouragée que par elle-même, a été composée de sujets qui ont trouvé le calcul de l'Infini, les lois de la lumière, celles de pesanteur, l'aberration des étoiles, le télescope de réflexion, la pompe à feu, le microscope solaire, & beaucoup d'autres inventions aussi utiles qu'admirables. Qu'auroient fait de plus ces GRANDS HOMMES, s'ils avoient été pensionnaires ou honoraires?

THE ARGUMENT.

A SUBLIME and poetical Exordium, in which the Bard applaudeth himself, condemneth his Sovereign, and condescendeth to instruct Sir JOSEPH BANKS, F. R. S.—Anecdote of JULIUS CÆSAR and a Conjuror—PETER dwelleth with much solemnity on the gloomy month of November, and compareth Sir JOSEPH BANKS to JUPITER and Mr. SQUIB—Asketh shrewd questions—Sir JOSEPH comprehendeth their sage meaning, and flieth into a passion, and boasteth how he revengeth himself on the fun the world enjoyeth at his expence—Sir JOSEPH animadverteth wisely on a fall from the presidency to the state of a simple fellow, obliquely and nobly hinting at a few traits of his own character—PETER replieth with good advice, exhibiting at the same time acute knowledge of the sexual system in botanical affairs—Sir JOSEPH refuseth PETER's counsel—PETER mentioneth men of science, whom Sir JOSEPH scorneth—Sir JOSEPH letteth the cat out of the bag, and sheweth principles inimical to the cause of true philosophy, by wishing to make great men Fellows, instead of wise men—PETER moraliseth with profundity, and flappeth the bugs of Fortune for daring, on account of their Mammon, to place themselves on a level with Genius—Sir JOSEPH maketh more discovery of his disposition, by abusing painting, poetry, and music, and wisheth to tread in the steps of his Sovereign—PETER illustrateth the President's mode of catching at an argument, by a beautiful spider simile—Sir JOSEPH boasteth of his tea and toast weapons—PETER animadverteth with his usual wisdom on the miraculous powers of meat, when applied to a hungry stomach—Sir JOSEPH findeth out a new road to the heart—Boasteth of royal favour—PETER smileth at it, and frighteneth Sir JOSEPH—Sir JOSEPH enquireth the World's opinion of himself—PETER giveth it without ceremony—Sir JOSEPH curseth—PETER prayeth him to be quiet, proceedeth, and telleth terrible things—
Sir

Sir JOSEPH sweareth—Praiseth himself again for his being able to lead great folks by the nose, and braggeth of royal whispers—PETER gueffeth at the royal whispers, and expresseth pleasure thereat—Again boasteth the President of what he can do—PETER solemnly smileth in a superb simile taken from wild beasts—Sir JOSEPH vaunteth on his great acquaintance with vegetables and monkeys—PETER acquiesceth in his monkey wisdom, but denieth its importance, and turneth butterfly and egg knowledges over to idle old maids—PETER acknowledgeth the merits of Indian, booby, and noddy killing; lizard, bat, scurvygrafs, and lady-smock hunting; yet differeth with Sir JOSEPH as to the idea of its importance—The President again boasteth—PETER solemnly replieth, and telleth strange matters of Sir WILLIAM HAMILTON—Sir JOSEPH breaketh out violently, and with an air of defiance, on the subject of Mr. HERSCHEL—PETER acquiesceth, in some measure, on the merits of Mr. HERSCHEL, and prophesieth more discoveries by this astronomer than struck the imagination of Sir JOSEPH—PETER prophesieth of the future grandeur of CHELTENHAM, by means of mills to supply the great flux of people with paper—PETER giveth more glory to Mr. HERSCHEL's glafs, than to Mr. HERSCHEL's head—Sir JOSEPH groweth abusive—PETER properly replieth—Sir JOSEPH again triumpheth—PETER cutteth him down for his laud on his GRACE OF MARLBOROUGH's spy-glass discoveries, and JOHN HUNTER's fows and pheasants—Sir JOSEPH plumeth himself on Dr. BLAGDEN—PETER praiseth Dr. BLAGDEN—Sir JOSEPH praiseth Sir BENJAMIN THOMPSON, LORD MULGRAVE, and the unassuming quaker, Dr. LETTSOME; moreover praiseth the Doctor's hobby-horse, mangel worfal, alias wurfsel—Sir JOSEPH enquireth the merits of Mr. AUBERT, the silkman—PETER smileth, and answereth wittily—Sir JOSEPH enquireth about Mr. DAINES BARRINGTON—PETER answereth in like manner—Sir JOSEPH's ire boileth over—PETER laugheth—PETER cometh to the point, and telleth the President in plain terms that he must depend on the many, more than one, meaning our most gracious King—Sir JOSEPH exclaimeth with his usual vulgarity, and taxeth the revolting members with ingratitude, and flieth to meat and drink for his future supporters—PETER praiseth meat and drink, yet insisteth on the truth of an intended rebellion—Sir JOSEPH, in a strain of despondency, looketh to the Lord for support—PETER giveth him no hopes from that quarter—Sir JOSEPH, in a tiger-like manner, breaketh out into rage and boasting—PETER acknowledgeth his merits, but informeth the President of their insufficiency—Sir JOSEPH voweth to play the 'devil—PETER exalteth Sir JOSEPH's intended manœuvre, by a comparison of a miracle frequently worked in Popish countries on rats and grasshoppers—PETER still harpeth on the old string of something more—Sir JOSEPH adduceth more instances of merit, such as eating matters that would make a Hottentot vomit—PETER acknowledgeth Sir JOSEPH's uncommon stomach-powers and triumph over reptiles; but with obstinacy insisteth upon it that something more must be achieved—The President, upon this, most wickedly, yet most heroically, declareth, that he will then swallow an alligator—PETER dissuadeth Sir JOSEPH, like a friend, from his bold intention, and recommendeth a meal of a milder quality.

PETER'S PROPHECY;

OR,

THE PRESIDENT AND POET.

THE BARD who, fill'd with Friendship's purest fire,
Tun'd to a MIGHTY KING the moral lyre;
With all the magic of the Muse's art,
Smil'd at his foibles, and enlarg'd * his heart,
Ungrateful Prince! like most of modern times,
Who never thank'd the poet for his rhymes:
The BARD, with Wisdom's voice sublimely strong,
Who scar'd the maids of honour with his song,
Turn'd courtiers pale, and turn'd to silent wonder
Ambassadors, at TRUTH's deep tone of thunder;
Who in their country (such a timid thing!)
Was never known to whisper to a king:

The

* Verily the LYRIC BARD hath cause of triumph—by means of a few hints, the close fist of Royal Economy hath been a little unclenched. By God's grace, and the Poet's good health, greater things are likely to be accomplished; such is the power of song!

The BARD who dar'd undaunted thus to tow'r,
And boldly oracles to princes pour,
Stoops from the zenith of his eagle flight
To give instruction to a simple Knight.

To CÆSAR, who th' advice with scorn repaid,
"Beware the Ides of March," a conj'ror said.
More rev'renc'd let a greater conj'ror say,
"Beware, Sir JOSEPH BANKS, St. Andrew's Day."
Near is the gloomy month, and gloomy hour,
When, of your plumage stripp'd, and fav'rite pow'r,
You quit that mace and pompous chair of state,
And cease Lord Paramount of Moth debate,
That awe-inspiring hammer'd fist to rear,
Like scepter'd JOVE, and SQUIB the AUCTIONEER!

SIR JOSEPH.

Well! what's November's * gloomy month or hour?
The day which ravages, restores my pow'r.

PETER.

Perchance AMBITION may be doom'd to mourn!
Perchance your honours may no more return!
Think what a host of enemies you make!
What feeling mind would be a BULL at stake?
Pinch'd by this mongrel, by that mastiff torn;
Who'd make a feast to treat the public scorn?
Who'd be a BEAR that grasps his club with pride,
With which his dancing-master drubs his hide?
None, dear Sir JOSEPH, but the arrant'st fool
Turns butt to feel the shafts of ridicule.

SIR

* On the thirtieth of November the President is annually chosen.

SIR JOSEPH.

Your meaning, friend, I easily divine!

PETER.

Yes, quit for life the chair—resign, resign.

SIR JOSEPH.

No! with contempt the grinning world I see,
And always laugh at those who laugh at me.

PETER.

Dear Sir Joseph, may I never thrive
But you must be the merriest man alive.

SIR JOSEPH.

Good!—but, my friend, 'twould be a black November,
To lose the chair, and sneak a vulgar member!
Sit on a bench mumchance without my hat*,
Sunk from a lion to a tame Tom cat:
Just like a schoolboy trembling o'er his book,
Afraid to move, or speak, or think, or look,
When Mister PRESIDENT, with mastiff air,
Vouchsafes to grumble "Silence" from the chair.

PETER.

All this is mortifying to be sure,
And more than flesh and blood can well endure!
Then to your turnip-fields in peace retire:
Return, like CINCINNATUS, country squire:

Go

* The President always wears his hat.

Go with your wisdom, and amaze the Boors
 With apple-tree, and shrub, and flow'r amours;
 And tell them all, with wide-mouth'd wonder big,
 How gnats * can make a cuckold of a fig.
 Form fly-clubs, shell-clubs, weed-clubs, if you please,
 And proudly reign the PRESIDENT of these:
 Go, and with periwinkle wisdom charm;
 With loves of lobsters, oysters, crabs, alarm;
 And tell them how, like ours, the females woo'd,
 By kissing, people all the realms of mud:
 Thus, tho' proud LONDON dares refuse you fame,
 The TOWNS of LINCOLNSHIRE shall raise your name;
 Knock down the bull, the magpie, calf, and king,
 And bid Sir Joseph on their signposts swing.

SIR JOSEPH.

No! since I've fairly mounted FORTUNE's mast,
 Till FATE shall chop my hands off, I'll hold fast.

PETER.

And yet, Sir Joseph, FAME reports, you stole
 To FORTUNE's topmast through the lubberhole †.
 Think of the men, whom SCIENCE so reveres!
 HORSLEY, and WILSON, MASKELYNE, MASERES,
 LANDEN, and HORNSBY, ATWOOD, GLENIE, HUT-TON—

SIR JOSEPH

Blockheads! for whom I do not care a button!
 Fools, who to mathematics would confine us,
 And bother all our ears with plus and minus.

PETER.

* See the Natural History of the Fig.

† A part of the ship well known to new seamen.

P E T E R.

No more they search the philosophic mine,
 To bid the journals with their labours shine,
 And yield a glorious splendor to the page,
 Such as when NEWTON, HALLEY grac'd the age!
 Retir'd, those members now behold with sighs
 The dome, like Egypt, swarm with frogs and flies;
 And you, the PHARAOH too without remorse,
 The stubborn parent of the reptile curse;
 See WISDOM yield to FOLLY's rude control;
 JOVE's eagle murder'd by a mousing owl.

S I R J O S E P H.

Poh! Poh! my friend, I've star-gazers enough;
 I now look round for diff'rent kind of stuff:
 Besides—untitled members are mere swine;
 I wish for princes on my list to shine:
 I'll have a company of stars and strings;
 I'll have a proud society of kings!
 I'll have no miserable squeal tomtit,
 Whilst FORTUNE offers pheasants to my spit!
 For me, the Dev'l may take a nameless fry—
 No sprats, no sprats, whilst whales can fill my eye.

P E T E R.

Thus on a stall, amidst a country fair,
 Old women show of gingerbread their ware!
 King DAVID and Queen BETHSHEBA behold,
 Strut from their dough majestic, grac'd with gold;
 King SOLOMON so great, in all his glory!
 The Queen of SHEBA too, renown'd in story!

The

The grannies these display with doating eyes!
 Delighted see them all the louts surprise;
 Whilst no poor bak'd plebeian, great or small,
 Dares show his sneaking nose upon the stall!

Sir JOSEPH, do not fancy, that by fate
 Great wisdom goes with titles and estate!
 I grant that pride and insolence appear
 Where purblind FORTUNE thousands gives a year.
 Too many of FORTUNE's insects have I seen,
 Proud of some little name, with scornful mien,
 High o'er the head of modest GENIUS rise
 Pert, foppish, whiffling, flutt'ring butterflies!
 Weak imps! on whom, their planets all so kind,
 In pity to their poverty of mind,
 Around, her treasure bountifully shed,
 Convinc'd the fools would want a bit of bread.

SIR JOSEPH.

Since truth must out, then know, my biting friend,
 Philosophers my soul with horror rend;
 Whene'er their mouths are open'd, I am mum—
 Plague take 'em, should a President be dumb?
 I loath the arts—the universe may know it;
 I hate a painter, and I hate a poet.
 To these two ears, a bear, MARCHESI growls;
 MARA and BILLINGTON, a brace of owls.
 To circles of pure ignorance conduct me;
 I hate the company that can instruct me;
 I wish to imitate my King so nice,
 Great Prince! who ne'er was known to take advice!
 Who keeps no company (delightful plan!)
 That dares be wiser than himself, good man!

PETER.

P E T E R.

In troth, Sir JOSEPH, I have often seen ye
 Look in debate a little like a ninny,
 Struggling to grasp the sense with mouth, hands, eyes,
 And with the philosophic Speaker rise
 Just like a spider brush'd by SUSAN's broom,
 That tries to claw its thread, and mount the room;
 Poor sprawling reptile, but with humbled air
 Condemn'd to sneak away behind a chair.

S I R J O S E P H.

Still to the point—a rout let fellows make;
 My pow'r is too well fix'd for such to shake;
 My sure artill'ry hath o'ercome a host.

P E T E R.

I own the great, past pow'rs of tea and toast!
 Ven'son's a CÆSAR in the fiercest fray;
 Turtle! an ALEXANDER in its way:
 And then, in quarrels of a slighter nature,
 Mutton's a most successful mediator!
 So much superior is the stomach's smart
 To all the vaunted horrors of the heart;
 E'en LOVE, who often triumphs in his grief,
 Hath ceas'd to feed on figs, to pant on beef.

S I R J O S E P H.

Yes, yes, my friend, my tea and butter'd rolls
 Have found an easy pass to people's souls:
 My well-tim'd dinners (certain folks revere)
 Have left this easy bosom nought to fear.

The turnpike road to people's hearts, I find,
Lies through their guts, or I mistake mankind;
Besides, whilst thus I boast my Sov'reign's smile,
Let raggamuffins rage, and rogues revile.

P E T E R.

Alas! Sir JOSEPH! grant the KING you please,
Which ev'ry courtier's eye with envy sees;
A glorious thing too, no man can deny it;
Though no man ever got a sixpence by it;
Yet of our lucky island, certain KINGS,
Far from all-mighty, are not mighty things:
And though with many a wren you make him blest,
And many a tomtit's egg and tomtit's nest;
And many a monkey stuff'd to make him grin,
And many a flea and beetle on a pin;
And promise (to cajole the royal mind)
To make his butcher, member, and his hind;
It is not he, with Polyphemus stare,
And stern command, perpetuates the Chair!
I know that disaffection taints the throng,
And know the world is lavish in its tongue.

S I R J O S E P H.

Ah! tell me fairly without more delay,
What 'tis the blackguard world hath dar'd to say:
Perhaps a pretty devil I'm pourtray'd;
The world's free brush deals damnably in shade.

P E T E R.

Thus, then, "How dares that man his carcase squat,
" Bold, in the sacred chair where Newton sat;

" Whose eye could NATURE's darkest veil pervade,
 " And, fun-like, view the solitary MAID;
 " Pursue the wand'rer through each sacred maze,
 " And on her labours pour a noontide blaze?
 " When to the chair BANKS forc'd his bold ascent,
 " He crawl'd a bug upon the monument."

SIR JOSEPH.

Curse them!—

PETER.

Have patience, dear Sir JOSEPH, pray!
 I have not mention'd half the people say:—

Thus then again, " He beats the bears, so rude,
 " With bulldog aspect, and with brains of mud:
 " His words, like stones for pavements, make us
 " start;

" Rude, roughly rumbling, tumbling from the cart;
 " Who for importance all his lungs employs
 " And thinks that words, like drums, were made
 " for noise:

" A fellow so unqualified to shine!
 " Who never to the Journals gave a line;
 " But into SWEDEN cast a fox-like look,
 " And caught GOOSE DRYANDER to write his book.*
 " Such is the mania for the claps of Fame,
 " So fought by many a 'squire and gentle dame,
 " Resembling beggars that on alms grow fat;
 " Who, if too weak themselves to make a brat,

* A most pompous birth in the botanical way is to make its appearance soon; Sir Joseph the reputed father, though Jonas Dryander, the Swede, his secretary, begets it.

" Buy children up to melt the trav'ler's eye,
 " And from his pocket call the charity.

" Through him each trifle-hunter that can bring
 " A grub, a weed, a moth, a beetle's wing,
 " Shall to a FELLOW's dignity succeed;
 " Witness Lord CHATHAM and his pifs-a-bed! †
 " How had he pow'rs to muster up the face
 " To ask a PRESIDENT's important place?
 " How with a matchless insolence to dare

 " A moth-

† Vulgarly called Dandelion. Something of this kind (a most wonderful species!) was presented by the eldest-born of the great PITT, for which he was created F. R. S.

* About the year 1779, conductors were ordered to be placed near all our magazines, to secure them from the effects of lightning. A question then arose, which would best succeed, blunt or pointed conductors. Sir John Pringle, with the sensible part of the Society, were of opinion, as, indeed, was Dr. Franklin, that points were preferable—Sir Joseph Banks and his party roared loudly for the blunts.—The dispute ran so high, that his Majesty took a part in it; and being rather partial to blunt conductors, thought to put an end to the matter by giving his own peremptory decision, and announcing to the world the superiority of NOBS. To confirm his great and wise opinion, NOBS were actually fixed on iron rods at the end of Buckingham House. This, however, was not all; on the birth-day, his Majesty desired Sir John to give it to the world as the opinion of the Royal Society, that Dr. Franklin was wrong. The President replied, like a man, that it was not in his power to reverse the order of Nature. The Sovereign could not easily see that, and therefore repeated his commands.—Teazed by the King from time to time to oppose the decided opinion of the rebellious Franklin, and the laws of Nature; and constantly barked at by Sir Joseph

" A moth-hunter, a crab-catcher, a bat
 " That owes its sole subsistence to a gnat!
 " A hunter of the meanest reptile breed,
 " A fool that crosses oceans for a weed!

" Once tow'ring SCIENCE made crane-court *
 " her home,

" And heav'n-born WISDOM patroniz'd the dome;
 " With awful aspect at the portal shone,
 " And to her mansion woo'd the wise alone:
 " Now at the door see moon-ey'd FOLLY grin,
 " Inviting birds-nest hunters to come in;
 " Idiots who specks on eggs devoutly ken,
 " And furbish up a folio on a wren."

You see the world, Sir JOSEPH, scorns to flatter—

SIR JOSEPH.

By G-d! I think it hath not minc'd the matter.
 Yet by the Pow'r who made me, PETER, know,
 I'm honour'd, star'd at, wheresoe'er I go!
 Soon as a room I enter, lo, all ranks
 Get up to compliment Sir JOSEPH BANKS!—

PETER.

And then sit down again, I do suppose;
 And then around the room a whisper goes,

" Lord,

and his moth-hunting phalanx; he resigned the chair, and returned to Scotland.—The honour was instantaneously snapped at, and caught by the present possessor, such as he is!

* The rooms of the Royal Society are removed from Crane-court to Somerset-place.

" Lord, that's Sir JOSEPH BANKS!—how grand
 " his look!

" Who fail'd all round the world with Captain
 " COOK!"

SIR JOSEPH.

Zounds! what the devil's fame, if this be not?

PETER.

Sir JOSEPH, prithee don't be such a sot—
 Those wonderful admirers, man, were dozens
 Of fresh-imported, staring country cousins,
 To London come, the waxwork to devour,
 And see their brother beasts within the Tow'r
 True fame is praise by men of wisdom giv'n,
 Whose souls display some workmanship of Heav'n;
 Not by the wooden million—Nature's chips,
 Whose twilight souls are ever in eclipse;
 Puppies! who, though on idiotism's dark brink,
 Because they've heads, dare fancy they can think.

SIR JOSEPH.

What though unletter'd,* I can lead the herd,
 And laugh at half the members to their beard.
 Frequent to Court I go; and, 'midst the ring,
 I catch most gracious whispers from the KING—

PETER.

* In spite of our objection to Sir Joseph as a President, we must allow his candour in acknowledging himself unlettered, as he really was refused his degree at CAMBRIDGE, though every interest was implored to make him pass muster.

P E T E R,

And well (I think) I hear each precious speech,
In sentiment sublime, and language rich ;

“ What’s new, Sir JOSEPH? what, what’s new found
“ out ?

“ What’s the society, what, what about ?

“ Any more monsters, lizard, monkey, rat

“ Egg, weed, mouse, butterfly, pig, what, what,
“ what ?

“ Toad, spider, grasshopper, Sir JOSEPH BANKS ?

“ Any more thanks, more thanks, more thanks,
“ more thanks ?

“ You still eat * raw flesh, beetle, viper, bat,

“ Toad, tadpole, frog, Sir JOSEPH—what, what,
“ what ?

Such is the language of the first of Kings,
That many a fighting heart with envy stings!
And much I’m pleas’d to fancy that I hear
Such wise and gracious whispers greet your ear :
Yet if the greater part of members growl,
Though owls themselves, and curse you for an owl,
And bent the great Sir JOSEPH BANKS to humble,
Behold the GIANT PRESIDENT must tumble.

S I R J O S E P H.

Zounds! Sir, the GREAT-ONES to my whistle come :
I have ’em ev’ry one beneath my thumb.

ELECTORS,

* Ambitious of an uncommon path to the temple of FAME, which no man besides himself dared to tread, the KNIGHT often exercised his teeth in such repasts, before a number of awondering spectators.

ELECTORS, MARGRAVES, PRINCES, grace my list :
 And shall a few poor ragged rogues resist,
 Because (a flock of astronomic gulls!)
 The cobweb mathematics cloud their skulls?
 The GREAT, when beckon'd to, my cause shall aid,
 And, 'happy, think themselves with thanks o'erpaid :
 These shall arise, and, with a single frown,
 Beat the bold front of OPPOSITION down.

P E T E R.

Thus, by a word, the SHOWMAN at the Tow'r
 Exerts on brother savages his pow'r ;
 Bids NERO, CÆSAR, POMPEY, spread their paws,
 And show the horrors of their gaping jaws!

S I R J O S E P H.

By heav'ns! I've merit, say whate'er you please!
 Can name the vegetable tribes with ease.
 What monkey walks the woods, or climbs a tree,
 Whose genealogy's unknown to me?

P E T E R.

I grant you, Sir, in monkey knowledge great ;
 Yet say, should monkeys give you Newton's feat?
 Such merit scarcely is enough to dub
 A man a member of a country club.

With novel specks on eggs to feast the eye ;
 Or gaudy colours of a butterfly ;
 Or new-found fibre of some grassy blade,
 Well suits the idle hours of some old maid,
 (Whose sighs each lover's vanish'd sighs deplore)
 To murder time when Cupids kill no more ;

Not

Not men, who, lab'ring with a Titan mind,
 Should scale the skies to benefit mankind,
 I grant you full of anecdote, my friend—
Bons mots, and wond'rous stories without end;
 Yet if a tale can claim, or jest so rare,
Ten thousand gossips might demand the chair.
 To shoot at boobies, * noddies, with such luck,
 And pepper a poor Indian like a duck;
 To hunt for days a lizard or a gnat,
 And run a dozen miles to catch a bat;
 To plunge in marshes, and to scale the rocks,
 Sublime, for scurvygrafs and lady-smocks †,
 Are matters of proud triumph, to be sure,
 And such as FAME's fair volume should secure:
 Yet, to my mind, it is not such a feat,
 As gives a man a claim to Newton's feat.

SIR JOSEPH.

Yet are there men of genius who support me!
 Proud of my friendship, see Sir William court me!

PETER.

Great in the eating knowledge, all allow;
 Who sent you once the sumen of a sow; †

Far

* "Great and manifold were Sir Joseph's triumphs over these defenceless animals," says Dr. Hawksworth's most miserable account; which might more properly be christened, "The History of Sir Joseph Banks," so much, indeed, is Sir Joseph the hero of the tale.

† See Hawksworth's account of Captain Cook's Voyage.

‡ Sir W. HAMILTON, who sent Sir Joseph from Italy this precious present. The mode of making it properly is, by tying
 the

Far richer food than pigs that lose their breath,
 Whipp'd, like poor soldiers on parades, to death.
 Sir WILLIAM! hand and glove with NAPLES KING!
 Who made with rare antiques the nation ring;
 Who, when VESUVIUS foam'd with melted matter,
 March'd up and clapp'd his nose into the crater,
 Just with the same sang-froid that JOAN the cook
 Casts on her dumplings in the pot a look.

But more the world reports (I hope untrue),
 That half SIR WILLIAM's Mugs and Gods are new;
Himself the baker of th' Etrurian ware,
 That made our British antiquarians stare;
 Nay, then he means ere long to cross the main,
 And at his Naples oven sweat again;
 And, by his late successes render'd bolder,
 To bake new mugs, and gods some ages older!

SIR JOSEPH.

God bless us! what to Herschel dare you say,
 The astronomic genius of the day,
 Who soon will find more wonders in the skies,
 And with more Georgium Siduses surprise?

PETER.

More Ætnas in the moon—more cinder loads!
 Perhaps mail-coaches on her turnpike roads,

By

the teats of a sow, soon after she hath littered; continuing the ligature till the poor creature is nearly exhausted with torture, and then cutting her throat. The effects of the milk diffused through this belly part are so delicious, as to be thought ample atonement for the barbarity.

By some great LUNAR PALMER taught to fly,
 To gain the gracious glances of the eye
 Of some penurious man of high degree,
 And charm the monarch with a postage free;
 Such as to CHELT'NAM waters urg'd their way,
 Where CLOACINA holds her easy sway;
 Where paper-mills shall load with wealth the town,
 And ev'ry shop shall deal in whitish brown;
 Where for the coach the KING was wont to watch,
 Loaded with fish, fowl, bacon, and dispatch;*
 Eggs and small beer, potatoes, too, a store,
 That cost in CHELT'NAM market twopence more;
 Converting thus a coach of matchless art,
 With two rare geldings, to a sutler's cart.
 But, voluble Sir Joseph—not so fast—
 The fame of HERSCHEL is a dying blast:
 When on the moon he first began to peep,
 The wond'ring world pronounc'd the gazer, deep;
 But wiser now th' un-wond'ring world, alas!!
 Gives all poor HERSCHEL's glory to his glass;
 Convinc'd his boasted astronomic strength
 Lies in his tube's, † not head's enormous length.

SIR

* Mr. PALMER very generously offered his SOVEREIGN a mail-coach to carry letters and dispatches to and from Cheltenham. The offer was too great to be refused—a splendid carriage was built for the occasion: his most economic Majesty, however, wisely knowing that something more than a few letters might be contained in Mr. Palmer's vehicle, converted it, as the poet hath observed, into a cart, and saved many a sixpence.

† We would not detract from Mr. HERSCHEL's real merit.—By a true German cart-house labour, he made a little improvement on Dr. MUDGE's method of constructing mirrors; such are this

SIR JOSEPH.

What, niggard! not on Herschel fame bestow,
So curious a discov'rer?—

PETER.

No! man, no!
Give it to MUDGE, * whose head contains more
Than (trust me) ever lodg'd in HERSCHEL's house.

SIR JOSEPH.

Lo, at my call the noble MARLB'ROUGH's vote,
Whose observations much our fame promote.

PETER.

Who from his Blenheim chimneys wonders spies—
The daily advertiser of the skies:
Who equals his great ancestor in head;
A hero † who could neither write nor read:
Thus equal form'd, to all the world's surprise;
As one swept earth, the other sweeps the skies.

SIR

this gentleman's pretensions to a niche in the temple of FAME.—
As for his mathematical abilities, they can scarcely be called the shadows of Science.

* Dr. MUDGE of Plymouth.

† The famous Duke of Marlborough was reported to have been an illiterate man; which shows that a headpiece for the arts and sciences, and a headpiece for facing cannon-balls, are wisely formed of different materials.

SIR JOSEPH.

HUNTER † with fish intrigues our house regales—

PETER.

The tender history of cooing whales! §—

SIR JOSEPH.

Great in the noble art of gelding sows!—

PETER.

And giving to the boar a barren spouse!
 Who proves, what many unbelievers shocks,
 That age converts ben pheasants into cocks!
 And why not, since it is deny'd by no man
 That age hath made JOHN HUNTER an OLD WO-MAN?

Believe me, full as well might Papists bring
 Quills from a SERAPH's tail, or CHERUB's wing;
 Saint DUNSTAN's crab stick, which the SAINT un-civil

Broke on the back of our great foe the DEVIL;
 SAINT ANDREW's toe, SAINT AGATHA's old smock,
 And stones that rattled round SAINT STEPHEN's block;

SAINT

† John Hunter actually received the Society's gold medal for three papers, viz. on sow-gelding; on the wolf, jackall, and dog; proving incontestably, what the world knew before, that the aforesaid animals were bonâ fide of the same species: also on the loves of whales.

§ See article 30, 1780, in the Philosophical Transactions, where Mr. John Hunter gives a wonderful account of a pheasant with three legs, that by age changed from a female to a male.

SAINT JOSEPH's sighs so deep, preserv'd in bottles,
 Amounting, legends says, to many pottles;
 Caught as the SAINT, with all his might and main,
 Was cleaving billets, for his fire, in twain;
 Or bones * from Catacombs to form new saints,
 To cure, like all quack med'cines, all complaints!
 Such might the journals of the house record,
 As well as HUNTER's wond'rous cock-ben bird.

SIR JOSEPH.

Like BLAGDEN who can write and deeply think?

PETER.

Who write like him on iron moulds and ink? †
 See shirts and shifts, by iron-molds that rot,
 By BLAGDEN's wisdom lose each yellow spot!
 For this, shall laundry virgins lift their voice;
 Napkins and damask tablecloths rejoice;
 Ruffles and caps, and sheets, and pillow-cases,
 Lose their sad stains, and smile with lily faces.
 Lo! to improve of man the soaring mind,
 For sacred science, to his skin unkind,
 Did Doctor Blagden in an oven ‡ bake,
 Brown as burnt coffee or a barley cake,
 Whilst, down his nose projecting, sweat in rills
 Unfav'ry flow'd like hartshorn streams from stills.

SIR

* In 1672, four hundred saints were recruited; such was the extraordinary harvest of baptized and canonized bones from the Catacombs at Rome. Vide Religious Rites and Ceremonies.

† Vide Article 39, 1787, of the Philos. Transf.

‡ The Doctor's body in the hot oven, with his nose projecting from the hole for air, would be no bad subject for the graver.

SIR JOSEPH.

Great Duckweed THOMPSON, † all my soul reveres!
 And MULGRAVE charms me with his arctic bears.
 My eyes with shells, lo! limpet DAVIES greets!
 And Doctor LETTSOME with his rare horse-beets!
 Beets, that with shame our parsnips shall o'erwhelm,
 And fairly drive potatoes from the realm!
 Beets! in whose just applauses we are hoarse all;
 Such are the wond'rous pow'rs of Mangel Worsal. ‡

PETER.

Beets that shall keep gaunt FAMINE to his East,
 And make him on Gentoos, as usual, feast;
 Whilst ev'ry lucky BRITON that one meets
 Shall strut a FALSTAFF, such the pow'r of Beets!
 Beets! that must bring the Quaker wealth and fame,
 And give his cheek the virgin glow of shame;
 Who ne'er, meek man, was known a face to push,
 Nor hear his own applause without a blush!
 Beets! that shall form an epoch in our times,
 And thus, by PETER prais'd, embalm his rhymes!

SIR JOSEPH.

Then, what of AUBERT § think you, that great man,
 Whose broad eye deems creation scarce a span?

PETER.

† Sir Benjamin, a second Linnæus.

‡ The more pompous name of the Beet.

§ A silk-merchant, and F. R. S. who every Sunday, wet or dry, cloudy or sunshine, calm or windy, visits Greenwich, to catch the sun on the meridian. Such is this gentleman's rage for the art, that he now has at LOAMPITT-HILL, near Greenwich, two thousand pounds worth of astronomical instruments.

P E T E R.

Who weekly with his watch is seen to run,
 The little pupil of a Greenwich sun,
 To learn the motions of old TIME, and mock
 The fatal errors of each London clock,
 Thus LUBIN, from his solitary DOWN,
 Leads little LUBIN to a neighb'ring town :
 The lad with ecstasy surveys the scene ;
 Then home returning, with triumphant mien,
 Correct his mother's, sister's conversations,
 And wonder at his ignorant relations.
 AUBERT who meriteth indeed applause !
 Full of high sounding phrases, and wise saws ;
 Who from his cradle learn'd the stars to lisp,
 And to a meteor * turn'd a will-o'-wisp !

S I R J O S E P H.

Pray, then, what think ye of our famous DAINES ?

P E T E R.

Think of a man deny'd, by Nature, brains !
 Whose trash so oft the royal leaves disgraces :
 Who knows not jordan, fool ! from-Roman vases !
 About old pots his head for ever puzzling,
 And boring earth, like pigs for truffles † muzzling !
 Who

* One fortunate evening, as he was returning from his beloved observatory, a Jack-a-lantern sprung up and played some tricks before the philosophical silkman, whose optics, too apt to magnify objects, converted it into an amazing meteor, with which the royal journals soon after blazed.

† There are pigs kept expressly for hunting truffles in some parts of England.

Who likewise from old urns, to crotchets leaps,
Delights in music; and at concerts sleeps *.

SIR JOSEPH.

Zounds! 'tis in vain, I see, to utter praise!—

PETER.

Then mention some one who deserves my lays.

SIR JOSEPH.

Know then, I've sent to distant parts to find
Beings the most uncommon of their kind:
 The greatest monsters of the land and water—

PETER.

The beautiful deformities of nature!
 Birds without heads, and tails, and wings, and legs,
 Tremendous Cyclop pigs, and speckled eggs;
 Snails from Japan, and wasps, and Indian jays,
 Command attention, and excite our praise:
 Chopsticks and backscrapers are curious things;
 Scalps, and tobacco-pipes, and Indian strings,
 Such as to charm the wond'ring Cits we see,
 Where DON SALTERO † gives his Sunday's tea;
 Great DON SALTERO, name of high renown,
 Who treats, too, with immortal rolls the town!

Rare

* Such are the powers of somnolency over Mr. DAINES BARRINGTON—at several of the Hanover-square concerts hath the LYRIC PETER seen the ANTIQUARIAN in seeming musical speculation, but verily amused with a most comfortable nap.

† At Chelsea.

Rare are the buttons of a Roman's breeches,
 In antiquarian eyes surpassing riches :
 Rare is each crack'd, black, rotten, earthen dish,
 That held of ancient Rome the flesh and fish :
 Rare are the talismans that drove the Devil,
 And rare the bottles that contain'd old snivel.
 Owls' heads, and snoring frogs, preserved in spirits,
 Most certainly are not without their merits ;
 Yet these to gain, and give to public view,
 LO PARKINSON knows full as well as you ;
 As did Sir ASHTON fam'd, whose mental pow'r
 Just reach'd to tell us by the clock the hour.

S I R J O S E P H.

Poh! p-x! don't laugh—such things are rich and scarce,
 Be something sacred—let not all be farce.

P E T E R.

Sir Joseph, I must laugh when things like these Beyond sublimities have pow'r to please :
 To crowd with such poor littlenefs your walls,
 Is putting Master PUNCH into St. PAUL's.
 Yet, to the point—the place on which you dote
 Hath been for ever carried by the vote.
 Know then, your parasites begin to bellow,
 And call you openly a shallow fellow :
 In vain to smiling Majesty you fly ;
 'Tis on the many that you must rely :
 E'en blockheads blush, so much are they ashamed—

SIR JOSEPH.

They and their modest blushes may be d—n'd.
 Ungrateful scoundrels! eat my rolls and butter,
 And daring thus their insolences mutter!
 Swallow my turtle and my beef by pounds,
 And tear my ven'son like a pack of hounds;
 Yet have the impudence, the brazen face,
 To say I am not fitted for the place!
 In God's name let my wine in torrents flow!
 E'en be my house a tavern in SOHO!
 Of daily ven'son let me try the force,
 And keep an open house for man and horse.
 Oh! let me hold by any means the chair!—
 To keep that honour every thing I dare!

P E T E R.

I own that nothing like good cheer succeeds—
 A man's a God whose hog'shead freely bleeds:
 Champagne can consecrate the damned'st evil:
 A hungry Parasite adores a Devil;
 In radiant virtues his poor host arrays,
 And smooths him with the gossamer of praise;
 Stuff'd to the throat till repetition tires,
 And GLUTTONY's huge greasy wish expires;
Apostate then, the knave denies his church,
 And leaves his saint, with laughter, in the lurch.
 In short, your gormandizers and your drinkers
 Quit their old faith, and turn out rank free-thinkers.
 Dead is the novelty of fine fat haunches,
 And truth no longer sacrific'd to paunches:
 Asham'd, at length, the sad, repentant SINNERS
 All blush to barter flatt'ry for good dinners:

No charms surround the knocker of your door,
That beam'd with honour, but now beams no more!

SIR JOSEPH.

Betray'd by those on whom my all depends!—

PETER.

Betray'd, like CÆSAR, by his bosom friends!

SIR JOSEPH.

Though man, ungrateful man, his aid deny;
The Pow'r whose wisdom rules yon lofty sky,
May grant his gracious and protecting pow'r,
And aid my efforts in the trying hour!

PETER.

Left by your earthly friends, I fear your pray'rs,
Most pious PRESIDENT, won't mend affairs:
The Pow'r you mention, with all-seeing eyes,
Well knows your little rev'rence for his skies. *
Thus may your pray'rs be vain, however hearty;
Besides HEAV'N oft'nest joins the strongest party.

SIR JOSEPH.

'Sblood! have I practis'd ev'ry art in vain?
Undaunted fac'd the dangers of the main?—

PETER.

And fac'd QUEEN OBOREA in the boat,
And lost your shoes and stockings, and your coat:
A cir-

* The Poet here most facetiously and beautifully alludes to the secession of the astronomical geniuses from the Society.

A circumstance that much the tale enriches,
 But providentially preserv'd your breeches!
 For unknown weeds, dar'd unknown paths explore,
 And frighten'd cannibals from shore to shore;
 On each new island clapp'd King George's seal,
 A sharp impression too of hardest steel;
 Whilst witness Pistol and his brother Gun
 Look'd with a pointed approbation on.
 A decent method of appropriation,
 And adding glory to the British nation!
 True, you have try'd to be as great as HE,
 The vent'rous TROJAN, sport of wind and sea,
 Who left old Troy, his parish, far from home,
 To find a lodging for imperial Rome:—
 Yet are those feats what vulgars term a bore;
 Stale stuff—the Members look for something more.
 I grant, you naked with your servants pranc'd,
 To show how folks at Otaheité danc'd:
 And much the smiling audience you amus'd,
 Though DECENCY, indeed, the dance abus'd;
 SHE, blushing damsel, turn'd her head aside,
 And wish'd a whip to ev'ry hopping hide.
 Grant that you sent, to charm the public eye,
 Egyptian stones, * that form'd for hogs a sty;
 With seeming hieroglyphics on their faces,
 That prov'd unfortunately pigs'-feet traces:

Yet

* Sir Joseph sent some curious Egyptian stones to the British Museum; such was his zeal for the honour of Hieroglyphics:
 but, as that building possesses already as much of the antique as it can well authenticate, they were returned in a cart upon his hands.

Yet lo! like bullocks in a fair, they roar,
Or vacate bid you, or do something more.

SIR JOSEPH.

'Sdeath, then, I'll spit in ev'ry blockhead's face;
Kick them, and purge the dwelling from disgrace,

PETER.

Thus when a host of grasshoppers and rats,
By men undaunted, unabash'd by cats,
In hopping and in running legions pours,
Affrights the Papists, and their grass devours;
Lo, arm'd with pray'rs to thunder in their ears,
A BISHOP boldly meets the buccaneers;
Sprinkles his holy water on the sod,
And drives, and damns them in the name of God! *

You purge the tainted dwelling from disgrace,
By boldly spitting in each Member's face!
Where, sweet Sir Joseph, will you find the spittle,
Since what would float the ALBION † were too little?

With solemn, sentimental step, so slow,
I see you through the streets of London go,
With poring, studious, staring, earth-nail'd eye,
As heedless of the mob that bustles by.

This

* This is actually done in Roman Catholic countries by order of the church. In some places two attorneys are employed in the affairs of the grasshoppers; one for the grasshoppers, the other for the people: but it is the fate of the grasshoppers to have the worst of it, as they are always anathematized, and ordered to be excommunicated if they do not quit the place within a certain number of days.

† One of our first-rates,

This was a scheme of wisdom, let me say;
 But lo, this trap for fame hath had its day;
 And let me tell you, what I've urg'd before,
 The restless Members look for something more.

SIR JOSEPH.

Zounds! ha'nt I swallow'd raw flesh like a hound?
 On vilest reptiles rung the changes round?
 Eat ev'ry filthy insect you can mention;
 Tarts made of grasshoppers, my own invention?
 Frogs; tadpoles by the spoonful, long-tail'd imps;
 And munch'd cockchafers, just like prawns or shrimps?

PETER.

In troth, I've seen you many a reptile eat,
 And heard you call the dirty dish a treat;
 Oft have I seen you meals on monkeys make;
 Nay, Hercules surpass—devour your SNAKE;
 And make as little of a toad or viper,
 As pelicans of mack'rel or a piper;
 And wriggling round your mouth its little claws,
 Have heard a bat cry "Murder!" in your jaws;
 Yet, hear, Sir Joseph, what I've said before,
 The blushing Members look for something more.

SIR JOSEPH.

Hell seize the pack!—unconscionable dogs!—
 Snakes, spiders, beetles, chaffers, tadpoles, frogs,
 All swallow'd to display what man can do,
 And must the villains still have something new?—
 Tell, then, each pretty PRESIDENT CREATOR,
 G—d d-mn him, that I'll eat an Alligator!

PETER.

P E T E R.

Sir Joseph, pray don't eat an Alligator—
 Go swallow somewhat of a softer nature;
 Feast on the arts and sciences, and learn
 Sublimity from trifle to discern:
 With shells, and flies, and daisies, cover'd o'er,
 Let pert QUEEN FIDDLEFADDLE rule no more:
 Thus shall PHILOSOPHY her suffrage yield,
 Sir JOSEPH wear his hat, * and hammer wield;
 No more shall WISDOM on the Journals stare,
 Nor NEWTON's † image blush behind the CHAIR.

* The President has the inestimable and sole privilege of sitting covered at the Royal Society's meetings.—The hammer forms a part of the regalia, to command silence, and rouse the Members from their happy slumbers, whilst their Secretary, Dr. Blagden, proclaims rare news from the moth, bat, butterfly, and spider countries.

† The picture of this great man is immediately behind the chair of the PRESIDENT.

PETER'S

PETER'S PENSION:

A SOLEMN EPISTLE

TO

A SUBLIME PERSONAGE.

"My heart is inditing of a good matter—I speak of the things
"which I have made, unto the KING." PSALM xiv.

"Non possum tecum vivere, nec sine te."

THE ARGUMENT.

A GRAND Exordium, containing news from Jericho—PETER informeth MAJESTY of the great noise on their respective accounts—and talketh of SAMPSON and DALILAH—The London Coffee-houses and the Royal Exchange—PETER explaineth the cause of the great noise, and ejaculateth—talketh of preparations at the Palace for his disgrace and murder—PETER informeth MAJESTY of what MAJESTY hath been informed—complaineth that he hath been pictured a downright devil—beggeth that a proper inquiry may be instituted—PETER pronounceth himself no devil—PETER writeth soft sonnets, to prove that he hath not a hard heart.

PETER talketh of courtiers and court matters—of what the world wickedly sayeth of him—PETER cannot convince the world—mentioneth the dependence of the news-papers, magazines, and reviews—also the famine in poetry—PETER exculpateh MAJESTY—PETER refuseth modestly—hinteth at Royal misfortunes, diamonds, nabobs, and an action of trover—PETER prophesieth mournfully—giveth the history of NEBUCHAD-NEZZAR's grass diet—PETER affordeth good reasons for refusing a pension—relateth an anecdote of a dead archbishop—formeth a scheme for universal happiness, by discovering SIN and SHAME to be a pair of impostors, and for making mournful Sunday merry—PETER outdoeth old poets in egotism—condemneth Mistress DAMER, the great she-statuary, for attempting our most sublime SOVEREIGN—PETER, like many authors, exhibiteth prodigious acquaintance with ancient literature, by mentioning the names of JUPITER, PHIDIAS, PRAXITELES, VIRGIL, and AUGUSTUS CÆSAR—PETER puffeth again—PETER produceth a tale about MAJESTY, Mr. ROBINSON, ALDERMAN SKINNER, and choaked sheep—also a tale of MAJESTY and Parson YOUNG, whose neck was unfortunately unhinged at a hunt.

PETER

PETER still hankereth after pensions—declaimeth on the powers of poetry, as also on his own miraculous powers—PETER professeth independency, and great capability of making a hearty mutton-bone dinner like Andrew Marvel—PETER distrusteth his fortitude—quoteth Opposition men for pitiful desertion of principle, and descanteth on money—PETER telleth an apposite tale of Lady Huntington's Parson, a dog, and a 'squire.

PETER quoteth the wind and Mr. EDEN—exhibiteth more symptoms of pension-love —concludeth in a foam against knight-hood.

PETER'S

PETER'S PENSION.

DREAD SIR, the rams horns that blew down
The walls of JERICHO's old town,

Made a most monstrous uproar, all agree :
But lo ! a louder noise around us rages,
About two most important personages ;
No less, my Royal LIEGE, than You and Me !

In short, not greater the PHILISTINES made
When DALILAH, a little artful jade,

(Indeed a very pretty girl)

Snipp'd off her lover Mr. SAMPSON's curl,
Who well repaid the clamours of the bears,
By pulling down the house about their ears.

Prodigious is the shake around !
Still LONDON keeps (thank God) her ground ;
Yet, how th' EXCHANGE and COFFEE-HOUSES ring !
Nothing is heard but PETER and the KING :
The handsome bar-maids stare, as mute as fishes ;
And fallow waiters, frighten'd, drop their dishes !

At first 'twas thought the triumph of the Jews
On some great vict'ry in the boxing way :

The

The news, the very anti-christian news,
 Of ISRAEL'S HERO * having won the day ;
 And HUMPHRIES, a true Christian boxer, beat :
 Enough to give all CHRISTENDOM a sweat.

Again, 'twas thought great news of the Grand Turk,
 Who on his hands hath got some serious work :

'Twas fancied he had lost the day ;
 That ev'ry Mussulman was kill'd in battle,
 A fate most proper for such heathen cattle,
 Who do not pray to God our way.

But lo ! unto the lofty skies,
 Of found this wonderful ascension,
 Doth verily, my Liege, from this arise ;
 That you have giv'n the gentle Bard a pension !

Great is the shout indeed, Sir, all abroad,
 That you have order'd me this handsome thing ;
 On which, with lifted eyes, I've said, " Good God !
 " Tho' great my merits, yet how great the King !"

And yet, believe me, Sir, I lately heard,
 That all your doors were doubly lock'd and barr'd
 Against the POET, for his tuneful art ;
 And that the tall, stiff, stately red machines,
 Your grenadiers, the guards of Kings and Queens,
 Were order'd all to stab me to the heart :

That, if to House of BUCKINGHAM I came,
 Commands so dread were giv'n to Mistress BRIGG,
 A comely, squabby, stout, two-handed dame,
 To box the POET's ears, and pull his wig :

The

* Mendoza.

The cooks to spit him—curry him, the grooms;
And kitchen queens to baste him with their brooms.

You're told that in my ways I'm very evil!

So ugly! fit to travel for a show;

And that I look all grimly where I go!

Just like a devil!

With horns, and tail, and hoofs, that make folks
start;

And in my breast a millstone for a heart!

This cometh from a certain painter, SIRE:

Bid story-moufing NICOLAY inquire;

Your Page, your Mercury, with cunning eyes;

Who, jumping at each sound, so eager opes

His pretty wither'd pair of Chinese chops,

Like a Dutch dog that leaps at butterflies.

He, SIRE, will look me o'er, and will not fail

To swear that I've no horns, nor hoofs, nor tail.

Lord! Lord! these sayings grieve me and surprise!

Dread Sir, don't see with other people's eyes—

No dev'l am I, with horns, and tail, and hoofs:

As for the likeness of my heart to stone;

No, Sir, 'tis full as tender as your own:

Accept, my Liege, some simple love-sick proofs.

FOR CYNTHIA.

AH! tell me no more, my dear girl, with a sigh,
 That a coldness will creep o'er my heart;
 That a fullen indiff'rence will dwell on my eye,
 When thy beauty begins to depart.

Shall thy graces, O CYNTHIA, that gladden my day,
 And brighten the gloom of the night,
 Till life be extinguish'd, from memory stray,
 Which it ought to review with delight?

Upbraiding, shall GRATITUDE say with a tear,
 "That no longer I think of those charms
 "Which gave to my bosom such rapture sincere,
 "And faded at length in my arms?"

Why yes! it may happen, thou Damsel divine;
 To be honest—I freely declare,
 That e'en now to thy converse so much I incline,
 I already forget thou art fair.

TO LAURA.

HOW happy was my morn of love,
 When first thy beauty won my heart!
 How guiltless of a wish to rove!
 I deem'd it more than death to part!

Whene'er from thee I chanc'd to stray,
 How fancy dwelt upon thy mien,
 That spread with flow'rs my distant way,
 And show'r'd delight on every scene!

But

But FORTUNE, envious of my joys,
Hath robb'd a lover of thy charms;
From me thy sweetest smile decoys,
And gives thee to another's arms.

Yet, though my tears are doom'd to flow,
May tears be never LAURA's lot!
Let LOVE protect thy heart from woe;
His wound to mine shall be forgot.

HYMN TO MODESTY.

O! MODESTY, thou shy and blushful maid,
Don't of a simple shepherd be afraid:
Wert thou my lamb, with sweetest grass I'd treat thee;
I am no wolf so savage that would eat thee:
Then haste with me, O nymph, to dwell,
And give a goddess to my cell.

Thy fragrant breast, like Alpine snows so white,
Where all the nestling Loves delight to lie;
Thine eyes so soft, that shed the milder light
Of NIGHT's pale wand'rer o'er her cloudless sky,
O nymph, my panting, wishing bosom warm,
And beam around me, what a world of charm!
Then haste with me, O nymph, to dwell,
And give a goddess to my cell.

Thy flaxen ringlets, that luxuriant spread,
And hide thy bosom with an envious shade;

Thy polish'd cheek so dimpled, where the rose
 In all the bloom of ripening summer blows ;
 Thy luscious lips that heav'nly dreams inspire,
 By beauty form'd, and loaded with desire ;
 With sorrow, and with wonder, lo ! I see (What melting treasures !) thrown away on thee.

Then haste with me, O nymph, to dwell,
 And give a goddess to my cell.

Thou knowest not that bosom's fair design ;
 And as for those two pouting lips divine,
 Thou think'st them form'd alone for simple chat—
 To bill so happy with thy fav'rite dove,
 And playful force, with sweetly fondling love,
 Their kisses on a lapdog or a cat.

Then haste with me, meek maid, to dwell,
 And give a goddess to my cell.

Such thoughts thy sweet simplicity produces !
 But I can point out far sublimer uses ;
 Uses the very best of men esteem—
 Of which thine innocence did never dream :
 Then haste with me, meek maid, to dwell,
 And give a goddess to my cell.

Oh ! fly from IMPUDENCE, the brazen rogue,
 Whose flippant tongue hath got the Irish brogue :
 Whose hands would pluck thee like the fairest flow'r ;
 Thy cheeks, eyes, forehead, lips and neck, devour :
 Shun, shun that Caliban, and with me dwell :
 Then come, and give a goddess to my cell.

The world, O simple maid, is full of art,
 Would turn thee pale, and fill with dread thy heart,
 Didst

Didst thou perceive but half the snares
 The DEV'L for charms like thine prepares !
 Then haste, O nymph, with me to dwell,
 And give a goddess to my cell.

From morn to eve my kifs of speechless love,
 Thy eyes' mild beam and blushes shall improve ;
 And lo ! from our so innocent embrace,
 Young MODESTIES shall spring, a numerous race !
 The blushing girls in ev'ry thing like thee,
 The bashful boys prodigiously like me !
 Then haste with me, O nymph, to dwell,
 And give a goddess to my cell.

IS not this pretty, Sir ? can ought be sweeter ?
 Instead of that vile appellation, Devil,
 So blackguard, so unfriendly, and uncivil,
 Should not I be baptiz'd the gentle PETER ?

Great is the buz about the Court,
 As at th' Exchange, where Jews, Turks, Christians meet,
 Or Smithfield Fair, where beasts of ev'ry sort,
 Pigs, sheep, men, bullocks, all so friendly greet.

Busy indeed is many a fly court leech !
 Afraid to trust each other with a speech—
 In hems, and hahs, and half-words, hinting ;
 Some whisp'ring, list'ning, tip-toe walking, squint-
 ing ;
 For lo, so warily each courtier speaks,
 They seem to talk with halters round their necks.

Some praise the King for nobleness of spirit,
 For ever studying how to find out merit;
 Whilst from its box the heart doth slyly peep,
 And asks the tongue with marv'ling eyes,
 How it can dare to tell a heap
 Of such unconscionable, bare-fac'd lies?

"How are the mighty fall'n!" the people cry—
 Meaning ME—

"Another hog of EPICURUS' sty;

"This vile apostate bends to Baal the knee;

"Lo, for a little meat and guzzle,

"This sneaking cur, too, takes the muzzle.

"In lyric scandal soon will be a chasm—

"He wrote for bribes, 'tis plain, and now he has 'em.

"This mighty war-horse will be soon in hand,

"By means of meat, the price of venal notes,

"Calm as a hackney coach-horse on his stand,

"Tossing about his nose-bag and his oats.

"Whatever he hath said, he dares unsay,

"In native impudence so rich—

"Explain the plainest things away,

"And call his Muse a forward b——;

"Treat fire of friendly promises as smoke,

"And laugh at truth and honour as a joke."

Such, Sir, is your good people's constant howl,
 As thick as small-birds pestering a poor owl.

In vain I tell the world around,

That I have not a pension found:

This speech of simple truth the mob enrages:

"PETER.

"PETER, this is an arrant lie—

"The fact is clear, too clear," they cry—

"Thou hast already touch'd a quarter's wages.

"Varlet, it always was thy vile intention;

"Thou hast, thou hast, thou liar! got a pension,"

Still, to support my innocence, I've said,

Most sinfully, I own—"I han't, by G—:"

Yet, had I sworn my eyes out of my head,

They never had believ'd—How vastly odd!

The morning and the evening papers,

Struck by the sound, are in the vapours,

And mourn and droop, to think I'm dead,

Stunn'd by the unexpected news,

The MAGAZINES and sage REVIEWS

For grief can scarcely lift the head.

"Nothing but poor, mechanic stuff," they cry,

"Shall now be quoted for the public eye;—

"Nothing original in song—

"No novelty of images and thought

"Before our fair tribunal shall be brought!

"But trifling transpositions of our tongue;

"Nought but a solemn pomp of words,

"Bearing a lifeless thought, shall readers meet;

The picture of a funeral that affords,

"So solemn marching through the staring street;

"Where flags, and horse, and foot, a sorrow ape,

"With all the dread dismality of crape,

"Near the poor corpse—perhaps a puny brat,

"Or dry old maid, as meagre as a cat."

No,

No, Sir! you never offer'd me a pension;
But then I guess it is your kind intention:
Yes, Sir, you mean a small douceur to proffer;
But give me leave, Sir, to decline the offer.

I'm much oblig'd t'ye, Sir, for your good will;
But Oratorios have half undone ye:
'Tis whisper'd, too, that thieves have robb'd the till
Which kept your milk and butter money.

So much with saving wisdom are you taken,
Drury and Covent-Garden seem forsaken:
Since cost attendeth those theatric borders,
Content you go to RICHMOND HOUSE with orders.

Form'd to delight all eyes, all hearts engage,
When lately the sweet PRINCESS * came of age,
Train-oil instead of wax was bid illume,
The goodly company and dancing-room!
This never had been done, I'm very sure,
Had not you been, dread Sir, extremely poor.

You now want guineas to buy live stock, Sir,
To graze your Windsor hill and Windsor vale;
And farmers will not let their cattle stir,
Until the money's down upon the nail.

I'm told your sheep have dy'd by dogs and bitches,
And that your fowls have suffer'd by the fitchews;
And that your man-traps, guards of goose and duck,
And cocks and hens, have had but so-so luck:
Scarce fifty rogues, in chase of fowls and eggs,
Have in those loving engines left their legs.

* Princess Royal.

The bulse, Sir, on a visit to the Tow'r,
 Howe'er the royal visage may look sour,
 Howe'er an object of a deep devotion,
 Must cross once more the eastern ocean!

Indeed I hope the di'monds will be off,
 Or scandal on us rolls in floods:
 Some NABOB may be vile enough
 To bring an action for stol'n goods:
 An action, to speak lawyer-like, of trover;
 And Heav'n forbid it should come over!

For money matters, I am sure,
 The Abbey music was put off;
 Because the royal purse is poor,
 Plagu'd with a dry consumptive cough:
 Yet in full health again that purse may riot,
 By God's grace, and a skim-milk diet.

Close as a vice behold the nation's fist!
 Vain will be mouths made up for Civil List;
 And humble pray'rs, so very stale,
 Will all be call'd an old wife's tale.

Your faithful Commons to your cravings
 Will not give up the nation's savings:
 Your fav'rite minister, I'm told, runs restiff,
 And growls at such petitions like a mastiff.

What if my good friend HASTINGS goes to pot?
 ADAMS and ANSTRUTHER have flung hard stones;
 He finds his situation rather hot:
 BURKE, FOX, and SHERIDAN, may break his bones.

As

As surely as we saw and felt the pulse,
 Hastings hath got a very awkward pulse;
 Therefore in jeopardy the culprit stands!
 Like patients whose disorders doctors slight
 Too often, he may bid us all good night;
 And slip, poor man, between our hands.

Then, Sir! oh! then, as long as life endures,
 Nothing but remembrance of the pulse is ours;
 And to a stomach that like ours digests,
 Slight is the dinner on remember'd feasts.

I think we cases understand, and ken
 Symptoms, as well as most ingenious men;
 But Lord! how oft the wisest are mistaken!
 Therefore I tremble for his badger'd bacon.

We may be out, with all our skill so clever;
 And what we think an ague, prove jail-fever.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR, Sir, the KING,
 As sacred hist'ries sweetly sing,
 Was on all fours turn'd out to grass,
 Just like a horse, or mule, or ass:

Heav'ns! what a fall from kingly glory!
 I hope it will not so turn out
 That we shall have (to make a rout)
 A second part of that old story!

This pension was well meant, O glorious King,
 And for the Bard a very pretty thing;
 But let me, Sir, refuse it, I implore—
 I ought not to be rich whilst you are poor;
 No, Sir! I cannot be your humble hack;
 I fear your Majesty would break my back,

I dare

I dare refuse you for another reason—

We differ in religion, Sir, a deal;
You fancy it a sin ally'd to treason,
And vastly dangerous to the commonweal,
For subjects, minuets and jigs to play
On the Lord's day.

Now, Sir, I'm very fond of fiddling;
And, in my morals, what the world calls middling;
I've ask'd of CONSCIENCE, who came strait from Heav'n,

Whether I stood a chance to be forgiv'n,
If on a Sunday, from all scruples free,
I scrap'd the old Black Joke and Chère Amie?

"Poh! blockhead" (answer'd CONSCIENCE) know,

"God never against music made a rule;

"On Sundays you may safely take your bow—

"And play as well the fiddle as the fool."

A late ARCHBISHOP,* too, O King,
Who knew most secrets of the skies,
Said, Heav'n on Sundays relish'd pipe and string,
Where sounds on sounds unceasing rise;
And ask'd, as Sunday had its music there,
Why Sunday should not have its music here?

In consequence of this divine opinion,
That PRINCE of PARSONS in your great dominion
Inform'd his fashionable wife,
That she might have her Sunday routs and cards,
And meet at last with Heav'n's rewards,
When Death should take her precious life.

Thus

* Cornwallis,

Thus dropping pious qualms, religious doubts,
 His lady did enjoy her Sunday routs!
 Upon GOOD-FRIDAY, too, that awful day,
 Lo! like VAUXHALL, was LAMBETH all so gay!

Now if his present * GRACE, with sharpen'd eyes,
 Could squint a little deeper in the skies,
 He might be able to inform his DAME,
 Of two impostors, p'rhaps, call'd SIN and SHAME,
 Who many a pleasure from our grasp remove,
 Pretending to commissions from above.

Like this, a secret, could his Grace explore,
 What a proud day for Us and MISTRESS MOORE!
 For lo, two greater foes we cannot name
 To this world's joys, than Messieurs SIN and SHAME.

Then might we think no more of praise and prayer,
 But leave at will our MAKER in the lurch:
 Sleep, racket, lie a bed, or take the air,
 And order owls and bats to go to church.

SUNDAYS, like other days, would then have life:
 Now prim, and starch, and silent, as a Quaker;
 And gloomy in her looks, as if the wife
 Or widow of an UNDERTAKER.

Happy should I have been, my Liege,
 So great a Monarch to oblige:
 And, Sir, between you, and the post,
 And me, you don't know what you've lost,

The loss of me, so great a Bard,
 Is not, O King! to be repair'd.

My

* Dr. Moore.

My verse, superior to the hardest rock,
Nor earthquake fears, nor sea, nor fire ;
Surpassing, therefore, Mistress DAMER's block,
That boasts some little likeness of you, Sire.
That block, so pond'rous, must with age decay,
And all the lines of wisdom wear away :
I grant the Lady's loyalty and love ;
Yet, " none but PHIDIAS should attempt a JOVE."

The MACEDONIAN HERO grac'd the stone
Of fam'd PRAXITELES alone ;
Forbidding others to attempt his nob,
It was so great and difficult a job.

AUGUSTUS swore an oath so dread,
He'd cut off any poet's head,
But VIRGIL's, that should dare his praise rehearse,
Or mention ev'n his name in verse.

Then, Sir, if I may be a little free,
My art would suit your merits to a T.

Lord! in my adamantine lays
Your virtues would like bonfires blaze ;
So firm your tuneful jeweller would set 'em,
They'd break the teeth of TIME to eat 'em.

Wrapp'd in the splendor of my golden line,
For ever would your Majesty be fine !
Appear a gentleman of first repute,
And always glitter in a birth-day suit.

Then to all stories would I give the lie,
That dar'd attack you, and your fame devour ;
Making a King a ninepin in our eye,
Who ought like Egypt's pyramids to tow'r ;

Such

Such as the following fable, for example;
Of impudence, unprecedented sample!

THE ROYAL SHEEP,

SOME time ago a dozen lambs,
Two rev'rend patriarchal rams,
And one good motherly old ewe,
Died on a sudden down at KEW;
Where with the sweetest innocence, alas!
Those pretty, inoffensive lambs,
And rev'rend horned patriarchal rams,
And motherly old ewe, were nibbling grass:
All, the fair property of our great King,
Whose deaths did much the royal bosom wring:
'Twas said that dogs had tickled them to death;
Play'd with their gentle throats, and stopp'd their breath,

Like Homer's heroes on th' ensanguin'd plain,
Stalk'd MISTER ROBINSON * around the slain!
And never was more frighten'd in his life!
So shock'd was MISTER ROBINSON's whole face,
Not stronger horrors could have taken place,
Had CERBERUS devour'd his wife!

With wild, despairing looks, and sighs,
And wet and pity-asking eyes,
He, trembling, to the royal presence ventur'd—
White as the whitest napkin when he enter'd!

White as the man who fought King PRIAM's bed,
And told him that his warlike son was dead.

"Oh, please your Majesty"—he, blubb'ring, cry'd—
And then stopp'd short—

"What? what? what? what?" the staring King re-
ply'd;

"Speak, ROBINSON, speak, speak,—what, what's the hurt?"

"O Sire!" said Robinson again—

"Speak," said the King, "put, put me out of pain;

"Don't, don't in this suspense a body keep."—

"O Sire!" cry'd Robinson, "the sheep! the sheep!"

"What of the sheep," reply'd the King, "pray,
"pray?"—

"Dead! Robinson, dead, dead, or run away?"

"Dead!" answer'd Robinson—"dead! dead! dead!
"dead!"

Then, like a drooping lily, hung his head!

"How, how?" the MONARCH ask'd, with visage sad,

"By dogs," said Robinson, "and likely mad!"

"No, no, they can't be mad, they can't be mad—

"No, no, things ar'n't so bad, things ar'n't so bad,"

Rejoin'd the King:

"Off with them quick to market—quick, depart;

"In with them, in, in with them in a cart:

"Sell, sell them for as much as they will bring."

Now to Fleet Market, driving like the wind,
Amidst the murder'd mutton, rode the HIND,

All in the royal cart so great,

To try to sell the royal meat.

The

The news of this rare batch of lambs,
 And ewes and rams,
 Design'd for many a London dinner,
 Reach'd the fair ears of Master Sheriff SKINNER,
 Who, with a hammer, and a conscience clear,
 Gets glory and ten thousand pounds a year;
 And who, if things go tolerably fair,
 Will rise one day proud LONDON'S proud LORD
 MAYOR.

The Alderman was in his pulpit shining,
 'Midst Gentlemen with nightcaps, hair, and wigs;
 In language most rhetorical defining
 The sterling merit of a lot of pigs:
 When suddenly the news was brought,
 That in Fleet Market were unwholesome sheep,
 Which made the PREACHER from his pulpit leap,
 As nimble as a taylor, or as thought.

For justice panting, and unaw'd by fears,
 This King, this Emperor of Auctioneers
 Set off—a furious face indeed he put on—
 Like light'ning did he gallop up Cheapside!
 In thunder down through Ludgate did he ride,
 To catch the man who sold this dreadful mutton.

Now to Fleet Market, full of wrath, he came,
 And with the spirit of an ancient Roman,
 Exceeded, I believe, by no man,
 The Alderman, so virtuous, cry'd out "SHAME!"
 "D—mme," to ROBINSON said Master SKINNER,
 "Who on such mutton, Sir, can make a dinner?"

"You,

"You, if you please,"

Cry'd Mr. ROBINSON, with perfect ease.

"Sir," quoth the red-hot ALDERMAN again—

"You," quoth the HIND, in just the same cool strain.

"Off, off," cry'd SKINNER, with your carrion heap;

"Quick, d—mme, take away your nasty sheep.

"Whilst I command, not e'en the KING

"Shall such vile stuff to market bring,

"And London stalls such garbage put on;

"So take away your stinking mutton."

"You," reply'd ROBINSON, "you cry out 'shame!'

"You blast the sheep, good Master SKINNER, pray;

"You give the harmless mutton a bad name!

"You impudently order it away!

"Sweet Master ALDERMAN, don't make this rout:

"Clap on your spectacles upon your snout;

"And then your keen, surveying eyes regale

"With those same fine large letters on the cart

"Which brought this blasted mutton here for sale."

Poor SKINNER read, and read it with a start.

Like HAMLET, frighten'd at his father's ghost,

The Alderman stood staring like a post;

He saw G. R. inscrib'd, in handsome letters,

Which prov'd the sheep belong'd unto his betters.

The Alderman now turn'd to deep reflection;

And being blest with proper recollection,

Exclaim'd: "I've made a great mistake—Oh! sad—

"The sheep are really not so bad.

"Dear

" Dear Mister Robinson, I beg your pardon ;
 " Your Job-like patience I've born hard on.
 " Whoever says the mutton is not good,
 " Knows nothing, Mister Robinson, of food ;
 " I verily believe I could turn glutton,
 " On such neat, wholesome, pretty-looking mutton.
 " Pray, Mister Robinson, the mutton sell—
 " I hope, Sir, that his Majesty is well."

So saying, Mister ROBINSON he quitted,
 With cherubimic smiles and placid brows,
 For such embarrassing occasions, fitted—
 Adding just five-and-twenty humble bows.

To work went ROBINSON to sell the sheep ;
 But people would not buy, except dog cheap.
 At length the sheep were sold—without the fleece ;
 And brought KING GEORGE just half-a-crown a piece.
 Now for the other faucy lying story,
 Made, one would think, to tarnish kingly glory.

THE K AND PARSON YOUNG.

THE K (God blefs him) met old PARSON YOUNG
 Walking on Windfor Terrace one fine morning :
 Delightful was the day, the scent was strong ;
 A heavenly day for howling and for horning !
 For tearing farmers' hedges down—hallooings—
 Shouts, curses, oaths, and such-like pious doings.

— YOUNG,"

"YOUNG," cried the K, "d'ye hunt, d'ye hunt
"to-day?"

"Yes, yes—what, what? yes, yes, fine day, fine day."

Low with a rev'rent bow the Priest reply'd,

"Great KING! I really have no horse to ride;

"Nothing, O Monarch, but my founder'd mare,

"And she, my Liege, as blind as she can stare."

"No horse!" rejoin'd the K, "no horse, no
"horse!"

"Indeed," the Parson added, "I have none:

"Nothing but poor old Dobbin—who of course

"Is dangerous—being blinder than a stone."

"Blind, blind, YOUNG? never mind—you must,
must go,

"Must hunt, must hunt, YOUNG—Stay behind?—
no, no."

What pity, that the King, in his discourse,

Forgot to say, "I'll lend ye, YOUNG, a horse!"

The K to YOUNG behaving thus so kind,

Whate'er the danger, and howe'er inclin'd,

At home with politesse YOUNG could not stay;

So up his REV'RENCE got upon the mare,

Resolv'd the chace with MAJESTY to share,

Whate'er the dangers of the day.

Rouz'd was the deer! the KING and PARSON YOUNG,
CASTOR and POLLUX like, rode side by side!

When lo, a ditch was to be sprung;

Over leap'd GEORGE THE THIRD with kingly pride;

Over jump'd Tinker, Towzer, Rockwood, Towler;
 Over jump'd Mendall, Brushwood, Jubal, Fowler,
Trimbusb and Lightning, Music, Ranter, Wonder,
 And fifty others with their mouths of thunder—

Great names! whose pedigrees, so fair,
 With those of HOMER's heroes might compare.

Thus gloriously attended, leap'd the King,
 By all those hounds attended with a spring!
 Not CÆSAR's self a fiercer look put on,
 When with his host he pass'd the Rubicon!

But wayward FATE the Parson's palfrey humbled,
 And gave the mare a sudden check:
 Unfortunately poor blind Dobbin stumbled,
 And broke his Reverence's neck.

The MONARCH, gaping, with amaze look'd round
 Upon his dead companion on the ground:

"What, what? he cry'd, "YOUNG dead! YOUNG dead! YOUNG dead!

"Humph! take him up, and put him home to bed."

Thus having finish'd, with a cheerful face
 NIMROD the Second join'd the jovial chace.

A MORAL REFLECTION.

FOOLS would have stopp'd when Parson YOUNG was kill'd,

And giv'n up ev'ry thought of hound and deer;
 And, with a weakness, call'd Compassion, fill'd,
 Had turn'd Samaritan, and dropp'd a tear.

But

But better far the Royal Sportsman knew;
 He smelt the consequence, beyond a doubt:
 Full well he guess'd he should not have a view;
 And that he should be shamefully thrown out.

P'rhaps from the royal eye a tear might hop;
 Yet Pages swear they never saw it drop.

But Majesty may say: "What, what, what's death?
 "Nought, nought, nought but a little loss of breath."

To Parson YOUNG 'twas more, I'm very clear;
 He lost by death some hundred pounds a year.

A GREAT deal, my dear Liege, depends
 On having clever bards for friends:
 What had ACHILLES been without his HOMER?
 A taylor, woollen-draper, or a comber!
 Fellows that have been dead a hundred year,
 None, but the Lord, knows how or where.

In Poetry's rich grafs how virtues thrive!
 Some, when put in, so lean, scarce seem alive;
 And yet, so speedily a bulk obtain,
 That ev'n their owners know them not again.

Could you, indeed, have gain'd my Muse of fire,
 Great would your luck have been, indeed, great
 SIRE!

Then had I prais'd your nobleness of spirit!
 Then had I boasted that myself,
 Hight PETER, was the first blest, tuneful elf,
 You ever gave a farthing to for merit.

Though money be a pretty handy tool ;
 Of Mammon, lo ! I scorn to be the fool !
 If FORTUNE calls, she's welcome to my cot,
 Whether she leaves a guinea or a groat ;
 Whether she brings me from the butcher's shop
 The whole sheep, or a simple chop.

For lo ! like ANDREW MARVEL I can dine,
 And deem a mutton-bone extremely fine :
 Then, Sir, how difficult the task, you see,
 To bribe a moderate GENTLEMAN like me.

I will not swear, point blank, I shall not alter—
 A * Saint, my namefake, once was known to falter,

Nay more—some clever men in Opposition,
 Whose souls did really seem in good condition ;
 Who made of PITT such horrible complaint,
 And damn'd him for the worst of knaves ;
 Alter'd their minds—became PITT's abject slaves,
 And publish'd their new Patron for a SAINT.

And who is there who may not change his mind ?
 Where can you folks of that description find
 Who will not sell their souls for cash,
 That most angelic, diabolic trash !
 E'en grave Divines submit to glitt'ring gold !
 The best of consciences are bought and sold :
 As in a tale I'll show, most edifying,
 And prove to all the world, that I'm not lying.

* The story of Saint Peter and the Cock is universally known.

THE PARSON, THE 'SQUIRE, AND THE SPANIEL.

A TALE.

A GENTLEMAN possess'd a fav'rite spaniel,
So good, he never treated maid nor man ill :
This dog, of whom we cannot too much say,
Got from his godfather the name of Tray.

After ten years of service just,
Tray, like the race of mortals, fought the dust ;
That is to say, the spaniel dy'd :

A coffin then was order'd to be made,
The dog was in the church-yard laid,
And o'er his pale remains the master cry'd.

Lamenting much his trusty fur-clad friend,
And willing to commemorate his end,
He rais'd a small blue stone, just after burial,
And weeping, wrote on it this sweet memorial :

TRAY'S EPITAPH.

HERE rest the relics of a friend below,
Blest with more sense than half the folks I know :
Fond of his ease, and to no parties prone,
He damn'd no sect, but calmly gnaw'd his bone ;
Perform'd his functions well in ev'ry way.—
Blush, CHRISTIANS, if you can, and copy Tray.

THE CURATE of the Huntingtonian Band,
Rare breed of gospel hawks that scour the land,
And fierce on fins their quarry fall—
Those locusts, that would eat us all:

Men who, with new-invented patent eyes,
See Heav'n and all the angels in the skies,
As plain as, in the box of SHOWMAN SWISS,
For little Master made, and curious Miss,
We see with huge delight the King of France
With all his Lords and Ladies dance—

This Curate heard th' affair with deep emotion,
And thus exclaim'd, with infinite devotion:

“ O Lord! O Lord! O Lord! O Lord!

“ Fine doings these, upon my word!

“ This, truly, is a very pretty thing!

“ What will become of this most shocking world?

“ How richly such a rogue deserves to swing,

“ And then to Satan's hottest flames be hurl'd!

“ Oh! by this damned deed how I am hurried!

“ A dog in Christian ground be buried!

“ And have an epitaph, forsooth, so civil!

“ Egad! old maids will presently be found

“ Clapping their dead ram-cats in holy ground,

“ And writing verses on each mousing devil.”

Against such future casualty providing,
The Priest sat off, like Homer's Neptune, striding,
Vowing to put the culprit in the Court:
He found him at the spaniel's humble grave;
Not praying, neither singing of a slave;
And thus began t' abuse him—not exhort:

“ Son

- " Son of the Dev'l, what hast thou done?
 " Nought for the action can atone.
 " I should not wonder if the great All-wise
 " Quick darted down his lightning all so red,
 " And dash'd to earth that wretched head,
 " Which dar'd so foul, so base an act devise.
 " Bury a dog like Christian folk!
 " None but the fiend of darkness could provoke
 " A man to perpetrate a deed so odd:
 " Our Inquisition soon the tale shall hear,
 " And quickly your fine fleece shall shear—
 " Why, such a villain can't believe in God!"
 " Softly! my rey'rend Sir," the 'Squire reply'd;
 " Tray was as good a dog as ever dy'd;
 " No education could his morals mend:
 " And what, perhaps, Sir, you may doubt,
 " Before his lamp of life went out,
 " He order'd you a legacy, my friend."
 " Did he? poor dog!" the soften'd Priest rejoin'd,
 In accents pitiful and kind;
 " What! was it Tray? I'm sorry for poor Tray:
 " Why truly, dogs of such rare merit,
 " Such real nobleness of spirit,
 " Should not like common dogs be put away.
 " Well! pray what was it that he gave,
 " Poor fellow! ere he sought the grave?
 " I guess I may put confidence, Sir, in ye."
 " A piece of gold," the gentleman reply'd.
 " I'm much oblig'd to Tray," the Parson cry'd;
 So left God's cause, and pocketed the guinea.

YET,

YET, should I imitate the fickle wind,
 Or Mister patriot EDEN—change my mind ;
 And for the BARD your Majesty should send,
 And say, “ Well well, well well, my tuneful friend,
 “ I long, I long, to give you something, PETER ;
 “ You make fine verses—nothing can be sweeter :
 “ What will you have ? what, what ? speak out—
 “ speak out—
 “ Yes, yes, you something want, no doubt, no
 “ doubt.”

Or should you, like some men who gravely preach,
 Forsake your usual short-hand mode of speech,
 And thus begin, in bible-phrasé sublime :
 “ What shall be done for our rare Son of Rhime,
 “ The BARD who full of wisdom writeth,
 “ The man in whom the KING delighteth ?”

Then would the Poet thankfully reply,
 With fault'ring voice, low bow, and marv'ling eye,
 All meekness ! such a simple, dove-like thing !
 “ Blest be the Bard who verses can endite,
 “ To yield a second Solomon delight !
 “ Thrice blest, who findeth favour with the King !
 “ Since 'tis the Royal Will to give the Bard
 “ In whom the King delighteth, some reward,
 “ Some mark of Royal Bounty to requite him ;
 “ O King ! do any thing but knight him.”

SIR

SIR JOSEPH BANKS

AND THE

EMPEROR OF MOROCCO.

A TALE.

Non omnia possumus omnes.

One intellect not all things comprehends :

The genius form'd for weeds, and grubs, and flies,
Can't have for ever at his finger ends
What's doing ev'ry moment in the skies.

THE ARGUMENT.

PETER the GREAT fighteth the President's battle—proclaimeth some of the President's powers—viz. his persevering tooth-and-nail powers—his stomach powers—his face powers—his hammer powers, triumphing over the powers of MORPHEUS, and etc his courageous powers.

PETER beginneth the tale—Sir JOSEPH proceedeth to hunt—but first ejaculateth—The Virtuoso's prayer—Sir JOSEPH's insect enthusiasm induceth him, contrary to his general piety, to pray wickedly, by selfishly wishing to gratify his own desires at the expence of the farmers—Sir JOSEPH prayeth for PHARAOH's flies—condemneth PHARAOH's taste—maketh interest for showers of flies, instead of quails—prayeth for monsters, and promiseth them the honour of his name.

Sir JOSEPH, in a pointer-like manner, ambulateth—he espieth the EMPEROR of MOROCCO—PETER conjectureth as to Sir JOSEPH's joy on the occasion—compareth Sir JOSEPH's joy with that experienced by ARCHIMIDES, hare-hunters, outrageously-virtuous old maids, the little Duke of Piccadilly, a pimp, Mother WINDSOR's virgins, and Mother WINDSOR herself—Sir JOSEPH's pursuit—The President tumbleth, in imitation of Mr. EDEN—A beautiful comparison between Sir JOSEPH and TAMERLANE, a butterfly and BAJAZET—Sir JOSEPH again tumbleth—Sir JOSEPH's hat tumbleth with him—Sir JOSEPH riseth and bloweth—he is gazed at by a countryman—he darteth through a hedge in pursuit of the EMPEROR, and tumbleth into a lane—he getteth up speedily, and putteth a question to HOB—HOB answereth not, but pitieth him—Sir JOSEPH obtaineth a second view of the EMPEROR—pursueth his Majesty into a garden—oversetteth the gardener—trampleth on rare flowers—breaketh many bell-glasses—overturneth the scarecrow—PETER praiseth the scarecrow—Sir JOSEPH oversetteth a hive of bees—The bees surprised

surprised—they attempt a revenge, but succeed not, on account of the hard and rough materials of Sir JOSEPH's headpiece—The gardener, quitting his horizontal position, pursueth Sir JOSEPH—Sir JOSEPH pursueth the EMPEROR, and the EMPEROR flieth away—The gardener collareth Sir JOSEPH, and expostulateth—Sir JOSEPH heedeth not the gardener's complaint, being in deep sorrow for the loss of the EMPEROR—The gardener quitteth his gripe in Sir JOSEPH, and putteth him down for a lunatic—the gardener execrateth Sir JOSEPH's Keeper, and falleth into a panic—flieth off unceremoniously, and leaveth the President in the situation of a celebrated Prophet.

SIR

P R O Æ M I U M

PETRUS LOQUITUR.

SINCE Members, lost to manners, growl:
Call poor Sir JOSEPH afs, and owl;
Nay, oft with coarser epithets revile;
Though pitying much his pigmy merit,
Let me display a Christian spirit,
And try to lift a lame dog o'er a stile.

Though not, like ERSKINE, in the law a giant,
I must take up the cudgels for my client.

Know by these presents, then, ye noisy crew,
Who at his blushing honours * look so blue,
That though Sir JOSEPH is not deep-discerning;
And though, as all the world well knows,
A nutshell might with perfect ease enclose

Three quarters of his sense, and all his learning;
Whose modest wisdom, therefore, never aims
To find the longitude, or burn the Thames;

Yet, as to things he sets himself about,
With tooth and nail, like Hercules, so stout,

He

* Blushing honours.—The author undoubtedly means the epithet blushing to be understood as synonymous with blooming, and not in a satyrical sense. God forbid that the friend of Sir Joseph should mean otherwise!

He labours for his wish, no matter what.—
 I can't say that Sir JOSEPH lions kills;
 Huge giants, or the blood of hydras spills;
 But then most manfully he eats a bat,
 Eats toads, or tough, or tender, old, or young,
 As in the sweetest strains the Muse hath sung :*
 Fit with the hugest Hottentot to cope,
 Who dines on raw flesh at the Cape of Hope.

Blest in a phiz, he bids the Members tremble!
 To deathlike silence turns the direst din;
 And where so many savages assemble,
 Like hounds they want a proper Whipper-in,

Dare Members sleep, † a set of snoring Goths,
 Whilst Blagden reads a chapter upon moths?
 Down goes the hammer, cloth'd with Jove's own thunder!

Up spring the snorers, half without their wigs;
 Old greybeards grave, and pretty smock-fac'd prigs,
 With ell-wide jaws displaying signs of wonder.

Lo! perseverance is the soul of action!
 And courage, proper to oppose a faction;
 Therefore he sits with wonderful propriety,
 The MONRO of a mad Society;
 And that he is both brave and persevering,
 Witness the following story, well worth hearing,

* See Peter's Prophecy.

† Frequently, indeed, are the Members sent to the land of shadows by the Society's somniferous papers; assisted in a great measure in their voyage by the Doctor's drowsy manner of communicating the contents.

SIR JOSEPH BANKS

AND THE

EMPEROR OF MOROCCO.

A PRESIDENT, in butterflies profound,
Of whom all Insectmongers sing the praises,
Went on a day to hunt this game renown'd,
On vi'lets, dunghills, nettletops, and daifies!
But first (so pious is Sir Joseph's nature!)
He thus address'd the butterfly's Creator.

THE VIRTUOSO'S PRAYER.

O THOU whose wisdom plann'd the skies,
And form'd the wings of butterflies,
Attend my humble pray'r!
Like Egypt, as in days of yore,
Let earth with flies be cover'd o'er,
And darken'd all the air.

This, Lord, would be the best of news;
Then might thy servant pick and choose
From such a glorious heap:
Forth to the world I'd boldly rush,
Put all Musæums to the blush,
And hold them all dog cheap.

Pharaoh

Pharaoh had not one grain of taste;
The flies on him were thrown to waste,
Nay, met with strong objection:
But had thy servant, Lord, been there,
I should have made, or much I err,
A wonderful collection!

O Lord! if not my mem'ry fails,
Thou once didst rain on people quails:
Again the world surprize;
And 'stead of such a trifling bird,
Rain on thy servant JOSEPH, Lord,
Show'rs of rare butterflies!

Since monsters are my great delight,
With monsters charm thy servant's fight,
Turn feathers into hair:
Make legs where legs were never seen,
And eyes, no bigger than a pin,
As broad as saucers stare,

The reptiles that are born with claws,
Oh! let thy pow'r supply with paws,
Adorn'd with human nails;
In value more to make them rise,
Transplant from all their heads, their eyes,
And place them in their tails.

And if thou wisely wouldst contrive,
To make me butterflies alive,
To fly without a head;
To skim the hedges and the fields,
Nay, eat the meat thy bounty yields;
Such wonders were indeed!

Blagden should puff them at our Meeting ;
Members would press around me, greeting ;
The Journals swell with thanks ;
And more to magnify their fame,
Those headless flies should have a name—
My name—SIR JOSEPH BANKS !”

THUS having finish'd, forth Sir JOSEPH hies,
Hope in his heart, and eagles in his eyes !
Just like a pointer, quart'ring well his ground,
He nimbly trots the field around !
At length, to bless his hunting ambulation,
Up rose a native of the flutt'ring nation,
Broad star'd Sir JOSEPH, as if struck by thunder,
(For much, indeed, are eyes enlarg'd by wonder)
When from a dab of dung, or some such thing,
An EMP'ROR OF MOROCCO rear'd his wing !

Not Archimedes, 'tis my firm belief,
More blest, cry'd “ Eureka, I've nabb'd the thief ;”
Nor hunters, when a hare, to shun foul play,
Steals from his seat so sly, cry “ Stole away ;”
Nor stale old nymphs, by raging virtue sway'd,
Roar on a frail one, “ Kill the wicked jade !”
Than roar'd Sir JOSEPH on the verdant sod,
“ MOROCCO'S EMP'ROR, by the living God !”

Not with more joy, nor rapture-speaking look,
The little gamesome PICCADILLY DUKE

Eyes a nice TIT, fresh launch'd upon the town;
 Nor with more pleasure Cupid's trusty crimp,
 By mouths of vulgar people christen'd pimp,
 Stares on his honourable fee, a crown;

Nor King's-place nymphs, on greenhorns in their
 pow'r;

Who (shameless rascals, wanting not a wife)
 Hire love, like hackney-coaches, by the hour,
 Damning the love so true that lasts for life;
 Nor wither'd WINDSOR on the simple maid,
 From scenes of rural innocence betray'd;

Forc'd to dispose of NATURE's sweetest charms;
 Doom'd for a meal to sink a beauteous wreck;
 To lend to man she loathes, her lip, her neck,
 And, weeping, act the wanton in his arms;
 Than did the doughty Hero of my song,
 Survey the Emp'ror as he mov'd along.

Not with more glee a hen-peck'd husband spies
 Death shutting up his wife's two cat-like eyes,
 Accustom'd on him oft and fierce to roll;
 Just like a galley slave, poor fellow, treated,
 Or those poor Britons at Calcutta sweated,
 Stuff'd in the old Black Hole:

And yet, a neater simile to use,
 Not with more true delight a lover views
 The blushing orient leading on the day
 That gives a blooming partner to his arms,
 In virtues rich, and rich in youthful charms,
 To bid the hours with rapture glide away:

Sad anxious swain, who now in bed, now out,
 Tost like the sea, with thundering thoughts, about;

Curfing with hearty pray'rs the lingering night ;
 Now trying hard to fleep away the time ;
 Now ftaring on the dark, like bards for rhyme,
 To catch the fmalleft happy glimpfe of light ;
 Afraid that frolic Phœbus means foul play,
 And, bent to fpite him, lie a-bed all day ;

And, bonâ fide, not of rapture fuller,
 Thurlow, the Seal and Royal Confcience keeper,
 Sees his prime fav'rite, Mifter Juftice Buller,
 High thron'd in Chancery, grieve the poor Sir
 Pepper,
 Than did the Prefident fo keen efpy
 The butterfly !

Lightly with winnowing wing, amid the land,
 His MOORISH MAJESTY in circles flew !
 With fturdy ftriding legs, and outfretch'd hand,
 The Virtuofò did his prey purfue.

He ftrikes—he miffes—ftrikes again—he grins,
 And fees in thought the monarch fix'd with pins ;
 Sees him on paper giving up the ghofth,
 Nail'd like a hawk or martyr to a poft.

Oft fell Sir JOSEPH on the flipp'ry plain,
 Like patriot EDEN fell—to rife again ;
 The EMP'ROR, fmiling, fported on before.
 Like Phœbus courfing Daphne was the chace ;
 But not fo was the meaning of the race ;
 Sir JOSEPH ran to kill, not kifs the Moor ;

To hold him pris'ner in a glafs for fhew,
 Like Tamerlane, (redoubtable his rage)
 Who kept poor Bajazet, his vanquifh'd foe,
 Juft like an owl or magpye in a cage,

Again to earth Sir JOSEPH fell so flat,
Flat as the flattest of the flounder race!
Down with Sir JOSEPH dropp'd his three-cock'd hat,
Most nobly sharing in his friend's disgrace.
Again he springs, with hope and ardour pale,
And blowing like the fish baptiz'd a whale;

Darting his arms now here, now there, so wild,
With all the eager raptures of a child,
Who with broad anxious eye a bauble views,
And, capering legs and hands, the toy pursues.

A Countryman, who, from a lane,
Had mark'd Sir JOSEPH running, tumbling, sweat-
ing,

Stretching his hands and arms like one insane,
And with those arms the air around him beating,
To no particular opinion leaning,
Of such manœuvre could not guess the meaning.

At length the President, all foam and muck,
Quite out of breath, and out of luck,
Pursu'd the flying Monarch to the place
Where stood this Countryman, with marv'ling face.

Now through the hedge, exactly like a horse,
Wild plung'd the President with all his force,
His brow in sweat, his soul in perturbation;
Mindless of trees, and bushes, and the brambles,
Head over heels into the lane he scrambles,
Where Hob stood lost in wide-mouth'd speculation!

"Speak," roar'd the President, "this instant—say,
"Hast seen, hast seen, my lad, this way,
"The

“ The EMP’ROR OF MOROCCO pafs ?”—

HOB to the infect-hunter nought reply’d,
But shook his head, and sympathising sigh’d,

“ Alas !

“ Poor gentleman, I’m sorry for ye ;

“ And pity much your upper story !”

Lo ! down the lane alert the EMP’ROR flew,
And struck once more Sir JOSEPH’S hawk-like view :

And now he mounted o’er a garden wall !

In rush’d Sir JOSEPH at the garden door,
Knock’d down the Gard’ner—what could man do
more ?—

And left him, as he chose, to rise or sprawl.

O’er peerless hyacinths our hero rush’d ;

Through tulips and anemonies he push’d,

Breaking a hundred necks at ev’ry spring :

On bright carnations, blushing on their banks,
With desp’rate hoof he trod, and mow’d down ranks,

Such vast ambition urg’d to seize the King !

Bell glasses, all so thick, were tumbled o’er ;

And lo ! the cries, so shrill, of many a score,

A sad and fatal stroke proclaim’d ;

The scarecrow, all so red, was overturn’d ;

His vanish’d hat, and wig, and head, he mourn’d,

And much, indeed, the man of straw was maim’d !

Just guardian of the sacred spot,

With face so fierce, and pointed gun,

Who threaten’d all the birds with shot ;

To kill of sparrows ev’ry mother’s son :

Fierce as those scarlet ministers of fate,

The warlike guardians of St. James’s Gate !

Yet,

Yet, not content with feats like these,
 He tumbled o'er a hive of bees;
 Out rush'd the host, and wonder'd from their souls,
 What dev'l dar'd dash their house about their polls.

Like the grand LOUIS, * whose fierce heart was
 such,

As made him like a football kick the Dutch!

But soon the small, heroic, injur'd nation
 Descry'd the author of their obligation;

And, to repay it, round him rush'd the swarm:
 Prodigious was the buz about his ears!

With all their venom did they push their spears;

But lo! they work'd him not one grain of harm;
 Yet did no god nor godling intervene,

By way of screen!

The happy head their pointed spears defy'd,
 Strong, like old Homer's shields, in tough bull hide,

And brags well temper'd, to support the shock!
 The bees their disappointed vengeance mourn'd,
 And from their fierce attack, fatigu'd, return'd,
 Believing they had storm'd a barber's block.

What was thought death and tortures by the clan,
 Was only tickling the great man!

Thus round big Ajax rag'd the Trojan host,
 Who might as well, indeed, have drubb'd a post.

The Gard'ner now for just revenge up sprung,
 O'erwhelm'd with wonderment and dung,

And

* Louis XIV.

And fiercely in his turn pursu'd the Knight!
From bed to bed, full tilt the champions rac'd,
This chas'd the KNIGHT, the KNIGHT the EMP'ROR
chas'd,

Who scal'd the walls, alas! and vanish'd out of fight;
To find the Emp'refs, p'rhaps and tell her GRACE
The merry hist'ry of the chase.

At length the Gard'ner, swell'd with rage and do-
lour,

O'ertaking, grasps Sir JOSEPH by the collar,
And blest with fav'rite oaths, abundance show'rs:

"Villain," he cry'd, "beyond example!

"Just like a cart-horse on my beds to trample!

"More than your soul is worth, to kill my flow'rs!

"See how your two vile hoofs have made a wreck—

"Look, rascal, at each beauty's broken neck!"

Mindless of humbled flow'rs, so freely kill'd,

Although superior to his soul declar'd,

And vegetable blood profusely spill'd,

Superior, too, to all reward;

Mindless of all the Gard'ner's plaintive strains,

The EMP'ROR's form monopoliz'd his brains.

At length he spoke, in sad despairing tones,

"Gone! by the God that made me!—D-mn his bones!

"O Lord! no disappointment mine surpasse!

"Poh! what are paltry flowers and broken glasses,

"A tumbled scarecrow, bees, the idle whim?—

"Zounds! what a set of miscreants to him!

"Gone

“Gone is my soul’s desire, for ever gone!”
“Who’s gone?” the Gar’dner strait reply’d:
“The EMP’ROR, Sir,” with tears, Sir JOSEPH cry’d;
“The EMP’ROR OF MOROCCO—thought my own!
“To unknown fields behold the Monarch fly!
“Zounds! not to catch him, what an afs was I!”

His eyes the Gard’ner, full of horror, stretch’d,
And then a groan, a monstrous groan he fetch’d,
Contemplating around his ruin’d wares;
And now he let Sir JOSEPH’s collar go;
And now he bray’d aloud with bitterest woe,
“Mad, madder than the maddest of March hares!

“A p-x confound the fellow’s Bedlam rigs!
“Oh! he hath done the work of fifty pigs!
“The devil take his keeper, a damn’d goose,
“For letting his wild beast get loose!”

But now the Gard’ner, terrified, began
To think himself too near a man

In so PEG-NICHOLSON a situation;
And happy from a madman to escape,
He left him without bow, or nod, or scrape,
Like JEREMIAH ’midst his Lamentation.

Such is the tale—if readers sigh for more,
Sir JOSEPH’s wallet holdeth many a score.

AN IMITATION
OF THE TWELFTH ODE OF HORACE.

_____ Hunc tu Romane caveto;
Hic niger est. _____

POETICAL EPISTLE
TO A FALLING MINISTER.

BLIND to an artful Boy's insidious wiles,
Why rests the Genius of the QUEEN OF ISLES?
Whilst LIBERTY in irons sounds th' alarm,
Why hangs suspense on VIRTUE's coward arm?
Whilst TYRANNY prepares her jails and thongs,
Why sleeps the Sword of JUSTICE o'er our wrongs?
Oh! meanly founding on a Father's fame,
To Britain's highest feat a daring claim;
Oh! if thy race one blush could ever boast,
And that lorn sign of Virtue be not lost;
Now on thy visage let the stranger burn,
And glow for deeds that bid an empire mourn.

Drawn from a garret by the ROYAL SIRE,
Warm'd like the viper by his friendly fire,
What hath thy gratitude sublimely done?
Fix'd, like the snake, thy fang upon the Son!

Yes

Yes—thou most grateful youth, thy hostile art
 Hath lodg'd a pois'nous shaft in BRITAIN's heart!
 Thy arm hath dragg'd the column to the ground,
 The sacred wonder of the realms around!
 To make snug, comfortable habitations
 For thee and all thy pitiful relations.
 Barbarian-like—how like those sons of spoil,
 Whose impious hands on hallow'd structures toil—
 Base throng, that through PALMYRA's Temple digs,
 To form a lodging for themselves and pigs!

Oh! if ambition prompts thy soaring soul
 To live the theme of future times with ROLLE;
 Thrice happy Youth, like his shall shine thy name,
 Who gave th' Ephesian wonder to the flame!

Sick at the name of R——, (to thee though dear)
 The name abhorr'd by HONOUR's shrinking ear;
 I draw reluctant from thy venal throng,
 And give it mention, though it blasts my song,

How couldst thou bid that ROLLE, despis'd by all,
 On helpless beauty like a mastiff fall;
 Then meanly to correct the brute pretend,
 And claim the merit of the *FAIR-ONE's Friend?

Art thou the YOUTH on whom the Virtues smile?
 The boasted Saviour of our sinking Isle!
 O'er such, OBLIVION, be thy wing display'd!
 Oh! waft them from the gibbet to thy shade!

Yet

* A most wanton and illiberal attack made by this man on Mrs. F---h-----t, in the House of Commons, exceeds all precedent.

Yet what expect from thee, whose icy breast,
A stranger to their charm, the LOVES detest?—
Thee, o'er whose heart their fascinating pow'r
Ne'er knew the triumph of one soften'd hour?
To give thy flinty soul the tender sigh,
Vain is the radiance of the brightest eye!
In vain, for thee, of beauty blooms the rose:
In vain the swelling bosom spreads its snows—
A Joseph thou, against the sex to strive;
Dead to those charms that keep the world alive!

In vain thy malice pours its frothy tide;
In vain, the virtues of thy PRINCE to hide,
Thou and thy imps, to dim his rising ray,
Urge clouds on clouds to thwart the golden day!
Mad toil! I see his ORB superior pass,
That smiles triumphant on the fable mass.

O PITT! a Sister Kingdom damns thy deeds,
And pities hapless Britain as she bleeds.
HIBERNIA scorns each meanly treach'rous art
Hatch'd by the base r-b——n of thy heart,
That crawls an aspic bloated black with fate,
To pour a dire contagion through the State.
She, with an honest voice, her PRINCE approves,
And nobly trusts the virtues that she loves;
Detests a hangman's unremitting toil
To break upon the wheel a happy Isle;
Who yet, to push the guilt and folly further,
Suborns Addresses, to applaud the murder!
Who but must laugh to see thy boasted friends,
On whose poor rotten trunks thy all depends!

See

See BURE's mean parasite, thy spaniel, creep,
 Whose Argus' eyes of av'rice never sleep;
 A close State-leech, who, sticking to the nation,
 As adders deaf to Honour's execration,
 Sucks from its throat the blood by night, by day,
 Nor, till the State expires, will drop away.

Yet see another FIEND, with scowling eye,
 Who draws from NATURE's soul her deepest sigh;
 Asham'd her hand should usher into light
 What Fate should whelm with everlasting night!

Lost by his arts, behold the beauteous MAID*,
 Whom INNOCENCE herself could ne'er upbraid,
 Sunk a pale victim to the gaping tomb;
 Whilst all but he with grief survey'd her doom,
 Whose heart disdain'd to feel—whose eye severe,
 Compassion never melted with a tear!

Yet, left in silence to himself alone,
 Aghast he heaves the conscience-wounded groan!
 At ev'ry sound how horror heaves the sigh!
 How dangers thicken on his straining eye!
 He sees her Phantom, form'd by treacherous Love,
 Droop in the grot, and pine amid the grove:
 He marks her mien of woe, her cheek so pale,
 And trembles at her shrieks that pierce the gale!
 At night's deep noon what fears his soul invade!
 How wild he starts amidst the spectred shade!
 And dreading ev'ry hopeless hour the last,
 He hears the call of DEATH in ev'ry blast!

Such

* The melancholy circumstance alluded to here, the family of Dr. Lynch, of Canterbury, can best explain.

Such are thy Colleagues *, O thou patriot Boy!
 Whose heads and hearts thy virtues dare employ;
 Who, crouching at thy heels, like bloodhounds wait
 To fasten on the vitals of the State!

Such are the miscreants who would rule the realm!
 Such the black pirates that would seize the helm!
 Had not I known thee, —, the Muse had sworn,
 That, blest to see the State to atoms torn,
 Hell with her host had drawn each damned plan,
 And for the murder nurs'd thy dark Divan.

Speak—hath thy heart, with mad ambition fir'd,
 Like CROMWELL'S, hot for pow'r, to thrones aspir'd?
 Then may that young, old trait'rous bosom feel
 The rapid vengeance of some virtuous steel!
 Or what, to bosoms not quite flint, is worse,
 May Heav'n with hoary age a Rebel curse;
 From sweet society behold him torn,
 Condemn'd, like CAIN, to walk the world forlorn?

Thus rous'd to anger for my Country's wrong,
 The Muse, for vengeance panting, pour'd her song:
 But ah! in vain I wish'd the blessing mine,
 To plant a scorpion's sting in ev'ry line.

Now PRUDENCE gently pull'd the Poet's ear,
 And thus the daughter of the BLUE-EY'D MAID,†
 In Flatt'ry's soothing sounds, divinely said,

“ O PETER! eldest-born of PHOEBUS, hear—

“ Whose

* We must not forget, however, Messieurs their Graces of R. and G., Harry D., cum plurimis allis, though they have not the honour of being mentioned in our poetical calendar.

† Minerva.

- " Whose verse could ravish Kings, relax the claw
 " Of that gaunt, hungry savage, christen'd LAW—
 " Indeed thou wantest worldly wisdom, PETER,
 " To mix a little oft'ner with thy metre.
 " Lo! if thine eye DAME FORTUNE's smile pursues,
 " To oily adulation prompt the MUSE,
 " Give for the future all thy rhymes to praise;
 " Strike to the glorious PITT thy founding lyre:
 " Thy head may then be crown'd with WARTON's bays,
 " And mutton twirl with spirit at the fire."
 " PRUDENCE," quoth I, "indeed—indeed I can't:
 " Don't ask me to turn rogue and sycophant!"

Now with a smile, first cousin to a grin,
 DAME PRUDENCE answer'd, bridling up her chin—

- " Sweet, harmless, pretty, conscientious pigeon!
 " Ah! PETER, well I ween thou art not rich:
 " Know that thou'lt die, like beggars, in a ditch;
 " Know, too, that hunger is of no religion.
 " Sit down, and make a Horace imitation,
 " Like Pope; and let the stanza glow
 " With praise of Messieurs PITT and Co.
 " The present worthy Rulers of the Nation."

With purs'd-up, puritanic mouth so prim,
 Thus spoke DAME PRUDENCE to the BARD of Whim;

Who, with politeness seldom running o'er,
 For inspiration scratch'd his tuneful scone,
 To please DAME ORACLE, for once—
 A DAME, some say, he never saw before.

IMITATION OF HORACE.

(ODE XII.—BOOK I.)

ON MESSIEURS PITT AND CO.

MUSE, having dropp'd Sir JOSEPH and the KING,
What sort of gentry shall we deign to sing?

What high and mighty name, that all adore?
What ministerial wight that bribes each CIT,
Wolf-like to howl for homage to KING PITT,
And set each smoky alehouse in a roar;
That sends to counties, borough-towns, his crimps,
Alias his vote-seducing pimps,

To bribe the mob with brandy, beer and song,
To put their greasy fists to Court Addresses,
Full of professions kind, and sweet caresses,
And with a fiddle lead the logs along?

Shall DORNFORD, king of wine, and mum, and perry,
Be crown'd with lyric bays, with Master MERRY;
Two sages who, in diff'rent places born,
CHICK LANE and BLACK-BOY ALLEY did adorn?

Or, Muse, suppose we sing KING PITT himself,
The greatest man on earth—a cunning elf,

Who driveth, JEHU-like, the CHURCH and STATE:
And, next to Royal PITT, we'll sing the DAME,
Of open, gen'rous, charitable fame,

Lamenting sad a MONARCH's hapless fate;
Who, though transfix'd by Sorrow's dart so cruel,
So prudent, numbers each bank-note and jewel!

VOL. I.

M m

Nor

Nor shall we by old Bacchus WEYMOUTH pass,
A jolly fellow o'er his glass.

Nor, SCHWELLENBERG, shalt thou a shrimp appear,

Whose palate loves a dainty dish,
Whose teeth in combat shine with flesh and fish,
Whose Strelitz stomach holds a butt of beer;
Who soon shalt keep a saleshop for good places,
For which so oft the people squabble,
From gaping Cobblers to their gaping Graces,
And thus provide for great and little rabble.

I'll sing how calmly C----N takes the bit,
And trots so mildly under MASTER PITT:

And TH——w, too, whom none but PITT could tame,

Who, blest with Master BILLY's finest fiddle,
No longer makes our brains with neighing addle—

No longer now JOB's war-horse snorting flame;
But that slow brute whom few or none revere,
Fam'd for his fine base voice and length of ear;

Yet now so gentle, you may smooch his nose;

Poor CH--C-LLOR* will make no riot:

Calm in his stall his aged limbs repose,

And pleas'd he eats his oats and hay in quiet!

This Pair, so tame, amid the courtier throng,
Shall drag their Master William's coach along,

And raise the wonder of the million!

Just like two bull-dogs in a country town,

That gallop in their harness up and down,

With MONSIEUR MONKEY for postillion.

We'll

* The name of the horse.

We'll sing the Brothers of our loving Queen,
 Fine hungry, hearty youths as e'er were seen;
 Who, if once try'd, would shine, I make no doubt:
 And chiefly he who merits high rewards,
 Who, wriggling to the Hanoverian guards,
 Kept the poor PRINCE of BRUNSWICK out,
 Although so brave a Prince, and spilt his blood
 So freely for the King of England's * good.

We'll sing, too, Master ROLLE, who, fond of fame,
 High-daring, from the land of dumplings came,
 To bear the MINISTER—to be his ass—
 Like Conj'ror BALAAM's reas'ning brute,
 That carry'd BALAAM, BALAK to salute,
 And curse the Israelites, alas!

And lo! as did the Lord—

Who op'd the mouth of BALAAM's beast;
 So hath our Lord, 'Squire PITT, upon my word,
 Op'd MASTER ROLLE's, to give the house a feast!

Yet hang it! DEV'NSHIRE is by ARAM † beat—
 A circumstance that wrings the Poet's soul;
 For BALAAM's Jack-ass made a speech quite neat,
 Which never yet was done by PITT's poor R----

Or shall I sing old CORNWALL's death,
 Or fierce Sir BULLFACE, who resign'd his breath
 With brother CORNWALL in the self-same year—
 A downright bear!

M m 2

Who

* This is scarcely credible, but it is nevertheless true.—The Prince of Brunswick's genius was forced to yield to the superior one of the Queen's Brother!

† Balaam's country seat.

Who bade a MONARCH, like a boy at school,
Not spend his money like a f---?

We too might sing the King of Swine,
Sir JOSEPH! peerless in the fat'ning line.

We too may BRUDENELL sing, who, some time since,
Admir'd and lov'd, ador'd and prais'd his PRINCE;
Follow'd him, spaniel-like, about;

Swore himself black, poor fellow, in the face,
That he would ten times rather lose his place

Than leave him—Thus said he with phiz devout:
But when it came to pass his HIGHNESS try'd him,
This false APOSTLE, PETER-like, deny'd him!

We'll sing Lord GALLOWAY, a man of note,
Who turn'd his taylor, much enrag'd, away,
Because he stitch'd a star upon his coat

So small, it scarcely threw a ray:
Whereas he wish'd a planet huge to flame,
To put the moon's full orb to shame;
He wanted one so large, with rays so thick,
As to eclipse the star of Sir JOHN DICK!
Sir JOHN, who got his star, so bright and stout,
For making super-excellent four krout. *

Or, Muse, suppose we sing the SP--KER's wig,
In which, 'tis said, a world of wisdom lies;
Which, to a headpiece scarcely worth a fig,
Importance gives that greatly doth surpise,

When

* This honour of the Star was really conferred on him by the EMPRESS OF RUSSIA for furnishing the Russian fleet, in the Mediterranean, with the above cabbage manufacture, to sharpen their courage for a massacre of the poor Turks.

When through the chaos of the House he bawls
For ORDER, that oft flies St. Stephen's walls;
Driv'n by a host of scrapes, and hawks, and hums,
And blowing noses, that distract her drums.

For, Muse, we can't well sing poor GR---LLE's head,
Because it wanteth eyes—imperfect creature!
Again—its lining happ'neth to be lead—
Such are the whimsicalities of nature:
And thus this speaking headpiece is, no doubt,
As dark within as certés 'tis without!

Yet was this Youth proclaim'd a pretty sprig;
A very promising, a thriving twig,
That by his parents dear was said would be,
In time, a very comely tree;
And, what those parents dear would also suit,
Produce enormous quantities of fruit,
By God's good grace, and muchgood looking after—
A thought that now convulseth us with laughter!

Suppose we chaunt old WILLIS and his whip,
At which the human hide revolts:
Who bids, like grasshoppers, his pupils skip,
And breaks mad gentlemen like colts;
Or trains them, like a pointer, to his hand:
And such the mighty Conjuror's command,
He, by the magic of sticks, ropes, and eyes,
Commands wild FOLLY to be tame and wise.

Or grant we throw away a verse or two
Upon the BEDCHAMBER's most idle IMPS;
Those Lords of gingerbread—a gaudy crew,
Sticking together just like social shrimps;
Regardless

Regardless who the State-coach drives,
 So they may lead good merry, lazy lives;
 Pleas'd e'en from devils to receive their pay,
 So they, like moths, may flutter life away!

PITT shall the House of Commons rule,
 And eke of poor INCURABLES the school;
 And pour on such the vengeance of his spleen
 As meanly think of HASTINGS and the ----!
 On di'monds PITT and Co. shall largely feast,
 Knock down the Nabobs, and exhaust the East!

O LADY! whose great wisdom thinketh fit
 To spread thy petticoat o'er WILLIAM PITT!
 This WILLIAM PITT and Thou, without a joke,
 Will turn out most extraordinary folk!

PITT and the PETTICOAT shall rule together,
 Each with the other vastly taken;
 Make, when they choose, or fair or filthy weather,
 And cut up kingdoms just like bacon!

THUS having finish'd, PRUDENCE, with a stare,
 Exclaim'd, "Rank irony! thou wicked Poet."—
 Quoth I, "My little Presbyterian fair,
 "I know it."—

"Ah!" quoth the Dame again, with lifted eyes,
 "When will this stupid world be wise?"

"Ah! had the PRINCE his proper int'rest felt,
 "And, like BUCEPHALUS the famous, knelt

"To

- " To take PITT ALEXANDER on his back,
 " He might have ambled prettily along,
 " And very rarely felt his rider's thong—
 " Just now and then a gentle smack,
 " T' inform his royal colt what BEING rode him,
 " And with such dignity bestrode him:
 " Yes—had his HIGHNESS but vouchsaf'd to stoop,
 " With heav'n-born PITT he might have eat his " soup,
 " Joy'd in the full possession of his wishes,
 " And with his servant shar'd the loaves and fishes!"
